IN MINNESOTA & DAKOTA

SANFORD'S

GINGER

Impure water, unhealthy climate, unripe fruit, unwholesome food, cramps, chills, malaria, excessive heat and the thousand and one ills that beset the traveler or family are nothing to those fortified and sustained by the use of Sanford's Ginger, "the delicious." As beverage it quenches thirst, open the pores, relieves the head, regulates the stomach and bowels, eradicates a craving for intoxicants and imparts new life to the languid, careworn, overworked, nervous and sleepless. Beware of imitations said to be as good. Ask for Sanford's Ginger and take no other.

Daily Chronicle.

In 1642 the Elizabethan school of acting came to an end with the compulsatory closing of the theatres; and although only eighteen years elapsed before they were reopened, in that time not only had all the old school of actors passed away, but with them had disappeared the taste which they had formed. At the return of Charles II. the theatres were reopened; but the old English drama was not revived. Shakespeare's plays, Beaumont and Fletcher's, Jonson's, were not performed. A new drama appeared in England, that known as the drama of the Restoration,—a base thing, witty but flimsy, and as devoid of real humor as of serious strength; and with it came a new school of acting. Consequently, when after many years of smut and smirk, Shakespeare's plays began to be performed again, the actors were thrown wholly upon their own resources; they were without any guide to the conception of his characters. Their predecessors before the Commonwealth had the benefit of traditions which came, during an interval of little more than twenty-five years, directly down from Shakespeare himself, and which, but for that great political and social upturning of England would have remained unbroken to the present day. The new school were obliged, in theatrical phrase, to "create" the Shakespearean characters anew, without the guidance of the dramatist, who in all cases, it need hardly be said, has a formative influence upon the first presentation of his personages to the public.—August Atlantic.

Vanderbilt on the Railroad War.

Wm. H. Vanderbilt, in an interview on competitive rates, says: "I know of no war of rates, and I am fighting nobody. I did not begin the cutting, but simply follow the rates that others make. I am satisfied, and there's no need of conference. I can't please everybody, but I can serve my customers. If I maintain rates I am a monopolist absorbing the wealth of the country. If I reduce rates I am running stockholder's property and damaging the railroad interests of the country. As a fact I reduce rates to save my business. They howl for free canals and then tax railroads to support them. The Erie gained on its grain carrying by cutting rates. The Baltimore and Ohio has no right to a percentage of New York business. Differentials should be abolished, and you will find that before we are through a great many things will be settled. Now is as good a time as any. The Central has no proposition to make, but will wait until one comes to it. It is a pity that the roads cannot carry out their agreements in an honest and business like way; but they don't do it."

When pangs the mortals flesh assail,
And give a bitterness to life,
Making the cheek with anguish pale,
Amid the fierce internal strife;
Then Sanford's Ginger soothes the pain,
And smiling Health looks up again.

The Pennsylvania democratic state convention will be held at Williamsport, Sept 28th.

Experience taught Me!

And my money paid for it. After having liver complaint four years, and spending money on nostrums and doctors who didn't help me, I tried Sulphur Bitters. Six bottles cured me. I shall always use them.—Millwright.

There have been recently claims to twenty gold mines filed with the secretary of state at Albany, N. Y. They are all located in Fulton, Hamilton and Saratoga counties.

The Opinion of Sir Robert Christison, Physician to Her Majesty, the Queen, etc., etc.

Liebig Co.'s Coca Beef Tonic with sherry wine, iron and quinine is a remarkable preparation. It contains the nutritive elements of the muscular fibre, blood, bone and brain of carefully selected healthy bullocks dissolved in rare old sherry wine. To be precise, each tablespoonful contains the nutritive elements of one ounce of choice beef, one grain and a half of pure quinine, and two grains of iron. It also embodies a concentrated extract of coca, a South American tonic of which Sir Robert Christison, M. D., F. R. S., physician to Her Majesty the Queen, says: "The properties of this wonderful plant are the most remarkable of any known in the medical world. From repeated personal trials I am convinced that its use is highly beneficial and tonic." The price of Liebig Co.'s Coca Beef Tonic with sherry wine, iron, and quinine is $2 per bottle. This may seem high, but when its composition and quality are considered, the price is no higher than it can honestly be prepared for. The Liebig Company offers no cheap preparations. Only honest goods at honest prices.

Gen. Cook, agent of the Spotted Tail Indians, has arrived at Yankton, D. T., on his way to the agency. He fears an outbreak as the result of the murder of Spotted Tail.

Big Results from Little Causes.

"Do you know?" remarked a man to his friend on Chestnut street, a day or two since, "I believe both Conkling and Platt had a bad case of skin disease when they resigned!" "What makes you think so?" inquired the listener in astonishment. "Well, you see they acted in such an eruptive manner—so rash—by as it were. Save?" "Oh! yes, I save," replied the other, "they were boil—ing over and merely resigned to humor themselves, I suppose." If such be the case, the National difficulty might have been averted by applying Swayne's Ointment for skin diseases.

Portsmouth Chronicle.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 12, 1881.

[Entered at the Post-Office at Portsmouth, N.H. as second-class matter.]

The President.

On Thursday, the 11th inst., Postmaster General James telegraphed to the postmaster of New York that Dr. Bliss said that the President was better then than on any day since he was wounded.

New Hampshire Items.

A tent meeting of the adventists began in Seabrook on Thursday, the 11th inst., and will continue ten days.

Capt. John DeMellen of North Conway lost by lightning at Jackson, thirty sheep from one flock, on Saturday night, the 6th inst. They were scattered and rolled down the hill in all shapes. The weather is good in the mountains; the rain has been bountiful, and vegetation revives, that has been behind time all this season.

The body of Franklin Berry of Franklin street, Great Falls, was found lying in the road near the Pope farm, West Peabody, Mass., on Wednesday morning, the 10th inst. The man's throat was cut on the left side, and near him lay a small knife with which the deed was done. In his pocket were found about $50 in money, keys, a woman's picture, diary and some other things. He was about thirty-five years of age and well dressed.

Edward Spaulding, hailing from Bellows Falls, Vt., was arrested at Whitefield on Monday, the 8th inst., on a charge of bigamy, and committed to jail to await his examination, which will be held at Whitefield, Aug. 16th. Spaulding was recently married to a Miss Carpenter of Burke, Vt., at Carroll, where she was teaching school. It is claimed that Spaulding has a wife living in Claremont, Mass., to whom he has been married several years. He claims to believe she is dead.

An early and thorough investigation is promised in the recently alleged wholesale poisoning case at Lancaster. No arrests have yet been made and the friends of Mrs. Mayo express considerable indignation at the reports criminating her in connection with the rumored circumstances. It is conceded that the deaths of Mrs. Bugbee and Hattie were caused by diphtheria of the most malignant type, while Mrs. Mayo ministered to them with the devotion of a sister, when it was next to impossible to secure assistance through fear of contagion.

News and Notes.

The Irish convention of wrangling Fenians at Chicago is still in session. The more respectable delegates have withdrawn and gone home.

A report has reached Albany, N. Y., that Parker, the Adirondack guide, who assaulted Mrs. Bull, has died from the wound he received when shot by Constable Cole.

An agent of the secret service division telegraphed Chief Brooks of Chicago that he arrested Charles M. Ervin in that city on the 11th inst., for passing and having in his possession a number of counterfeit silver dollars.

Hon. O. H. Browning, formerly a United States senator from Illinois, and subsequently secretary of the interior in President Johnson's cabinet, is reported to be dying at Quincy, Ill.

Secretary Blaine accompanied by his family left Washington on the 10th inst. for his home in Augusta, Maine. He expects to be absent from Washington several weeks.

The receipts from internal revenue on the 11th inst. were $378,313.19, and from customs, $1,232,719.34. The national bank notes received for redemption amount to $110,000.

It is difficult to find sleeping accommodations for the constantly arriving guests at the Shoals, it is said. There will be room enough in a week or two; let them be patient.

Leonidas Robertson of Madison, Ind., a well-to-do farmer, arrayed himself in his wife's clothes and bonnet and hung himself on Tuesday night, the 9th inst.

The various Catholic societies of Richmond, Va., on Wednesday, the 10th inst., resolved that all the Catholic organizations of the city be requested to visit Yorktown, Va., to participate in the ceremonies in October, and inviting Catholic societies throughout the country to attend.

On rainy Sundays people amuse themselves by writing letters. At Old Orchard beach it rained both last Sunday and the Sunday previous. On the former day 1,857 letters were written by the guests at that resort and last Sunday the number was 2,072. This does not include flirtation letters on which one cent stamps were used.

The great western railroads still continue their war upon one another, and at a meeting of some fifty managers in New York on the 10th inst. a plan was proposed to bind the lines to a certain tariff for five years, but it was rejected and the conference resulted in a failure to end the war.

In answer to a question to Attorney General MacVeigh if he intended to go to Newport to be present, as reported, at a gathering of gentlemen interested in civil reform, he replied that he did not propose to do so.

The Boston Post says: "The fin-back whales seem to be fond of human society and are this summer reported in large quantities at the principal resorts, and are even said to obstruct steamers in some instances. In fact, they have rather taken the place among entertainments that was formerly monopolized by the sea serpent, who seems indisposed this season and is not often on duty. They may be black fishes, and in some instances where gentlemen are coming home from the beaches, they may be porpoises. We do not say they may not be whales, but all who think they are should remember Jonah and be cautious."

It was reported that a fenian torpedo boat was building in New York for use against English ships across the water or elsewhere, but a government official who has returned from New York, after an inspection of it pronounces the solicitude of the British government unfounded. He says it could be put to absolutely no use at all by the revolutionists, because it cannot be taken across the ocean, nor into rough water. If shipped abroad, it would have to be on board a steamer, and if it could be once unloaded and set afloat, it would have to keep inside some harbor and would be practically boxed up and harmless. It could not be put out to sea if pursued, and it has not the capacity to carry supplies for more than a few days at the utmost, so it would be dependent upon a shore connection. It is pronounced to be of the most flimsy construction, with a plate on each side for raising and sinking it in the water, so light in manufacture that the least collision would disable it by breaking this gearing. It is said that while it might make a practical harbor defence, as a means of offence it is worth nothing at all. The only valuable thing about it that is a new invention is reported to be an appliance for keeping the air pure while the boat is submerged. The English government is laughed at for its anxiety over the affair.

A foul murder was committed at East Dedham, Mass., on Thursday morning, the 11th inst., the details of which are the most revolting of any similar crime that has been committed in that vicinity. A man named James Gately pounded his wife to death as she lay in her bed, for some unknown cause. He denies all knowledge of the matter.

New Hampshire Legislature.

A joint resolution was introduced in the senate Thursday afternoon to adjourn the legislature on the 18th inst.

The general railroad law was indefinitely postponed, the vote standing 169 yeas to 118 nays.

The bill appropriating the sum of three thousand dollars for the propagation and rearing of fish was indefinitely postponed; likewise that relating to the forbidding of the use of barbed wire fences.

AN OLD WATERING PLACE.

The correspondent of the Boston Post says of Hampton as a summer resort, and of churches and amusements there: "There are about fifty houses, large and small, that compose this beach village, and at the height of the season there may be 1000 regular summer residents. Perhaps on fine days there may be as many more who come as excursionists from Rye beach, No. Hampton and other villages and from numerous boarding and farm houses as well. As there is no church within three miles, a union chapel is desirable near this spot, where all inclined to attend church may enjoy the privilege near their summer residences. The chapel once erected, the officiating clergyman and choir of singers can be procured with little or no expense. Thus, this ancient watering place will have an additional attraction; and some persons will make this their summer home, who only go where divine worship is celebrated. The nearest regular churches are the Congregational and Baptist, three miles distant, in Hampton Village, a Union chapel, six miles away at Little Boar's Head, in North Hampton, and St. Andrew's-by-the-sea (Episcopal), seven miles, at Rye beach. To the south in Hampon Falls, there is a Congregational church, at a distance of some five miles.

A gentleman at our table suggests that there are but two things to do here, viz., 'to bathe and to dance.' On being asked what he shall do who does neither of these, he said, 'Let him make love.' But some of us are too old, or else we are through with love-making. So we look around for occupation, for even in vacation we must have our 'busy idleness.' And this we can find in various pastimes or in sitting in the summer houses upon this headland, which is about as as healthy as sailing upon the sea. We can walk or drive upon these fine beaches, where the sand is so hard, that none cleaves to your feet as you come from the water to your bathing house. Many are the pleasant drives, and both fishing and sailing are always at hand.

An Uncle Tom's Cabin Troupe.

To the town of Grand Ledge came an Uncle Tom's Cabin troupe the other day, seemingly full of hope and enthusiasm, and promising the public the grandest entertainment ever given in the merry harvest time. The theatrical sky seemed cloudless until the curtain went up. When it came to be understood that "Topsy" had struck for her back salary, "George Harris" had become weary of playing for fun, little "Eva" refused to die until money was advanced to redeem luggage left in Ohio, and "Legree" took a seat in the audience and couldn't be bribed or coaxed to return to the green room. Then the manager showed the heroism of a dying gladiator. He rang on the play with nobody but Uncle Tom, Aunt Ophelia and St. Clair to carry all the parts. The donkey usually ridden by "Lawyer Marks" made a feeble attempt to assist, but knocked over a flat and walked off with a lonesome shake of the head. It was a sad thing to see poor old Uncle Tom speaking his own lines and then reading those of three or four other characters, and St. Clair almost brought tears as he jumped from one part to another and tried to hold the fort. The audience were making even bets that the three characters would carry the play through to the last line, when there came a sudden climax. There was a row behind the stage, a roar from the donkey, and "Lawyer Marks" dropped the curtain and the "Quaker" at the same motion.

"When the actors returned to the hotel they somehow took me into their confidence. I should not betray this confidence did I not wish to warn young men clerking in banks and offices on a salary of $50 per week from throwing up such situations to travel with an Uncle Tom's Cabin troupe for fame.

This troupe had been on the road twenty-three weeks; had had thirteen different Uncle Toms, seven different Topsys, four different St. Clairs, and Legree was substituted so often that no one pretended to know him. On three occasions Lawyer Marks had been left behind in jail, and on four others he had concluded to change his profession and left at ten minutes' notice. The manager had held out wonderfully well. He had "jumped" twenty-six halls, eighteen hotels, four railroads, three steamboats and twenty livery stables. He tried to remember how many printing offices had been left to mourn over his impecuniosity, but after getting up to thirty-five he lumped off the remainder. He had played the drama with twenty-six people and he had played it with four. He had played it before an audience of 900 and before an audience of five. Lawyers had attached him, landlords had punched him, and conductors had dropped him off in swamps, but he never ceased to hope. His personal outfit consisted of a suit of clothes worth seven dollars, a cork-screw, a can-opener and a hairbrush. When he found that his final "bust" had come, and that Fate would pass them no further, he turned over the cork-screw and the hairbrush to the landlord, ran a foot race in front of the hotel and won half a dollar, and, as he took the highway for Chicago, he stepped off like a man who was positively sure of his next winter's board.

There was an affecting scene between Legree and Topsy after breakfast, when the former started for the harvest field and the latter engaged as cook. George Harris took the road for Saginaw with an umbrella on his shoulder and seventeen cents in cash in his pocket, and Aunt Ophelia accepted a chance to learn the millinery business. Marks made a raise on a pair of embroidered suspenders and departed for Grand Rapids, and we chipped in and sent Eva to Toledo. Uncle Tom bore up wonderfully well for a man with no assets but a jack-knife and a dime novel, and the last we saw of him he was patching up an old skiff to float him down to Grand Haven.

"The donkey! Well, he was left in the lurch, or rather in the hotel barn, as security for the board bill. I believe he feels the situation. He stands in a dark stall, ears wilted, head down, eyes closed, and coming to life now and then to cry out: "Haw-haw! gee-haw! gee-haw!" Doors open at 7:30—reserved seats at the post-office.—Detroit Free Press.

Probabilities for New England:—

Fair weather followed by increasing cloudiness, westerly backing to warmer southerly winds, stationary or lower pressure.

Sky clear.

AROUND HOME.

Look out for the new comet, now, on any clear night.

A small school of mackerel was seen on Wednesday evening of this week, as far up as the south mill bridge in about three feet of water outside of the gates.

Urch's water bicycles are the great attraction these moonlight nights. The gentlemanly Major has all that he can do to teach the ladies how to propel them.

The dog star hasn't raged very badly for the past two or three days. The trouble with the most of us is that we give the weather too much of our attention.

The young folks seem to be making a merry use of the present moonlight evenings. Hardly a night passes without hearing the jovial voices of parties returning from barge rides to some of the hotels adjacent.

Messrs. George A. Mudge and George E. Hodgdon have returned from their trip to Garland, Me., where they have been inspecting the Silverhill mine, largely owned by Portsmouth capital. They report the mine in splendid condition and yielding quantities of paying ore.

The farmers' club will have a levee at the Farragut house, Rye beach, this evening. Frank Philbrick is chairman of the committee on refreshments, A. S. Peabody of New York and Ex-Alderman Frances Thompson of Boston, serve upon the finance committee. The list of committee men of itself is a guarantee of the success of the club.

While Mr. James W. Goodwin, the proprietor of the Kearsarge house, in company with a young lady, was riding over the railroad crossing at the Creek on Thursday of this week, the horse took fright from an engine, and jumping to one side, overturned the carriage, throwing out the occupants, and injuring the lady considerably. Mr. Goodwin was unhurt.

On Thursday of this week, the tube at the artesian well at the Eastern railroad depot, was raised about one hundred feet, when the fall broke allowing it to drop to the bottom a second time. A stronger purchase is being rigged for the accomplishment of their purpose viz: the desire to obtain water from the bottom of the well.

Messrs. Frank Mack and Arthur Williams, while riding along York beach, Wednesday afternoon of this week, spied a young seal, lurking in the sun on the rocks near the water's edge, after a two hours' struggle they succeeded in capturing him, not however, until Mack's pants were well torn from his person. The seal was brought to this city and purchased by Major Urch of the aquarium.

The seven medium priced dwelling houses, to be sold by Morse & Ilsley on Saturday next at auction, comprising twelve tenements, affords a good opportunity for investment. Now is the time to buy real estate, as it can hardly be lower than at present, and the rate of interest is such, that real estate pays as well as other property. One in particular is that at No. 139 State street, which is a two story tenement, with eight rooms, also a nice store in the basement which can be made to suit most any business that the purchaser chooses to make of it. Also two convenient residences on Langdon street which will well repay one to look at.

A DARING HIGHWAY ROBBERY.

One of the boldest instances of highway robbery that was ever perpetrated in these parts, occurred in the roadway between York and Kittery on Wednesday afternoon of this week. Mr. A. J. Freeman, a man about sixty years of age, an artist by profession, was sketching in a lonely spot in the road near by a piece of woods, on Wednesday afternoon, at about two o'clock, when suddenly a man with a mask over his face, stepped up to him and pointing a revolver at his head demanded his gold watch and money. The artist was greatly frightened, and responded with great alacity to the robber's demands by delivering to him, with as little delay as possible, his cash assets (amounting to thirty dollars) and a gold watch. After this surrender, the intruder withdrew as suddenly as he appeared. The police of this city were notified of the robbery as soon as possible, and efforts are being made to capture the bold highwayman. It is believed that he is the same party who broke into one house and attempted to enter another at Kittery Point one night last week. He evidently understands his business, and is a first-class villian. The residents of Kittery and vicinity, as well as the many boarders thereabouts, are greatly excited over the fact that they have such a daring rascal in their midst.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

Judge Colt.

The late Judge Colt, who committed suicide on Tuesday evening, of the 9th inst., by shooting himself, was subject to mental depressions, and medical examiner Adams, who has also been, with other physicians, the advisor of Judge Colt, makes this statement in regard to the case: The judge first felt symptoms of hypochondria while holding court in Boston last March, and he cut the term short on account of his health. He then went to Fortress Monroe and Norfolk, returning no better. Afterwards, he went to Clifton Springs, N. Y., from which place he came home and held the May term of the supreme court here. He was benefitted but little, but returned to the springs in hope of recovery. He lost flesh and became more and more gloomy, and when he came home from the springs the last time, he was in a terribly depressed condition of mind, lamenting the probability that he would lose his reason and be unable to discharge the duties of his position. His friends and family tried to rally him from his gloom, but without avail. Dr. Adams had a conversation with him on Tuesday, in which the judge said he was only able to write about a page a day and that was hard work. He seemed to be greatly troubled because the report had become current that he had attempted suicide by drowning while at Nantucket, saying that his getting into the water was pure accident; he had no suicidal intention and really wanted to recover his health and live. During the months of his depression it has been a great task to his family to take care of him and bear up under his seemingly needless melancholy. He appreciated the kindness of his family, however, and used to say to them, "You are bearing with me beautifully. But what shall I do? What will become of me?" The disease which afflicted him was hypochondria, usually beginning with indigestion, and when confirmed it becomes a form of insanity. He was subject to special waves of gloom and distress, lasting from a few minutes to an hour, and, Dr. Adams' theory is, that while under one of these spells of distress the act was committed. There was this much premeditation only about the suicide: That he had to go from his library to the bank room, open the draw, get the revolver, walk back to his office and commit the fatal act. Dr. Adams thinks that had the pistol missed fire, the attempt would not have been repeated, as he would by that time have recovered his ordinary frame of mind.

What is the Use!

Of buying worthless medicines, and spending money on quack doctors whose only idea is to gull the public. Is it not better to buy a reliable medicine like Sulphur Bitters? I think so, as they cured me of catarrh after suffering three years. —J. P. Clark, Manchester.

Gov. Farnham of Vermont is in Baltimore, and leaves for Yorktown, Va., to make arrangements for the accommodation and care of the soldiers and citizens of Vermont who will visit the Yorktown centennial celebration in October.

Rescued from Death.

William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., says: "In the fall of 1876 I was taken with a violent bleeding of the lungs followed by a severe cough. I soon began to lose my appetite and flesh. I was so weak at one time that I could not leave my bed. In the summer of 1877 I was admitted to the city hospital. While there the doctors said I had a hole in my left lung as big as a half a dollar. I was so far gone at one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs. I laughed at my friends, thinking that my case was incurable, but I got a bottle to satisfy them, when to my surprise and gratification, I commenced to feel better. My hope, once dead, began to revive, and to-day I feel in better spirits than I have the past three years.

I write this hoping you will publish it, so that every one afflicted with diseased lungs, will be induced to take Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs, and be convinced that consumption can be cured. I have taken two bottles and can positively say that it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness." Sold by all druggists.

The citizens of Chikelah, Ark., are in pursuit of a rough named Burgess, who killed a teacher named Sturdevant because the latter protected a girl scholar from the former's insults.

How Long Would it take to Count two Millions?

Over two million volumes of the revised edition of the New Testament, were sold on the first day of its issue. These figures can only be equaled by the enormous sales of Swayne's Ointment for Itching piles, which is universally used as a standard remedy for stopping the itching at night, when one thinks that pin worms are crawling about the rectum. To calculate the extent of its sale in actual figures, would involve the labor of a lifetime. Will you be pestered longer from the aggravating piles?

Summer Complaints

At this season, various diseases of the bowels are prevalent, and many lives are lost through lack of knowledge of a safe and sure remedy. PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER is a sure cure for Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Cholera, Cholera Morbus, Summer Complaint, etc., and is perfectly safe.

Read the following:

BAINBRIDGE, N. Y., March 22, 1881.
PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER never fails to afford instant relief for cramp and pain in the stomach.
JOSEPH BURDETT.

NICHOLVILLE, N. Y., Feb. 5, 1881.
The very best medicine I know of for dysentery, cholera morbus, and cramps in the stomach. Have used it for years, and it is sure cure every time.
JULIUS W. DEY.

MONROONA, IOWA, March 12, 1881.
I have used your PAIN KILLER in severe cases of cramp, colic, and cholera morbus, and it gave almost instant relief.
I. E. CALDWELL.

CARNESVILLE, GA., Feb. 28, 1881.
For twenty years I have used your PAIN KILLER in my family. Have used it many times for bowel complaints, and it always cures. Would not feel safe without a bottle in the house.
J. R. TYE.

SACO, ME., Jan. 29, 1881.
Have used PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER for twelve years. It is safe, sure, and reliable. No mother should allow it to be out of the family.
H. I. NAYES.

ONEIDA, N. Y., Feb. 19, 1881.
We began using it over thirty years ago, and it always gives immediate relief. Would hardly dare to go to bed without a bottle in the house.
W. O. SPERRY.

CONWATSONO, S. C., Feb. 22, 1881.
Nearly every family in this section keeps a bottle in the house.
DR. E. MORTON.

U. S. CONSULATE,
CREFELD, RHENISH PRUSSIA, Feb. 5, 1881.
I have known PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER almost from the day it was introduced, and after years of observation and use I regard its presence in my household as an indispensable necessity.
I. S. POTTER, U. S. Consul.

BURTON-ON-TRENT, Eng.
I had been several days suffering severely from diarrhœa, accompanied with intense pain, when I tried your PAIN KILLER, and found almost instant relief.
H. J. NOONE.

21 MONTAGUE ST., LONDON, Eng.
During a residence of twenty-three years in India, I have given it in many cases of diarrhœa, dysentery, and cholera, and never knew it to fail to give relief.
R. CLARDGE.

No family can safely be without this invaluable remedy. Its price brings it within the reach of all.

For sale by all druggists at 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

SANFORD'S

· GINGER ·

Impure water, unhealthy climate, unripe fruit, unwholesome food, cramps, chills, malaria, excessive heat and the thousand and one ills that beset the traveler or family are nothing to those fortified and sustained by the use of Sanford's Ginger, "the delicious." As beverage it quenches thirst, open the pores, relieves the head, regulates the stomach and bowels, eradicates a craving for intoxicants and imparts new life to the languid, careworn, overworked, nervous and sleepless. Beware of imitations sold to be as good. Ask for Sanford's Ginger and take no other.

—The late Dean Stanley was thought to be a little too secular by his hearers. "I wanted to hear about the way to heaven," said one of them, "and I only heard about the way to Egypt." That was carrying things to the opposite extreme.

—The story about the proposed blowing up of the prince of Wales' yacht is now said to be all a hoax. Probably Wales had invited somebody to go sailing and then changed his mind, and wanted to get rid of taking 'em and scared 'em into declining.

—A poem in the Courier Journal begins: "'Twas 2 in the morning, and the shirt-tail brigade, perspiring and worn with the fight they had made against heat and mosquitoes, for rest lay and prayed." When a Louisville poet mounts his Pegasus, look out for poetry.

—The two United States senators from Wisconsin have met and decided to nominate Ex-Congressman Jeremiah Rusk for governor of that state. A United States senator in good health can generally relieve a nominating convention of a great deal of hard work.—Philadelphia Times.

—A Vermont editor answered a lady who wrote asking how to make a bustle: "Take your husband's Sunday trowsers Saturday night and sew them up tight." She did so and was wholly dissatisfied with the bustle, as was her husband who got the doctor a job at the editor's house.

—Mr. Bookwalter was a republican. He was rich. He grew ambitious, and said unto himself, "I must buy public honors of some sort." He looked about him. He saw Tilden buy one nomination, and Bishop another. He said, "By Jove, I'll be a democrat and that will fix it." So he went across the aisle, and hardly had grown warm in his seat before he bid for a nomination and got it. Thus is the great mission of the democratic party explained and illustrated.

Ash-Tonic;

A perfected purifyer of the system. In 1-2lb. bottles; 75 cents. For dyspepsia, the many forms of liver complaint, impure and impoverished blood, and functional derangements attendant upon debility. For symptons indicated by indigestion, loss of appetite, nausea, sick headache, sour stomach, furred tongue, drowsiness, blanched lips, sallow complexion, pain in the side and of spirits, nervous irritability and hysteria, and for building up the system, ash-tonic is unquestionably the most prompt and energetic remedy yet devised.

—Coney island hotel proprietors lost $50,000 on a recent rainy Sunday. This is the way they figure it: Provisions bought for the occasion, $800; what they would have sold for had guests arrived, $50,800; loss $50,000.—Philadelphia News.

No good Preaching.

No man can do a good job of work, preach a good sermon, try a law suit well, doctor a patient, or write a good article when he feels miserable or dull, with sluggish brain and unsteady nerves, and none should make the attempt in such a condition when it can be so easily and cheaply removed by a little Hop Bitters. Big Results from Little Causes.

"Do you know?" remarked a man to his friend on Chestnut street, a day or two since, "I believe both Conkling and Platt had a bad case of skin disease when they resigned!" "What makes you think so?" inquired the listener in astonishment. "Well, you see they acted in such an eruptive manner—so rash—ly as it were. Save?" "Oh! yes, I save," replied the other, "they were bad—ing over and merely resigned to humor themselves, I suppose." If such be the case, the National difficulty might have been averted by applying Swayne's Ointment for skin diseases.

The President.

The President's condition on the 12th inst. at noon was considered favorable, although evidences of weakness continue. He is free from fever, but his pulse is high. Dr. Bliss himself was quite ill on the 12th, from the effects of a cut on one of his fingers, which he received on Sunday in searching for an instrument. The hand has swollen up and gives him considerable pain. He passed the morning in bed, but attended the noon consultation as usual. It is said that during the operation which was recently performed on the President, the doctor received a small quantity of pus into the cut of his forefinger and the swelling of his hand and forearm was the result of pus poisoning.

The Dover owners of the schooner T. B. Garland visited Saco on the 10th inst., and inspected the vessel as she lay at her moorings. They expressed themselves as being highly pleased with the appearance of the craft, and all join in the opinion that it is the finest of the fleet owned in Dover.

O. W. Farrar of Dover, who was charged with eloping with a young woman, has returned to Dover, and denies the charge of disloyalty to his wife. The Dover papers think the case inexplicable, but say they are willing to give him a fair chance to vindicate himself.

Government enquirers are sounding the Merrimack river as far up as Manchester, and taking levels of the shore, with the view of locating the obstructions to navigation. There is a scheme for making that river navigable to Manchester, and the survey is the first step toward it. It will be a new era for that city when her coal and cotton shall be landed from steamers at her wharves.

Attorney General Tappan, recently held an interview with Sheriff Cross of Coos county, in Concord, in relation to the Lancaster poisoning case. No arrests have been made, nor will be, until the case has been brought before the grand jury and a report obtained. The attorney general issued an order to have the bodies of Dr. Bugbee and Mrs. Towne exhumed at once, and the stomachs will be sent to Boston and subjected to chemical analysis, to determine whether or not there are traces of poison.

The survey of the projected railroad up the Pemigewassett valley, from Plymouth to the Profile house, is now completed, and it is reported that the road will speedily be in process of building. The road will certainly result beneficially to the inhabitants of the Pemigewassett valley, opening up a large timber country and helping to develope and utilize a large amount of property that has for years lain in a dormant condition. That heretofore isolated locality will thus be brought nearer to the great business world outside, and materially increase the business of summer hotels and boarding houses up and down the entire length of the valley, leaving city tourists at their very doors. The directors are enterprising gentlemen who apparently are acting in good faith and and for the best interest of the residents of the country through which the road is to pass.

According to the Providence, Rhode Island Journal, Clarence H. Barrett, a man about thirty-five years of age, who originally came from Nashua, is a first-class woman deceiver. He has been living in Providence, R. I., with his wife and child, the latter now only ten months old, for the last eleven months. For the last nine months he has been employed as a clerk by M. K. Becker, a furniture dealer. During that time he has been in the habit of making love to young women who came to the store, and no less than seven have been duped into accepting him as a lover. He went so far with one of them, a Miss Freeman, as to make preparations for marriage with her, but at the last moment the suspicions of the girl's mother were aroused, and she instituted an investigation which led to Barrett's exposure, when he absconded. Mr. Becker, his employer, finds a deficiency of $300 in his accounts. Barrett also carried off his employer's account books.

News and Notes.

The President can now sign his name without pain, but that should afford no excuse for office seekers to press their claims for a commission.

Gen. Grant has just purchased a handsome brown stone front dwelling house, on East 66th street, next to Fifth avenue, New York city. The price was $100,000, but the amount paid was $93,000. It is supposed that the general will make this his residence during life.

Mr. Alcott, at the Concord school of Philosophy last week, said that during slumber the animal in our nature predominates. The "animal" referred to, it may be presumed, is the nightmare.

The Eastern railroad company is now preparing tickets to be sold to Old Orchard via Junction road, and will issue them in a few days. The price from all points on the Eastern including the Junction tickets, will be the same as the Boston & Maine are. Passengers from this city on the morning trains can go over it to Old Orchard beach and home at 1.14 or 6 09.

An injunction was lately granted by the Supreme Court obliging the Eastern R. R. to sell tickets over their roads as cheap as they could be obtained upon any other competing road for the same distance. In consequence of this through tickets to Old Orchard from Boston were offered for sale last week. The Eastern probably held out in order to keep faith with the Boston & Maine railroad in their agreement as to business of the respective roads.

The London Times, publishes a long letter from a correspondent, who, after a tour of the principal English wheat producing districts, estimates that with ordinary summer weather throughout the month of August, the yield should exceed by 300,000 quarters last year's poor crop. The yield will apparently average thirty bushels to the acre. Exaggerated harvest estimates must, however, be rejected as the plant was thinned by frosts and winds in the spring. The prospects in northern France are the same as those in England.

The Lowell Times says: "If Judge John Lowell, of the United States court in this state, is to be the successor of the late Judge Nathan Clifford on the supreme court bench, the choice will remove from us the ablest jurist we have." Judge Lowell is circuit judge of the first circuit, which comprises the states of Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Rhode Island. While part of the political managers in Massachusetts would seek to have Judge Gray fill the place, another set would like to see Judge Devens appointed. They seem to regard it as a matter of course that a Massachusetts man should be selected. There could not be a better appointment than that of Judge Lowell, whose experience in the administration of the law in the federal court is of long and varied duration.

Mt. Washington Summit.

A correspondent of the Boston Post, who is making his first visit to the top of New Hampshire's weird and ragged peak —Mt. Washington—was impressed with his thrilling experiences, and in a racy and readable letter to the above paper, thus writes of the scenes and localities of that wild region that have such a strangely fascinating interest to the visitors. "The casualties which have happened, either in making the ascent or the descent, were the subject of a conversation to which I listened while standing in front of the hissing hot stove of the Tip Top house last week. The list of the list (so far as is known none have happened this season) was that in which Harry W. Hunter of Pittsburg, Pa., perished. He stepped aside from the Crawford bridle path, lost his way and must have died miserably. This was on the 3d of September, 1874. In July, 1880, about a mile from the summit, was discovered a heap of bones and a steel composing rule. The latter furnished the clue which led to the identity of the remains as those of the unfortunate Hunter, for Hunter was a printer, and like all of the craft, carried his tools around with him. The wind whistled mournfully around the hotel as the story was being told, and the hearers involuntarily clustered nearer one another, and waited the next gloomy reminiscence. It came from an elderly gentleman and was in relation to the death of Miss Lizzie Bourne of Kennebunk, Me., who died in a blinding snow-storm on the Glen bridle path, on the night of Sept. 14th, 1855. The traveller, who rides up in the little railway car, has the pile of stones pointed out to him, as marking the spot where her rigid body was found. One is surprised to find that it is so near the Tip Top house, that it is not much more than a stone's throw. So she must have shrieked and shouted in her despair, but on such a terrible night, with the wind blowing like a hurricane, and howling like a million fiends, who in the hotel could have heard her or have distinguished her voice before it was swallowed up in the tempest?

There is a well-founded rumor, said the old gentleman, that every year on the night of the 14th of September the ghost, or spirit, or whatever you may call it, of Lizzie Bourne may be seen flitting about the mound. Henry J. Howland and a party saw it last year, and were almost frightened to death, continued the story teller. It was a clear moonlight night, and Howland and his party were roaming over the summit to see whatever was to be seen. They had got down to the Bourne monument, and being somewhat fatigued with their scramble over the rocks, they all dropped down for a few minutes rest. Naturally enough, the monument suggested the tragic death of the poor girl, and they fell to talking about it. A heavy bank of clouds rising from the west threatened to obscure the moon altogether and give the party some trouble in finding their way back to the hotel, and they rose up to start. At that moment a filmy cloud shot across the surface of the moon, and surrounding objects on the landscape lost their clearness. A shriek from Howland startled everybody, and they turned to see him point at the monument and wringing his hands as if he was in the greatest agony. He seemed to have lost his voice after that one shriek, and there he stood horror-stricken like. The whole party turned to the monument, and there, if you'll believe it, continued the story teller, glancing at his now awe-stricken listeners, was a whitish figure, rising up through the stones, just as if she was coming to the surface, bearne upward by some mysterious stage mechanism. Then, as she got to the top, she assumed a defined shape, that of a pretty girl, with a sad face and flowing robes and hair. She appeared to point her right hand toward the glimmering lights of the Tip Top house, and then suddenly dropping on her knees, she clasped her hands as if in prayer. In another instant the cloud scudded away, the moon looked down as bright as ever, and the ghost or spectre, or whatever you may call it, was gone. Howland, however, was prostrated by the shock to his nervous system and didn't get over it for two days. "No sir," wound up the old gentleman, "I don't believe in spirits, and I don't believe my friends untruthful. I believe there is a something or other to be seen there on that mound and if I'm alive I'm going down the next 14th of September to see it—should I can't get any of my friends to go along." Such a story, listened to with the hotel joints creaking like a ship's, and a fierce tempest in progress outside, had a marked effect upon some of the ladies, causing them to shudder and cling closer to the gentlemen who figured either as husbands or escorts.

Somebody brought up here the other day a yarn to the effect that the idea had been conceived, and would probably be executed, of boring through the mountain at the base, and at the centre where the tunnel would stop, there erecting an elevator to take passengers to the summit. Why such an idea should receive solemn consideration puzzles some of us, but that it did receive a great deal of solemn consideration from the hotel people is a fact. The fellow who suggested it was denounced as an interloper, an outsider who had no rights in the mountains which were bound to be respected.

The President's Wound!

A Parallel Case in Army Life.

In the issue of the Philadelphia Record of the 27th of July we published an article relating to the case of Capt. William Palmer, now Quartermaster Second Brigade New Jersey State National Guard, who was wounded in the battle of Mount Creek, East Tennessee, in the winter of 1863. In that article the striking resemblance of the case to that of President Garfield in many particulars was pointed out, the authority for the statement being the brave soldier himself. A still better authority is Dr. David Kennedy, the surgeon in U. S. General Hospital, West Philadelphia, who had had charge of the case, and performed the operation of removing the detached bone, and finally extracted the bullet—Capt. Palmer is living to this day in the bloom of health. Dr. Kennedy does not hesitate to say that many of his patients both in military and civil practice owe their lives to the wonderful healing and strengthening powers of his medicine called "Favorite Remedy." The doctor is in possession of an autograph letter from Capt. Palmer, attesting his indebtedness for his present good health to this medicine—"Favorite Remedy"—which he says has doubled the obligation which he felt to the doctor for the treatment of the captain's terrible wound.

While Dr. Kennedy is engaged in the introduction of "Favorite Remedy," he still continue the practice of his profession at Rondout, N. Y., performs all the cures as well as capital operations of surgery. Address as above. tu12

AROUND HOME.

Blueberries are said to be abundant on the numerous island in this harbor.

Secretary Blaine passed through this city on Friday forenoon en route home.

Coal freights from Baltimore to this port are quoted at $1.90 per ton.

Hon. Frank Jones contributes to the coffers of our city treasury this year the handsome tax of $5413.17.

The James Sampson was drawn upon the ways at Kittery, on Thursday of this week to repair a leak.

Mr. Halsall, a Boston artist, is spending the month of August at York harbor, in company with E. H. Garrett, engaged in sketching.

Rev. James DeNormandie was the delegate from this city to the civil service reform convention at Newport, Rhode Island, on Thursday, Aug. 11th.

Schooner Cephas Starrett, arrived at the navy yard on Friday with 647 tons of Cumberland coal; this being the first instalment of the contract of C. E. Walker & Co.

A house on State street in this city occupied by a family named Webber was entered on Friday of this week and four dollars in money taken from a bureau drawer.

Another hot wave is approaching from the west. It will probably reach us to-day or to-morrow. In Quincy, Illinois, the mercury rose to 108 degrees, the hottest for fourteen years.

Pier wharf, or that portion of it where the new coal pocket is to be built, has just been completely repaired, preparatory to the erection of the building, which will be of hard pine lumber.

Benj. Gerrish, Esq., of Dover, formerly deputy secretary of the state, and for eight years last past consul at Bordeaux, passed through this city on Thursday on his way to Hampton beach.

The present run of tides is the highest that we have been favored with for some time. It seems as if old nature is reaching in through her several water-channels to cleanse us of our refuse and filth. Will we take the hint?

The schooner Roamer was sold at auction on Thursday of this week, having been first stripped of her sails and rigging. This vessel was bound for this port with coal for J. A. Walker, when she ran ashore on Block Island, and was wrecked.

Harlow's orchestra, consisting of twelve performers, assisted by Miss Fannie Riddle of Manchester, soprano; William Lee of Boston, tenor; Mr. R. L. Reinwald, cornetist; and Mr. Frank Gilder of Boston, pianist, will give a grand concert at the Sea View house, Rye beach, this evening at eight o'clock. After the concert there will be a hop.

If one desires to invest twenty cents in a profitable manner, get on board the steamer Fearless at the north end and go down to Kittery Point and back. The swift running tides of the river, together with the ocean breezes in lower harbor, will give one an exhilarating feeling that crowds of people are annually travelling hundreds of miles to obtain.

A man named Pickering, residing in this city, while at work stowing hay in a barn of a farmer in the suburbs a few days ago, accidentally stepped from the scaffold of the beams in the upper part of the building and fell a distance of eighteen feet to the ground floor below. Fortunately a quantity of hay slid off with him, breaking his fall, and saving him from a broken leg. As it was, he badly sprained his ankle, which is oftimes well nigh as serious as a fracture.

The Portsmouth Trust and Guarantee company have taken the rooms No. 12 Pleasant street, opposite the Custom house, temporarily occupied by the First National bank, while their banking house was being repaired, and will, after they are fitted up, remove thither. The National Mechanics and Traders bank having purchased the bank building occupied by this bank and the Trust Co., will remodel the building and thus be afforded enlarged accommodations for the transaction of their business.

There is said to be considerable sickness about town from eating unripe fruit. Whether this is true or not, it is well for every one to have a special care for the stomach at this season of the year. Sour or half-ripened fruits of any kind will irritate and disturb the system; and the safest way is to let them alone. The less meat that is eaten in hot weather, the better. Fish and fresh fruit well ripened is the best diet. Milk, oat meal or cracked wheat for breakfast and supper; at least, this is the opinion of an old granny at our elbow.

Mr. John Braham, the Boston Museum orchestra leader, and also the leader of the band at the Wentworth during the summer, is to have another benefit on Thursday, Aug. 18th. Amusements of various kinds will take place in the afternoon, a dramatic entertainment in the evening, and at a still later hour an instrumental concert, concluding with a grand ball. The committee of arrangements is largely composed of our leading young men, which is a compliment to them, and a good card for Mr. Braham, who will doubtless have a rousing benefit, as he is very popular.

The programme for the grand Coffin reunion at Nantucket is as follows: Aug. 16th, a clambake will be furnished at noon at Surfside, and an oration will be given by Tristram Coffin of Poughkeepsie, N. Y. On the 17th, the memorial exercises will be held in Athenaeum hall, on which occasion Charles Carleton Coffin of Boston will make the oration, and a poem by Robert Barry Coffin of New York will be read. The last day's exercises will consist of a banquet at Surfside. Prof. Selden J. Coffin of Lafayette college, Easton, Pa., will make the oration after this repast, and Dr. Arthur Etwell Jenks of Nantucket will read an original poem, and Representative Coffin of this city, will relate one of his inimitable stories.

The several schoolrooms in the town are being cleaned by whitewashing. The chairman of the committee on schoolhouses evidently knows his business. No good householder will allow the walls of his living rooms to go unwhitewashed more than one year. Why should those apartments where our children spend the largest portion of their waking hours go uncleansed, when lime is so cheap and is also so thorough a destroyer of carbonic acid gas and its disease-producing germs? It is said that the walls and ceilings of some of the rooms of our school buildings were so dark and grimy with dirt and smoke, that a thorough washing with strong soap-suds was necessary before the whitewash brush could be successfully applied.

How a Country Editor Looks At It.

The Laconia Toesin, speaking of the vote of the Portsmouth representatives on the "Lake Shore Railroad" bill, delivered itself as follows:

We are not in the least indignant; we are immensely amused, that is all. It is true, that in the first shock of amazement and disappointment, we, in common with the other friends of the Lake Shore, were a little hungry, and a good deal disgusted, at the course of the Portsmouth representatives; but that feeling soon passed away, in view of the humorous phase of the subject, and the whole affair at once impressed itself as being so irresistibly funny, that we have actually lain awake nights to laugh about it. After the thrilling appeals in behalf of "our only sea-port," after the eloquent references to her decayed commerce, and her harbor that never freezes, after the arguments in favor of a thorough freight line that we should give Portsmouth a great foreign trade; after all this, and much more, her representatives vote almost solidly against the measure in which Portsmouth was supposed to be most deeply interested! It constitutes the best farce on record, and the funniest part of it is, Portsmouth, like the sleepy old grandmother she is, can't see the joke at all, and solemnly and innocently wonders what everybody is laughing about.

FELLOWS' Compound Syrup of HYPO-PHOS-PHITES

THE Power of Arresting Diseases displayed by this preparation is honorably acknowledged by the Medical Faculty in every section where it has been introduced; and the large sale is the best guarantee of the estimation in which it is held by the public. For the effect produced by the inventor will refer to the medical gentlemen whose letters are attached hereto.

[Extract from a letter.]

LYNN, MASS., March 1, 1876.

Messrs. FELLOWS & CO., St. John, N. B.

Gents: I have prescribed your Syrup [Fellows' Hypophosphites,] in my practice, for some hundreds of patients where its use was indicated, with quite satisfactory results.

J. A. McARTHUR.
32 South Common st.

ELBRIDGE SIMPSON, M. D., of Hudson, N. Y., writes:

"I have used the Syrup of Hypophosphites made by Mr. Fellows, in cases of Consumption, and other Lung and Throat diseases, with the most gratifying results."

EDWIN CLAY, M. D., of Pugwash, N. S., writes:

"I know of no better medicine for persons suffering from exhaustion of the powers of the brain and nervous system, from long continued study, or the cough following the fever, etc., etc."

CHANDLER CRANE, of Halifax, N S., writes:

"I have used it freely in my practice, both in diseases of the chest, as consumption and bronchitis, etc., and infantile diseases of the prima via or stomach and bowels, with eminent success"

A Gang of Thieves.

The theory is daily gaining ground that New Hampshire is, and has been for some time, infested by an organized gang of thieves and property plunderers. For several weeks past there have been reports of horses, cattle, carriages, harnesses, wool, and a general variety of articles, turning up missing, in different sections of the state, and for a time there was no clue to the perpetrators. Last week, one Ned Sanborn, or Roscoe Patch, who, it appears, passes under a variety of aliases, was arrested in Grafton, charged with stealing an ox from I. B. Sargent of Grafton, and selling the same to Walter S. Quimby, a Lebanon butcher. During the police court trial at Lebanon it is alleged that there were persons present who, though evidently assuming a disinterestedness, watched the proceedings with decidedly more of a peculiar interest than would naturally be expected of simply a casual observer. And as the prisoner passed out of the court room he was seen to slyly communicate by certain signs with one of the strangers. Suspicion also rests upon one E. C. Copeland, a suspicious looking one-armed man, who was arrested at Taunton, Mass., and taken to Enfield for trial. Officers are now on the track of the other members of the gang, and all possible measures will be taken to ferret out these desperadoes who have been going about through the state committing depredations and seeking whose property they might devour. There are still several other facts in connection with this matter which cannot be made public at this time for prudential reasons, but it is safe to say that the proper authorities are finally aroused, and that the remaining villains in all probability will be speedily brought to justice. In the meantime, fresh developments are daily expected.

—Although it is but five months since Postmaster-General James entered office, he has done more to signalize his business capacity than any Postmaster-General within our recollection. His experience in the New York Post Office, which he managed to the entire satisfaction of the department and the people, had qualified him for the larger duties of the department itself. He had not been in office forty-eight hours before he discovered that there was something wrong in the Star Service, and electrified his subordinates by returning to the proper bureau several contracts which had been made out in due form, cancelled, instead of approved. It was a new thing to have a Postmaster-General who read such papers through in detail before signing them. It is needless to say no more such contracts were submitted to him.

The present Lord Lytton's popular romance in verse, of "Lucille," first published in 1860 when he was twenty-nine, and which made his pseudonym "Owen Meredith" widely known, has been converted by James R. Osgood & Co., into a beautiful holiday book for the coming season. In form it is a royal octavo of over 330 pages, and great attention has been paid to the illustrations, some 160 in number, the work of fourteen artists. The volume will be issued early in September.

We have no nervous tonic at once so reliable and convenient as Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites, and we, therefore, gladly recommend it in the diseases of such organs as depend for health upon involuntary muscular action.

—An exchange says "a real handsome man is wanted at Long Branch and at Saratoga." "Good gracious, we can't go everywhere!"—Post.

From Rev. Dr. Quimby.

AUGUSTA, ME., Jan. 5, 1878.

"Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam has been used in our family for more than three years, and we can recommend it as a superior remedy for coughs and colds."

—The pleasantest way to go to a picnic is to oversleep and miss the train.

Be Wise and Happy.

If you will stop all your extravagant and wrong notions in doctoring yourself and families with expensive doctors or humbug cure-alls, that do harm always, and use only nature's simple remedies for all your ailments, you will be wise, well and happy, and save great expense. The greatest remedy for this, the great, wise and good will tell you, is Hop Bitters—rely on it. See another column.—Press.

The hay crop of Maine is put at two-thirds or three-fourths of an average, but the wet weather has insured an abundance of late summer and fall feed, where there was nothing last year but dry fields and pastures.

How Long Would it take to Count two Millions?

Over two million volumes of the revised edition of the New Testament, were sold on the first day of its issue. These figures can only be equaled by the enormous sales of Swayne's Ointment for Itching piles, which is universally used as a standard remedy for stopping the itching at night, when one thinks that pin worms are crawling about the rectum. To calculate the extent of its sale in actual figures, would involve the labor of a lifetime. Will you be pestered longer from the aggravating piles?

Summer Complaints

At this season, various diseases of the bowels are prevalent, and many lives are lost through lack of knowledge of a safe and sure remedy. PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER is a sure cure for Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Cholera, Cholera Morbus, Summer Complaint, etc., and is perfectly safe.

Read the following:

BRIDGEPORT, N. Y., March 22, 1881.
PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER never fails to afford instant relief for cramp and pain in the stomach.
JOSEPH BURLETT.

NICHOLVILLE, N. Y., Feb. 2, 1881.
The very best medicine I know of for dysentery, cholera morbus, and cramps in the stomach. Have used it for years, and it is sure cure every time.
JULITS W. DEE.

MORNGNONA, IOWA, March 12, 1881.
I have used your PAIN KILLER in severe cases of cramp, colic and cholera morbus, and I have almost instant relief.
L. E. CALDWELL.

CARNESVILLE, GA., Feb. 28, 1881.
For twenty years I have used your PAIN KILLER in my family. Have used it many times for bowel complaints, and it always cures. Would not feel safe without a bottle in the house.
J. H. IVY.

SACO, ME., Jan. 22, 1881.
Have used PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER for twelve years. It is safe, sure, and reliable. No mother should allow it to be out of the family.
H. I. NAYES.

ONEIDA, N. Y., Feb. 15, 1881.
We began using it over thirty years ago, and it always gives immediate relief. Would hardly dare to go to bed without a bottle in the house.
W. O. SPERRY.

CONWAYBORO, S. C., Feb. 22, 1881.
Nearly every family in this section keeps a bottle in the house.
DR. E. MORTON.

U. S. CONSULATE,
CREFELD, RHENISH PRUSSIA, Feb. 8, 1881.
I have known PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER almost from the day it was introduced, and after years of observation and use I regard its presence in my household as an indispensable necessity.
I. S. POTTER, U. S. Consul.

BURTON-ON-TRENT, ENG.
I had been several days suffering severely from diarrhœa, accompanied with intense pain, when I tried your PAIN KILLER, and found almost instant relief.
H. J. NORTON.

21 MONTAGUE ST., LONDON, ENG.
During a residence of twenty-three years in India, I have given it in many cases of diarrhœa, dysentery, and cholera, and never knew it to fail to give relief.
R. CLARIDGE.

No family can safely be without this invaluable remedy. Its price brings it within the reach of all.

For sale by all druggists at 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

Burdette's Weather Predictions.

The Burlington Hawkeye says that it is easy enough to predict the weather if you only follow the right rules. Here are some of them: An intensely blue sky indicates a temporary absence of clouds. Under other circumstances, again, an intensely blue sky indicates a tornado. When the sun rises behind a bank of clouds, and the clouds hang low all over the sky, and the air feels damp, and there is a fine drizzling mist blowing the indications are there will be a rain somewhere in the United States or Canada. When it begins to thunder look out for lightning. To see the head of the family feeling in his right hand pocket, then in the left hand pocket, then in all his vest pockets, then in his hip pockets, and then at the ceiling, indicates "no change." If he suddenly stops whistling at the ceiling and expands his face into a broad grimace of delight, it means "unexpected change." If the corn husks are very thick, the winter will be colder than the summer. If the corn husks are very thin, the summer will be warm and the winter will be cold. If the weather prophet predicts a rainy season and it happens to rain away out in Calaveras county, and is dry as a bone all over the rest of America, this rain must be set down to the credit of the weather breeder, and all the dry time counts for nothing.

The Favorite Toy.

Fatal cases of lockjaw, due to the use of toy pistols, have been reported by the dozen since the Fourth of July, seventeen occurring in the city of Baltimore alone. The toy pistol most in vogue this summer is about four inches long, and explodes a blank cartridge with a pasteboard wad. To insert the cartridge the breech of the barrel is raised, to do which the boy takes the barrel in his left hand, the muzzle resting against the palm, near the ball of the thumb, while he raises the hammer with his right hand. Then, if he is a little careless, the hammer slips, the cartridge is exploded, and the hard wad makes an ugly wound in the palm of his left hand. This wound is jagged and irregular, causing serious injury to the nerves and blood vessels concentrating there, and lockjaw is the result. Some physicians also suspect that a poisonous property in the powder incites the deadly complaint.

—Yes; it's fun enough to go fishing when you don't catch any fish. What's the fun of catching fish anyway? When one gets on your hook you have got to go to the trouble hauling him in, taking him off and rebaiting the hook. There's a good deal of work in it and it interrupts your placid enjoyment of the view.

—Proof positive—Wife (who has been "sitting up")—"Well, this is a pretty time to come home! Four o'clock." Husband (who has been taking nothing but one glass of a curious compound spoken of by himself as "Whiskanwarra"): "Wha' you mean, madam, by 'Forklock?' Unfort'nly for you, madam, it sho 'appens, curiouslenuff, I parsh'd Trinity, madam, and heard it strick one (hic) shevhral times, madam!" Retires to bed in triumph, and—his boots.

"Rough on Rats."

The thing desired found at last. Ask druggist for Rough on Rats. It clears out rats, mice, roaches, flies, bedbugs; 15 cts. boxes.

Skinny Men.

Wells' Health Renewer. Absolute cure for nervous debility and weakness of the general functions; $1 at druggists. Depot at J. H. Thacher.

Experience taught Me!

And my money paid for it. After having liver complaint four years, and spending money on nostrums and doctors who didn't help me, I tried Sulphur Bitters. Six bottles cured me. I shall always use them.—Milliwright.

Two gendarmes from Italy who arrived at New York by steamer Alexandria for the purpose of identifying the Italian bandit Esposito, went to Ludlow street jail on the 12th inst., and without hesitation picked out the prisoner from the line of twenty-four others in which he was placed.

When pangs the mortals flesh assail,
And give a bitterness to life,
Making the cheek with anguish pale,
Amid the fierce internal strife;
Then Sanford's Ginger soothes the pain,
And smiling Health looks up again.

Thomas Herson is under arrest at Newark, N. J., for placing Edward Connor in a room with a savage bull-dog, which nearly tore Connor to pieces. Connor will lose a leg, and will probably die.

Big Results from Little Causes.

"Do you know?" remarked a man to his friend on Chestnut street, a day or two since, "I believe both Conkling and Platt had a bad case of skin disease when they resigned!" "What makes you think so?" inquired the listener in astonishment. "Well, you see they acted in such an eruptive manner—so rash—ly as it were. Save?" "Oh! yes, I save," replied the other, "they were boil—ing over and merely resigned to humor themselves, I suppose." If such be the case, the National difficulty might have been averted by applying Swayne's Ointment for skin diseases.

Portsmouth Chronicle.

MONDAY, AUGUST 15. 1881.

[Entered at the Post-Office at Portsmouth, N.H. as second-class matter.]

The President.

There was a temporary rise in the President's temperature, pulse and respiration on Saturday morning, owing to the wound having become partially clogged, obstructing the flow of pus; but the obstruction was soon removed, and the unfavorable symptoms disappeared. The official bulletin at six o'clock Saturday evening was reassuring.

News and Notes.

The barque "Western Sea," Mosher master, was seized in Machiasport, Me., last week, on a charge of barrary by the captain and a man named Fuller, who were endeavoring to steal the vessel and her cargo from Dan'l Goodnow of Boston, the owner.

The first act of President Garfield when he had taken the oath of office was to turn and kiss his aged mother; and his first act on regaining the necessary strength was to take a tablet and with some effort and weariness write with his own hand a note of affection to the same aged woman.

Charles Boynton, a river driver and mill hand, on Saturday went to the home of his wife's mother at Bar Mills, Me., to get his wife to return to him to live; on her refusal he fired a pistol at her but missed his aim, and she escaped by jumping from a window. He then fatally shot his wife's sister, and immediately afterward shot himself dead.

Edward Weynant, a wealthy New York merchant, bought a vessel at Red Bank, N. J., the 11th inst., and missing a train for home mistook the railroad bridge for the highway, where he was struck by a train, his head crushed, one foot cut off, and his body hung head down from the bridge by his other foot being caught in the sleepers. He was not discovered until next morning.

A bloody double tragedy occurred at the town of Burton, Me., one day last week. A man named Jackson insulted a lady named Langford. The lady told her husband, who at once hunted up Jackson and attempted to chastise him. Jackson drew a knife and stabbed Langford several times, inflicting mortal wounds. Mrs. Langford then appeared on the scene, and shot Jackson in the breast, whereupon he turned on the woman and cut her slightly two or three times, when he fell exhausted from loss of blood. Both Jackson and Langford will die.

Michael B. Hayes, keeper of a lodging-house in Boston, is under arrest for shooting his housekeeper, Mary Mooney, with a didn't-know-it-was-loaded pistol.

Matthias Jones, alias "Puck" Jones, of Rockland, Me., who brutally assaulted a respectable married lady in Abington, Mass., some two weeks ago, arrived in Abington on the 11th inst. in custody of officers, and was held in $4000 for trial. The ruffian was found at David's island, New York, where he was being instructed in military tactics, having enlisted in Boston on the 26th ult. for five years' service in the United States army, under the name of Michael Sullivan.

Frank Shuck, ten years old, fell from the roof of the Phenix hotel, Boston, Thursday evening, while flying a kite, and was killed.

Charles Buzzell of Ipswich, Mass., committed suicide last Thursday night by taking laudanum. He was drunk, and when an officer approached to arrest him swallowed the poison. A short time ago he attempted to cut his throat while intoxicated.

The Cornell university crew were defeated in the boat race on the Danube river by the Austrian crew, last week. The Cornells were ahead at the end of the first mile, when the stroke oarsman gave out.

The famous trotter Maud S., at Rochester, N. Y., last week, made a mile in 2:10 1-4, beating all previous records.

In Newburyport, Mass., one day last week, a team driven by two unknown women knocked down an old gentleman of seventy-nine years, named Samuel Caswell, inflicting injuries that will probably prove fatal. The women drove on without stopping to see what harm they had done.

Advices from the west coast of Newfoundland state that a bottle was picked up on the 8th inst. at Fishall bay, St. George, containing the following letter: "Schooner Morning Star, off Bird rocks, is sinking fast. The captain is John Snow of Pictou, N. S. Loaded with codfish from Labrador. Please report this in the first printing office. Likely all hands will be lost. God save our souls. Crew on board: John Snow (master), William Flynn, John Edwards and William Young. June 18, 1881."

The Atlantic flour mill in St. Louis, a heavy stone mill, was destroyed by lightning on the 12th inst. Loss $140,000; insurance $120,000.

The supreme court of Nebraska has rendered a decision to the effect that the high-license liquor law is constitutional in every particular. It compels saloon keepers to pay $1,000 license and give bonds-in the sum of $5,000 in cities of over 10,000 inhabitants, and $500 license fee in cities of under 10,000 inhabitants.

The annual Congress of the American Dental Society of Europe began at Wiesbaden on Wednesday of last week, Dr. Crane of Paris presiding. A number of German, French and Swiss delegates were present.

An artesian well at Yankton, Dakota, last week struck at the depth of 300 feet a blue shale formation which is saturated with petroleum.

J. C. Drake, a young Englishman recently from Kansas City, employed by Sumner, Frazer & Co., wholesale grocers of St. Joseph, Mo., as travelling collector, has disappeared with collections amounting to $17,000.

Rev. Drs. Jewett and Hatfield, who were appointed a committee of the Rock River, (Ill.) conference to formulate and prosecute the charges of heresy against Rev. H. W. Thomas, D. D., of Chicago, have performed their work. The charges are brief, and accuse the doctor of denying the inspiration of the Scriptures, denying the doctrine of atonement, and teaching a probation after death. The trial will be held at Chicago next month.

Nothing but a jasmine bush marks the grave of Sam Houston, the Texas hero, at Huntsville, Texas. There is neither monument nor headstone, and the grass and weeds have their own way.

Mrs. Harriet M. Duncan died in Cincinnati a few days ago. She was born near Philadelphia, October 1st, 1798, and it was of the pleasantest incidents of her life that General Washington when on a visit to Philadelphia in her infancy, patted her baby head. Another incident of her life in which she took great pleasure was that of having danced with Lafayette on his visit to Cincinnati.

The Scientific American says the largest masonry arch in the world, and which is one of the most important engineering achievements of recent years, is on the line of the aqueduct by which the city of Washington is supplied with water. The arch carries the aqueduct over the Cabin John creek, with a span of 220 feet. The height of the arch is 101 feet, and the width of the structure twenty feet. When the centre scaffolding was removed, the arch (unlike all other works of the kind, did not settle, the keystone having been set in winter, and the centre struck in summer.

Jacob C. Flinkfeldt and Thomas Nelson, of the crew of schooner Adelia Hartwell of Gloucester, Mass., lost in a fog in a dory on Lahave bank on the 31st ult., were picked up after a drift of three days and nights without food or drink, and were landed at Liverpool on August 4th.

A little girl, about eight years old, living on Centre street, on Wednesday went into the house and asked her mother for two cents. The request was refused, whereupon the girl picked up a revolver that was lying on the shelf, and raising it, pulled the trigger. The ball struck and went through a stove funnel, knocking it down, and the mother fainted. The girl was thoroughly frightened, and rushing out of the house, did not return for the night. She very evidently was ignorant of the serious nature of the act, and did not know the revolver was loaded; but any person of mature years who carelessly leaves a revolver lying about the house, where a child could pick it up, deserves to be thoroughly frightened once in a while.—Newburyport Herald.

The new club house of the Farmers' club, near the Farragut house, Rye beach, was opened Thursday evening last with appropriate ceremonies. The club house is a neatly constructed wooden building, two stories high, fitted with open fireplaces. The grounds were brilliantly illuminated and decorated, and in the evening there was dancing.

Friday was the last day of the New Hampshire state temperance camp-meeting at the Weirs. A prayer and conference meeting was held, and there was speaking from the stand by ladies of the State Temperance Christian association. Addresses were made by Mrs. Mary A. Woodbury of Ohio, and Miss Lucia Kimball of Illinois. Gospel temperance was advocated all day. At a meeting of the association the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, George A. Bailey, Manchester; vice presidents, John D. Fife of Fisherville and Hon. W. G. Brown of Whitefield; secretary, G. W. Ruland, Suncook; treasurer, John H. Rowell, Franklin. The attendance and weather have been good.

On Sunday morning, Aug 7th, Rev. D. H. AROUND HOME.

Rev. Phillips Brooks preached at the Oceanic hotel on Sunday morning.

A large number of strangers, and many strange teams, some of them being very handsome, were on our streets Saturday.

The cargo of the schooner Roamer, wrecked on Block island while on the passage to this port with coal, was sold for $400.

Rev. Phillips Brooks of Boston went to the Appledore last week. Ex-Gov. Jewell of Connecticut is among the recent visitors at the same resort.

The steamer Fearless made two extra trips between this city and Kittery Point on Friday, and two on Saturday, to accommodate the large passenger traffic.

A large part of the "brick fleet" arrived at the Portsmouth bridge on Saturday, on their way up the river for cargoes. Three of them were towed to their destination at one time by the tug Ann, about noon.

The New England Manufacturers' and Mechanics' Institute opens its exhibition at Boston on Thursday, the 18th inst., at 11 o'clock A. M. We make our acknowledgment for an invitation to be present. The exhibition promises to be one of the successful kind for which the Hub is noted.

There were more transient visitors in Eye last week, from distant points in the country, than ever before; the same is reported of other sea-shore resorts, the cheap rates of railroad transportation from the west having started to the coast thousands of persons who had never previously been able to visit it.

Mr. Daniel Trefethen, who died in this city on Friday last, was one of the old ship carpenters who forty years ago made the Piscataqua famous the world over for its magnificently-built ships. He was born in the year 1800, on what was then called Trefethen's island, (at a later date known as Seavey's island, and now part of the United States navy yard,) which had at that time been for a great while in possession of his ancestors.

The Army and Navy Journal of Aug. 13th says: "Lieut. Frank D. Webster, of the U. S. S. Constitution, has been lying dangerously ill for the past two weeks of typhoid malerial fever." The following item, from the Journal of the same date, appears to be a little mixed: "Engineer-in-Chief Shock has since his departure from Washington last week visited Portsmouth and Boston, and is at present at Atlantic City with his family. He writes from Boston that the work on the Lancaster has been excellently done, and that the Boston navy yard is progressing finely."

The four horses attached to Thompson's York stage ran away on Saturday morning, moving down Congress street from Bridge street at a rate which caused other teams and pedestrians to get out of the road as quick as possible. Schurman's milk wagon was struck and slightly injured, several people yelled "Whoa" at the running horses, of course causing them to run a little faster, a man armed with a hoe left the sidewalk and ran out in front of the team, and then ran back again, and the horses were finally stopped on Market square by Mr. N. F. Gilson, having done but little harm to themselves or anything else by their race.

Among the patents issued on the 9th inst. was one to Major David Urch of this city for a marine velocipede. The patent lays claim to eleven separate devices, and was filed March 12th.

Mr. J. Hall Boyd, from the United States Engineers' office at Portland, Maine, was in town on the 11th inst., and completed the purchase by the United States of the land for the new channel across the Ox-Bow, by paying Mr. R. M. Scammon the price agreed upon by Gen. Thom. We understand the cut-off has so far progressed as to be in readiness for the dredging machine to commence work. Operations will now be pressed forward with renowned vigor.—Exeter News-Letter.

The wharf in the rear of Marvin & Bartlett's cod liver oil manufactory is undergoing extensive and thorough repairs, for the first time in many years, the last time it was overhauled having been by the late John Mugridge, about half a century ago. The structure was found in very bad condition, for though the timbers are not so rotten as might have been expected, many of them are broken and crushed. The timbers now being put in are much larger than the old ones. Mr. Charles W. Stimson is doing the job, and has a gang of six men at the work.

A party of between eighty and ninety ladies and gentlemen went to the Appledore house on Friday evening, returning by moonlight, steamer Appledore making an extra trip. At the hotel a few pleasant hours were spent, in the dancing hall and on the piazzas. The steamer, on her return, landed a portion of the party at the navy yard. The celebrated yacht Dreadnought, which arrived off Appledore on Thursday evening, got under weigh soon after the arrival of the steamer, and sailed for Portland. The hotel was full of guests to its utmost capacity.

POLICE COURT.

FRIDAY, Aug. 12; Batchelder, J.

John Wallace, for drunkenness, was fined $3, costs $6.00. He thought he could raise that amount, but failing to do so was on Saturday taken to Brentwood.

SATURDAY, Aug. 13; Batchelder, J.

Mary Ann Grace, drunk, fine $3, costs $5.96. Brentwood in default of payment.

PISCATAQUA ASSOCIATION.

The committee of the Piscataqua Association of Congregational Ministers held a meeting at Newmarket Junction, Aug. 10th, and decided to celebrate the centenary of the association in this city on Wednesday, Oct. 26th, with public services in the afternoon and evening.—Rev. Geo. B. Spaulding, D. D., to give the historical discourse in the afternoon, and members of the association to give reminiscences of the deceased members who have been pastors of their churches.

In reply to expressions of sympathy and condolence adopted at the last meeting of the Piscataqua Association, at Eliot, Me., the secretary has received the following letter:

EXECUTIVE MANSION,
Washington, Aug. 8, 1881.

Dear Sir:—The resolutions adopted by your association, expressive of the sympathy and condolence which its members feel with the President and his family in the great calamity which has befallen them, have been received. In acknowledging their receipt, permit me to assure you that it will afford me pleasure, at the most favorable and opportune time, to invite the attention of the President to this gratifying action on the part of your organization. In the meantime expressing the President's thanks for this courtesy. I am, yours, very respectfully,

J. STANLEY BROWN,
Private Secretary.

The dry-house connected with E. B. Blood & Co.'s bobbin factory at Berwick was burned last Thursday night. Loss $2,000; no insurance. This is the third dry-house which the company has lost by burning.

Charles S. Hamilton, city editor of the Biddeford Times, was lastweek knocked down and choked by a hackman in that city, the latter having some real or fancied grievance. Mr. Hamilton caused the hackman's arrest, and a ten-dollar fine, with costs, was imposed.

Nathaniel Boynton of North Limington was found dead in his pasture one evening last week. He went for his cow at the usual hour, but not returning search was made, and his lifeless body was found. The supposed cause was heart disease. His age was about sixty-five years.

The Messina quails imported into York county last year, which returned this spring, have hatched good-sized broods this year, and it is a well-settled fact that they will live in this vicinity, and rapidly increase. Some of the birds did not return to the exact localities in which they were liberated, but made new homes.

The Portland district camp meeting, at Old Orchard beach last week, held its farewell meeting on Saturday morning at eight o'clock. Exhortations, singing and hand shaking occupied the time until 8:57, when the meeting adjourned and most of the members took the outward-bound train for home. The session has been the most successful one held for years.

Frank Maguire, of Biddeford, was the "Ajax" of Shelby & Hamilton's show. One of his accomplishments was to turn a double somersault over the backs of three elephants and two camels. At Hillsboro, Ohio, on the 6th inst., when he made the leap, the crowd was shocked to see him fall with violence to the ground. He broke his leg, and was injured seriously in other ways.

Naval Gazette.

Capt. J. C. P. De Krafft left Washington on Aug. 11th for New York, on official business connected with hydrographic work.

Lieutenant R. M. G. Brown is detached from the command of the Alarm, and ordered to the Lancaster on the 20th of August.

Leave of absence is granted to Commander Johnson for one month from August 15th, with permission to leave the United States.

Medical Inspector Benjamin Gibbs, is detached from duty on the naval examining board on the 15th of August, and ordered to the Lancaster on the 20th of August, and as fleet surgeon of the European station.

Captain Henry C. Cochrane, U. S. M. C., is detached from the navy yard at Norfolk, Va., and ordered to this yard on August 20th, as the officer detailed to command the marine guard of the flagship Lancaster, and as the fleet marine officer of the European station.

Second Lieutenant L. W. T. Waller, U. S. M. C., is detached from the navy yard at Norfolk, Va., and ordered to report August 20th at Portsmouth, for duty on the Lancaster.

Much want of harmony is said to exist at the Norfolk navy yard, and a change in the commandant, whose full term has not yet expired, is expected. Reports, counter-reports, investigations and reprimands have varied the monotony of that station since the summer set in. The delay in fitting out the New Hampshire gave the department great annoyance, and she ultimately left in much disorder under imperative orders. It has been many years since such demands for prompt work have proceeded from Washington, and other stations have received inklings to this effect from that quarter.—Army & Navy Journal.

The Rochester (N. Y.) Democrat and Chronicle says that Munich drinks American beer, Manchester wears American prints, London buys American papers, spoons and forks, while all the world is beginning to tell time by Waltham watches. Meanwhile, England begins to discuss the propriety of a protective tariff.

The Wilmington (Del.) Every Evening asserts that if any company that may be organized wants a fleet of American-built steamships equal in all respects to the steamers of the Cunard line, such a company can have them built at precisely the same prices as they would have to pay on the Clyde, there at Wilmington. This, says the paper, is a bona fide offer, made upon the authority of men who are able to back up the proposition.

A gentleman who was well acquainted with Kit Carson, the great scout, says that the latter's estate when he died was appraised at $30,000. In reply to the recent assertions that Carson's grave was in a desolate condition the writer says that it is in a Roman Catholic cemetery in Toas, New Mexico, and is kept in good order.

It is well to keep in remembrance the virtues of our departed great men. The picture in the Corcoran Gallery at Washington representing an aged woman stirring a porringer, is said to have been won at cards by Henry Clay from J. Quincy Adams, when they were commissioners at Ghent in 1841.

The Lancaster Mystery.

A quantity of whiskey used during the sickness in the Towne and Bugbee families, of Lancaster, in 1880, has been analyzed by H. J. Noyes, druggist and chemist, and found to contain arsenic. Immediately after Mr. Towne's death Mrs. Mayo called the attention of Judge Weeks and Dr. Mitchell to this whiskey, saying she had drank some of it, and it made her sick, as it did others who assisted in the care of Mr. Towne. She says the liquor was brought from Derby Line, Vt., by Dr. Bugbee, after the death of his wife. How the poison came in the whiskey is, as yet, mere conjecture. However, the development is considered an important link in the chain of evidence concerning the mysterious deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Towne and Dr. Bugbee, and by many it is believed it will lead to a solution of the whole affair, and the vindication of Mrs. Mayo.

How Webster Took a Drink.

The route between Boston and New York by way of New Haven had just been opened, and I was occupying a seat with Mr. Webster when the cars stopped at the latter city. Mr. Webster was not well, and, saying that he thought it would be prudent to take some brandy, asked me to accompany him in search of it. We accordingly entered a bar-room near the station, and the order was given. The attendant, without looking at his customer, mechanically took a decanter from a shelf behind him and put it near some glasses on the counter.

Just as Webster was about to help himself, the bar-tender happened to look up, started as if he had seen a spirit, and cried out stop!" with great vehemence. He then took the decanter from Webster's hand, replaced it on the shelf from whence it came, and disappeared beneath the counter. Rising from these depths, he bore to the surface an old-fashioned black bottle, which he substituted for the decanter. Webster poured a small quantity into a glass; drank it off with great relish, and threw down half a dollar in payment.

The bar-keeper began to fumble in the drawer, as if selecting some smaller pieces for change; whereupon Webster waved his hand with dignity, and with rich and authoritative tones pronounced there words:

"My good friend, let me offer you a piece of advice. Whenever you give that good brandy from under the counter, never take the trouble to make change."

As we turned to go out, the dealer in liquors placed one hand on the bar, threw himself over it and caught me by the arm. "Tell me who that man is," he cried, with genuine emotion.

"He is Daniel Webster." I answered.

The man paused, as if to find words adequate to convey the impression made upon him, and then exclaimed, in a fervent half whisper: "By heaven, sir, that man should be President of the United States!"

The adjuration was stronger than I have written it, but it was not uttered profanely; it was simply the emphasis of an overpowering conviction.—Quincy's Anecdotes.

Rescued from Death.

William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., says: "In the fall of 1876 I was taken with a violent bleeding of the lungs followed by a severe cough. I soon began to lose my appetite and flesh. I was so weak at one time that I could not leave my bed. In the summer of 1877 I was admitted to the city hospital. While there the doctors said I had a hole in my left lung as big as a half a dollar. I was so far gone at one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs. I laughed at my friends, thinking that my case was incurable, but I got a bottle to satisfy them, when to my surprise and gratification, I commenced to feel better. My hope, once dead, began to revive, and to-day I feel in better spirits than I have the past three years.

I write this hoping you will publish it, so that every one afflicted with diseased lungs, will be induced to take Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs, and be convinced that consumption can be cured. I have taken two bottles and can positively say that it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness." Sold by all druggists.

Christina Taylor, the old colored woman arrested for the murder of the two Fisher children in Washington, D. C., on the 6th inst., has confessed the commission of the crime. She says she saw the children playing in the yard as she passed, was impressed by the devil to murder them, and killed them with a stick of wood.

What is the Use!

Of buying worthless medicines, and spending money on quack doctors whose only idea is to gull the public. Is it not better to buy a reliable medicine like Sulphur Bitters? I think so, as they cured me of catarrh after suffering three years. —J. P. Clark, Manchester.

Champarty, which is a term applied to an arrangement whereby a lawyer agrees to receive from his client a contingent fee, dependent upon success in the suit, is sufficient cause for disbarment in England, but is very prevalent in this country, and goes unrebuked. It is possible that Congress will be asked to pass a law forbidden champarty in the United States courts.

How Long Would it take to Count two Millions?

Over two million volumes of the revised edition of the New Testament were sold on the first day of its issue. These figures can only be equaled by the enormous sales of Swayne's Ointment for Itching piles, which is universally used as a standard remedy for stopping the itching at night, when one thinks that pin worms are crawling about the rectum. To calculate the extent of its sale in actual figures, would involve the labor of a lifetime. Will you be pestered longer from the aggravating piles?

The President's Wound!

A Parallel Case in Army Life.

In the issue of the Philadelphia Record of the 27th of July was published an article relating to the case of Capt. William Palmer, now Quartermaster Second Brigade New Jersey State National Guard, who was wounded at the battle of Mossy Creek, East Tennessee, in the winter of 1863. In that article the striking resemblance of the case to that of President Garfield, in many particulars, was pointed out, the authority for the statement being the brave captain, himself. A still better authority is Dr. David Kennedy, then surgeon U. S. General Hospital, West Philadelphia, who had had charge of the case, and performed the operation of removing the detached bone, and finally extracted the bullet—Capt. Palmer is living to this day to the bloom of health. Dr. Kennedy does not hesitate to say that many of his patients both in military and civil practice owe their lives to the wonderful healing and strengthening powers of his medicine, called "Favorite Remedy." The doctor is in possession of an autograph letter from Capt. Palmer, attesting his indebtedness for his present good health to this medicine—"Favorite Remedy"—which he says has doubtless the obligation which he felt to the doctor for the treatment of the captain's terrible wound.

While Dr. Kennedy is engaged in the introduction of "Favorite Remedy," in still continue the practice of his profession at Rondout, N. Y., performs all the minor as well as capital operations of surgery. Address as above. 1t12

THE WISE ENJOY GOOD HEALTH

GINGER

Impure water, unhealthy climate, unripe fruit, unwholesome food, cramps, chills, malaria, excessive heat and the thousand and one ills that beset the traveler or family are nothing to those fortified and sustained by the use of Sanford's Ginger, "the delicious." As beverage it quenches thirst, open the pores, relieves the head, regulates the stomach and bowels, eradicates a craving for intoxicants and imparts new life to the languid, careworn, overworked, nervous and sleepless. Beware of imitations said to be as good. Ask for Sanford's Ginger and take no other.

POSITIVELY CURED BY

Benson's Capcine Porous Plasters.

Reasons Why they are Preferred to All Other Porous Plasters or External Remedies:

First.

Because they possess all the merit of the strengthening porous plaster, and contain in addition thereto the newly discovered powerful and active vegetable combination which acts as an increased rubefacient, stimulating, sedative and counter irritant effects.

Second.

Because they are a genuine pharmaceutical preparation, and so recognised by the profession.

Third.

Because they are the only plasters that relieve pain at once.

Fourth.

Because they will positively cure diseases which other remedies will not even relieve.

Fifth.

Because over 5000 physicians and druggists have voluntarily testified that they are superior to all other plasters or medicines for external use.

Sixth.

Because the manufacturers have received the only medals ever given for porous plasters.

From the Portsmouth Journal.

Portsmouth Chronicle.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 16, 1881.

[Entered at the Post-Office at Portsmouth, N.H. as second-class matter.]

The President.

The President was worse, Sunday and Sunday night. On Monday at noon his pulse was up to 118, but at about two o'clock had fallen to 112, the temperature and respiration being nearly normal. It is said that Dr. Bliss on Saturday allowed the president to eat raw onions and vinegar, and afterward to drink milk, which remarkable diet caused vomiting throughout the night. If this report is true, Dr. Bliss had better turn his attention to digging post-holes or making wheelbarrows, rather than continue the practise of medicine.

News and Notes.

The Apaches are spreading desolation in New Mexico. A small Mexican village, eighteen miles from Rio Porco on the Atlantic & Pacific railway, was surrounded a few nights ago, and twenty-seven of the twenty-nine inhabitants murdered. Two men escaped.

M. Bartholomet, Russian minister to the United States, says he has received no instructions from his government relative to Hartmann, the nihilist and assassin, and denies that Hartmann is under surveillance of Russian officers.

Fuller, the enterprising drummer who ran away from Boston with a ship load of cotton, has been arrested and lodged in Machias, Me., jail. The bark and cargo are now in charge of the collector of customs at Machias.

Blanche Douglass was arrested in New York, Saturday, taken to West Haven, Conn., and held in $1000 for perjury in swearing that she slept with Jennie Cramer, whose body was found floating off the West Haven shore on the 6th inst., on the night previous to her death. The Douglass girl now confesses that she lied, and that the deceased was in company with one James Malley on the night in question.

Advices received in London from Rio Janeiro say that the Bolivian convention has decided to continue the war against Chili.

Violent storms of wind and rain visited Philadelphia, Pa., and Petersburg, Va., on Saturday, doing great damage. In Philadelphia fifty houses were unroofed.

The Chicago Times of Sunday editorially demands a change in the medical staff of President Garfield.

Oscar Files, of Bangor, Me., aged twenty years, accidentally shot himself while on an excursion at Bushaw lake, Sunday morning, while drawing a rifle from a cuddy in the boat. He was instantly killed.

The wheat crop in Illinois, in quality as well as in quantity, is the poorest produced in the state for over twenty years. Corn is a decided failure in the southern part of the state, and there is about one-fourth the usual yield of apples.

Gum Gun, a Chinaman, died from taking an overdose of opium, at the Boston city hospital, Sunday morning. Gum Gun was found struggling in the water off Commercial point, Saturday night, and was taken to the station house. When asked what he tried to committ suicide for, he said, "No more dinner, no more supper, no more sin," probably meaning that he had suffered from the want of food, and was not afraid to die.

James Malley and Walter Malley, of New Haven, Conn., were on the 15th inst. arrested on a charge of murdering Jennie E. Cramer on the night of the 5th. They were committed without bail.

Twenty persons were killed and thirty others seriously injured by the fall of an old four-story building in Vienna, Austria, on Sunday.

Edwin Odlin, of Preston, Conn., freight brakeman on the Norwich & Worcester railroad, fell between the cars while the train was moving Saturday, and was killed. His body was horribly mangled.

The Parnell branch of the Irish Land League, of Cincinnati, on Sunday passed resolutions severely condemning Irishmen who favor the use of dynamite or other nihilist methods to promote the cause of Ireland.

The fourth annual Free Thinkers' convention has been called to meet at Hornellsville, N. Y., August 24th, and will continue in session three days.

Persons from the Rosebud Indian agency say that Chief Spotted Tail was killed by Crow Dog for leading astray the latter's squaw, and that it was Spotted Tail's one hundred and fiftieth offence. Crow Dog is under arrest, having surrendered himself at Fort Niobrara. All is quiet at Rosebud.

New Hampshire Items.

E. C. Copeland, arrested at Enfield for horse stealing, resided at Bellows Falls, Vt., about six years, leaving last January with a very unsavory record, taking with him three horses belonging to other parties. One was afterward recovered.

The funeral of Capt. A. F. Nettleton, of the Boston Lancers, took place at Lancaster, his native place, Sunday. Delegations from the Lancers, Knights Templar and Odd Fellows, attended the funeral.

The house and barn of Mrs. Thomas J. Dearborn, at Dover, were partially burned on Saturday. Loss $2500; insured $3500.

It is reported that the railways centring in Concord will commence next year the erection of an elegant union passenger station in that city.

A council of clergymen was held at Hopkinton on Tuesday of last week to take action on the resignation of Rev. C. H. Stone, the society having refused to accept it. Rev. Mr. Stone refusing to withdraw his resignation, his request was granted by the council.

The work of building the barracks at the Weirs, for which the legislature made an appropriation, has been begun, and they will be finished in season for the coming soldiers' reunion.

The defeat of the general railroad law was discounted weeks ago, and nobody will be much dissatisfied with the result. The opponents of the bill are now sure of the situation for two years, while the friends of the measure will take courage from the largely increased vote in its favor. It is more than probable that the next legislature will see a revival of the contest, and that the unprecedented vigor and expense attending this trial will be doubled at the next. It is safe to predict that sooner or later a new and heroic turn will have to be given to the railroad contests before the legislature. Their net results are simply great expense and great demoralization.—Nashua Telegraph.

Naval Gazette.

Commander Wadleigh, of the U. S. S. Alliance, reports to the navy department from Hammerfest, Norway, that the past winter was the most severe known there for years.

Lieutenant D. Pratt Mannix, U. S. M. C., now professor of military tactics at the royal college at Peking, China, has been honored with the rank of "Mandarin of two tails," and the title of colonel.

Pay Director Joseph C. Eldridge, on the retired list of the navy, died at his residence in Brooklyn, N. Y., Sunday. He was born in New York in 1818.

The steamer Dispatch arrived at Washington on the evening of the 14th inst., from Fortress Monroe, with Secretary Hunt and wife, and the President's sons and daughter, on board.

The Murderous "Mollies."

The arrest by Pinkerton's detectives of six men charged with the murder of Maurice Healey, a prosperous foundryman of Dunbar, Westmoreland county, Pa., will probably lead to the exposure and conviction of a gang of Mollie Maguires in that section of the state as dangerous and deadly, if not as numerous, as the vast conspiracy of murder which a few years ago existed in Schuylkill, Carbon and Luzerne counties. It has been shrewdly suspected, and the suspicion is probably correct, that the order which was stamped out by the vigorous policy of Franklin B. Gowen, then president of the Reading companies, and by which sixteen men were sent to the gallows, has been revived in the coke regions in the western part of the state by fugitives from justice in the anthracite fields.—Philadelphia Press.

The Origin of Envelopes.

A Brighton (England) stationer took a fancy for dressing his shop window with piles of writing paper, rising gradually from the largest to the smallest size in use, and to finish his pyramids off nicely, he cut cards to bring them to a point. Taking these cards for diminutive note paper, lady customers were continually wanting some of "that lovely little paper," and the stationer found it advantageous to cut paper to the desired pattern. As there was no space for addressing the notelets after they were folded, he after much thought, invented the envelope, which he cut by the aid of metal plates made for the purpose. The sale increased so rapidly that he was unable to produce the envelopes fast enough, so he commissioned a dozen houses to make them for him, and thus set going an important branch of the manufacturing stationery trade.—London News.

Centaur Liniment.

Invaluable to families, and owners of horses Sold everywhere.

Twelve persons were killed and 150 injured by the fall of a tier of seats at a bull-fight at Marseilles on the 14th inst.

Castoria.

For sour stomach, constipation, and fretfulness of children. Pleasant, safe and cheap. 900 drops; 35 doses, 35 cents.

The Association of Moderate Drinkers, in New York, finding it difficult to obtain pure malt liquors, which they have recommended as a cure for intemperance, now propose to analyze beer to see what it is made of. That will be a very interesting enquiry.

Ash-Tonic;

A perfected purifyer of the system. In 1-2lb. bottles; 75 cents. For dyspepsia, the many forms of liver complaint, impure and impoverished blood, and functional derangements attendant upon debility. For symptons indicated by indigestion, loss of appetite, nausea, sick headache, sour stomach, furred tongue, drowsiness, blanched lips, sallow complexion, pain in the side or back, eruptions, depression of spirits, nervous irritability and hysteria,—and for building up the system, ash-tonic is unquestionably the most prompt and energetic remedy yet devised.

General Hancock has accepted the invitation to take command of the troops at the Yorktown centennial celebration in October.

No good Preaching.

No man can do a good job of work, preach a good sermon, try a law suit well, doctor a patient, or write a good article when he feels miserable or dull, with sluggish brain and unsteady nerves, and none should make the attempt in such a condition when it can be so easily and cheaply removed by a little Hop Bitters. See other column.—Albany Times.

It is said that Connecticut during the past year has expended more than half a million dollars for its criminals, paupers and humane institutions, and less than a quarter of a million for education.

When pangs the mortals flesh assail,
And give a bitterness to life,
Making the cheek with anguish pale,
Amid the fierce internal strife;
Then Sanford's Ginger soothes the pain,
And smiling Health looks up again.

The greenbackers and republicans will probably "fine drives" in Mississippi. It is understood that the greenbackers will nominate a ticket on the 24th instant, and that the republicans will endorse it on the 25th. Both conventions meet at Jackson.

Big Results from Little Causes.

"Do you know?" remarked a man to his friend on Chestnut street, a day or two since, "I believe both Conkling and Platt had a bad case of skin disease when they resigned!" "What makes you think so?" inquired the listener in astonishment. "Well, you see they acted in such an eruptive manner—so rashy—by as it were. Save?" "Oh! yes, I save," replied the other, "they were boil-ing over and merely resigned to humor themselves, I suppose." If such be the case, the National difficulty might have been averted by applying Swayne's Ointment for skin diseases.

O'Dynamite Rossa thinks that there may be something in Crowe's assertion that it will not be safe to travel in British steamships after September 1st. If there is really a plot on foot to blow up English vessels with infernal machines, and sacrifice the lives of their passengers and crews, hanging is too mild a punishment for the miscreants concerned in the dastardly and inhuman work.—Nautical Gazette.

A COUGH, COLD OR SORE THROAT should be stopped. Neglect frequently results in an incurable Lung Disease or Consumption. "Brown's Bronchial Troches" do not disorder the stomach like cough syrups and balsams, but act directly on the inflamed parts, allaying irritation, give relief to Asthma, Bronchitis, Coughs, Catarrh, and the throat troubles which Singers and Public Speakers are subject to. For thirty years "Brown's Bronchial Troches" have been recommended by physicians, and always give perfect satisfaction. Having been tested by wide and constant use for nearly an entire generation, they have attained well-merited rank among the few staple remedies of the age. The yacht "Ranger," S. L. Blood commanding, from New York for the Isles of Shoals, was at Provincetown, Mass., on the 12th inst.

The directors of the Newcastle Bridge Co. met on Saturday evening, and elected Elmer E. Tucker president and David Urch secretary.

The steamer James Sampson came off the marine railway at Kittery on Sunday, and the schooner yacht Una was taken up on Monday afternoon.

The flag on the Liberty pole at Liberty bridge was displayed at half mast on Monday, as a mark of respect to the memory of Mr. Daniel Trefethen, whose funeral occurred on that day.

Rev. Dr. Davies, formerly rector of St. John's church in this city, but now of Philadelphia, preached in the church named on Sunday. Including Dr. Davies there were four Episcopal clergymen present.

The steamer Appledore ran in to Little Harbor from the Shoals on Sunday afternoon with a party of visitors for the hotel Wentworth. The steamer James Sampson also made a trip from town to the same place.

The Nautical Gazette expresses a hope that O'Donovan Rossa has not captured the carload of ordnance stores sent from Washington some weeks ago for the U. S. S. Lancaster, but which has not yet arrived at this navy yard.

Paymaster Charles F. Guild reported for duty at the navy yard on Monday, relieving Paymaster Edward May as inspector of provisions and clothing. Paymaster Guild has many friends in Portsmouth who will be glad to welcome him on his return to our city.

The house at the corner of Fleet and Hanover streets, damaged by fire some weeks ago, is being repaired. The main building has been raised about two feet, and the additions which formerly adorned the rear have been torn down to make room for the enlargement of the house in that direction.

Mr. W. C. Kellogg, of New York, now at the Kearsarge house in this city, takes what are called "Egyptian Crystals" photographs, samples of which can be seen in the windows of Mr. Myers' bookstore. The pictures produced by this method are remarkably lifelike in appearance, colored like the originals, and are claimed to be absolutely imperishable.

Among the other doings of the state legislature, last week, the house passed a bill to prevent hunting and fishing on Sunday, and sent it to the senate, which body will probably pass it. After this bill becomes a law the improper fellows who (never having a week day to spare from their toils from one year to another) take advantage of the absence of the clergymen on their annual summer vacations and go down river to catch cunners on Sunday, will have to look out.

The steamer Mystic took a very large number of passengers to the Shoals on Sunday. As the steamer was passing the "Humbug" on her way out, several of the passengers undertook to supplement the steamer's whistle-salute by shots from revolvers, and one of them accidentally wounded himself in the left hand, the bullet entering the end of his forefinger and ploughing its way under the skin to the hand, where it stopped. The missile was removed by a surgeon in this city on the steamer's return.

The schooner Anabel on Monday brought in seven sword-fish, one of which weighed 350 pounds. Randall & Caswell purchased the fare.

There was a grand concert at the Sea View house, Rye beach, Saturday evening, by the orchestra of the house, assisted by Miss Fannie Riddell of Manchester, vocalist. After the concert the usual Saturday evening hop took place and was a very brilliant affair.

William B. Hussey & Co.,—late Wm. B. Hussey, dealer in boots and shoes, who has long had a deserved reputation for selling good foot-wear at reasonable prices,—at No. 51 Congress street, Franklin buildings, have added to the old line of trade a large and entirely new stock of hats, caps, and gentlemen's furnishing goods, which they promise to sell at the lowest possible prices consistent with a living profit. CORONER'S INQUEST.

An inquest into the cause of the death of John Erb, foreman of the lager beer department of the Eldredge Brewing Co., which took place somewhat suddenly on the night of Monday, the 8th inst., has been held, and the following verdict returned:

State of New Hampshire,
Rockingham ss., Aug. 15th, 1881:

An inquisition taken at Portsmouth in said county the ninth day of August, in the year 1881, before Samuel C. Whittier, M. D., one of the coroners of said county, upon the view of the body of John Erb, there lying dead, by the oaths of Edwin A. Tilton, a justice of the peace for said county, and of Benjamin M. Parker and Alfred Stavers, all reputable sons, who, being sworn and charged to inquire for the state when, how, and by what means the said John Erb came to his death, upon their oath do say: The said John Erb came to his death from the effects of an excessive dose of morphia combined with aconite, administered to him by his physician, Frederick E. Potter, M. D.; which effects we believe to have been hastened by the intemperate habits of the deceased.

In witness whereof, the said jurors have hereunto set their hands, the day and year first above written.

EDWIN A. TILTON,
BENJ. M. PARKER, } Jurors.
ALFRED STAVERS.

In witness of all above written, the said coroner hath hereto set his hand and seal the same day and year.

S. C. WHITTIER, M. D., Coroner.

It is said the deceased had been suffering severely with delirium tremens and sleeplessness for several days previous to his death. The dose of medicine administered by Dr. Potter was as follows:

"SUNLIGHT AND SHADOW."

Mr. James R. Eaton has taken the agency of John B. Gough's new book, "Sunlight and Shadow," and will canvass this city and its vicinity for subscribers.

Although but recently published, the twenty-sixth thousand of this work has already been printed.

The author, John B. Gough, is too well known to require any eulogy here. Thousands are familiar with the history of his life; his early poverty, the depth of the degradation to which he descended while a victim of drink, his wretched condition and terrible sufferings, his reform, his superhuman struggles against intemperance, his relapse, his re-signing of the pledge and his final victory, his world-wide fame, and his extensive travels and protracted labors in this country and abroad. Thirty-five years ago Mr. Gough first published his "Autobiography." In 1869 a new edition of that work, with additions and emendations, was given to the public, but it did not embody the interesting record of the many thrilling, pathetic, and amusing scenes which had crowded themselves into his long and varied career. These have now been gathered for the first time, and the new book, "Sunlight and Shadow," is the medium—and the only one—through which these details have ever been presented to the public.

Some of the saddest and most pathetic incidents ever told are narrated in the present work; but "Sunlight and Shadow" is not altogether a record of dark experiences. It has a bright and sunny side. Mr. Gough's stories and descriptions of the humorous side of life, as he has seen and experienced it, portray many amusing scenes. His remarkable facility for seeing the ludicrous side of every thing, and his talent for humorous description, are well known. No one can tell more amusing things, and in a more irresistibly humorous way, than John B. Gough. The comedies from life, absurd blunders, laughable mistakes, comical incidents, embarrassing situations, mostly drawn from his own experience on the platform and among the people, will provoke the mirth of the most serious.

In point of paper, printing and binding the book is very superior. It is superbly illustrated with full-page engravings, including a fine steel-plate portrait of Mr. Gough engraved from a photograph taken expressly for this purpose, and which will be highly prized by tens of thousands who have listened to his eloquence.

A four-years-old son of William King, of Saco, was killed Saturday by being crushed by the falling of a cart which was stood upon end, and around which he was playing.

John Pentegrass, eighteen years of age, an employe in the York Manufacturing company's mills, was on Saturday afternoon precipitated, by the breaking of an elevator rope, through four stories of the mill. Both legs and one thigh were broken, and he was otherwise seriously if not fatally injured.

The meetings of the National Christian Temperance association commenced at Old Orchard beach on Saturday, after the close of the Portland district camp-meeting. The reports show encouraging advancement in the cause of temperance for the past year. Ex-Gov. Perham made the opening address.

Sharks.

On Friday last, while a number of boys and young men were bathing in the Seekonk river at East Providence, R. I., one of their number, Jerry Lowney, was attacked by a huge shark, which seized hold of a pair of overalls he had on, and dragged him some distance until the garment gave way. The overalls were so large that the shark failed to catch the man's flesh, and before the fish could renew the attack Lowney was picked up by a boat.

Half a dozen sharks, none of them less than ten feet long, were caught from the North and East river wharves in New York on Saturday.

A Prudent Court.

One Allison was a notorious New Mexican outlaw, of whom a story is told regarding the killing of a gambler named Chubb, at Cimarron, New Mexico. Court was in session when the murder was committed, and the sheriff took Allison immediately before the judge. When Allison came to the front he suddenly whipped out a big navy revolver, and placing it before him on the table said, "Judge, don't make no mistake! I want justice done, and propose to hold this court responsible."

"Sheriff, disarm the prisoner," said the judge.

"Your Honor, I beg to be excused," replied the sheriff.

"Summon a posse," ordered the judge.

"I will kill the first man that moves," exclaimed Allison.

"This court stands adjourned for the present term," was the only further order of the court, and the prisoner and the court moved out of the building from opposite doors.

A Western Romance.

The death of Spotted Tail brings to light a romance of tragic interest in connection with the favorite daughter of the old Sioux chief. Shortly after the war a battalion of the Second Dragoons was ordered to Fort Laramie, and there Lieutenant Brockhurst Livingston, of the well known New York family, saw and loved the dusky girl, and found his passion reciprocated. The young officer took her to his house and she bore him a son, but Livingston's health failed and he was ordered to Europe, where his mind became unsettled and he died. The Sioux girl died of a broken heart in 1866, after learning of his death, and was carried to Fort Laramie by her father and there buried. Her grave is still annually decorated with flowers by the soldiers. The mother of the young officer has sought to find and educate his son, but the Sioux, either because they have lost sight of him or because they wish to keep him, give no trace of his whereabouts.—Philadelphia Times.

—"Why, mamma! this is just like our shed," said a four-year-old upon entering the room at the "cottage" on the beach. And so indeed it was, except that it leaked in the rain.

—A little girl went timidly into a shop the other day and asked the shop-man how many shoe-strings she could get for a penny. "How long do you want them?" he asked. "I want them to keep," was the answer, in a tone of slight surprise.

Notice to Mariners.

Between Montauk Point and the southwest part of Block island the current turns northwesterly in about five hours and thirty minutes after the time of high water in Boston.

In order to avoid Block Island, vessels in thick weather sailing between these points, especially with light winds, should make allowance for this current, which runs in very strong near the full and change of the moon.

LYNN, MASS., March 1, 1876.

Messrs. FELLOWS & Co., St. John, N. B.

Gents: I have prescribed your Syrup (Fellows' Hypophosphites,) in my practice, for some hundreds of patients where its use was indicated, with quite satisfactory results.

J. A. McARTHUR,
32 South Common st.

ELBRIDGE SIMPSON, M. D., of Hudson, N. Y., writes:

"I have used the Syrup of Hypophosphites made by Mr. Fellows, in cases of Consumption, and other Lung and Throat diseases, with the most gratifying results."

EDWIN CLAY, M. D., of Pugwash, N. S., writes:

"I know of no better medicine for persons suffering from exhaustion of the powers of the brain and nervous system, from long continued study, or the cough following the fever, etc., etc."

CHANDLER CRANE, of Halifax, N S., writes:

"I have used it freely in my practice, both in diseases of the chest, as consumption and bronchitis, etc., and infantile diseases of the prima via or stomach and bowels, with eminent success."

ON STAR ISLAND.

High on the lichened ledges, like
A lonely sea-fowl on its perch,
Blown by the cold sea winds, it stands,
Old Gosport's squat, forsaken church.

No signs left of all the town
Except a few forgotten graves;
But to and fro the white sails go
Slowly across the glittering waves;

And summer idlers stray about
With curious questions of the lost
And vanished village, and its men,
Whose boats by these same waves were tossed.

I wonder if the old church dreams
About its parish, and the days
The fisher people came to hear
The preaching and the songs of praise?

Rough handed, browned by sun and wind,
Heedless of fashion or of creed,
They listened to the parson's words—
Their pilot heavenward indeed.

Their eyes on week-days sought the church,
Their surest landmark, and the guide
That led them in from far at sea,
Until they anchored safe beside

The harbor wall that braved the storm
With its restless strength of stone.
Those busy fishers all are gone—
The church is standing here alone.

But still I hear their voices strange,
And still I see the people go
Over the ledges to their homes
The bent old women's footsteps slow;

The faithful parson stopped to give
Some timely word to one astray;
The little children hurrying on
Together, chattering of their play.

I know the blue sea covered some,
And others in the rocky ground
Found narrow lodgings for their bones—
God grant their rest is sweet and sound.

I saw the worn rope bile hang
Beside me in the belfry brown.
I gave the bell a solemn toll—
I rang the knell for Gosport town.

"Appleton's Journal." The September number of Appleton's is at hand, containing part four of Saints and Sinners; A Peep at the French Schools; Clement Marot; a Siberian Exile twenty years ago; Charles Lamb's humor; Candidating in the Old Times in the Southwest, a chapter from a forthcoming book to be published by D. Appleton & Co. and written by Rev. H. W. Pierson, D. D., entitled "In the Brush, or old-time home life in the southwest," and which promises to be an enjoyable work; Man's Place in Nature, by the Lord Bishop of Carlisle; M. Littre and the dictionary of the French language; Bonaparte,—one of Prof. Seeley's Cambridge lectures; Strange Players; the Curiosity of Criticism; Sincerity in Biography; with Editor's Table and notes for readers, both containing much that is useful and instructive. The September number is decidedly good in every respect, and is worthy the high repute of the magazine. Single numbers, twenty-five cents; yearly subscription, $3.00; D. Appleton & Co., No. 1 Bond street, New York, publishers. To be had of leading booksellers and magazine dealers.

Thirty boys escaped from the state reform school at Westboro, Mass., Saturday. Some of those "humanitarians" who think criminals are entitled to more consideration than decent people can get, some weeks ago made an attack upon the management of the institution, since which time it has been almost impossible to keep the young ruffians under control.

We have no nervous tonic at once so reliable and convenient as Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites, and we, therefore, gladly recommend it in the diseases of such organs as depend for health upon involuntary muscular action.

Mr. Clarence A. Maxwell of Portland, Me., is said to have been officially notified that he has had $228,000 left him by the death of Sir Charles Maxwell of Glasgow, Scotland. Mr. Maxwell is at present at work for the firm of Gale Brothers, boot and shoe manufacturers at Haverhill, Mass.

Be Wise and Happy.

If you will stop all your extravagant and wrong notions in doctoring yourself and families with expensive doctors or humbug cure-alls, that do harm always, and use only nature's simple remedies for all your ailments—you will be wise, well and happy, and save great expense. The greatest remedy for this, the great, wise and good will tell you, is Hop Bitters—rely on it. See another column.—Press.

The Belfast, Me., Journal publishes the will of Charles Elliot of Knox, whose bequests to his son, three daughters and two grandsons are subject to forfeiture by the legatees if they use tobacco or alcoholic liquors, or gamble, their shares in such case being divided among the heirs who have not broken the conditions of the will.

How Long Would it take to Count two Millions?

Over two million volumes of the revised edition of the New Testament, were sold on the first day of its issue. These figures can only be equaled by the enormous sales of Swayne's Ointment for Itching piles, which is universally used as a standard remedy for stopping the itching at night, when one thinks that pin worms are crawling about the rectum. To calculate the extent of its sale in actual figures, would involve the labor of a lifetime. Will you be pestered longer from the aggravating piles?

Summer Complaints

At this season, various diseases of the bowels are prevalent, and many lives are lost through lack of knowledge of a safe and sure remedy. PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER is a sure cure for Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Cholera, Cholera Morbus, Summer Complaint, etc., and is perfectly safe.

Read the following:

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., March 22, 1881.
PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER never fails to afford the most relief for cramp and pain in the stomach.
JOSEPH BURDETT.

NICHOLSVILLE, N. Y., Feb. 2, 1881.
The very best medicine I know of for dysentery, cholera morbus, and cramps in the stomach. Have used it for years, and it is sure cure every time.
JULIUS W. DEE.

MONROONA, IOWA, March 12, 1881.
I have used your PAIN KILLER in severe cases of cramp, colic and cholera morbus, and it gave almost instant relief.
J. P. CARWELL.

CARNESVILLE, GA., Feb. 26, 1881.
For twenty years I have used your PAIN KILLER in my family. Have used it many times for bowel complaints, and it always cures. Would not feel safe without a bottle in the house.
J. R. TYE.

SACO, ME., Jan. 22, 1881.
HAVE used PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER for twelve years. It is safe, sure, and reliable. No mother should allow it to be out of the family.
H. I. NAYES.

ONEIDA, N. Y., Feb. 19, 1881.
We began using it over thirty years ago, and it always gives immediate relief. Would hardly dare to go to bed without a bottle in the house.
W. O. BYERSY.

CONWAYBORO, S. C., Feb. 26, 1881.
Nearly every family in this section keeps a bottle in the house.
DR. E. MONTOS.

U. S. CONSULATE,
CHEFELO, RHENISH PRUSSIA, Feb. 8, 1881.
I have known PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER almost from the day it was introduced, and after a long experience in observation and use I regard its presence in my household as an indispensable necessity.
A. S. POTTER, U. S. Consul.

BURTON-ON-TRENT, ENG.
I had been several days suffering severely from diarrhœa, accompanied with intense pain, when I tried your PAIN KILLER, and found almost instant relief.
H. J. NOOKE.

21 MONTAGUE ST., LONDON, ENG.
During a residence of twenty-three years in India, I have given it in many cases of diarrhœa, dysentery, and cholera, and never know it to fail to give relief.
R. CLARIDGE.

No family can safely be without this invaluable remedy. Its price brings it within the reach of all.

For sale by all druggists at 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

The President's Wound!

A Parallel Case in Army Life.

In the house of the Philadelphia Record of the 27th of July was published an article relating to the case of Capt. William Palmer, now Quartermaster Second Brigade New Jersey State National Guard, who was wounded at the battle of Money Creek, East Tennessee, in the winter of 1863. In that article the striking resemblance of the case to that of President Garfield, in many particulars, was pointed out, the authority for the statement being the brave captain himself. A still better authority is Dr. David Kennedy, then surgeon U. S. General Hospital, West Philadelphia, who had had charge of the case, and performed the operation of removing the detached bone, and finally extracted the bullet—Capt. Palmer is living to this day, the bloom of health in his face. Dr. Kennedy does not hesitate to say that many of his patients both in military and civil practice owe their lives to the wonderful healing and invigorating powers of his medicine called "Favorite Remedy." The doctor is in possession of an autograph letter from Capt. Palmer, attesting his indebtedness for his present good health to this medicine—"Favorite Remedy"—which he says has doubled the obligation which he felt to the doctor for the treatment of the captain's terrible wound.

While Dr. Kennedy is engaged in the introduction of "Favorite Remedy," he will continue the practice of his profession at Rondout, N. Y., performs all the minor as well as capital operations of surgery. Address as above. tel3

Back Ache

POSITIVELY CURED BY

Benson's Capcine Porous Plasters.

Reasons Why they are Preferred to All Other Porous Plasters or External Remedies:

First.

Because they possess all the merit of the strengthening porous plaster, and contain in addition thereto the newly discovered powerful and active vegetable combination which acts with increased rubefacient, stimulating, sedative and counter irritant effects.

Second.

Because they are a genuine pharmaceutical preparation, and so recognized by the profession.

Third.

Because they are the only plasters that relieve pain at once.

Fourth.

Because they will positively cure diseases which other remedies will not even relieve.

Fifth.

Because over 5000 physicians and druggists have voluntarily testified that they are superior to all other plasters or medicines for external use.

Sixth.

Because the manufacturers have received the only medals ever given for porous plasters.

Naval Gazette.

Ensign C. McR. Winslow has been ordered to duty on the coast survey. Master T. W. Stewart has been detached from the coast survey steamer Gedney, and placed on waiting orders. Midshipman M. V. Bronaugh is detached from the Tennessee, and ordered to the coast survey steamer MacArthur.

Passed Assistant-Engineer James Entwistle is detached from the Palos, Asiatic station, and ordered to the Ashuelot. Passed Assistant-Engineer F. M. Ashton is detached from the Monocacy, and ordered to the Palos.

A naval examining board will meet at the navy department on Saturday next to examine candidates for appointment into the pay corps of the navy. Only four or five will be examined.

Surgeon Edward S. Matthews was found in the street at Providence, R. I., on the night of the 15th inst., suffering from the effects of morphine, taken with suicidal intent. He was taken to the hospital.

"European nations do not ridicule the idea of the United States becoming a naval power. Though the vessels of the American navy are few in number and mostly of obsolete pattern, the world knows that this country has an unusually fine set of officers of undoubted efficiency and bravery. Any nation can build ships, but good officers are not easy to make." These were the words of Commander Mensing, an officer of the German navy. The commander has been sent to this country by his government for the purpose of studying the recent inventions in naval warfare introduced here, and is now in New York.

Reserved Seats.

The right of theatre-goers to take reserved seats without paying the extra fee for them has been brought to issue in San Francisco. A man entered a theatre with an ordinary admission ticket, and seated himself in a chair marked "Reserved." The usher expostulated with him, and offered him other and equally good, but unreserved seats, which he refused. Then the police were called, and the refractory play-goer ejected after a struggle in which a policeman got his eyes blacked and his coat torn. The second act, in the police court next morning, resulted in the imposition of a fine upon the offender, and the enunciation of a judicial opinion that there is nothing in the law to prevent a manager from charging $40 for a seat if he desires, or to graduate the prices of seats according to his ideas of his interest.

The Best Remedy for Chapped Hands

Is Hegeman's Camphor Ice. It should be rubbed upon the part affected. The warmth of the skin will soften it sufficiently, under ordinary circumstances, but in extreme cold weather, it may be necessary to warm it by the fire. If the hands are badly chapped, apply every night, and protect the hands by wearing an old pair of kid gloves. Hegeman's is the best and most popular of all the Camphor Ices made. Hegeman's Camphor Ice is also a cure for sore lips, chapped face, and sunburn. It is compounded with glycerine, which renders it more emollient than any other Camphor Ice; it will be found a most soothing application to the face after shaving.

Fifty thousand dollars of state of Maine bonds became due on the 15th inst., but owing to the refusal of Gov. Plaisted to meet with the council no legal steps could be taken for making payment. To prevent the state bonds from going to protest, Treasurer Holbrook personally made an arrangement with some banks in Boston to advance the $50,000 required to save the credit of the state.

Two Years Ago!

I was a slight to behold, and was unable to enjoy life at all. Now I am a picture of health, and can eat anything. What did it? Sulphur Bitters cured me of dyspepsia and liver complaint, after suffering two years.—W. H. B., Manchester.

Col. Bryson of New York a few days since lost his pocket-book, containing $55,000 in bonds and several hundred dollars in greenbacks, in the cars between Kingston, N. Y., and the Catskills. The book was found and returned by a brakeman named Emmett, to whom Bryson gave $20 and a promise of lucrative employment.

Big Results from Little Causes.

"Do you know?" remarked a man to his friend on Chestnut street, a day or two since, "I believe both Conkling and Platt had a bad case of skin disease when they resigned!" "What makes you think so?" inquired the listener in astonishment. "Well, you see they acted in such an eruptive manner—so rash—ly as it were. Save?" "Oh! yes, I save," replied the other, "they were boil—ing over and merely resigned to humor themselves, I suppose." If such be the case, the National difficulty might have been averted by applying Swayne's Ointment for skin diseases.

Portsmouth Chronicle.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 17, 1881.

[Entered at the Post-Office at Portsmouth, N.H. as second-class matter.]

The President Worse.

Monday was worse than any previous day the President had had. At six o'clock in the evening his pulse was up to 130, temperature 99.6, respiration 22. Frequent vomiting had greatly enfeebled him; Dr. Bliss said that unless the condition of his stomach improved by Tuesday he would die, and Dr. Agnew warned Mrs. Garfield to be prepared for the worst. At 9:30 o'clock the President's pulse was 120, and he was sleeping.

At noon on Tuesday the President's pulse was 114, temperature 98.3, respiration 18. No food could be held on the stomach, and nourishment was administered by enema. The hopes of those who had hitherto been most sanguine faded away, and gloomy telegrams were sent to our ministers in Europe.

WASHINGTON, 16th, 7:00 P. M.

President's symptoms are still grave, yet he seems to have lost no ground during the day, and his condition on the whole is rather better than yesterday. He has vomited but once during the afternoon, and the enemata are retained. Pulse 120, temperature 98.6, respiration eighteen.

Up to one o'clock A. M. on the 17th several despatches were received, similar in tenor to the above, but nothing official or definite.

Joseph C. Eldredge, U. S. N.

Pay-Director Joseph C. Eldredge, on the retired list of the United States navy, who died on Sunday at Brooklyn, was born in New York May 8th, 1818, and was appointed assistant paymaster from Texas on February 2d, 1847. His first three years' service was on the frigate Brandywine and the brig Perry, in the Brazil squadron, under Commodore Jacob Storer. He was then ordered to the brig Porpoise, and served on the coast of Africa, under Commodore F. H. Gregory, until 1852. The following year he joined the frigate Powhatan, and served three years in the East India squadron, under Commodore Perry, participating in the Perry expedition to open the ports and negotiate the first treaty with Japan.

In 1857 and 1858, Captain Eldredge was attached to the Niagara under Captain W. L. Hudson, during the first and second expeditions for laying the Atlantic telegraph cable. From 1858 to 1861 he was inspector of provisions at the New York navy yard. He was then appointed fleet paymaster of the Pacific squadron, and was attached to the Lancaster, under Rear-Admiral Charles H. Bell, until October, 1864. He was on special duty during 1865 at the New York navy yard, and in 1866 was ordered as purchasing paymaster at New York, resuming special duty in 1870 until he was made inspector of provisions the following year. He served in this capacity until he was retired in 1878 with the rank of captain. Since that time he has had no duty.

During his thirty-four years and six months' connection with the navy, Captain Eldredge had eleven years and six months' sea service, eighteen years and six months' shore duty, and was four years and six months unemployed. With the exception of Pay Director Gallick, he was the oldest officer in his corps.

News and Notes.

Father Hennessey, of St. Patrick's church in Jersey City, has begun a crusade against picnics where liquor is sold. This too when everybody has been brought up to consider old Heanessey's brandy as one of the standard drinks of the country. The Catholic priests throughout the country have been advised to warn their people against intemperate indulgences at summer picnics as well as elsewhere.

Patrick McCaffrey was drowned while bathing in the Merrimac river at Lowell, Mass., Sunday. A companion who tried to save him, very nearly lost his life in the attempt. McCaffrey was a young man, and leaves a widow and child. The body was recovered.

Russell Maxfield, Jr., of New Bedford, Mass., while laboring under temperary insanity caused by dissipation, destroyed $900 worth of furniture in his father's house Monday afternoon, splitting it with an axe. Afterward he escaped with a watch and diamond ring valued at $200, which had belonged to his mother, and upon being pursued by the police jumped overboard. The police started after him in a boat, whereupon he emptied his pockets, and the jewelry sank to the bottom. Maxfield was arrested.

Mrs. Erwing Allen of Enfield, Conn., was drowned in Shaker pond in that town on Friday, while rowing with her husband. She fell from the boat and Mr. Allen seized her, but the boat capsized, and he too was thrown into the water. A party of young men put out from the shore and succeeded in getting the drowning people on board, but their boat, too, capsized with the extra weight, and though all reached the land by swimming, taking Mrs. Allen with them, she was then found to be past recovery.

A desperate duel was fought in the Indian nation last week between S. O. Carpenter, a Choctaw chief, and Col. Amos Price, a prominent citizen of the Creek nation. Price was killed, and Carpenter fatally wounded.

George Grover, twenty-five years old, and Willie Griggs, aged twelve, of Dedham, Mass., were drowned in Gloucester harbor on the 15th inst., by the capsizing of a boat. They belonged to a party camping out at Gloucester.

Three dead bodies were picked up in the Hudson river at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Monday. Two of the deceased persons were students, and one a seaman.

Perry Marsh, a veteran of the war of 1812, over eighty-five years old, a resident of Northfield, Vt., was assaulted Monday morning by a stranger on the public square, and robbed of a watch. Capt. William H. Boynton endeavor to arrest the robber, but he drew a revolver, under cover of which he escaped.

The Delaware & Hudson Canal Co. on the 15th inst. issued a circular fixing the price of Lackawanna coal, delivered free on board at Weehawken, as follows: Per ton of 2,240 pounds furnace lump, steamer lump and grate, each, $3.90; egg, $4.05; stove, $4.20; chestnut, $4.10.

It is asserted that Assistant Secretary French of the treasury department has seven members of his family in the government service, whose aggregate annual pay, with his own, is $17,400.

Judge-Advocate-General Swaim has concluded his review of the evidence and verdict in the Whittaker case, and the summing up is now ready for the approval or dissent of the President. Until he has acted in the matter its tenor will remain a subject of conjecture.

It has been ascertained that A. D. Wheelock, the clerk who absconded with $45,000 of the Messrs. Wolcott & Co., of New York city, took passage on steamer Neckar, in company with a woman. He gave his name as D. A. White. He will be arrested on arrival at Southampton, England.

Cost of Funerals.

A young English physician, Dr. Charles W. Purdy, recently delivered an address before the Chicago Medical society in advocacy of cremation, in which he made some striking statements as to the cost of funerals. This argument, if not the strongest which can be urged in favor of cremation, may well be used to strengthen a protest against the wicked and ridiculous extravagance which almost universally characterizes the funerals of the present day. Following are some of the comparisons by which Dr. Purdy sought to show what a burden is laid upon society by the burial of the dead: "One and one-fourth times more money is expended annually in funerals in the United States than the government expends for public school purposes. Funerals cost two and one-half times more money annually than would buy the grounds and buildings of all the universities and colleges in America. The amount of money expended on funerals in the United States, if saved for a fraction over four years, would equal the total sum disbursed by our government for pensions during the last twenty years. Funerals cost this country in 1880 enough money to pay the liabilities of all the commercial failures in the United States during the same year, and give to each bankrupt a capital of $8,630 with which to resume business. Funerals cost annually more money than the value of the combined gold and silver yield of the United States in the year 1880. The population of the Christian world, in round numbers, is about 400,000,000 people, a little less than one-third the population of the entire earth. At the average cost of burying the dead in the United States, the Christian world would expend annually for funerals, $800,000,000, at a safe estimate. Let this annual expenditure of money be saved with the accrued interest at six per cent for a trifle over twenty years, and it would pay off the combined national debts of the world." These figures do not include the enormous sums invested in burial grounds and expended in tombs and monuments, nor the loss from depreciation of property in the vicinity of cemeteries.

An Impulsive Yankee.

There was a vitriol outrage perpetrated on the Boulevard Montmartre, Paris, one night recently, which gave rise to a very amusing incident. "An American, recently arrived in France, who saw Lannois throw the corrosive liquid at Marie Dubois, at once rushed to the spot, protested against Lannois being handed over to the police, and called upon the spectators to assist him in hanging the aggressor to the nearest lamp-post. As no one in the crowd seemed anxious to second this impulse, the American ran into a neighboring shop himself and bought two yards of rope. On his return he found Lannois in the hands of two policemen, to whom he repeated his proposal, and began to make a running noose in the cord. The impetuous Yankee was with difficulty made to understand that the expeditious law of Judge Lynch is not so generally applied in the Paris boulevards as in certain outlying districts of the great republic."

A Fatal Bull-Fight.

A thrilling episode is reported from San Juan de Luz, Spain, as having taken place during a grand bull-fight which came off in that town. Frascuelo, the eminent torreador, had been engaged for the Correo, although scarcely recovered from a wound inflicted upon him by a bull at Pampeluna, a fortnight previously, and entered the ring, his left arm still bandaged and in a sling, amid the enthusiastic plaudits of the public. After the first bull had been subjected to the usual preliminary tortures at the hands of the chulos, picadores, and banderilleros, Frascuelo took up his position in front of the corregidor's box, there to dead the infuriated animal its death blow, estendum artem. As, however, he delivered the mortal thrust with his accustomed grace, the bull caught him under the arm pits and tossed him into the air, trampling upon him when he fell. With great difficulty the banderilleros succeeded in distracting the angry brute's attention from its prostrate foe, who was raised from the ground, still conscious, yet unable to stand without support. As he was being carried out of the ring, the bull made a fierce rush at the bystanders, who had climbed over the barriers, and a scene of indescribable panic ensued, which however was happily terminated by the death of the bull. Transfixed by Frascuelo's blade, it stopped short, close by the barrier, as though stricken by lightning, tottered, fell forward on its knees, and rolled over dead, having avenged its torments by disabling the most skillful and intrepid matador of the peninsula. Frascuelo is still in a desperate state, but little hope being entertained of his recovery.

—In the sensational Wilberforce libel suit, recently brought in a London court, the fair plaintiff asserted, as evidence of her respectability, that her father was a surgeon who had served in the war between the United States and Mexico. The learned presiding justice, Field by name, responded to this bold declaration by solemnly saying: "History makes no mention of such a war."

A Social Stir in West Chester, Pa.

The effect of chance is so curious that the facts connected with other's success are read about with the greatest interest. The event agitating the Quaker borough of West Chester, Pa., is the chance that fell upon Mr. Jesse E. Webb, one of the best known business men, the proprietor of a large jewelry store on Gay st. He was fortunate enough to hold half ticket No. 78,113, the capital prize in the drawing of The Louisiana State Lottery, held at New Orleans on July 12th, winning $15,000. He sent by mail in a registered letter one half ticket addressed to M. A. Dauphin, at No. 212 Broadway, New York City. The next drawing takes place Sept. 13th.

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere. 25 cents a bottle. m,w & s 4y 36eo2

Not an Unusual Event for New Orleans.

In the grand monthly drawing of The Louisiana State Lottery at New Orleans, on July 12th, $30,000, the first capital prize, was won by ticket No. 78,113, half held by Jesse E. Webb, well known jeweler on Gay st., West Chester, Pa., the other half by P. S. Kearney, a journeyman with Warner & Scaife, Washington st., Hoboken, Mass. $10,000, the second prize, by No. 22,847, held by John Benz, No. 7 Hope st., Utica, N. Y., collected through Granzis & Co's Bank (now in liquidation) the third prize, by No. 23,547, half held by Jas. O'Gorman, liquor dealer, No. 30 N. Delaware ave., Philadelphia, the other by J. R. Hendrickson, New York city. $5,000, the fourth, by Nos. 27,455, 48, half by Wm. Scott, S. B. Pond, a well known music dealer, Union Square, M. A. Bowen, care of Richard Morris, No. 106 Front st., New York city, etc. There are among many thousand fortunate ones. The next drawing will be Sept. 13th, and M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La., should be written to at once by any inquirer on that subject who wants to remitre $1 or $2 on the matter.

It is said that the new comet can now be seen near the horizon in the northeast, in early morning hours. In two or three days it will be discernable in the northwest in the evening after twilight.

The steamer Acushnet brought a large freight from Boston on her last trip, as indeed she usually does. Among her return cargo from this city she had 225 barrels of mackerel, shipped by C. Morris Tredick.

Gen. Winfield Scott Hancock passed through this city on Tuesday afternoon, on the White Mountain express train. The directors' car was used by the general and his party of travelling companions.

Mr. B. P. Shillaber is spending his time very pleasantly at Newton Highlands, Mass., and enjoying the first "outing" he has had for a number of months. Monday was the forty-third anniversary of his marriage, and his entire family, with one exception, helped him celebrate it.

Mr. William Nason, of Sturgeon creek, Eliot, brought three lady passengers down the river in his gondola, Tuesday. The gondola went in to Plaisted's wharf, and Mr. Nason took the ladies in a dory to carry them to the city landing stage, but the dory caught under the gondola's guard, and filled with water. A serious accident was quite possible, but owing to Mr. Nason's coolness and good management the ladies escaped with only a wetting.

The Portsmouth Steam Laundry has secured the services of Mr. William Campbell, from Troy, N. Y., an experienced laundryman who has for several years been foreman of an extensive custom laundry at Troy, and who is claimed to be a perfect master of the business. The work at the laundry will be under his exclusive control, and the result of his efforts we are assured cannot fail to satisfy the most fastidious patron of the establishment, both as to manner and expeditiousness of the work.

Pumping was recommenced at the Eastern railroad well on Tuesday afternoon, a new boiler and pump having been put in. The boiler is much larger than the old one; the pump is a Deane deep-well pump, with a ten-inch cylinder and two-foot stroke, lifting about sixty gallons of water a minute from a depth of 270 feet, the lower box of the pump being that distance down; it is a splendid machine. The water from the old well, and from a seam some distance below it, is effectually shut off from the pump.

The steam tug Ann last week towed thirty-four vessels to various points up or down the river.

The Lancaster's engines were running on Tuesday, and worked satisfactorily in every particular.

Mr. D. F. Stoddard lost a horse Monday. It had been overdriven, and died in the afternoon, a few hours after getting into the stable.—Times.

Messrs. William Stimpson and Charles Burroughs, formerly residents of this city and members of the Marine band, are spending a few days in town.

The schooner Hattie Lewis, Garland master, which arrived from Boston on Monday, sailed for that port on Tuesday with a cargo of bricks from one of the up river brickyards.

The new self-tipping coal tub for use in discharging vessels was put in operation at the Concord railroad wharf on Monday, but did not work satisfactorily, owing it is said to the guides not being rigid enough. Men were at work on Tuesday to remedy this defect.

Three or four tents, each sheltering a party of campers-out, are pitched in the small field next Fort Constitution; a big tent, inhabited by quite a lot of young men, is pitched on the beach a short distance to the southward; and several tents occupy positions in the beautiful oak grove at Sagamore creek.

In the item regarding the coroner's inquest upon the death of John Erb, in the CHRONICLE of Monday morning, two lines of type were inadvertently left in the "stick." The piece should have ended thus: "The dose of medicine administered by Dr. Potter was as follows: Twenty-five drops of Magendie's solution of morphine, and five drops of aconite."

Two hundred and sixty teams, by actual count, passed over the beach road between the Farragut house and Little Boar's Head, Rye, on Sunday last. The boarders at the Farragut and Little Boar's Head have had a plank walk laid between their resorts, for their own convenience and at their own expense, the hotel pgoprietors and boarding-house keepers it is alleged feeling too poor to contribute for the purpose.

On Monday evening about six o'clock, as a boy named Daniel Wiggin, aged nine years, was leading a horse from the water at Winnicut creek, Stratham, the animal stopped to graze, and the lad jerked the halter, when the horse suddenly wheeled and kicked, striking the boy in the temple, crushing in the skull. Doctors Perry of Exeter and Odell of Stratham were called, but gave no hope of saving the boy's life.

A waiter boy, carrying a tray on his shoulders, accidentally struck it against a lady's head and nearly knocked her hat off. "The deuce take the tray," cried the lady in a passion. "Madam," said the boy gravely, "the deuce can't take the tray." He had played his social games of cards for many a long summer's day in the cool rooms at Appledore, and according to the established rules of the game he was quite right.

On Thursday afternoon, the 18th inst., a series of sporting events will come off at the Wentworth, Newcastle, the occasion being the second annual testimonial tendered by the management and guests of the house to Mr. John J. Braham, the musical director. The sports will commence at two o'clock sharp, and will include running race, walking match, sack race, three-legged race, tub race, swimming match, pair-oared working boat race, dory race, cat-rigged boat race, tug of war, and greased pig chase. The steamer James Sampson will run between this city and the Wentworth that afternoon.

Geo. F. Mosher of Dover, the long time editor of the Morning Star, goes to Nice, France, Sept. 1st, to act as United States consul at that port. The pay is fifteen hunnred dollars a year, and it is one of the most expensive consular positions, proportionate to the salary, which our countrymen are called upon to fill, as large numbers of travellers from the United States, with officers of the navy and their families, are apt to sojourn at Nice in the winter, and in some degree at least the consul is expected to maintain the honor of the flag by his hospitality. Consuls at that place should have an income available above their salary.

SHALL A DOCTOR BE CORONER?

The finding of the late coroner's inquest in the case of John Erb, in which it is stated that he came to his death by reason of an excessive dose of morphine administered by Dr. Potter, the dose being twenty-five drops of Magendie's solution of morphine, equivalent to three-eighths of a grain,—a dose moderate in itself and too small to be the cause of death of anyone—compels us to pause and reflect, that as the finding is not borne out by the cause assigned, what the cause of that finding really is. We think it is found in professional rivalry, malice, and envy. There seems to have been no evidence before the inquest as to what constituted an excessive dose of morphine, and the verdict was evidently evolved from the brain of the Dr. Coroner. That the verdict was to be found was the talk of the Dr. Coroner's friends before the post mortem was made and before there was any evidence that any morphine whatever had been administered. The inquest states that he was killed by morphine, and that his death was hastened by intemperate habits, placing the lesser above the greater. Suppressing the fact that Mr. Erb had been sick for weeks, with complete loss of appetite, vomiting of food, and spitting a dirty mucous, cause by excessive abuse of alcoholic drinks; that for seven days and nights previous to his death he had not slept at all, and that he died in the manner that all such cases die, whether medicine be given or not. In the light of the foregoing, in the name of justice, we demand that other than a physician be appointed coroner, to the end that the law be administered with impartiality, and that the public money not be used to further personal ends to the injury of others.

GRAND BOAT-RACE.

Our citizens are to be treated this (Wednesday) evening at 6:45 o'clock by a grand rowing regatta, the course being from Railroad wharf around the stone beacon and return, seven boats contesting, each being manned by employes of the Portsmouth shoe factory, as follows:

No. 1 boat, Samuel Osgood and Eugene Sullivan, of the Sole Leather room;

No. 2, Jos. W. Peach and F. W. Danielson, Finishing room;

No. 3, H. Fernald and W. Danielson, Finishing room;

No. 4, Harry Kimball and William Kelley, Finishing room;

No. 5, Daniel Casey and Wm. McAvoy, Making room;

No. 6, F. Philpot and L. Gerard, Making room;

No. 7, Wm. Chase and F. Rollins, Cutting room;

With Messrs. J. Merrill, L. Trask, and C. Dennett as judges, and Mr. Adolph Girard as referee.

The three principal prizes, the money for which was contributed by workmen at the factory, can be seen in Hutchinson's window.

The last boat in at the finish is to provide an oyster supper for all the contestants, the judges and the referee.

It is said that since June 1st one hundred and one "houses" have been built at different points along the line of the Orchard Beach railway, and that all of them are now occupied.

The trustees of the York County Agricultural society have voted to hold the fair for the coming season Sept. 27th, 28th, and 29th. The cattle show will probably be held in Biddeford, but the arrangements are not yet completed.

The yacht "Morning Star," of Newburyport, with Daniel J. Spinney of this city and a party of friends from Newburyport, touched at Gerrish's island, Kittery, on Sunday, having made the run across the bay in two hours. Several parties from this city are camping out at Sea point, Gerrish's island.

The Dover Republican's correspondent at Old Orchard beach appears to be displeased with two of the institutions of that place. In a recent report he says: "The beach hotels are doing a lively business. The Old Orchard is the last of the inland houses to show signs of departing popularity. The location of this hotel is so far from the beach, its management so miserly and its landlord so widely disliked, that we do not hesitate to predict a rapid decline of its patronage.——The Old Orchard Branch railway, built and owned, it is said, by the Eastern railroad, does not take well, and gives but little promise of becoming a paying investment. The new depot is its only redeeming feature."

New Hampshire Items.

Lancaster has a new sensation concerning the Towne-Bugbee poisoning affair. The authorities have announced their determination to have the bodies of Mrs. Bugbee, Hattie Bugbee and Hannah Regan, the servant girl, exhumed, and an analysis of the contents of the internal organs made at the same time as that upon Dr. Bugbee and Mrs. Towne, which will be completed the present week. It will be recollected that their cases were pronounced genuine diphtheria, but this action of the authorities is supposed to indicate a suspicion that they were poisoned.

A Concord despatch of the 15th says: "It is understood that Gen. Hancock has written a letter declining to be present at the veterans' reunion at the Weirs, on account of the president's condition.

Horace F. Totman, head clerk in Chapin's drug store at Boston, was drowned near the Profile house a few days ago. He started for the Franconia mountains, with four young women, and went down to the "Basin" for a drink, where he was found drowned soon after.

The Boston, Concord & Montreal railroad is having six of its thirty-five wood burning locomotives changed into coal burners, and some have already made their appearance. Large coal bins have been built at Plymouth, at Lake Village, Woodsville and other regular wood and water stations, for that purpose, and have been supplied with the usual quantity of coal used. A growing scarcity of wood has induced the change.

The widow of Jacob Leavitt, eighty-five years old, died recently in Campton from the effects of a fall. She was buried at Gilford, her native place.

The shoe manufactory of Wm. L. Bradford, Jr., at Salem Depot, was destroyed by fire early Friday morning, the 12th inst. It originated in the engine room, and broke out not long after the engineer started up. Loss nearly $25,000. One hundred hands were employed in the establishment.

Ignatius W. Fellows, seventy-five years old, of Hopkinton, fell from the great beams in his barn, Aug. 14th, and was seriously and perhaps fatally hurt. He had a similar fall a few years ago, and was then maimed for life.

A plan has been proposed for tunneling the base of Mt. Washington to the centre, and then sinking a shaft from the summit. Tourists can then reach the top by means of an elevator in a much shorter time, and with less expense and danger than now. This is what the item now going the rounds of the state press says, but the railroad people need not be seriously alarmed.

Reports from President, Pa., say that three children belonging to a family there died on the 10th inst., under peculiar circumstances. Two of them were playing in the yard were bitten by snakes. Their mother, going to their assistance, left a kettle of boiling water on the floor, and the third child fell into it. All the mishaps resulted fatally.

"Stubbs, did you ever see a phonograph?" "Yes; and it was saying, take Adamson's Botanic Balsam for coughs, colds and asthma."

Miss Clara Louise Kellogg has concluded an arrangement for the coming season. She will give a series of concerts commencing September 10th, in Chicago, supported by a company which, it is said, will be of a high order of excellence. Miss Kellogg will sing four times a week, and receive $500 a concert.

Mosher and Fuller, the captain and supercargo of the barque "Western Sea," have been arraigned at Machias, Me., on a charge of conspiracy to defraud, and held in heavy bonds for their appearance.

And give a bitterness to life,
Making the cheek with anguish pale,
Amid the fierce internal strife;
Then Sanford's Ginger soothes the pain,
And smiling Health looks up again.

How Long Would it take to Count two Millions?

Over two million volumes of the revised edition of the New Testament, were sold on the first day of its issue. These figures can only be equaled by the enormous sales of Swayne's Ointment for Itching piles, which is universally used as a standard remedy for stopping the itching at night, when one thinks that pin worms are crawling about the rectum. To calculate the extent of its sale in actual figures, would involve the labor of a lifetime. Will you be pestered longer from the aggravating piles?

The President's Wound!

A Parallel Case in Army Life.

In the issue of the Philadelphia Record of the 27th of July was published an article relating to the case of Capt. William Palmer, now Quartermaster Second Brigade New Jersey State National Guard, who was wounded at the house of Mossy Creek, East Tennessee, in the winter of 1863. In that article the striking resemblance of the case to that of President Garfield, in many particulars, was pointed out, the authority for the statement being the brave captain, himself. A still better authority is Dr. David Kennedy, then surgeon U. S. General Hospital, West Philadelphia, who had charge of the case, and performed the operation of removing the detached bone, and finally extracted the bullet—Capt. Palmer is living to this day in the bloom of health. Dr. Kennedy does not hesitate to say that many of his patients both in military and civil practice owe their lives to the wonderful healing and strengthening powers of his medicine called "Favorite Remedy." The doctor is in possession of an autograph letter from Capt. Palmer, attesting his indebtedness for his present good health to this medicine—"Favorite Remedy"—which he says has doubled the obligation which he felt to the doctor for the treatment of the captain's terrible wound.

While Dr. Kennedy is engaged in the introduction of "Favorite Remedy," he still continue the practice of his profession at Rondout, N. Y., performs all the minor as well as capital operations of surgery. Address as above. tu12

POSITIVELY CURED BY

Benson's Capcine Porous Plasters.

Reasons Why they are Preferred to All Other Porous Plasters or External Remedies:

First.

Because they possess all the merit of the strengthening porous plaster, and contain in addition thereto the newly discovered powerful and active vegetable combination which acts with increased rubefacient, stimulating, sedative and counter irritant effects.

Second.

Because they are a genuine pharmaceutical preparation, and so recognized by the profession.

Third.

Because they are the only plasters that relieve pain at once.

Fourth.

Because they will positively cure diseases which other remedies will not even relieve.

Fifth.

Because over 5000 physicians and druggists have voluntarily testified that they are superior to all other plasters or medicines for external use.

Sixth.

Because the manufacturers have received the only medals ever given for porous plasters.

Daily Chronicle.

A Noiseless Battle.

There are struggles for life in the vegetable world as well as among animals. In the woods near Waltham, Mass., was a certain young birch, at the roots of which there sprang five years ago a bittersweet vine. During 1876 the vine wrapped itself in eight twines around the birch; the latter apparently finding itself uncomfortable, and thinking that hugging to death was a game that two could play at, began to throw out wood around the vine. In 1877 and '78 part of the vine was killed by the birch wood that had bulged out around it, but the vine sent out a long shoot which ran up above the dead parts, and again grappled the birch. Last summer Rev. Dr. Thomas Hill, who related the circumstances before the Natural History society of Portland, Me., thought he would take part in the fight. Drawing his knife, he made peace between vine and tree by cutting them down and taking them home as a curiosity.

—The late Governor Bagley, of Michigan, made in his will one provision, the good sense of which deserves recognition. Although he left an estate valued at $600,000, he directed that the family monument to be erected on his burial lot should cost no more than $500. This is worthy to be noted in these days of posthumous pretension.

—As a train was approaching Cleveland it parted in the middle, and the signal-rope snapped off like a thread, the end of it striking an old gentleman on his hat. "Oh, the train's broke in two," replied a lady who sat in the same seat. "I should say so," the old man said, looking at the broken cord: "did they s'pose a little bit of a string like that would hold the cars together?"

—The commissioner of Benton Park, St. Louis, officially reports that one of the two alligators kept there was sunstruck on one of the recent hot days. No other case of the kind is on record. The alligator turned over on his back and popped out his eyes, and showed other unmistakable symptoms of sunstroke. The park-keeper says it was a clear case. He had neither ice nor ice-water with him, and it was a bad case, one that required immediate treatment. He pulled out his brandy bottle, and gave Mr. Alligator a big dram. The effect was wonderful. The patient flopped over on his belly again, and swam off seemingly happy.

Centaur Liniment.

Invaluable to families, and owners of horses. Sold everywhere.

On Saturday, Aug. 13th, the fog gun on Bird rocks, near Quebec, exploded the stock of powder at the station, destroying the sheds and killing outright Mr. Chiasson, the keeper, his son, and an assistant.

Castoria.

For sour stomach, constipation, and fretfulness of children. Pleasant, safe and cheap. 900 drops; 35 doses, 35 cents.

All the brewers in St. Louis have restored the price of beer to $8 per barrel. They also entered into a protective union and adopted the rules of the Chicago Brewers' association.

Ash-Tonic;

A perfected purifyer of the system. In 1-2lb. bottles; 75 cents. For dyspepsia, the many forms of liver complaint, impure and impoverished blood, and functional derangements attendant upon debility. For symptons indicated by indigestion, loss of appetite, nausea, sick headache, sour stomach, furred tongue, drowsiness, blanched lips, sallow complexion, pain in the side or back, eruptions, depression of spirits, nervous irritability and hysteria, and for building up the system, ash-tonic is unquestionably the most prompt and energetic remedy yet devised.

Patsy Early, a sixteen-years-old hoodlum of St. Louis, is under arrest for the murder of Wm. E. Landerman. Four other young hoodlums are under arrest as accessories.

Wicked for Clergymen.

Rev. ——, Washington, D. C., writes: "I believe it to be all wrong and even wicked for clergymen or other public men to be led into giving testimonials to quack doctors or vile stuffs called medicines, but when a really meritorious article made of valuable remedies known to all, that all physicians use and trust in daily, we should freely commend it. I therefore cheerfully and heartily commend Hop Bitters for the good they have done me and my friends, firmly believing they have no equal for family use. I will not be without them."—New York Baptist Weekly.

John Carlton, aged twenty-four years, residing on a farm at East Sandwich, Mass., recently accidentally exploded a loaded shotgun shell in his left hand, blowing out the muscles and fleshy part of the underside of the hand.

How Long Would it take to Count two Millions?

Over two million volumes of the revised edition of the New Testament, were sold on the first day of its issue. These figures can only be equaled by the enormous sales of Swayne's Ointment for Itching piles, which is universally used as a standard remedy for stopping the itching at night, when one thinks that pin worms are crawling about the rectum. To calculate the extent of its sale in actual figures, would involve the labor of a lifetime. Will you be pestered longer from the aggravating piles?

Portsmouth Chronicle.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 18, 1881.

[Entered at the Post-Office at Portsmouth, N. H. as second-class matter.]

The President.

The President's condition on the 17th was reported better than on the previous day. Very small quantities of an infusion of beef were given him several times, and his stomach retained it. The despondent feeling in Washington was considerably lightened by the reports.

New Hampshire Legislature.

On Tuesday, the 16th inst., the house did considerable business in the forenoon; but in the afternoon there was no quorum present at 2:30 o'clock, and the speaker declared the house adjourned to the next morning at nine.

On the 27th the house met promptly at nine, the sharp lesson given by the speaker having evidently been of service; and nearly all the business of importance before the house was disposed of.

The bill in relation to minority representation was indefinitely postponed, by 186 yeas to 45 nays.

The savings bank taxation bill was referred to the next legislature.

"Gen. Marston's excise law" was amended, and passed to its third reading.

The bill relating to purity of elections was passed under suspension of the rules, by 201 yeas to 66 nays. This bill had been materially changed since it came from the judiciary committee; as passed by the house, instead of one person being able to challenge all the voters of a ward or town, the bill requires three reputable voters to put their challenge in writing before the moderator can consider it. Many members seemed to question the right of the moderator to refuse the vote of any person whose name is on the checklist.

News and Notes.

The Massachusetts people talk of biennial sessions in their legislature. If the people of the time honored commonwealth want their legislature to be in session all the time, instead of half the time as now, it would be well to adopt the biennial system.

Tidings from the revenue steamer Corwin, in the Arctic ocean, up to July 9th, show that Lieutenant Herring's sledge party have found relics, undoubtedly of the lost whaler Vigilant, and were led to believe that the wreck took place as far back as 1879. There are grave apprehensions that another ship has been lost in the ice this season, casks of oil that have not been long in the water having been seen floating around. The Corwin has gone to Wrangel land.

George Platt, postmaster of Plattsville, Conn., on the 16th inst. crossed the land of a neighbor named George Burr. The latter ordered Platt to stop, which he refused to do, when Burr aimed a double-barrelled shotgun at him and snapped it three times; the gun went off at the third attempt, and Platt's left arm was shattered with buckshot. Both men are wealthy and well connected. Burr will have to answer to a charge of attempt at murder.

Judge Foster of the postal department, and Sheriff Wolfe of Austin, Texas, have arrested Charles Day and Albert Black, two of three highwaymen who robbed two stages between Austin and Fredericksburg on the night of the 6th. The third man, Jack Harris, made a desperate resistance, and was shot through the body and left lung, and is at Lampasas in a precarious condition. Harris is from New York, and was one of "Billy the Kid's" most trusted followers. About half of the stolen money was recovered. A preliminary trial was had at Lampasas and each highwayman put under $15,000 bonds, in default of which Day and Black were taken to Austin for confinement.

Henry W. Howgate, disbursing officer of the United States signal service, was arrested at Mount Clemens, Mich., Aug. 15th, on a charge of embezzling $40,000 of government funds, by means of fraudulent vouchers. He waived a preliminary hearing, and left for Washington in charge of an officer. He says he can satisfactorily explain the seeming discrepancy in his accounts.

Three small boys living in the northern part of Fall River, Mass., went berrying on the 15th inst., and picked and ate some berries known as Peru. All were poisoned, one—Thomas Duchern—fatally. The other two recovered.

Quite a scene occurred in the French Catholic church at Holyoke, Mass., during service on the 15th inst., when Father Duffern ordered a woman with whom he had previously had trouble, to leave the church. She refused to go, and he, with the help of others, ejected her in the presence of a large audience. Father Duffern is the same priest who was compelled by the courts to pay a heavy judgment some time since for attempting to break up the business of a hackman, with whom he had quarreled, by commanding his people not to patronize him.

George Strowhon and John Kerry of Gloucester, Mass., were lost in the fog from the fishing schooner George S. Boutwell, Aug. 1st. After eighteen hours' exposure without food or drink, they were picked up by the steamship Wilton, of and for Hartlepool, Eng. The captain of the Wilton went ten miles out of his course to put them on board their vessel.

Schooner Victor, at Gloucester, Mass., on the 16th, from the Western banks, reports the loss of one of her crew, George Sedgwick, brother of Captain Sedgwick. He and a companion were returning from a visit to their trawls, when their dory was capsized. His companion got upon the bottom of the dory, and Sedgwick kept afloat with an oar under his breast, and had just reached the dory and been taken behind his companion when a huge shark came along and seized him, and he disappeared. He was a native of Prince Edward Island, about thirty-six years of age, and unmarried.

Guiteau and one of his guards had a tussle on the 17th, during which the guard's gun went off accidentally, but unfortunately did not hurt Guiteau.

Many regard Mrs. Mellville Patterson, daughter of Hon. Elbridge Gerry of Portland, as the most beautiful lady tourist in Bar Harbor, Mt. Desert. She comes from Baltimore, and is a guest at Rodick's.—Boston Post.

The President's Letter.

The following is the letter written by President Garfield on the 11th inst., —the only one written by him since he was shot —to his mother:

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 11, 1881.

Dear Mother: Don't be disturbed by conflicting reports about my condition. It is true I am still weak and on my back; but I am gaining every day and need only time and patience to bring me through.

Give my love to all the relatives and friends, and especially to sisters Hitty and Mary. Your loving son,

JAMES A. GARFIELD.

Mrs. Eliza Garfield, Hiram, Ohio.

Naval Gazette.

Surgeon Edward S. Matthews died in the hospital at Providence, R. I., on the 16th inst., from an over dose of morphine probably taken through carelessness.

New Hampshire Items.

In the Manchester police court, on the 16th inst., there were twenty-five cases heard, for drunkenness, assaults, resisting officers, etc., and the fines and costs amounted to $204.28.

James T. Hazelton of Goffstown was examining a small revolver on the 13th inst., when one chamber was accidentally discharged, the bullet going through the palm of his left hand.

A large deer came into a piece of oats belonging to J. K. Owens at Stewartstown recently, and took a meal in daylight. Several others have been seen, and many pieces of grain show their work.

Mrs. Hannah Cox of Plymouth, 105 years old June 25th, said to be the oldest person in New England, is slowly sinking, and death is not far distant.

The Grafton County Fair association has decided to omit its annual fair the last week in September, on account of the state fair at Laconia the week previous.

Volcano in Idaho.

Despatches from Lewiston, Idaho territory, say that "a volcanic eruption took place inside of the mountain south of the fork of the Clearwater, about twenty miles east of Mount Idaho, Tuesday, the 9th inst., sending forth a column of fire and smoke several hundred feet in height, and rocks which fell at a distance of several miles from the place of eruption. The shock was distinctly felt at Mount Idaho, on the extreme west of Campas prairie, and at the mouth of Salmon river, a distance of about seventy-five miles. Later news from Campas prairie reports that a column of smoke is issuing from the opening which is distinctly visible from the prairie. No one as yet has approached the place. Evidences of volcanic action at some former period, exist in many places in the immediate vicinity. So far as appears, the mountain is less than 1,000 feet above the south fork of the Clearwater, and within three miles of the Miner trail, between Mount Idaho and Florence."

The "International Review" for September has eight articles of interest and value, some of which at least ought not to escape the careful attention of students of American affairs, while all are important in the sphere of discussion to which they pertain. Alexander Bliss writes upon "Naturalization," a theme rapidly assuming proportions of vital interest, in view of the great stream of emigrants constantly arriving in this country. Wm. J. Armstrong contributes a very readable sketch of "Spain of To-day," which gives a good idea of the political progress of that land since Queen Isabella abdicated the throne in 1868. John Codman writes of "Mormonism." "The Difficulties of Prison Reform" are treated by A. S. Meyrick, who has made the subject a special study for years, and knows how to tell what he has learned in an explicit and entertaining manner. Henry C. Adams discusses the "Payment of Public Debts," and concludes that future issues of bonds should be so drawn that the government will have full control over them, and a sufficient amount be each year redeemable to consume the treasury surplus devoted to debt-payment. "The Endowment of Colleges," by Rev. Chas. F. Thwing, gives some very interesting facts relative to the value of college property and productive funds, income, scholarship endowments, etc. "Baron Bettino Ricasoli," the Italian statesman, one of Victor Emanuel's staunchest supporters, is made the subject of a critical and biographical sketch by Wm. Chauncy Langdon. The number closes with the first installment of a series of studies of "Victor Hugo," by Auguste Laugel. Published by A. S. Barnes & Co., New York, at $5.00 per year.

—The greasy coating on metallic pistol cartridges is not, as many suppose, an animal product, although in appearance it resembles tallow; it is a vegetable growth, and is known as Japanese wax. The Japanese wax tree is very remarkable, not unlike a sumac, and it is from one of the same species that the varnish so largely used in Japanese lacquer ware is manufactured.

Capt. John H. Coggins succeeds Capt. Laughton in command of the schooner Clytie, the latter going home to Pembroke on a visit. The Clytie will leave to-day for Baltimore, for a freight; she carries 776 tons of coal, and has made three trips from Baltimore to this port the present season.

The North church is the only church which pays a tax in this city, the valuation of the others falling below $10,000. —Times.

This is not correct. The North Parish edifice is valued at $12,100, exempted $10,000, and taxed on $2100; the South Parish edifice is valued at $13,000, exempted $10,000, and taxed on $3000.

The Concord correspondent of the Manchester Mirror; in the course of a series of pen-sketches of the members of the senate, says: "Senator Treat represents the Portsmouth district, and is a dealer in grave-stones and other post-mortem furniture, which made his nomination as the democratic candidate for mayor in Portsmouth, the other day, a very fit one, though it didn't fit the voters. He don't make much noise in the senate, but counts when the roll is called."

The tug Ann took a string of four loaded schooners down river on Wednesday forenoon.

The Portsmouth Cavalry, Capt. E. D. Coffin commanding, will go into camp at Greenland on the 27th of September, the camp-out to last four days.

The schooner Rover's Bride came into port on Wednesday of this week with ninety-one barrels of mackerel. The schooner Christie Campbell sailed for Gloucester on the same day, with her fare of 90,000 lbs. of cod-fish.

The steam saw mill on the timber lot of Demeritt & Burnham, in Durham, owned and run by Edward Laminault, was burned about three o'clock in the morning on the 16th inst.; loss $2,500; no insurance. Another mill will be erected at once, and Messrs. Demeritt & Burnham will resume their lumber business in about two weeks.

The boat race on Wednesday evening attracted many hundred persons to the wharves along the line of the course, and every boat or barge that could be hired or borrowed was filled with interested spectators of the lively scene. The contestants were a little late getting into line, it being a quarter past seven o'clock when the word "Go" was given by the starter, Mr. Jos. Merrill, foreman of the stockroom at the shoe factory. But four boats appeared in the race, it being said that the other entries could not get suitable boats for racing. It was a pretty race, however, and hotly contested by Messrs. Kimball and Kelly in the "Dart," Peach and Danielson in the "Fawn," Casey and [illegible] y in the "No Name," and Osgood and Sullivan in the "Wave," the boats arriving at the finish in the order given, amid the plandits of the spectators. After the contest was decided a match race was arranged between two crews, viz: W. Danielson and H. Fernald of the finishing room, and Fred Rollins and Willis Chase of the cutting room, for a stake of $10 a side, the race to be pulled at high water slack, Wednesday, the 24th inst.

TO THE PUBLIC.

A certain card published in the daily papers bearing the signature of "F. E. Potter, M. D.," seeks to throw discredit on the verdict of the coroner's jury officially called in the case of one of his patient, that being made the ostensible excuse for an uncalled for thrust at myself, that "It was evidently evolved from the brain of the Dr. Coroner." Under such circumstances a protest might have been expected, but Dr. Potter's course in assailing coroner, witnesses and jury, in such an acrimonious manner, would convince almost any person that his better sense was not consulted in the matter.

While it must be admitted that all physicians might not agree upon minor points of medical juris prudence, it would hardly be proper to doubt so unanimous a conclusion as was arrived at by the medical witnesses in this case. It will also give weight to this statment—when it is known that the testimony of Mr. Joseph H. Thacher of our city, a skilled pharmacist and chemist, is entirely corroborative of the medical evidence, Dr. Potter says:

There seems to have been no evidence before the inquest as to what constituted an excessive dose of morphine.

In refutation of this statement, I beg to submit the testimony of Joseph H. Thacher, sworn: Reside in Portsmouth, N. H. Am an apothecary; have been in business as such thirty-five years.

Ques. Do you know the composition or Magendie's solution of morphia? If so, please state to the same to the jury.

Ans. It is a solution of morphia two grains in a drachm.

Ques. What is generally considered a dose of morphia?

Ans. One-eighth of a grain, or one-sixth of a grain.

Ques. What number of drops is contained in a drachm of this solution on an average?

Ans. The average of ten (10) different trials with the same vial I have found to be thirty-three drops; with another vial the average was 27.1 drops; with a third vial the average was 40 1-3 drops; both the last named vials were also tried ten times each. Average 33 to 34 drops.

Ques. If a prescription for one ounce of Magendie's solution of morphia, with directions "25 drops to be given at one dose," should be presented at your store, what course should you pursue in relation to it?

Ans. I should tell the purchaser it would require some time for its preparation, and either go myself or send my clerk to the physician who wrote the prescription, for instructions.

Ques. Why would you do so?

Ans. Because I should not be justified in putting up a prescription which I considered dangerous.

Ques. Do you consider 25 drops of Magendie's solution to be an average dose?

Ans. I do not.

Ques. Is it a large or a small dose?

Ans. It is a large dose.

Ques. Is it a dangerous dose?

Ans. I should consider it as such.

Ques. Will you state to the jury how many drops would be an ordinary dose?

Ans. For an adult an ordinary dose would be from five (5) drops to ten (10) drops.

Ans. Anywhere from 3-4 of a grain to 2 grains.

Ques. How much morphia in 33 drops of this solution?

Ans. It would average two grains.

JOSEPH H. THACHER.

In order that too much space may not be occupied by reiteration, it is sufficient to say here that the evidence of four physicians was unanimous in corroboration of the above, and conclusive as to the effects of the prescribed dose of morphia.

In order that the public may understand that I had no motive in holding an inquest and that it did not take place in order to gratify "professional rivalry, malice and envy," I have to say that upon the application of Hon. Marcellus Eldredge, I declined to hold an inquest, and not until ordered by the mayor did I entertain any such intention; nor should I have permitted an autopsy but for the earnest solicitation of Mr. Erb's brother the day following. The mayor's order is herewith appended:

CITY OF PORTSMOUTH, N. H.
MAYOR'S OFFICE, Aug. 9, 1881.

SAMUEL C. WHITTIER, M. D., Coroner, City.

Sir: You are hereby ordered to hold an inquest on the body of the late John Erb, dead this day.

WILLIAM H. SISE, Mayor.

Dr. Potter closes his remarks by demanding a change of coroner "in the name of justice," in order to secure impartial administration of the law, and economy of public money. This is a little unreasonable, as such amount of justice as is at present available has already been obtained through this same coroner. Whether Dr. Potter can invoke the blind goddess to any better advantage, is an open question.

I shall rejoice with the gentleman to discover any method by which the law may secure a more efficient officer than myself, and, too, at a smaller fee than one dollar and fifty cents, which is the extent of the coroner's personal demand upon "the public money" for any one inquest. I have filed away Dr. Potter's sneed as an excellent specimen of what he so aptly and boldly terms "professional rivalry, malice and envy."

S. C. WHITTIER, Coroner.

A ten-years-old son of James Littlefield, of Old Orchard beach, jumped from a train as it entered the camp-ground station Tuesday forenoon, struck his head against a post, and died in a few minutes.

Hon. Edward H. Gove, once a prominent young republican of Maine, then a prominent greenbacker, then a republican again, and recently a farmer of Groton, Mass., has decided to return to Maine, and will reside in Biddeford.

Mrs. Guitteau, wife of the brother of the assassin of President Garfield, was in attendance upon the recent faith convention at Old Orchard. She is a pleasant appearing lady, an active Christian worker, and concurs in the published reports concerning the bad character and antecedents of her brother-in-law.

Lady Artists on a Lark in Maine.

Life had quickly settled into regularity. Every morning sketch-books and easels, paint-boxes and palettes, came out; the girls broke up into groups of two or three, and started out in various ways to work. Not a picturesque but had sketchers encamped about it: a dilapidated set of bars, the scorn of cows but the delight of an artist; a pile of rocks in an orchard, the thorn in the flesh to a farmer, who stared open-eyed to find it attractive to somebody; a path through the woods; or a luxuriant group of tall ferns. The neighborhood was an unworked mine of wealth. One could not turn in any direction without seeing a charming spot that she longed to carry away with her, and the only regret of the enthusiastic students was that each one had not two pairs of hands to work with. Dinner brought them all home, and then came criticism, comparison, and much pleasant talk over canvas and paper, ending—in the Larks' Nest—in nailing the studies to the wall, and making ready for the day's work.

Before long some of the daily needs of girlish humanity became pressing, and a party was made up to visit the "store" of the neighborhood—a barn-like place, with drugs and dress goods, hardware and groceries, all in one room.

"Have you straw hats?" asked the first girl.

The clerk was sorry, but they were out of hats.

"What? no hats?" in a chorus from the party, who had been seized with an ambition for broad-rim hats.

"I should like some shoe-buttons," began the second.

These, alas! they never kept.

"What! no shoe-buttons?" in one breath again.

"Please show me some ribbons," spoke up the third.

The clerk regretted to say that ribbons were not in stock.

"What! no ribbons?" cried the chorus, in dismay.

"Writing-paper, if you please," cried the fourth, sure that she at least could supply her wants.

The clerk was embarrassed. He began to have a horror of the chorus, and hesitated whether he had better slip out of a back door, and let his inquisitors find out for themselves his stock, or whether he had better laugh. He decided on the latter just in time, for Peggy began:

"I want some rye flour for sunburn."

The man shook his head.

"What! no rye flour?"

Clip had been looking about, and seeing potatoes, a thought struck her. "I say, girls," she began, in eager whispers, "now we're out here in the woods, and no callers, we might eat—onions!"

"Onions! onions!" whispered one and another. "Delightful! so we will!"

"I love onions," cried Clip; and, turning to the amused shop-keeper, added, "Please send us a bushel."

The man laughed, but again he shook his head.

"What! no onions? Oh!" and, thoroughly disgusted with the country store, the party went out in search of another. After that, whenever in their rambles, which extended for many miles around, they came near to a store, they invariably went in and asked for those articles, expressing their surprise in chorus as at first, and always ending with the demand for onions, which, by-the-way, they were never able to get in that land of farms and gardens, though Mrs. Duncan offered to send to Portland for them.—OLIVE THORNE MILLER, in Harper's Magazine for September.

BITTERS

—A young man in Litchfield, Conn., who has been in the habit of carrying his smoking-tobacco and pistol-cartridges loose in one pocket, has reformed, and in time to save the larger part of what was once as handsome a nose as could be found in Litchfield.

—A policeman in the Central police station of Philadelphia had just finished combing and dressing his hair in a recent thunder storm, when the electricity soon unmade it by drawing every hair on end, so that it looked as if ruffled by a rake, but his body suffered no injury.

—A despatch from Queensland, Australia, said Governor Kennedy had "turned the first sod" on some important work, but the operator gave the message to the London newspapers: "Governor of Queensland, twins, first son," and the London Times gravely remarked that Lady Kennedy had twins, of which the eldest was a son.

—Buckingham Palace, except during the eight days it is annually inhabited by Queen Victoria, and the four evenings in each season when it is devoted to hospitality, remains empty and useless; the charming grounds are abandoned to the gardeners, and the splendid collections of pictures are rarely looked upon except by housemaids.

—The proprietor of a drug-store in a neighboring town was recently putting up a prescription, and being in doubt about it, asked of the cashier, who sat near, "Jennie, how many scruples does it take for a drachm?" "I've seen you take a dram without any scruples," was the instant reply. The proprietor concluded that when he needed any more information he would consult his dispensatory.

—Current newspaper literature has been much adorned of late by the contribution of a letter-writer signing "Clara Belle." The matter and manner of these letters have approached a realism of detail that suggests Emile Zola, while the subjects are invariably such as women rarely touch in print. It now turns out that Clara Belle is none other than the immeasurable liar, Eli Perkins, who under his own hand and seal cannot get admittance into any reputable journal in the country. It is creditable to the whole race of women that Clara Belle could only be made out of Eli Perkins.—Philadelphia News.

—The Mexican burro, a small blue donkey, seldom seen outside of Mexico, is being introduced in New Orleans. The burro is a docile little animal, perfectly kind and reliable, as gentle as a lamb, and with a capacity for work and endurance simply astounding in so small a creature. In Mexico the burro is the poor man's friend. Faithful, uncomplaining, tireless, it is invaluable to the Mexican peasant. He can live on a little, and a handful of scraps are accepted by him with meek gratitude as a royal banquet. He is gentle, tractable, intelligent and trustworthy, and is especially adapted for ladies' and children's driving. The only thing against the burro is his braying. Nothing, it is said, can be compared with it. A fog-horn next door is a pleasure compared to it. It has been stated that graveyards yawn and the bones of the dead turn in their receptacles at the sound of the burro's bray.

Cured of Drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for liquor, which had so prostrated him that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all that burning thirst; took away the appetite for liquor; made his nerves steady, and he has remained a sober and steady man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups; I know of a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it."—From a heading R. The Norwegian Steamboat.

The northern nations of Europe seem to have hit upon signally appropriate names for that place of torment which in English is called steamboat. There are times when simply to pronounce the words dampskib or dampbaad is soothing to the nerves, and nowhere oftener than in Norway can one be called upon to seek such relief. It is an accepted thing in Norway that no steamboat can be counted on either to arrive or depart within one, two, or three hours of its advertised time. The guide-books all state this fact: so nobody who, thus forewarned, has chosen to trust himself to the dampskib, has any right to complain if the whole plan of his journey is disarranged and frustrated by the thing's not arriving within four hours of the time it had promised. But it is not set down in the guide-books, as it ought to be, that there is something else on which the traveler in Norwegian dampskibs can place no dependence whatever; and that is the engaging beforehand of her state-room. To have engaged a state-room one week beforehand, positively, explicitly, and then, upon arriving on board, to be confronted by a smiling captain, who states in an off-hand manner, as if it were an every-day occurrence, that "he is very sorry, but it is impossible to let you have it;" and who, when he is pressed for an explanation of the impossibility, has no better reason to give than that two gentlemen wanted the state-room, and as the two gentlemen could not go in the ladies' cabin, and you, owing to the misfortune of your sex, could, therefore the two gentleman have the state-room, and you will take the one remaining untenanted berth in the cabin—this is what may happen in a Norwegian damp skib. If one is resolute enough to halt in the gangway, and, ordering the porters bearing the luggage to halt also, say, calmly, "Very well; then I must return to my hotel, and wait for another boat, in which I can have a stateroom. It would be quite out of the question, my making the journey in the cabin," the captain will discover some way of disposing of the two gentlemen, and without putting them into the ladies' cabin; but this late concession, not to the justice of your claim, only to your determination in enforcing it, does not in any wise conciliate your respect or your amiability. The fact of the imposition and unfairness is the same. I ought to say, however, that this is the only matter in which I found unfairness in Norway. In regard to everything else the Norwegian has to provide, or to sell, he is just and honest; but when it comes to the fare, he seems to take leave of all his sense of obligation to be either.—"H. H.," in September Atlantic.

—Levi Robbins of Copenhagen, N. Y., 109 years old, has signed the temperance pledge for the first time in his life.

—Nevada papers are sad to see five-cent pieces in circulation on the Comstock. They say that "no surer sign of the decay of the locality could be presented." They hold that a "nickel," a dime, is small enough for any country that isn't going down hill.

—An exchange says; "A salmon supposed to be the largest ever caught in the Columbia river had a weight, when dressed, of eighty-four pounds, and filled sixty-nine cans." Bah! That's no salmon. We caught a bigger one than that on our last fishing racket, but forgot to mention it especially.

The Best Remedy for Chapped Hands.

Is Hegeman's Camphor Ice. It should be rubbed upon the part affected. The warmth of the skin will soften it sufficiently, under ordinary circumstances, but in extreme cold weather, it may be necessary to warm it by the fire. If the hands are badly chapped, apply every night, and protect the hands by wearing an old pair of kid gloves. Hegeman's is the best and most popular of all the Camphor Ices made. Hegeman's Camphor Ice is also a cure for sore lips, chapped face, and sunburn. It is compounded with glycerine, which renders it more emollient than any other Camphor Ice; it will be found a most soothing application to the face after shaving.

—An enterprising but impecunious Philadelphian borrowed money enough to furnish an office and hang out a sign: "Franklin Protective Association." Then he went to work among the negroes, telling them of imaginary benefits to be obtained in the future by joining his society, and now he has an income of $125 a week from members' dues.

Grandmother Says!

When she was a girl that her mother always gave her sulphur and molasses to purify her bood, but she now gives Sulphur Bitters to her grandchildren as it is the best medicine she ever saw.—The Father.

—Sheridan made his appearance one day in a pair of new boots; these attracting the notice of some of his friends, "Now guess," said he, "how I came by these boots." Many probable guesses then were made. "No," said Sheridan, "no, you've not hit it, nor ever will; I bought them and paid for them."

How Long Would it take to Count two Millions?

Over two million volumes of the revised edition of the New Testament, were sold on the first day of its issue. These figures can only be equaled by the enormous sales of Swayne's Ointment for Itching piles, which is universally used as a standard remedy for stopping the itching at night, when one thinks that pin worms are crawling about the rectum. To calculate the extent of its sale in actual figures, would involve the labor of a lifetime. Will you be pestered longer from the aggravating piles?

Portsmouth Chronicle.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 19, 1881.

[Entered at the Post-Office at Portsmouth, N.H. as second-class matter.]

The President.

The condition of the President continued to improve throughout Wednesday night and Thursday. At noon on the latter day his pulse was 108, temperature 98.4, respiration 18. One of the glands of his throat was swollen a little, but occasioned no alarm to the doctors. His stomach was apparently improving in its tone, and hope was growing stronger.

To Mrs. Garfield, Washington, D. C.—I am most anxious to know how the President is to-day, and to express my deep sympathy with you both.

THE QUEEN, Osborne.

To Her Majesty, Queen Victoria, Osborne, Eng.—Your majesty's kind inquiry finds the President's condition changed for the better. In the judgment of his medical advisers, there is strong hope of his recovery. His mind is entirely clear, and your majesty's kind expressions of sympathy are most grateful to him as they are gratefully acknowledged by me. LUCRETIA R. GARFIELD.

The Anti Bribery Law.

The "act in aid of the purity of elections," passed by the legislature at the present session, is as follows:

SECTION 1. Any voter offering to vote at any town-meeting may be once challenged in writing by any three other voters, who may, in the judgment of the moderator or other presiding officer, be discreet and reputable citizens; and such moderator or other officer presiding shall not receive the vote of such voter so challenged until he shall make and subscribe an affidavit, and shall tender to the town-clerk, or to the moderator or other officer presiding, such affidavit, which shall be in form and substance as follows:

I solemnly swear that I have not knowingly directly or indirectly induced, or attempted to induce, by any payment or promise of money or other thing of value, or by threats, nor will I so induce, or attempt to induce, any voter to avoid voting or to vote for any particular ticket or candidate for office during this town-meeting; nor have I knowingly directly or indirectly contributed any money or other thing of value, nor will I so contribute, to corruptly induce any voter to avoid voting or to vote for any particular ticket or candidate for office during this town-meeting; nor have I received any money or other thing of value, or been influenced by any promise of money or other thing of value, or by threats, to vote for any particular ticket or candidate for office, nor will I so receive or be influenced by any promise of money or other thing of value to vote for any particular ticket or candidate for office during this town-meeting. SO HELP ME GOD.

Before me,.....

SEC. 2. In case any voter, so challenged as aforesaid at any town-meeting, shall not make and subscribe such affidavit, he shall be denied the right of voting at such town-meeting; and any moderator or other officer presiding, who shall receive the vote of a voter so challenged and not making and subscribing said affidavit, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars.

SEC. 3. Any person who shall make and subscribe said affidavit, and who, in so doing, shall swear falsely, shall be deemed guilty of perjury, and be punished accordingly. The affidavit may be sworn to before any person authorized by law to administer oaths, or before the moderator, town-clerk, or anyone of the selectmen or supervisors.

SEC. 4. The secretary of state shall prepare and distribute to the clerk of each town printed blanks for the affidavits aforesaid, at the time he is by law required to furnish said clerks with printed blanks for the return of votes; and it shall be the duty of said clerks to have at hand such blanks at every town-meeting, and to keep on file all affidavits that may be made and subscribed and taken, as by this act provided.

The remaining sections of the bill provide for the prosecution and punishment of violaters of the law. No person hired or illegally influenced to vote or to abstain from voting, shall be excused from testifying on the ground that he may thereby incriminate himself; and no evidence that he may give shall be used either directly or indirectly against him in any prosecution, except for perjury. "If any person shall be convicted of a violation of any of the provisions of said sections twelve and thirteen of chapter thirty-six of the General Laws, he shall, in addition to the penalties now prescribed by law therefor, be, during the term of five years thereafter, disfranchised from voting or holding office, and shall not, during said term, be entitled or permitted to vote at any election in any town, ward, or city in this state, or be elected to hold any office therein." All prosecutions under this act must be commenced within twelve months of the commission of the offence; and "it shall be the duty of the selectmen, at the opening of the town-meeting, before any votes are taken, to read this act to the meeting, or cause the same to be read."

The Colored Troops Do Some Fighting.

A despatch from Topeka, Kan., Aug. 16th, says: "The Santa Fe passenger train that arrived here at two o'clock P. M. to-day brought intelligence to headquarters that a gang of train robbers had boarded the smoking car last night just after dark at Granada, Col., where they blew out the lights and commenced going through the passengers for their money. A colored United States soldier in the car refused to give up $500 that he had, and was shot by one of the outlaws. In turn, the soldier shot one of the villains and killed him. This frightened the other two, and they left without any booty."

A Big Raft of Spars.

There sailed from Troy, N. Y., on the 15th inst., for Boston, via New York, the largest raft ever shipped from Troy to the Hub. The timber is consigned to a Boston firm of spar builders, and was cut in Ontario, Canada, northeast from Toronto. On the lake it was made into a raft and towed to Oswego, where it was separated into two rafts of six "cribs" or sections each, and one of seven "cribs." The united rafts were 900 feet long, and thirty-four feet wide. When they reach New York they will be increased by 113 pieces from Clearfield county, Pa. The raft thus formed will be 1300 feet long and sixty-four feet wide. On the ocean the pieces will be united by six tons of cable chains, each piece being bound separately by the chains. The large tugboat Charles Pearson, of Boston, will tow the raft along the coast to Boston. The cost of towage from Canada to its destination will approximate $3,500; it has already amounted to $2,000. The raft will be worth $25,000 when it reaches its destination. Large timber, such as makes up this raft, was formerly shipped from Troy to Boston by rail. The experiment of sending lumber by the river and coast was tried last year by the Boston firm. The results were perfectly satisfactory, the great economy being in the matter of expense. The pieces in the rafts which are now on their way are from seventy-five to ninety-five feet long, and from eighteen to thirty inches in diameter.

News and Notes.

A despatch from Peoria, Ill., dated Aug. 17th, says Willie Cantrell, a thirteen-years-old son of a section boss on the Indiana, Bloomington & Western railway, was seized by an unknown man while in a field, taken to the railroad, and tied upon the track just as a passenger train was approaching. The train struck the boy, breaking his ribs and foot. The passengers on the train saw the man run to the boy, cut the rope which still bound him, and run away to the woods. The train stopped, and the wounded boy was cared for. Police and gangs of men are pursuing the perpetrator of the deed.

The schooner "Gertie," a fishing vessel belonging to a port in the British provinces, was recently blown up while at anchor on the banks off the coast of Nova Scotia. There was a keg of gunpowder in the hold, and some of the explosive was thrown into a mug. Smoking a pipe from the galley pipe fell in the mug, and there was a flash and a tremendous report, the keg of powder exploding. Some of the crew were on deck, and were hurled through the air a distance of twenty feet and into the water. The planks in the bow were torn off, the foremast shattered, and the vessel otherwise damaged. Those thrown overboard managed to keep afloat, and get back to the vessel. Five minutes after the explosion the shattered hull capsized and filled. The crew were taken off by an American fishing schooner.

Secretary Blaine arrived in Washington at four o'clock in the afternoon on the 16th inst., having left Augusta, Me., as soon as possible after hearing of the first bad bulletin on the 15th.

Brattleboro, Vt., was thrown into a flurry of excitement a few days ago by a strange fellow's attempt to abduct the twelve-years-old daughter of George Burnham. It appears that Mrs. Burnham abandoned her husband some time since, to live with one Pellett. Saturday morning, the 13th inst., she appeared at her former home with the stranger, who secured the child by threatening the housekeeper and drove rapidly across the line into New Hampshire, where the child escaped from her captors and returned home.

Wendell Phillips has written an "open letter" to the New York Herald in which he "blows up" Secretary Blaine in gallant style for his letter to the cheeky counsel of the assassin Hartmann. The Boston Post says "It is a wonder Wendell Phillips has not protested against the action of the governor of Missouri in offering a reward for the capture of the Rock Island train robbers. The poor fellows are a liberty-loving crowd."

At the sardine factory in Milbridge, Me., they have had more fish than they could care for most of the time since the first of July. They now employ from 225 to 250 hands—pay out for help $1200 to $1500 a week, and $400 to $500 for fish. About two hundred cases are packed per day. Sardines are put up in three ways—in pure olive (not cotton seed) oil, in mustard and in vinegar; and mackerel in two ways—in tomato sauce and in mustard. A case contains one hundred boxes of sardines, or twenty-four large boxes of mackerel.

The Boston Globe has done the handsome thing in the way of apology. It says: "When the Woman's Bank, engineered by Mrs. Howe, went the way of all institutions that pay out more than they receive, women were lectured and ridiculed for their utter lack of business sense, and the ease with which they were swindled. It is possible that the Globe made some allusions to the financial foibles of the femenine mind, and if so it hastens to retract. Recent events show that the business man can be taken in worse than the unbusiness-like woman. No woman ever gave a thief a slip in which to carry away his plunder."

Murders and other high crimes have perceptibly diminished in Switzerland since the re-establishment of capital punishment. During the few months that the death law was repealed, crimes of this nature were alarmingly frequent.

Thursday of this week was "New Hampshire day" on the Merrimac river and at Black Rocks, when it was expected that a large number of excursionists from Great Falls, Dover, Exeter, Newmarket and other places on the line of the Boston & Maine railroad would arrive at Haverhill, Mass., early in the day, and take passage down the river in the steamer "City of Haverhill, Perkins' orchestra of Haverhill, assisted by a lady cornetist and two lady violinists, having been engaged to furnish the music for the occasion.

The following is the full text of the act to prohibit hunting and fishing on the Sabbath," as passed by the state legislature, to take effect from its passage: "No person shall, on the Lord's day, in any open field, or in any wood or forest, with any weapon with which powder is used, hunt or kill any game, or fish in any lake, pond, or stream of water with hook, spear, or net; and any person so doing shall be fined the sum of ten dollars, the same to be doubled for each succeeding offence, one half of said fine to be received by the one who may prosecute."

The sports at the Wentworth attracted a large number of spectators to Newcastle, Thursday afternoon, notwithstanding the weather was such that the steamer James Sampson did not run as proposed. The events, prizes and winners, were as follows: Running race, 150 yards, prize a silver cup, winner Charles Taylor; potato race, prize a silver cup, R. Adams; three-legged race, prizes two scarf pins, Thomas Lynch and Charles Taylor; walking match, prize a silver cup, James Buckley; tug of war, prize 100 cigars, Portsmouth team; tub race, prize a silver goblet, John Stover; throwing the apple, prize a silver cup, W. Merchant; pair-oared race, prize $10, Stover and Newton.

The schooner Cocheco, Seaward master, of this port, arrived at New York on the 16th inst., on her way from Hallowell, Me., to Albany, N. Y., with a cargo of granite.

Senator William P. Kellogg and wife, Major C. W. Wills and wife, Gen. A. S Badger and Col. George L. Norton, of New Orleans, La., are at the Oceanic, Isles of Shoals.

The British schooner Minnie Currie, Crowell master, arrived at this port on the 18th with over a thousand railroad ties for the Eastern railroad, and fifteen cords of hard wood to the master.

It is reported that on Friday night, the 12th inst., a married lady whose husband is absent in the government service saw a man prowling around her residence near the Kittery Point bridge, and getting a revolver blazed away at him out of the window like a platoon of light infantry. The fellow getting an inkling that his company was not desired, made a hasty retreat from the premises, and was taken into a buggy which just then came along the road.

THE LOBSTER LAW.

The following is the law in relation to the taking or having possession of lobsters, as passed by the legislature at its late session:

No person shall catch, preserve, sell, or expose for sale, within the limits of the state of New Hampshire, any lobster, between the fifteenth day of August and the fifteenth day of October of each year; and from the said fifteenth day of October to the fifteenth day of August next following, of each year, no lobster shall be caught, preserved, sold, or exposed for sale, under eleven inches in length, measuring from one extreme of the body to the other, exclusive of claws or feelers; nor shall any female lobster be killed or destroyed while carrying spawn or hatching her young;—and any person violating any provision of this section shall be punished by a fine of ten dollars for every lobster so caught, used, sold, or exposed for sale, as aforesaid.

This act took effect upon its passage, so that it is now illegal to have a lobster anywhere around one's premises.

—The fish business of Portland, Me., is estimated at $3,000,000 a year.

—They had a brass band in attendance at a Colorado lynching, lately, but the hero of the occasion trapped the lynchers into agreeing to grant him one last request, and then asked that the band be not allowed to play until he was hung. It made the band feel awfully embarrassed.

Naval Affairs.

On the arrival at San Francisco of the United States ship Jamestown from Sitka, Alaska, she will be repaired and then sent east, where she will be used as a school ship.

The Lackawanna was at Opia, Samoa, July 12th on which day she expected to leave for San Francisco. All were well on board.

The flagship Trenton, of the European squadron, arrived at Loghorn, Italy, Aug. 1st, from Naples. The Nipsic arrived at Christiania, Norway, July 21st, and the Galena arrived at Tangier, Africa, on the same date. The health of the squadron was excellent.

Master A. H. Cobb has been ordered to the receiving ship Wabash, at Boston; Passed Assistant Engineer J. J. Barry to temporary duty connected with the trial of the torpedo ram Alarm, and when completed to resume his present duties on board the Colorado; Assistant Engineer C. C. Kleckner to duty connected with the trial of the Alarm; Lieutenant J. V. Bleecker has been ordered to the schoolship New Hampshire, and Assistant Engineer John D. Sloan to the Lancaster.

Jefferson Davis' History.

As we read these pages we are carried back to the period before the war, into the atmosphere of the south in the time of the anti-slavery conflict,—an atmosphere murky with deceit and self-deception, when men listened only to their passions, and took their own ignorance of others for the truth. Mr. Davis is a man who has learned nothing and forgotten nothing, a genuine Bourbon; and it is this which gives value to his book, and makes it typical. The world in its progress has moved by him, and he is no wiser and no better than before. Other men, other southern leaders, for the most part have learned something, be it much or little, in the last twenty years; Mr. Davis has learned nothing. He is a southern leader of 1860, alive with the power of thought, and utterly unchanged in 1881,—a very rare and interesting combination. If he were not so, he would be more respectable as a man, but his book would be very different and probably much less instructive. As it is, these two large volumes seem as if they had come from under some corner-stone where men are wont to put the money and current literature of the day. The great building rises from the corner and becomes one of the land-marks by which pours day after day the eager stream of life. Years come and go; the building turns or is torn down, and from under the corner-stone we take up the yellow newspapers and old coins unchanged. They are the same, instinct with the spirit of the past, and yet speaking to us in the present tense, unconscious of the lapse of time, of the world's progress, of the manifold interests of humanity, of the new ideas of a new generation. They have passed along into history without knowing it, and so have the ideas of the ex-president of the confederacy. Like Irving's hero, he thinks that he is the same after his long sleep, and that the world is the same, while in reality he is an old man and it is a new world. Here the parallel breaks down, for Rip Van Winkle found out his mistake, but Mr. Davis has not and never will. For him the sun has stood still, and he rehearses the old talk of the old south with a ludicrous belief that it is new and valid. Thus he represents living what died long since, and so becomes of value to the historian. —September Atlantic.

Terrible Loss of Life.

Millions of rats, mice, cats, bed-bugs, roaches, lose their lives by collision with "Rough on Rats." Sold by druggists, 15cts.

Catarrh of the Bladder.

—A calf was struck by lightning during a recent thunder storm in Northport, Me. The animal was black and white, and on examination it was found that the electric fluid had singed off the hair from the white spots, burning the skin, but had left the black portions uninjured.

Two Years Ago!

I was a sight to behold, and was unable to enjoy life at all. Now I am a picture of health, and can eat anything. What did it? Sulphur Bitters cured me of dyspepsia and liver complaint, after suffering two years.—W. H. B., Manchester.

—Cora Van Tassell, of Erie, Pennsylvania, became an actress a year ago, and has since been travelling as the star of a dramatic company, playing East Lynne. Her husband is now suing for a divorce, the legal ground being desertion, but his real grievance, he says, is that she calls him Sir Francis Levison in her interminable rehearsing, and he can't stand it.

When pangs the mortals flesh assail,
And give a bitterness to life,
Making the cheek with anguish pale,
Amid the fierce internal strife;
Then Sanford's Ginger soothes the pain,
And smiling Health looks up again.

—The night had suddenly overclouded and become quite stormy. Being of a sentimental turn she accordingly took her seat at the piano, and began to sing, "Into some lives the rain must fall." But he was entirely practical, and, clutching her arm, said tenderly: "Sing something else, darling; you know I didn't bring my umbrella."—Brooklyn Eagle.

Big Results from Little Causes.

"Do you know?" remarked a man to his friend on Chestnut street, a day or two since, "I believe both Conkling and Platt had a bad case of skin disease when they resigned!" "What makes you think so?" inquired the listener in astonishment. "Well, you see they acted in such an eruptive manner—so rash—ly as it were. Save?" "Oh! yes, I save," replied the other, "they were bail—ing over and merely resigned to humor themselves, I suppose." If such be the case, the National difficulty might have been averted by applying Swayne's Ointment for skin diseases.

Summer Complaints

At this season, various diseases of the bowels are prevalent, and many lives are lost through lack of knowledge of a safe and sure remedy. PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER is a sure cure for Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Cholera, Cholera Morbus, Summer Complaint, etc., and is perfectly safe.

Read the following:

BAINBRIDGE, N. Y., March 22, 1881.
PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER never fails to afford instant relief for cramp and pain in the stomach.
JOSEPH BURNETT.

NICHOLVILLE, N. Y., Feb. 2, 1881.
The very best medicine I know of for dysentery, cholera morbus, and cramps in the stomach. Have used it for years, and it is sure cure every time.
JULIUS W. DEE.

MONROONA, IOWA, March 12, 1881.
I have used your PAIN KILLER in severe cases of cramp, colic, and cholera morbus, and it gave almost instant relief.
L. E. CALDWELL.

CARNESVILLE, GA., Feb. 26, 1881.
For twenty years I have used your PAIN KILLER in my family. Have used it many times for bowel complaints, and it always cures. Would not feel safe without a bottle in the house.
J. B. TYE.

SACO, ME., Jan. 21, 1881.
Have used PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER for twelve years. It is safe, sure, and reliable. No mother should allow it to be out of the family.
H. I. NAYE.

ONEIDA, N. Y., Feb. 19, 1881.
We began using it over thirty years ago, and it always gives immediate relief. Would hardly dare to go to bed without a bottle in the house.
W. O. SPERRY.

CONWAYBORO, S. C., Feb. 22, 1881.
Nearly every family in this section keeps a bottle in the house.
DR. E. MORTON.

U. S. CONSULATE,
CREFELD, RHENISH PRUSSIA, Feb. 8, 1881.
I have known PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER almost from the day it was introduced, and after years of observation and use I regard its presence in my household as an indispensable necessity.
I. S. POTTER, U. S. Consul.

BURTON-ON-TRENT, ENG.
I had been several days suffering severely from diarrhœa, accompanied with intense pain, when I tried your PAIN KILLER, and found almost instant relief.
H. J. NOONE.

31 MONTAGUE ST., LONDON, ENG.
During a residence of twenty-three years in India, I have given it in many cases of diarrhœa, dysentery, and cholera, and never knew it to fail to give relief.
R. CLARIDGE.

No family can safely be without this invaluable remedy. Its price brings it within the reach of all.

The President's Wound!

A Parallel Case in Army Life.

In the issue of the Philadelphia Record of the 27th of July was published an article relating to the case of Capt. William Palmer, now Quartermaster Second Brigade New Jersey State National Guard, who was wounded at the battle of Mosby Creek, East Tennessee, in the winter of 1863. In that article the striking resemblance of the case to that of President Garfield, in many particulars, was pointed out, the authority for the statement being the brave captain, himself. A still better authority is Dr. David Kennedy, then surgeon U. S. General Hospital, West Philadelphia, who had had charge of the case, and performed the operation of removing the detached bone, and finally extracted the bullet—Capt. Palmer is living to this day in the bloom of health. Dr. Kennedy does not hesitate to say that many of his patients both in military and civil practice owe their lives to the wonderful healing and strengthening powers of his medicine called "Favorite Remedy." The doctor is in possession of an autograph letter from Capt. Palmer, attesting his indebtedness for his present good health to this medicine—"Favorite Remedy"—where he says has doubled the obligation which he felt to the doctor for the treatment of the captain's terrible wound.

While Dr. Kennedy is engaged in the introduction of "Favorite Remedy," he still continue the practice of his profession at Rondout, N. Y., performs all the minor as well as capital operations of surgery. Address as above. td12

POSITIVELY CURED BY

Benson's Capcine Porous Plasters.

Reasons Why they are Preferred to All Other Porous Plasters or External Remedies:

First.

Because they possess all the merit of the strengthening porous plaster, and contain in addition thereto the newly discovered powerful and active vegetable combination which acts with increased rubefacient, stimulating, sedative and counter irritant effects.

Second.

Because they are a genuine pharmaceutical preparation, and so recognised by the profession.

Third.

Because they are the only plasters that relieve pain at once.

Fourth.

Because they will positively cure diseases which other remedies will not even relieve.

Fifth.

Because over 5000 physicians and druggists have voluntarily testified that they are superior to all other plasters or medicines for external use.

Sixth.

Because the manufacturers have received the only medals ever given for porous plasters.

For sale by

Henry F. Gerrish.

Daily Chronicle.

"Young Folks' History of America," edited by Hezekiah Butterworth, author of "Zigzag Journeys in Europe," and other "Zigzag" books. Boston; Estes & Lauriat; price $1.50. Portsmouth, sold by W. G. Myers, Congress block.

This editor of this alike attractive and instructive book has been known as a popular contributor to "The Youth's Companion," "St. Nicholas," etc. The sale of forty thousand copies of the journeys in Europe and in classic land, during eighteen months after the publication of the first volume, is an indication of how the writings of this author satisfy the juvenile taste. The present volume is amply illustrated with one hundred and fifty-three cuts, eighty-six of which are full page. Appended are statistical statements, a chronological table of important events, and an index of prominent men and places. This is valuable to persons of all ages. Indeed the book, though readable by young persons, yet has a value to adults as an attractive historical sketch from the discovery of America up to the present time. Prominent events are noticed in a brief yet satisfactory style, and the book is one in which every one, old or young, who desires to be informed as to the history of this country, cannot fail to be interested; while as a book of reference its arrangements are of no little aid, as in its index, etc., a ready reference may be made to every prominent event in the history of our country of which one seeks to be informed. It will of course meet with a large sale, as it is a work of value in every family.

"Granite Monthly" The August number of this magazine contains a sketch of Hon. John Kimball, president of the New Hampshire senate, with a steel engraving by Stuart. There is also a sketch and a decidedly indifferent likeness of Governor Charles H. Bell. The other contributions do not possess much interest.

Centaur Liniment.

Invaluable to families, and owners of horses Sold everywhere.

—"Always pay as you go," said an old man to his nephew. "But, uncle, suppose I have nothing to pay with?" "Then don't go."

Castoria.

For sour stomach, constipation, and fretfulness of children. Pleasant, safe and cheap. 900 drops; 35 doses, 35 cents.

—We are told that the ancient Egyptians honored cats when dead. The ancient Egyptians knew when a cat was the most to be honored.

Ash-Tonic;

A perfected purifyer of the system. In 1-2lb. bottles; 75 cents. For dyspepsia, the many forms of liver complaint, impure and impoverished blood, and functional derangements attendant upon debility. For symptoms indicated by indigestion, loss of appetite, nausea, sick headache, sour stomach, furred tongue, drowsiness, blanched lips, sallow complexion, pain in the side or back, eruptions, depression of spirits, nervous irritability and hysteria, and for building up the system, ash-tonic is unquestionably the most prompt and energetic remedy yet devised.

—A fellow never thoroughly realizes what a blooming ignoramus he has been all his life time until he enters into intellectual converse with a Boston schoolmarm on her summer solstice.

A Fine Whiskey,

mellowed by age and guaranteed pure—is the "G. O. Taylor Old Bourbon." See that it has the signature of Chester H. Graves & Sons over the cork. Buy it of your druggist or grocer.

—Once, it is said, they started a female seminary in Utah. For a time things flourished. "All went well until one day," then the principal eloped with the whole school.

"Stubbs, did you ever see a phonograph?" "Yes; and it was saying, take Adamson's Botanic Balsam for coughs, colds and asthma."

—Some of the girls of the period are parting their hair on one side. They do this because they do not wish to look like soft young men who part their hair in the middle.

Cured of Drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for liquor, which had so prostrated him that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all that burning thirst; took away the appetite for liquor; made his nerves steady, and he has remained a sober and steady man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups; I know of a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it."—From a leading R. R. official, Chicago, Ill.—Times.

—On receiving a prize in a foot-race, the successful competitor said, "Gentlemen, I have won this cup by the use of my legs; I trust I may never lose the use of my legs by the use of the cup."

How Long Would it take to Count two Millions?

Over two million volumes of the revised edition of the New Testament, were sold on the first day of its issue. These figures can only be equaled by the enormous sales of Swayne's Ointment for Itching piles, which is universally used as a standard remedy for stopping the itching at night, when one thinks that pin worms are crawling about the rectum. To calculate the extent of its sale in actual figures, would involve the labor of a lifetime. Will you be pestered longer from the aggravating piles?

Portsmouth Chronicle.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 20, 1881.

[Entered at the Post-Office at Portsmouth, N.H. as second-class matter.]

The Great and General Court.

This body finally adjourned on Friday morning, Aug. 19th, after a session of eighty days, the longest on record. It has not made many radical changes in the laws of the state, and its character is better marked by what it has refused to do, than by what it has accomplished. Some of the matters which have engaged its attention, not previously reported in the CHRONICLE, have been disposed of as follows:

The "Excise Law," introduced and advocated by Gen. Marston, imposing an excise tax on all liquors, wines and ale sold or kept for sale, passed the house by a vote of 169 to 70, but was defeated in the senate by a tie vote.

The house bill for the appointment of a single bank commissioner, whose duty is to examine all state banks and savings banks, was amended by the senate so as to require two commissioners, and in that shape passed both houses.

The senate and house on separate bills refused to pass a general railroad law.

Both houses refused to interfere with the present law taxing churches and church property.

The house bill in aid of the purity of elections, printed in our paper of Friday, was defeated in the senate by a vote of fifteen to eight.

An act was passed prohibiting treasurers of savings banks from acting as private bankers.

A bill to re-enact the law providing for minority representation in corporations, was indefinitely postponed in the house, 186 to 48.

A joint resolution was passed requiring the governor and council to report to the next legislature a plan for additional accommodations for the state library, either by an enlargement of the present room, or by a new building.

The local option provision in the liquor law, relating to the sale of ale, lager and cider, was repealed.

The house bill prohibiting hunting and fishing on Sunday, was refused a passage in the senate.

Several measures for the modification of the divorce laws were considered, but all failed, and those laws remain unchanged.

The resolution appropriating $7000 to pay the expenses of the governor and staff, and two companies of the national guard, in attending the centennial celebration at Yorktown, Va., was passed by a close vote after a prolonged and repeated struggle in the house.

An attempt was made to reduce the taxation on savings bank deposits from one per cent to three-quarters of one per cent. The bill passed the senate, and failed in the house, being referred to the next legislature.

After the refusal of the house to go into convention for the choice of United States senator, a bill was introduced authorizing another session of the constitutional convention, to adopt and to send to the people an amendment to the constitution providing for a more speedy convening of the legislature after each state election; that so senators might be elected agreeably to law before the expiration of the previous term. It was also hoped by some members that the convention might further reduce the cumbrous proportions of the house of representatives. Important as this measure seemed to be, the interest in it after a time declined, and it was finally allowed to drop.

An act abolishing all pauper settlements gained previously to January 1st, 1870, passed the house, but we cannot speak reliably as to its passage by the senate, though we are told that it went through. If such a bill did pass, the effect will be to thrown upon the counties most of the poor now supported by the towns and cities.

During the session 273 bills and joint resolutions were passed to be engrossed.

The house adjourned on Friday at half-past ten o'clock, after presenting the speaker with a gold watch and chain, the clerk with a gold watch, the assistant clerk with a silver watch, the sergeant-at-arms with a gold-headed cane, the chairman of the committee on railroads with an elegant ice-pitcher, and the door-keepers and reporters with desirable gifts.

The President.

The President's condition was very perceptibly improved on the 19th. Secretary Blaine telegraped to Minister Lowell at London as follows: "At half-past one o'clock the condition of the President is better than at any time during the past four days. There is an increase of hopeful feeling in regard to his recovery." The swelling of the parotid gland was subsiding, and the medical bulletins were encouraging.

News and Notes.

A new counterfeit of the silver dollar has been detected. Experts say it is the most perfect ever made; it is silver plated, to resist the action of acids, is of good weight, ninety-five per cent of the genuine, and has a good coin ring. It so clearly resembles a genuine coin that not one in a hundred will be able to detect it in ordinary trade.

Only a short time ago Major Daniel, the democratic candidate for governor of Virginia, made a speech in which he said: "Confederate money, though dishonored and repudiated here, is current in heaven." Major Daniel's chances of handling it any more are dubious.

Messrs. Cowers, Lewis and Allen, of the Cornell university crew, state that they have indubitable proof that J. N. D. Shinkel, the other member of the crew, sold their race with the Austrian crew at Vienna on the 11th inst. They have personally charged him with the fact, and say that they intend on their arrival in America to publish the evidence in their possession. Suspicion was awakened at the moment of his pretended faint, and the suspicion has since been amply confirmed. Shinkel hails from Rochelle, Illinois.

Thomas A. Marvin, alias Gen. B. A. Moulton, alias H. V. Moore, alias a lot of other names, a high-toned swindler, was arrested in Lynn, Mass., on the 16th inst., on a charge of forging a draft for $765 on a Chicago bank. The crime is alleged to have been perpetrated in Richmond, Va., where Marvin a short time ago married a young lady who moves in the highest circles, whom he deserted on the wedding tour. His real name is said to be R. V. Moore.

George F. Perham, a law student in W. F. Filley's office at Pittsfield, Mass., is accused by Mr. Filley with appropriating money coming to the office, and with raising checks. Perham was formerly in a Boston law office, and his father is a wealthy resident of Nashua, N. H.

A deputy United States marshal from Socorro, N. M., has arrived at Austin, Tex., having in charge the notorious Rube Boice, one of the Peg Leg mail robbers, who, assisted by his wife, made a daring escape from jail at Austin on January 4th, 1880.

A despatch from Alamosa, N. M., states that Lieuts. Burnett and Valois, with twenty men, had a fight with Indians on the 16th, lasting several hours, and finally withdrew with two men wounded. Lieut. Burnett was also slightly wounded.

Capt. H. W. Howgate, late disbursing office of the signal service, was on the 18th inst. held in $40,000 to answer to the charge of embezzlement of public monies. The prosecuting officer said the embezzlement would possibly be found to reach $80,000.

Gen. H. H. Baxter of Rutland, Vt., a few days ago missed from his herd one of his imported Alderney cows, valued at $800. On inquiry he found the cow had been slaughtered by one of the Rutland butchers, who found her in the yard with other cattle. This was rather valuable beef, but no more than ordinary charges were made for a roast. It seems strange carelessness on the part of the butcher not to have discovered the animal.

The fishing schooner Grace L. Fears, of Gloucester, Mass., at that port from the Grand banks, reports the loss of two of her crew, Charles Neilson and a brother of Capt. Greenleaf, who left the vessel to attend to their trawls, and did not return.

New Hampshire Items.

The late session of the legislature shows unmistakably that there are some men who may go to the General Court too often. A politician who has been sent to Congress, or been governor or otherwise prominent, may find himself entirely without influence as a member of the house of representatives. Such has been the case with the session just closed, and the result should be a warning to too ambitious office seekers.

The Concord Independent club had an excursion to the Weirs, Thursday, the party numbering 600. The day was devoted to dancing, sack race, pig race, and an excursion on the lake. Blaisdell's orchestra and the State Capital band furnished the music.

A party of civil engineers have commenced making a thorough survey and map of the old Sullivan railroad line and all its property, running boundary lines, etc. In the many changes through which the road has passed nearly all the original documents have been lost, and this survey, which will take many months, becomes necessary for the protection of the property. The party begin at Bellows Falls and work north.

Gen. Marston's excise law, which nobody could exactly understand, and which neither the prohibitionists nor the liquor dealers wanted, failed of a passage in the senate by a tie vote. The record of the late session seems to show that the measures advocated by such members as Marston, Stevens, Chandler and Harriman were for the most part defeated. These gentlemen appeared to have taken a position on the senatorial question against the views of a majority of their political friends, and they thenceforward seem to have been entirely without influence as leaders in the house.

Discussion of the Average Question.

In respect to the popular notion that coffee is an unhealthy beverage, that it keeps up constant irritation of the stomach and brings on depression of spirits, etc., Dr. Richardson, the well known English scientist, while admitting that the article cannot be taken in excess without producing dyspepsia and irritation, nevertheless asserts that, moderately used, it is an invigorating, healthful and wholesome drink, bringing a man's best energies into play. On the other hand, Dr. Rock, of Leipsic, an eminent authority, declares that the nervousness and peevishness of our times are chiefly attributable to tea and coffee, these producing a chronic derangement of the digestive organs.

See notice of sale by auction this day, at auction rooms No. 16 Congress street, of piano, carriage, furniture, etc.

The Eastern railroad offers a reward of $100 for the conviction of the scoundrel who threw stones at a train between Salem and Swampscott, Mass., on Sunday, Aug. 7th.

The auction sale of furniture, etc., at house No. 2 Rock street, appointed for Friday last, was postponed to Tuesday, Aug. 23d, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, when the sale will positively be held, regardless of the weather.

Oliver Sleeper, who died in Cambridge, Mass., Aug. 10th, aged seventy-two years, was a native of Rye, but settled in Boston forty years ago, and won a competence in the tailoring business. He was buried in Mount Auburn cemetery.

Miss E. B. Thornton, who for eight years past has ably, promptly, and most satisfactorily served the public as operator in the Western Union telegraph office in this city, has felt obliged to resign her position, much to universal regret. The company will look long and far for a better, abler or more affable servant.—Journal.

The officers of the Straw Rifles of Manchester, with those of the infantry company of Great Falls, will arrive in this city on Sunday morning, as guests of Co. C., Capt. Ford, of this city, and will make an excursion down the harbor on the schooner Wm. H. Russell, Capt. Drown.

The sale of tickets for the "Tourists" commences at Preston's this morning. The company can hardly fail of being greeted by a large audience, as the amusing piece to be performed is well known here, and there has been no evening entertainment presented in this city for some time.

Mr. Howard M. Curtis, dealer in groceries at Newcastle, disposed of a hogshead of molasses very quickly on Friday afternoon. He had loaded it on his team at the Acushnet's wharf, and in driving into Daniel street the hogshead tumbled from the vehicle, and striking on its chime knocked the head out, all but two gallons of the saccharine fluid escaping.

The coal heavers of the North end have made arrangements for a tug-of-war, prize $5, and a running match, prize a box of cigars, this evening at 7:30 o'clock, if fair weather. Twelve men will take part in the tug-of-war, and four in the running match, the course for the latter being from the Concord railroad wharf to Portsmouth bridge and back; several of the boss stevedores will act as judges.

The West Newbury (Mass.) Botanical club advertised a trip from Newburyport to this city on Friday in a steamer, but owing to the heavy sea running the excursion was postponed. "New Hampshire day," when excursionists from Newmarket, Exeter, Dover and other places were expected to take a steamboat ride from Haverhill, Mass., down the Merrimac river, was postponed from Thursday last to Monday, the 22d inst., on account of the weather.

The schooner Alzena, before reported as run down and sunk off Red Hook, N. J., by the barque Thomas Kellier while bound to this port, had on board 426 tons of steam coal for J. Albert Walker. The barque in getting under weight bound to Trieste, Austria, struck the schooner while at anchor, and cut her down below the waters edge; the schooner was towed on the flats, where she sank, and the barque was towed back to Bedloe's island with her stem badly damaged.

Col. Thomas P. Cheney, who reached this city on Friday afternoon direct from Washington, where he has been to attend the assemblage of the superintendents of the railway mail service, informs us that quite a hopeful feeling pervades Washington in regard to President Garfield's chances for recovery.

Hon. Richard A. Elmer, second assistant postmaster general of the United States, arrived in this city on Friday. Mrs. Elmer has for several days been a guest at the house of Nathan F. Mathes, Esq., whose daughter is an intimate friend and former schoolmate of Mrs. Elmer. The general was called on by several prominent citizens on Friday evening, and if the weather permits will probably visit the Isles of Shoals and Boar's Head by steamer to-day.

RAILROAD SMASH-UP.

About half-past ten o'clock Friday forenoon an accident occurred on the Saugus branch of the Eastern railroad, between Bell Rock and Malden Centre. The main track of the railroad being blocked by a freight train between Chelsea and Everett, the ten o'clock train for this city was sent over the branch. At the point above named it collided with a "dump," loaded with rails. The men on the dump, seeing their danger, jumped from the car. Owing to the force of the collision one of the rails was bent into the form of a horseshoe; one extremity pierced the boiler of the engine, causing the steam to escape, the piston-rod was broken, the train was brought to a standstill, and some of the wheels of the engine, baggage car and a passenger car were thrown off the track. The sleepers were torn up, and other damage was done. F. White, the fireman, was scalded on both arms, but no other person was injured. The dump was ruined, and a portion of it was thrown down the embankment. The head-light of the engine was also thrown into the ditch.

THE CITY FARM.

The present city government ought to consider the question of disposing of the city farm. We believe it is an expense to the city and should be sold, or at least a large part of it.—Portsmouth Journal.

During the four years ending Dec. 31st, 1880, the superintendent of the city farm paid over to the overseers of the poor the sum of $6368.78, being his receipts from sales above the cost of running the farm, and above the products of the farm consumed by the family under his charge.

In 1877, 73 1-6 cents;
In 1878, 112 1-3 cents;
In 1879, 53 cents;
In 1880, 72 2-3 cents.

If we are to retain the same number of inmates at the city almshouse, it does seem that it would be better for the city to keep the farm, or the most of it, as a measure of economy. It is very certain that the farm as at present managed will do more for the support of the poor than can be accomplished by the income of any sum for which it would be likely to sell.

"SUNDRY BILLS."

Ed. Chronicle: In the report of the last meeting of the board of aldermen, as published in your paper on Friday morning, I find the following:

Sundry bills were ordered to be paid, including A. R. Hatch's bill, $149.20, for services in connection with the hearing for the extension of Vaughan street, and the county commissioners' bill for the hearing, $100, and A. C. Hoyt's bill for surveying the route, $15.

It seems to me that this report must be incorrect, an impression which is confirmed by the fact that the Times in its report does not make any reference whatever to any such bills or action of the board.

But, Mr. Editor, if your report is correct, what does it all mean? and what kind of a board of aldermen has Portsmouth got, anyway? Not one of the bills named was contracted by the city; on the contrary, the "services" of the learned counsel were rendered against the city and its interests, for it is notorious that the Vaughan street extension scheme is a railroad job, pure and simple, and that while the city will have to foot all the bills, the railroad will receive all the benefit. Has the railroad secured the fee simple of our entire city government? It certainly looks so, when bills for hundreds of dollars presented by the railroad's supporters are ordered to be paid without even a reference to committee, or the slightest enquiry as to whether the charges in the bills are reasonable, or whether the city is or is not legally bound to pay them! If a working man sends in a bill for labor performed, it is closely scrutinized before it is paid. Why the departure from the established rule in the case of the railroad bills?

If convenient, Mr. Editor, would you kindly give us the yeas and nays on the vote ordering the payment, and oblige

Portsmouth, N. H.

The September "Atlantic" contains three new chapters of Mr. Howells' new serial story, "Dr. Breen's Practice," which cannot fail to be read with the greatest zest and enjoyment. A queer statement is made in connection with this story. It seems that a lady contributed to the magazine, after "Dr. Breen's Practice" was in type, a short story that so much resembled that of Mr. Howells that he felt it necessary to call upon the lady and explain the situation of affairs, in order that no charge of plagiarism might be preferred against him. He showed her the proof-sheets of his story, and perfectly satisfied her that the similarity between her work and his was one of those strange coincidences which have from time to time occurred in the literary world. A very noteworthy article is that by Mr. E. L. Godkin, "The Attempt on the President's Life," which discusses with great thoughtfulness and ability the motives and object of the assassination, and derives from the fearful act a thoroughly logical and impressive lesson upon the necessity for change in the mode of appointment of officers. It is an article which deserves the most careful reading. John Fiske continues his instructive and engaging series of "mythological articles with one entitled "Koshchei the Deathless, or the Diffusion of Fairy Tales." The second part of Mary Hallock Foote's story, "In Exile," confirms the exceedingly pleasant impression which the first part made, and proves her to have as great skill in writing as in art. "H. H." continues her unusually interesting series of Norway articles with an essay on "The Katrina Saga," which is part story, part essay, and part poetry, all thoroughly delightful. All house-keepers will be interested in the very charming, if possibly Utopian, sketch of "Housekeeping Hereafter," by James V. Sears. J. Brander Matthews, who always writes of theatrical matters with so much intelligence, discusses the "Dramas of the Elder Dumas." Rev. Wm. Chauncy Langdon contributes a paper deserving much attention among Harvard graduates and well-wishers on the "Future of Harvard Divinity School." Dr. Holmes contributes the "Phi Beta Kappa" poem which he recently read at Harvard; and Miss Edith M. Thomas, one of the most promising of the new contributers to the "Atlantic," has an attractive poem entitled "Harvest Noon." The remainder of the magazine contains notices of some of the more important new books, an unusually interesting and varied Contributor's Club, and a running discussion of the books of the month. This is a most excellent number of this standard magazine. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston.

Wicked for Clergymen.

Rev. ——, Washington, D. I therefore cheerfully and heartily commend Hop Bitters for the good they have done me and my friends, firmly believing they have no equal for family use. I will not be without them."—New York Baptist Weekly.

—A college student, in rendering to his father an account of his term expenses, inserted: "To charity, $30." His father wrote back: "I fear charity covers a multitude of sins."

Big Results from Little Causes.

"Do you know?" remarked a man to his friend on Chestnut street, a day or two since, "I believe both Conkling and Platt had a bad case of skin disease when they resigned!" "What makes you think so?" inquired the listener in astonishment. "Well, you see they acted in such an eruptive manner—so rash—ly as it were. Save?" "Oh! yes, I save," replied the other, "they were boil—ing over and merely resigned to humor themselves, I suppose." If such be the case, the National difficulty might have been averted by applying Swayne's Ointment for skin diseases.

The President's Wound!

A Parallel Case in Army Life.

In the issue of the Philadelphia Record of the 27th of July was published an article relating to the case of Capt. William Palmer, now Quartermaster Second Brigade New Jersey State National Guard, who was wounded at the battle of Mossy Creek, East Tennessee, in the winter of 1863. In that article the striking resemblance of the case to that of President Garfield, in many particulars, was pointed out, the authority for the statement being the brave captain, himself. A still better authority is Dr. David Kennedy, then surgeon U. S. General Hospital, West Philadelphia, who had had charge of the case, and performed the operation of removing the detached bone, and finally extracted the bullet—Capt. Palmer is living to this day in the bloom of health. Dr. Kennedy does not hesitate to say that many of his patients both in military and civil practice owe their lives to the wonderful healing and strengthening powers of his medicine called "Favorite Remedy." The doctor is in possession of an autograph letter from Capt. Palmer, attesting his indebtedness for his present good health to this medicine—"Favorite Remedy"—which he says has doubled the obligation which he felt to the doctor for the treatment of the capitals terrible wound.

While Dr. Kennedy is engaged in the introduction of "Favorite Remedy," he still continue the practice of his profession at Rondout, N. Y., performs all the minor as well as capital operations of surgery. Address as above. 1e12

THE WISE ENJOY GOOD HEALTH.

GINGER

Impure water, unhealthy climate, unripe fruit, unwholesome food, cramps, chills, malaria, excessive heat and the thousand and one ills that beset the traveler or family are nothing to those fortified and sustained by the use of Sanford's Ginger, "the delicious." As beverage it quenches thirst, open the pores, relieves the head, regulates the stomach and bowels, eradicates a craving for intoxicants and imparts new life to the languid, careworn, overworked, nervous and sleepless. Beware of imitations sold to be as good. Ask for Sanford's Ginger and take no other.

POSITIVELY CURED BY

Benson's Capcine Porous Plasters.

Reasons Why they are Preferred to All Other Porous Plasters or External Remedies:

First.

Because they possess all the merit of the strengthening porous plaster, and contain in addition thereto the newly discovered powerful and active vegetable combination which acts with increased rubefacient, stimulating, sedative and counter irritant effects.

Second.

Because they are a genuine pharmaceutical preparation, and so recognized by the profession.

Third.

Because they are the only plasters that relieve pain at once.

Fourth.

Because they will positively cure diseases which other remedies will not even relieve.

Fifth.

Because over 5000 physicians and druggists have voluntarily testified that they are superior to all other plasters or medicines for external use.

Sixth.

Because the manufacturers have received the only medals ever given for porous plasters.

Effects of Imagination.

At a large hotel in Suffolk, the not uncommon dilemma arose of there being only one room in the house vacant when two visitors required accommodation for the night. It was a double-bedded chamber, or was converted into such, and the two guests—who were both commercial travellers—agreed to share it. One of these gentlemen was a confirmed hypochondriac, and greatly alarmed his companion by waking him in the middle of the night, gasping for breath. "Asthma," he panted out; "I am subject to these spasmodic attacks. Open the window quickly; give me air!" Terrified beyond measure, the other jumped out of bed. But the room was pitch-dark; he had no matches and he had forgotten the position of the window. "For heaven's sake, be quick!" gasped the invalid. "Give me more air or I shall choke!" At length, by dint of groping wildly and upsetting half the furniture in the apartment, the window was found; but it was an old-fashioned casement, and no hasp or catch was to be discovered. "Quick, quick; air! air!" implored the apparently dying man. "Open it, break it, or I shall be suffocated!" Thus adjured, his friend lost no more time, but seizing a boot, smashed every pane; and the sufferer immediately experienced great relief. "Oh, thank you; a thousand thanks. Ha!" he exclaimed, drawing deep sighs, which testified to the great comfort he derived, "I think in another moment I should have been dead!" And when he had sufficiently recovered, and had expressed his heart-felt gratitude, he described the intense distress of these attacks and the length of time he had suffered from them. After a while both fell asleep again, devoutly thankful for the result. It was a warm summer night, and they felt no inconvenience from the broken window; but when daylight relieved the pitchy darkness of night, the window was found to be still entire! Had invisible glaziers been at work already, or was the episode of the past night only a dream? No; for the floor was still strewn with broken glass. Then, as they looked around the room in amazement, the solution of the mystery presented itself in the shape of an antiquated bookcase, whose latticed glass doors were a shattered wreck. The spasmodically attacked one was cured from that moment. So much for imagination.—Chambers' Journal.

"Scribner's," which with the November number will be changed to the "Century," has an attractive number for September, opening with "A Boy in Gray," which is a sketch of the fighting days in the confederate army. "How to Build an Ice Yacht" will be of interest to some of the boys. The illustrated portion of the number is remarkable for its profuseness, while the number and variety of subjects treated is certainly of the most liberal character. Price $4.00 a year, thirty-five cents a number. Published by the Century Co., 743 Broadway, New York.

The Best Remedy for Chapped Hands

Is Hegeman's Camphor Ice. It should be rubbed upon the part affected. The warmth of the skin will soften it sufficiently, under ordinary circumstances, but in extreme cold weather, it may be necessary to warm it by the fire. If the hands are badly chapped, apply every night, and protect the hands by wearing an old pair of kid gloves. Hegeman's is the best and most popular of all the Camphor Ices made. Hegeman's Camphor Ice is also a cure for sore lips, chapped face, and sunburn. It is compounded with glycerine, which renders it more emollient than any other Camphor Ice; it will be found a most soothing application to the face after shaving.

Rev. Mr. Fairly, a well known Congregational minister of Hatchville, in Falmouth, Mass., was drowned Friday afternoon in what is called Crooked pond. He backed his vehicle out into the pond, and was fishing therefrom when he fell into the water. The body was recovered soon after.

Thomas A. Marvin, alias Benjamin F. Adams, who was arrested on the 18th inst. in Lynn, Mass., has resided intermittently for four years in New Haven, Conn., where one of his wives still lives, with her daughter. Marvin, or Adams, or Morton, or whatever the scoundrel's name may be, has eleven wives living, the last one being the lady of Richmond, Va., whom he married a few weeks ago.

How Long Would it take to Count two Millions?

Over two million volumes of the revised edition of the New Testament, were sold on the first day of its issue. These figures can only be equaled by the enormous sales of Swayne's Ointment for itching piles, which is universally used as a standard remedy for stopping the itching at night, when one thinks that pin worms are crawling about the rectum. To calculate the extent of its sale in actual figures, would involve the labor of a lifetime. Will you be pestered longer from the aggravating piles?

The President.

ANOTHER RELAPSE.

The President continued to improve on the 20th; at noon his pulse was 107, temperature 98.4, respiration 18. He took an increased amount of nourishment, and the swollen parotid gland occasioned no trouble.

On the 18th a tube was inserted into the wound to the depth of 12 1-2 inches, to facilitate the drainage of the pus from the deeper parts of the wound; no ill results followed. This was not made public by the doctors until the 20th.

On Sunday the president had another attack of vomiting, and the excitement in Washington was intense; the doctors attempted to allay it, but they have played fast and loose with the people so by partial and "scientific" reports instead of giving the full and intelligible accounts of his welfare which fifty millions of people had a right to expect and demand, that their statements have come to be of little effect.

WASHINGTON, 9:30 P. M., 21st.

There has been no vomiting since 5:15 o'clock, but anxiety and fear have increased. It is stated positively that his blood is poisoned, but the physicians do not admit it.

WASHINGTON, 10:30 P. M.

White House closed for the night; the President has been sleeping, and no extra watchers have been added. The vomiting, as explained by the physicians, was caused by a gathering of phlegm in his throat, and a more hopeful feeling has taken the place of the anxiety of the early evening.

News and Notes.

William Doyle, of South Boston, eighteen years of age, on Friday evening was handling a small seven-shooter which he had partly taken to pieces, when one of the chambers was discharged, the ball entering his hand and passing into his wrist, making a painful wound. He said he did not think the weapon was loaded. He was taken to the city hospital.

At Orange, Texas, Wednesday evening of last week, Sheriff Mitchell was dangerously wounded by a party of negroes, instigated by bad white men. A posse immediately went to his assistance, resulting in the killing of two negroes and the hanging of one. Several others were wounded. Great excitement prevails. Military and citizens are maintaining order. Eight blacks and one white man are under arrest.

It now appears that the disaster attending the bull fight at Marseilles, France, Aug. 14th, resulted in the death of twenty-seven persons, and the wounding of thirty-six others.

During the session of the court at Huntsville, Scott county, Tenn., just closed, a fearful riot took place, which originated in an old feud between prominent families. Two hundred men were in the crowd, and at least twenty men were fighting at one time with pistols, knives and rocks. The sheriff summoned a posse and attempted to quell the fight, but without success. In the midst of the melee the wife of Asbury Burg, who was one of the participants, rushed to persuade her husband to desist, when a rock thrown by an unknown hand struck her on the back with such violence that the blow will cause her death. The riot only ended by those taking part wearing themselves out. No one was killed outright, but many were terribly injured.

The mysterious disappearance of a young couple at Rockland, Mass., has caused considerable talk in the community. Miss Mary Foley, a girl of fifteen, left her home a few days ago ostensibly for the purpose of going to the store. She has not been seen or heard from since. On the same day Lemuel Whiting, a young man of twenty-five, living in the immediate vicinity, left his home in the same unceremonious manner, and no trace of his whereabouts has yet been ascertained. It is generally supposed they have eloped, and there is said to have been a clandestine intimacy, though not of an immoral character, existing between them.

A Tombstone, Arizona, destatch states that a party of Mexicans fired on a camp eleven miles from Tombstone, Aug. 13th, killing William Long, Dick Gray, James Crane, Charles Snow, and Thomas D. Clinton, and wounding Wm. Berers. Great excitement ensued at Tombstone, and parties are forming to hunt the Mexicans.

In the Choctaw nation, a few miles west of Waldron, last Friday night, William Massingale stopped over night at the house of John Stewart. About nine o'clock James Hobbs, a white man, and Ed Fulsom, a Choctaw, went to Stewart's house and shot him seven times, killing him. Massingale started to run, when one assassin shot him in the back, killing him instantly.

A M. Hinston of Galveston, Texas, claims that he has discovered a comet which is visible from nine to ten o'clock at night, in constellation Ursa Major.

Intelligence from Key West says the American bark Aberdeen, Conk master, laden with mahogany, has arrived on the Florida coast, having been brought in by a pilot and three men from the schooner Madgie. When boarded by the pilot the vessel was helpless, there being but one man on deck, and she was drifting at the mercy of the winds. She loaded at Santa Cruz, Cuba, and two days after sailing she struck an unknown shoal, where she remained two days. She subsequently experienced heavy weather and sprung both her fore and mainmasts. Later on the crew succumbed to malarial fever, which they had contracted at Santa Cruz, and one by one fell sick. The master, on whom everything now devolved, fought against the disease until the vessel was turned over to the salvors, when he fell exhausted. He stood at the wheel for three days, until his feet burst open, there not being a man on board able to relieve him.

The fish-packing company at Castine, Me., has this season canned 600,000 lbs. of lobsters and 150,000 lbs. of clams.

Naval Affairs.

Lieut.-Comdr. Charles M. Anthony is granted leave of absence for one month from Sept. 10th.

Lieut.-Comdr George E. Wingate, attached to the Boston navy yard, is granted leave of absence for one month from Aug. 29th.

Medical Director S. F. Coues, attached to the laboratory at New York, is granted leave of absence from Aug. 20th to Sept. 10th.

Major Green Clay Goodloe, U. S. M. C., is granted sick leave for thirty days from Aug. 18th.

New Hampshire Veteran's Reunion.

The fifth annual encampment and reunion of the New Hampshire veterans will be held at Weirs Landing, Aug. 29th, 30th and 31st. The camp will be called "Camp Capt. James H. Platt," in honor of a brave officer of the 2d N. H. Volunteers, who laid down his life for his country at Drury's Bluff on the 16th of May, 1864.

The permanent barracks provided by the state are in course of construction, and will be completed in season for occupancy this year. Rations will be furnished at the dining pavilion, at twenty-five cents each; and in addition there will be a stand for the sale of coffee, chowder, baked beans, etc., for the accommodation of comrades preferring to form "messes" by themselves.

The 3d Reg't band, of Concord, Blaisdell's orchestra, of the same city, and Batchelder & Stokes' Veteran drum corps of Manchester, have been engaged to serve during the reunion. T. W. Henry, of the Boston Cadet band, has been engaged as soloist and camp bugler.

Capt. S. S. Piper, of the 1st N. H. Battery, will have charge of the artillery, and will attend to the firing of salutes, morning and evening guns. The pieces will be those of Section A, of Manchester. As a special attraction, the battery will practice with solid shot and shell, the projectiles having already been procured for this purpose. This will doubtless be a most interesting exhibition—to the civilian visitors as a novelty; to the veterans as a reminder of the times when bursting shells were something more than a harmless holiday attraction.

Reduced fares have been secured over all the railroad lines. All tickets will be good—going Aug. 29th to Sept. 1st, returning until Sept. 5th, inclusive. Fares—Eastern railway, Conway division, from Portsmouth, $3; Salmon Falls, $2.10; Great Falls, $2.10; Rochester $1.85—these rates being by way of Wolfeboro,' and including steamboat fare across the lake. Concord railroad—Derry, Windham, Lawrence, Candia, Raymond, Epping, Newmarket Junction, $2.50; Portsmouth, $300.

THE

New Hampshire Gazette!

Established 1756.

The Gazette is published every Thursday and sent to Subscribers at the low price of $1.50 per year, paid in advance, or $2 at the end of the year.

It contains full accounts of all of importance that transpires in Portsmouth and its vicinity, and a condensed summary of news, foreign and domestic; editorials upon current topics; New Hampshire items; carefully prepared marine news, containing reports of vessels owned at this port, or officered by men from Portsmouth or its neighborhood; and is just the paper for residents desiring to be posted on all that takes place at home, while to those living in the vicinity of Portsmouth, or to former residents who retain their interest in the "old home by the sea," it is the best means of keeping informed of what transpires in this city.

AROUND HOME.

Mr. Samuel G. Hooper arrived home on Saturday from a trip to Prince Edward's Island.

The steamer Leyden goes to Boston today, to bring down the crew of the Lancaster.

The fog was thick at the Shoals last week, but visitors consoled themselves by imaging how much worse it was at Mt. Desert.

Capt. George F. Towle, 19th U. S. Inf., has been granted leave of absence for one month from Aug. 9th, with permission to apply for an extension of one month.

Mr. Hugh Mullen of this city has been appointed engineer's yeoman on the Lancaster. Mr. Mullen is a native of Ireland, where his father was landlord of a public house, and has been in this country but about two years.

Notwithstanding the heavy sea and thick fog, the steamer Acushnet made her regular trip from Boston to this port on Friday, and was ready to sail at her advertised hour on her return trip Saturday. She had a full cargo each way.

Mr. William S. Tredick, formerly of this city but now of Iowa, arrived at his former home last Saturday on a visit, after an absence of about nine years. Mr. Tredick's health is somewhat impaired by close attention to business, and he hopes to be rejuvenated by the salt breezes of his native city.

The steamer Cohasset, from the Boston navy yard with a draft of one hundred men for the Lancaster, arrived at this navy yard on Sunday afternoon at two o'clock, having been all night on the passage, and had a pretty rough time of it. She left Boston about one o'clock on Saturday afternoon.

The eighteenth annual exhibition of the New England Agricultural society, will be held at Worcester, Sept. 6th, 7th, 8th and 9th. Secretary Needham has invited Gen. Sherman and the reporter of the Chronicle to be present. Dr. Loring is President, and Geo. W. Riddle of Manchester is treasurer of the society.

At half-past ten o'clock, Friday evening, a female infant about six weeks old was left on the rear steps of the residence of Mr. Charles E. Russell on Water street, by an unknown man who knocked at the door to rouse the inmates of the house, and then ran away. The child was taken to the Almshouse on Saturday.

We learn from a private letter from London, that Hon. Frank Jones arrived at Liverpool much improved by his voyage across the Atlantic, and that he was not seasick. He at once proceeded to London and consulted one of the most eminent surgeons of that city. He was advised that he needed rest, and an abstinence from constant labor, and no medicine. It is to be hoped that Mr. Jones having sought the advice of the best medical men in the world will have the good sense to observe it. The London expert confirmed the opinion of Dr. N. V. Cheever that it was freedom from hard work and the constant drive of Mr. Jones' busy life that was needed in his case, and not dosing of useless medicine in treatment of this nature. The rest of the sea voyage had a wonderful effect upon Mr. Jones, as is the case with all who have an enforced rest by a trip across the Atlantic.

Masten & Wells, pyrotechnists of Boston, gave an exhibition of fireworks on Saturday night at the Oceanic, Star island.

Boatswain Isaac Choate is relieved from special duty in the equipment department at the navy yard, and ordered to duty on the yard. Boatswain John J. Killin is ordered to special duty in the equipment department.

Schumacker of Portland, who has for some time past been engaged in frescoing St. Mary's church in this city, is to fresco the ceiling of the general business room of the custom house. A starge for this purpose was put up on Saturday.

A large number of blacksmiths in the department of construction and repair at the navy yard were discharged on Friday last, and 253 workmen of various kinds on Saturday, owing to lack of work, due to the near approach of the Lancaster to completion.

The coal office of C. E. Walker & Co., on Water street, is as convenient and attractive as any business office in the city, having been fitted with modern furniture, screens, etc., and having telephone connection with Newcastle, Dover, Newmarket, Exeter and other towns, as well as with all the places in this city connected with the telephone exchange.

"The Tourists" on Saturday began selling tickets to their "Pullman Palace Car" entertainment at Music hall on Thursday evening, and quite a number of seats were secured although the sale commenced so far ahead of the date of the performance. Special parts have been written for each member of the company, and new songs introduced from the popular comic operas, etc.

Mr. Lemuel B. Caswell, of this city and Smuttynose island, Isles of Shoals, has now on hand at the latter place about 300 quintals of heavy-salted fish, and fifty quintals of slack-salted. He has made this season a large quantity of the famous Isles of Shoals dun-fish, most of which he has disposed of, at an average price of ten cents a pound. One Philadelphia gentleman, stopping at one of the island hotels, bought 225 lbs. for family use. A fish dealer in Newburyport, and another in Salem, Mass., have each taken about one hundred pounds a week all through the season.

THAT HIGHWAY ROBBERY.

Some time ago,—on or about the 10th inst.,—Mr. A. J. Freeman of Portland, an artist, reported that he had been robbed on the highway in Kittery by a masked man, who stole his watch and about thirty dollars in money, the outrage taking place near the York line on the road leading from York to Kittery Point. Mr. Freeman said that just as the robber demanded his money he (Freeman) heard the sound of an approaching carriage, and exclaimed "There are wheels coming," to which the thief replied "I don't care;" just then a wagon came in sight, containing several persons, when the robber flourished his revolver, and shouted to the team to stop—which the team did, and turned around as quick as possible and drove rapidly away in the direction from which it had come. Another chapter in this queer narrative was given in the Times of the 19th inst., as follows:

The authorities of Kittery have learned the names of the parties who were in the carriage on the road in Kittery at the time Mr. Freeman was robbed. They were Mr. Benj. F. Cooper and Mr. Joseph Munroe, with the wife and daughter of one of the men, all of South Berwick, who had been stopping at York beach, and were going to visit the navy yard on their way home. They did not tell of their adventure until they got home to South Berwick.

Under the circumstances, some people wouldn't have told of it then.

YORK BEACH.

The season at York harbor has been the most prosperous one ever known; all of the hotels (Marshall, Goodwin and Norwood's) have been crowded to overflowing, and the boarding-houses likewise have been full. The company are remaining longer than is generally the case. Mr. Wm. M. Walker's new store is open, and is prospering. Our old friend Rufus Varrell has thoroughly repaired and repainted his store. There are two laundries at this harbor, kept by Mrs. Caswell and Mrs. Donnell.

There are four lines of coaches run to York, viz.: Grant & Co.'s mail line to the harbor and beach, Thompson's line to the beach, the Sea Cottage stage, and Bragdon's coach to the Marshall house. Mr. Bragdon also keeps the livery stable at the Marshall house, and has about twenty-five horses.

At Long Sands the Moody house, under its new landlord, is doing a lively business. The Sea Cottage is full, as usual. At Union Bluff the Fairmount, Union Bluff, and Abbott houses are full to overflowing. This village of about forty houses and hotels was a few years ago nothing but a rocky pasture. Mr. Frank W. Thompson purchased a lot of Mr. Freeman, the then owner, and erected a house thereon. Soon afterward Messrs. French & Peaslee purchased the remainder, and to them the credit of the beautiful village of Union Bluff must be given. Mr. Moses French purchased Mr. Peaslee's interest, and has built quite a number of cottages. We well remember the first ride that we took into the pasture, after Mr. Thompson had finished his house, for it seemed to us that if we had had a touch of the dyspepsia we would have been cured, for it was several hours before we fully recovered from the effects.

On Dover Bluff there are several cottages—Saunders', Bracewell's and Sawyer's.

Before closing we must not forget our old friend Uncle J. M. Lord, at "the Willows," whose ready hand is always extended to his numerous acquaintances. Aunt Clara, his excellent wife, passed away several years ago, and her face is much missed by the many picnicers who visit the beautiful grounds; many times have we sat down to her festive board. Aunt Sallie still presides at the other house, and her many friends from afar always have to call and shake hands and see her smiling countenance. M.

The contractor's sloop was towed from Gangway rock to Neal's wharf in Kittery on Saturday, to discharge another load of stones taken from the bottom of the river.

The Believers' camp-meeting at Old Orchard beach opened on Friday, the 19th inst., under the direction of Rev. J. H. Brooks, D. D., of St. Louis, Mo. The attendance was not large.

Mr. Elmer N. Lee, late manager of the Biddeford & Saco Telephone Exchange, has become superintendent of construction for the Metropolitan Telephone & Telegraph company of New York city. Mr. Lee will enter upon his new duties at once.

The road at Bass Cove creek, near Cider hill, York, is to be changed in grade, rebuilt and greatly improved. Horace W. McIntire has contracted to do the work on 3000 yards of the road west of York river, and Charles C. Barrell has the contract for 2000 yards on the east side of the river. The stone work will be commenced this fall, and the job will be pushed to completion as early as possible next spring.

The camp-meeting of the Adventists at Alton Bay opened on the 18th inst. Despite the bad weather there were 10,000 people present.

Belle Mitchell, about fourteen years old, of Holderness, was accidentally shot, Wednesday afternoon of last week, by a toy pistol, in the hands of a boy about six years old, in the abdominal cavity, and narrowly escaped a severe wound. She will recover.

A French boy, named Liberty, had one leg cut off by a car on the down express freight at Warren Summit, Friday afternoon. His recovery is doubtful. His father was killed a few weeks ago near the same place by the Montreal night express, while lying intoxicated upon the track.

Harry Moody, fourteen years of age, son of Solomon Moody of Newport, was drowned Aug. 17th at Northfield while swimming with two other boys. His feet became entangled in lily pads and he could not rescue himself, nor could his mates before life was gone.

The Freehold Sea Serpent's Skeleton.

There comes a story of the skeleton of a sea serpent having been found at Freehold, N. J. It has not been entirely unearthed, but enough has been brought to view to show that the huge saurian must have been from sixty to eighty feet in length. Numbers of huge vertebræ and a portion of the lower jaw, containing sixteen teeth, were found, much to the awe and astonishment of the country people of that locality. Of these teeth the middle ones were in an excellent state of preservation, and the enamel was in as good condition as if the monster had died recently. Prof. Lockwood, of Rutgers college, will send a portion of the skeleton to Prof. E. D. Cope, the geologist, of this city, for examination. Prof. Cope is now in Colorado, and will not be home for some weeks. It is believed that thousands of years ago that portion of New Jersey in which this saurian specimen has been found was the bed of a shallow sea, and it is probable that some convulsion of nature buried the huge monster in the earth.—Philadelphia Times.

Won't You Take Something?

There lived at Terre Haute, Ind., a jovial drinking fellow by the name of Bob Lynn. During the ribbon movement he was converted from the error of his ways, and adorned his coat with the evidences of his new-found faith. The next day as he came down wearing his ribbon, his former associates concluded to have some fun with him. The first one met him in a notion store, and asked him to to take something. He said all right, and pocketed a box of blacking. The next invitation was in a grocery store, and he picked up a fifty-cent package of tea. The next invitation was in a dry goods store, and a neck-tie was the prize. He kept up that until the "boys" got tired of paying for this new kind of treat, and then the business stopped. That evening he exhibited his prizes at the temperance meeting, much to the amusement of the people. It is needless to say that he was not further troubled with invitations to "take something."

Daniel Lee, his wife and two colored girls, were murdered on the night of Aug. 16th in Farrell, Ga., by a negro named Frank Hudson. The murderer was arrested and lodged in jail.

Two Years Ago!

I was a sight to behold, and was unable to enjoy life at all. Now I am a picture of health, and can eat anything. What did it? Sulphur Bitters cured me of dyspepsia and liver complaint, after suffering two years.—W. H. B., Manchester.

Peter Reilly of Willimantic, Conn., was killed last Thursday by John Leary. They had been together in a saloon, and Leary followed Reilly out into the yard, where without provocation he knocked him down, kicked him brutally, and broke his neck. The murderer ran, and the officers caught him after a hard struggle.

When pangs the mortals flesh assail,
And give a bitterness to life,
Making the cheek with anguish pale,
Amid the fierce internal strife
Then Sanford's Ginger soothes the pain,
And smiling Health looks up again.

Nepoleon White of Lowell, Mass., only ten years old, was arrested Thursday afternoon for setting fire to a box of cotton in the picker of the Massachusetts corporation a fortnight since. He was in the mill to see his brother, an employe, and lighting a match threw it into the cotton.

Big Results from Little Causes.

"Do you know?" remarked a man to his friend on Chestnut street, a day or two since, "I believe both Conkling and Platt had a bad case of skin disease when they resigned!" "What makes you think so?" inquired the listener in astonishment. "Well, you see they acted in such an eruptive manner—so rash—ly as it were. Save?" "Oh! yes, I save," replied the other, "they were bail—ing over and merely resigned to humor themselves, I suppose." If such be the case, the National difficulty might have been averted by applying Swayne's Ointment for skin diseases.

Summer Complaints

At this season, various diseases of the bowels are prevalent, and many lives are lost through lack of knowledge of a safe and sure remedy. PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER is a sure cure for Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Cholera, Cholera Morbus, Summer Complaint, etc., and is perfectly safe.

Read the following:

BAINBRIDGE, N. Y., March 23, 1881.
PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER never fails to afford instant relief for cramp and pain in the stomach.
FOSTER BURNETT.

NICHOLVILLE, N. J., Feb. 2, 1881.
The very best medicine I know of for dysentery, cholera morbus, and cramps in the stomach. Have used it for years, and it is sure cure every time.
JULIUS W. DER.

MONWONA, IOWA, March 12, 1881.
I have used your PAIN KILLER in severe cases of cramp, colic and cholera morbus, and it gave almost instant relief.
L. E. CALDWELL.

CARNESVILLE, GA., Feb. 26, 1881.
For twenty years I have used your PAIN KILLER in my family. Have used it many times for bowel complaints, and it always cures. Would not feel safe without a bottle in the house.
J. R. IVEY.

SACO, ME., Jan. 22, 1881.
Have used PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER for twelve years. It is safe, sure, and reliable. No mother should allow it to be out of the family.
H. I. NAYES.

ONEIDA, N. Y., Feb. 18, 1881.
We began using it over thirty years ago, and it always gives satisfaction. We would hardly dare to go to bed without a bottle in the house.
W. O. SPERRY.

CONWAYBORO, S. C., Feb. 22, 1881.
Nearly every family in this section keeps a bottle in the house.
DR. E. MORRON.

U. S. CONSULATE,
CREFELD, RHENISH PRUSSIA, Feb. 6, 1881.
I have known PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER almost from the day it was introduced, and after years of observation and use I regard its presence in my household as an indispensable necessity.
I. S. POTTER, U. S. Consul.

BURTON-ON-TRENT, Eng.
I had been several days suffering severely from diarrhœa, accompanied with bilious pain, when I tried your PAIN KILLER, and found almost instant relief.
H. J. ROONE.

32 MONTAGUE ST., LONDON, Eng.
During a residence of twenty-three years in India, I have given it in many cases of diarrhœa, dysentery, and cholera, and never knew it to fail to give relief.
R. CLARIDGE.

No family can safely be without this invaluable remedy. Its price brings it within the reach of all.

The President's Wound!

A Parallel Case in Army Life.

In the issue of the Philadelphia Record of the 27th of July was published an article relating to the case of Capt. William Palmer, now Quartermaster Second Brigade New Jersey State National Guard, who was wounded at the battle of Mossy Creek, East Tennessee, in the winter of 1863. In that article the striking resemblance of the case to that of President Garfield, in many particulars, was pointed out, the authority for the statement being the brave captain, himself. A still better authority is Dr. David Kennedy, then surgeon U. S. General Hospital, West Philadelphia, who had had charge of the case, and performed the operation of removing the detached bone, and finally extracted the bullet—Capt. Palmer is living to this day in the bloom of health. Dr. Kennedy does not hesitate to say that many of his patients both in military and civil practice owe their lives to the wonderful healing and strengthening powers of his medicine called "Favorite Remedy." The doctor is in possession of an autograph letter from Capt. Palmer, attesting his indebtedness for his present good health to this medicine—"Favorite Remedy"—which he says has doubled the obligation which he felt to the doctor for the treatment of the captain's terrible wound.

While Dr. Kennedy is engaged in the introduction of "Favorite Remedy," he will continue the practice of his profession at Rondout, N. Y., performs all the minor as well as capital operations of surgery. Address as above. 1d12

• GINGER •

Impure water, unhealthy climate, unripe fruit, unwholesome food, cramps, chills, malaria, excessive heat and the thousand and one ills that beset the traveler or family are nothing to those fortified and sustained by the use of Sanford's Ginger, "the delicious." As beverage it quenches thirst, open the pores, relieves the head, regulates the stomach and bowels, eradicates a craving for intoxicants and imparts new life to the languid, exhausted, overworked, nervous and dyspeptic. Beware of imitations said to be as good. Ask for Sanford's Ginger and take no other.

POSITIVELY CURED BY

Benson's Capcine Porous Plasters.

Reasons Why they are Preferred to All Other Porous Plasters or External Remedies:

First.

Because they possess all the merit of the strengthening porous plaster, and contain in addition thereto the newly discovered powerful and active vegetable combination which acts with increased rubefacient, stimulating, sedative and counter irritant effects.

Second.

Because they are a genuine pharmaceutical preparation, and so recognized by the profession.

Third.

Because they are the only plasters that relieve pain at once.

Fourth.

Because they will positively cure diseases which other remedies will not even relieve.

Fifth.

Because over 8000 physicians and druggists have voluntarily testified that they are superior to all other plasters or medicines for external use.

Sixth.

Because the manufacturers have received the only medals ever given for porous plasters.

Prosperity of France.

Gen. E. F. Noyes, ex-minister to France, has returned to this country, and will resume the practice of law in Cincinnati. The general told a New York Tribune reporter that Paris was a dearer place to live in than New York. In speaking of his observations during four years' residence in France, Gov. Noyes said:

France is the most prosperous country in Europe. Her agricultural interests are large, and the people are industrious and economical. The debt is owned at home and the people don't want it paid, because they believe more firmly in their own government than in outside powers. I believe the French republic is a decided success, and think it will be permanent. The death of the Prince Imperial was a great blow to the Bonapartist faction, but the three monarchical parties together are not formidable against the republic. The republican party can hardly be defeated unless by serious divisions among the leaders, which are not to be feared. The days of coup d'etats in France are past. There have been no serious disturbances since I have been there. The government is strong and conservative. The great French leader is Gambetta. I believe the prosperity and success of the French nation is secured.

Wicked for Clergymen.

Rev. ——, Washington, D. C., writes: "I believe it to be all wrong and even wicked for clergymen or other public men to be led into giving testimonials to quack doctors or vile stuffs called medicines, but when a really meritorious article made of valuable remedies known to all, that all physicians use and trust in daily, we should freely commend it. I therefore cheerfully and heartily commend Hop Bitters for the good they have done me and my friends, firmly believing they have no equal for family use. I will not be without them."—New York Baptist Weekly.

How Long Would it take to Count two Millions?

Over two million volumes of the revised edition of the New Testament, were sold on the first day of its issue. These figures can only be equaled by the enormous sales of Swayne's Ointment for Itching piles, which is universally used as a standard remedy for stopping the itching at night, when one thinks that pin worms are crawling about the rectum. To calculate the extent of its sale in actual figures, would involve the labor of a lifetime. Will you be pestered longer from the aggravating piles?

The President.

It appears that the President had two spells of vomiting on Sunday afternoon. Secretary Blaine's despatch to our minister in England, Sunday night, was as follows:

To Lowell, Minister, London: The president's sleep last night was broken and unrestful. His symptoms throughout the day have been less favorable, and his general condition is not encouraging. He is unable to retain food on his stomach, having vomited twice during the afternoon, the last time at five o'clock. This evening he has been able to drink water and retain. The swelling of the parotid gland has not increased. Pulse and temperature about the same as yesterday. His sleep up to this hour (11 P. M.) has been somewhat disturbed. We are all deeply anxious. BLAINE, Secretary.

The encouragement to be derived from the reports of Monday is small. The official bulletin of the physicians at 12:30 P. M. said there had been no recurrence of the vomiting, and no nausea, and gave other particulars, but did not say whether the President was better or worse. The newspaper correspondents reported his mind as having been wandering slightly for several days. During the day he took considerable quantities of milk porridge and koumiss, and no new unfavorable symptoms appeared; Dr. Boynton thought his condition a little improved, but all acknowledged his case critical. Blaine's despatch to Minister Lowell, in the afternoon, was as follows: "The President's condition has somewhat improved since last report. He has not vomited for twenty-one hours, and during the forenoon has swallowed liquid food several times, in all about ten ounces. Weather very warm, but it does not affect him."

News and Notes.

Simmons, head waiter on the steamer Old Colony, was brutally assaulted by a discharged waiter named Worthington in New York on the 16th inst., and died in a hospital at Newport, R. I., on the 20th. The murderer has not been arrested.

Mrs. Sullivan, wife of a young farmer of Calhoun, Ga., was shot and instantly killed by her husband, who discharged two barrels of a shotgun simultaneously at a flock of birds he had been watching from behind a fence, as soon as they reached the fence level, while alighting. He was so absorbed in the birds that he did not notice his wife's appearance.

Stupendous frauds have come to light in the management of the Kings county, N. Y., penitentiary during the past eight years. By false charging for men who were not in the penitentiary, and in other illegal ways, $20,000 per year has been claimed as a deficiency. The present warden, who has been in charge only seven months, has brought the concern not only to a paying basis, but has made a profit to the county and city of Brooklyn of over $1,000 per month.

A despatch of the 21st inst. from Canon City, Colorado, says: "A terrible water spout burst somewhere on Grape creek yesterday, and at six o'clock last night whole sections of railway ties, with iron attached, were running in the Arkansas river, together with bridge timbers, huge pine trees, cattle and horses. The passenger train which left last evening for Silver Cliff is lying twelve miles west of here between two streams, the bridges over which have been washed away. The railroad will probably not be open to Silver Cliff for nearly a week."

Henry N. Ward, Esq., clerk of the justice's court of Newport, R. I., while quietly walking on a principal street Friday evening, was suddenly accosted by a young, well dressed lady, who threw her arms around him. She asked the astonished gentleman, "Is not your name Thompson?" He exclaimed "No!" when she released him and said "Excuse me," and walked rapidly away. Immediately afterward Mr. Ward missed his pocket-book, containing $26. There is no clew to the female foot-pad. The affair caused quite a stir.

Susan Hayden, the New Bedford, Mass., "sleeping girl" who was reported on Tuesday of last week as beginning to show some signs of intelligence, continues to improve. She opens her eyes naturally in a slightly darkened room, and answers questions readily by nodding or shaking her head. Indications are present that she will soon recover the use of her voice. Her appetite is improving fast, and she is able to move her arms a little. Wednesday, the 17th, she gave her friends to understand that she had not been in a trance, but had known much that was going on all the time.

At Fort Smith, Ark., Andrew Latta has been sentenced to fifteen years in prison. His sister had been unfortunate, and Latta took her illegitimate child one night last June and buried it alive. The neighbors suspected Latta's sister, and attracted by his suspicious movements he was watched, and the faint cry of the child was heard, and it taken out. It was unconscious, but not dead, and is now living and well.

The amount of Capt. Howgate's alleged embezzlement is reported to be steadily increasing, and has now, it is stated, reached nearly $100,000. The investigation is said to indicate that the Golnare, Howgate's Arctic vessel, was partially fitted up at the government expense, and various other irregularities, it is alleged, have been discovered in connection with the captain's dealings with the government.

The Ingredients of Beer.

In the interests of "good beer" and the "public benefit" the Business Men's Society for the Encouragement of Moderation on August 9th sent a circular to the beer brewers of New York city and its vicinity, asking certain questions as to the materials used in brewing beer, the amount of beer brewed, and other questions of interest to beer consumers. An answer to its circular was sent by the executive committee of the "Association of the United Lager Beer Brewers of New York and Vicinity," which is signed by seventy-one firms, of which twenty-nine are in New York city, five on Staten Island, twenty on Long Island, eleven in Newark and six "scattering."

The brewers state that some of the association use in making beer, corn not malted, but in the form of corn meal, corn starch, rice or grape sugar, in proportions varying from five to twenty per cent, as a substitute for barley, malt or hops. They say they will discontinue the use of any of these substances when the fact is established that they are adulterations, or are deleterious in beer. They do not use malted corn, molasses or aloes.

They also say they would be willing to have any reputable chemist selected by the Moderation society examine and analyze their stock at his own choice and discretion, and are willing to allow an authorized agent of the society to inspect their "brewing books" and the United States revenue books for the last five years. They employ no essence or extract of hops, nor any substitute for choice hops. They decline to state how many barrels each brewer brewed last year, as the publication of such statistics has been found to foster unhealthy competition in the trade. They brew their stock lager beer in the winter months, and generally have their beer from three to five months old. Very few brewers blend their old and new beer; they nearly all sell their "oldest beer, and aim to attain an age of at least three months." From two and a quarter to two and three-quarters bushels of malt, and from one and a half to two and a quarter pounds of hops a barrel are used. To all these answers they say they are willing to make oath.

The society further asked the brewers to explain their reasons for using other than barley, malt and hops. In complying, the brewers explain the process of brewing, and the way in which glucose is used, to show that the latter substance is not injurious. The moistened grain develops a substance known as diastase, having the power to convert starch into the sugar necessary for the sustenance of the young plant. The diastase in the malt infusion converts the starch of the malt into grape sugar (glucose). Glucose is made in this country from the starch of Indian corn, and is used at a certain stage of the brewing, when used at all, to strengthen the malt tea or wort, and to save excessive boiling, which would give the beer a very dark color. Glucose from Germany, made from potato starch, costs more when imported to this country than barley malt, and glucose made here costs fully as much.

The corn, corn starch, rice, grape sugar and glucose, the brewers further say, are not used to cheapen the beer, but to make desirable variations in color and flavor, the addition of any of those substances making lighter colored beer than malt alone, and each one varying the flavor. The brewers using them believe they make a better beer, and they know that it suits the taste of their customers. None of the substances are cheaper than malt, unless it be corn meal or prepared corn.

FELLOWS' Compound Syrup of HYPO-PHOS-PHITES

THE Power of Arresting Disease displayed by this preparation is honorably acknowledged by the Medical Faculty in every section where it has been introduced; and the large sale is the best guarantee of the estimation in which it is held by the public. For the effect produced by

AROUND HOME.

The Lancaster was visited by a large number of people, including many ladies, on Monday.

Portsmouth, Great Falls & Conway railroad bonds sold at auction in Boston last week for 93 1-4.

Mr. Lewis G. Davis, the photographic artist, was at Gerrish's island, Kittery, on Monday, taking views.

The orders detaching Assistant Engineer John D. Sloane from the navy yard and ordering him to the Lancaster, have been revoked.

In Dover, on the 20th inst., a twelve-years-old daughter of Robert Parker hurried up the fire with kerosene. Result, hair burned off, and head, neck and shoulders severely scorched.

The regular season of the Boston Museum commenced on Monday with Jerrold's play of "Rent day," and the comedy of "Doing for the best." In the latter, a comedietta by H. T. Craven, Miss Bartlett appeared as Emily.

The store occupied by Mr. D. J. Lynch, on Market street, is to be enlarged by an addition in the rear, thirty-five feet by twenty on the ground, and two stories high. Mr. A. Brackett Trefethen will do the mason work, and Mr. Daniel H. Trefethen the carpentering.

Fire caught in the attic of the residence of Chase Goodwin at Kittery, Sunday afternoon at four o'clock, from a defective chimney. An alarm was sounded, but the fire was put out with buckets of water before the navy yard engine arrived. A large quantity of winter clothing and spare bedding was destroyed.

The new comet is now plainly in sight to the unaided eye, in the evening. It is low down in the northern sky, underneath "the dipper" and not far from a small star. The nucleus appears larger than that of the last one, but the tail is not yet as bright. On ordinary opera glass shows the tail to be very long.

The schooner Cocheco, Seawards master, of this port, has arrived at Albany, N. Y., with a cargo of granite from Hallowell, Me. A telegram received in this city on Monday reported her as stuck in the mud, in a position without danger to the vessel, but which will compel her to wait for a higher course of tides.

A Kittery correspondent writes us as follows, under date of Monday, August 22d: The burglars have re-commenced their work in Kittery. Strong suspicions are entertained as to their identity, and it is believed they will soon be arrested. Meanwhile every house is providing with the means to give them a suitable reception; everybody who has a gun has put it in readiness, others have bought pistols, and lively results are looked for." Our correspondent does not report the later exploits of the burglars, but we are glad to learn that the towns-people are loading their shot-guns; an old bell-muzzled ducking-gun that will scatter shot over a half-acre of ground is worth more than a cart-load of revolvers to hit burglars with.

The government tug Cohasset, which arrived at this navy yard on Sunday from Boston, brought but twenty-eight men (petty officers, cooks and wardroom boys) for the Lancaster, instead of one hundred as previously reported. It is rumored that the Cohasset come very near losing a man by drowning on the passage down, through the capsizing in the surf at Rye beach of a boat containing three persons who were sent on shore to ascertain the steamer's whereabouts, her reckoning having been lost in the dense fog of Saturday night and Sunday. On Monday the Cohasset and the Leyden started for Boston to bring down the rest of the Lancaster's crew. The ship's officers reported for duty last Saturday, and on Monday it was reported that she would go into commission on Wednesday.

"The Tourists" will give one of their choice entainments at Music hall next Thursday evening. The company is so well known it is hardly necessary for us to call attention to their performance; the play to be given is entirely new and different from that presented here last season, and the company is also reorganized and improved. A great many seats have been sold at the neighboring summer resorts, so we would advise our citizens to apply at once for reserved seats at Preston's drug store. The Tourists draw crowded houses of the best people. We copy the following from Frank Leslie's Weekly:

"The 'Tourists in the Pullman Car' have blocked the sidewalk leading to Haverly's. The grotesque fun, the bizarre situations, the inimitable 'gag' of this extraordinarily funny performance will not admit of criticism. The 'Tourists' should be seen to be appreciated, and as their stay is a remarkably short one, those who want a 'huge guffaw' should lose no time in securing seats in the next car."

POLICE COURT.

MONDAY, Aug. 22; Batchelder J.

Joseph Brown (case continued from Saturday evening) was adjudged guilty of being a common drunkard, and sentenced to keep sober for thirty days at Brentwood, costs being taxed at $10.32.

FIRES IN EXETER.

The barn of Frank Hayes, in Exeter, was burned on Saturday night last, about midnight, with fifty tons of hay and eighteen head of cattle. Simultaneously with this, the barn of Charles Greeley was also on fire, but was only partially destroyed; in fact, the blaze at Greeley's was first discovered, and while the firemen were engaged there Hayes' place broke out in flames.

County Solicitor Harriman telephoned Sheriff Kent go to Exeter, and instructed him to thoroughly investigate into the cause of these fires. The sheriff accordingly made a personal investigation of the premises on Monday in company with Deputy Sheriff Odlin, and states that there is not the sligitest doubt that both the fires are incendiary. Further endeavors will be made to bring the guilty parties to justice.

Hayes' loss is $3000; partially insured. Greeley's loss is small, but on his property there was no insurance.

A "STUPID BLUNDER" AND AN "ABSURD FALSEHOOD."

Will the CHRONICLE and Journal please correct a stupid blunder in their report of the proceedings of the board of aldermen at their last meeting. They say that Mr. Hatch was allowed $147 for services in laying out the extension of Vaughan street. No such claim was ever allowed or presented. The claim probably referred to is the judgment of the supreme court against the city for the costs of laying out the new highway. $149.20, and includes the fees and expenses of the county commissioners, attendance of witnesses, etc.

If "Curio" was misled by a "stupid blunder," the blunder was not made by the CHRONICLE nor its reporter; for a member of the board of aldermen—and as intelligent and reliable a man as is on the board or in the entire city government—assures me that he understood the matter exactly as it appeared in your report of the doings of the board at the last meeting. The mayor announced that certain bills had "got to be paid" by order of the court, and specified the claims as Mr. Hatch's bill for about $150, (he does not recollect the exact sum,) the county commissioners' bills, aggregating about $100, and a surveyor's bill for $15. The alderman referred to, supposing that of course the bills had been acted on by the proper committee of the previous board, made no objection to the order for their payment. The same article in the Times further says:

In this connection the CHRONICLE will do well to correct a more reprehensible statement of one of its contributers, to the effect that the laying out of the new street is a "railroad job," or in the railroad interest. This absurd falsehood has been so often denied and defuted, that no person who knows anything can repeat it innocently. It is a slander upon the very numerous and respectable gentlemen who originated and carried out this measure, for the sole purpose of promoting the safety of those who have occasion to travel in that vicinity, and to protect the city from the payment of damages to which it is liable if accidents shall happen by reason of the present defective condition of a much frequented street.

Mr. Editor, when I read the previous paragraph my soul was filled with joy, wonder and admiration; with joy, at learning that the Vaughan street extension is not a "railroad job," nor "in the railroad interest," but solely to promote the safety of travellers and "to protect the city from the payment of damages;" with wonder, at the blind fatuity of the citizens and the city government in so earnestly combatting the city's best interests; and with admiration, at the magnanimous generosity of the railroad in so persistently advocating the city's interests in spite of the city's opposition thereto—the city to pay all the bills! The full extent of this glorious magnanimity will be appreciated when it is considered that while the municipal government was paying able counsel to oppose the scheme "to protect the city from the payment of damages," railroad lawyers were engineering it; that of the witnesses who were called to testify as to the necessity for the extension, a large majority were railroad employes; that a civil engineer in the employ of the railroad was sent here to survey the route; and that on the day when the county commissioners viewed the premises, the shifting engine of the railroad did more shifting of cars back and forth across the street between the hours of twelve and one o'clock than had been done during the same hours for three months previously, and all the time since, all put together. CURIO.

MAN ADRIFT.

A passenger on steamer Appledore thus relates the meeting of that vessel with a strange craft on the high seas:

On Saturday afternoon, Aug. 20th, soon after leaving the Shoals and when about eight miles south-southeast of the New Hampshire coast, some of the passengers espied and pointed out a tiny speck on the ocean, which had somewhat the appearance of a short spar buoy, though it was evidently moving swiftly through the water. On approaching nearer we discovered it to be a man, having every appearance of walking rapidly over the heaving seas. Great interest was manifested by nearly all on board at this strange meeting with so novel a means of marine navigation. No smoke; no steam; no sail; no oars or paddles,—in fact, nothing that has hitherto been known as a means of marine propulsion was visible on or about this new water craft. Nor did the aid of the glass throw any light upon the subject. The sea was by no means smooth; indeed, when the strange machine was first discovered it was visible only when it rose to the top of each succeeding wave. We passed it about an eighth of a mile to leeward; the lone navigator waving his hat while our passengers generally returned the salute. We continued to watch with interest the progress of this animated speck upon the ocean until it faded entirely from view in the distance.

The solution of this mystery is that Major Urch made his first visit to the Shoals with the marine bicycle on Saturday afternoon, passing the steamer Appledore both going and returning. He left the mouth of the harbor at 2:45 o'clock, and arrived at the Appledore landing at 4:07, making the run out in one hour and twenty-two minutes. After leaving the Appledore house the major made a run to the Oceanic, at both the hotels being heartily welcomed by the assembled guests, who had espied him coming some time before he reached their shores. Much interest was manifested by all at this visit to their islands of so small and odd a craft. Quite a number of gentlemen at the Appledore obtained permission and tried the machine, manifesting much pleasure with it and its novel construction. The major left the Oceanic for this city 5:15, but owing to a brisk northeaster, which kicked up a heavy sea for a craft so small, did not arrive at the aquarium until seven o'clock. He informs us that he did not see a vessel, boat, or craft of any description save the steamer Appledore, on his homeward trip—something unusual at this season of the year, but owing doubtless to the heavy weather of the past week and the fog of that day.

ANOTHER MAN ADRIFT.

A gentleman of this city designing to spend Sunday with friends sojourning on Gerrish's island, took passage in the steamer Fearless on her last trip down, Saturday night, and was duly landed on the island about a mile from his destination. His troubles now commenced. A thick impenetrable fog, together with the shadows of night, shut out every familiar landmark; our friend became confused—hopelessly lost. Still he wandered on, hallooing at intervals to attract friendly aid, but the only answers were the roaring of the surf and the dismal tooting of the foghorn at Whalesback light. To make matters worse a heavy rain set in about ten o'clock, wetting Jack to the skin, and compelling him, footsore, weary and supperless, to seek shelter under an overhanging rock, there to shiver away the sleepless hours of night. With morning came a lifting of the fog, and lo! not a stone's throw for his comfortless bivouac was the house of his friends, a flag gaily flying in front, a tiny blue wreath of smoke curling upwards from the chimney. This ought to have been a welcome sight to Jack. Not so; disgusted with himself for not finding his friends, and more disgusted with his friends for not finding him, he steals away into the woods, begs breakfast of a charitable farmer, and then walks to this city, arriving in time for a late dinner. "Jack is every inch a sailor."

The Boston Post of Aug. 13th gives the record of Judge Rossi's police court in this city, as published in this journal, which shows seven cases of simple drunkenness before the court in one day, and six the next. These are simple facts. The unsavory reputation which our city is gaining abroad as a place where the prohibitory law is boldly trampled under foot is disgraceful to the republican officials in this city, who have it in their power to stop it but do not.—Biddeford Journal.

New Hampshire Items.

The Spiritualist camp-meeting at Blodgett's landing, Lake Sunapee, opened Aug. 18th, and will close Sept. 5th.

Edwin C. Copeland, the alleged Grafton county horse thief, has been committed to jail in default of $1,000 bail. Last fall Copeland obtained $3,000 pension money, which he has squandered in various ways; it is said he has one wife in Claremont and another in Lynn, Mass. Copeland is notoriously a hard character, bearing an unsavory reputation wherever he has lived.

The Claremont union camp-meeting opens Wednesday, Aug. 24th, and continues one week under the direction of Rev. H. A. Spencer, presiding elder of the Claremont district, and Rev. O. H. Jasper, presiding elder of the Springfield (Vt.) district. Ample accommodations have been furnished for those wishing to attend, and cottages are now filling up fast.

The supreme court has decided to accept bail in the sum of $20,000 in the case of Ellery Albee, the defaulting treasurer of the Ashuelot savings bank at Winchester, who is now in jail at Keene. This action of the court was taken after the presentation of professional proof that the prisoner is in failing health. He is now suffering much from rheumatism, one arm being almost useless. There is, however, great doubt regarding Albee's ability or that of his relatives to furnish the bail specified. Attorney General Tappan has directed Bank Commissioner Lyman of Exeter to make and complete examination of all the books and important papers of the broken savings institution.

—A New York "99-cent store" was robbed a few nights ago of eleven gold bracelets, six watches, three diamond pins, fifteen gold brooches and fifty-four finger rings. The loss is estimated at $2,20.

—In a village near Cork a physician was disturbed one night by repeated tappings at his door, and on getting up he found a laboring man. "Have you been here long?" "Indeed I have," answered the caller. "Why didn't you ring the bell?" "Och, because I was afraid of disturbing your honor!"

—The proprietor of a drug-store in a neighboring town was recently putting up a prescription, and being in doubt about it, asked of the cashier, who sat near, "Jennie, how many scruples does it take for a drachm?" "I've seen you take a dram without any scruples," was the instant reply. The proprietor concluded that when he needed any more information he would consult his dispensatory.

"Stubbs, did you ever see a phonograph?" "Yes; and it was saying, take Adamson's Botanic Balsam for coughs, colds and asthma."

Mrs. John Leonard was killed, and Miss Lavinia Chase badly hurt, at Brattleboro', Vt., on the 20th inst., by a horse running away.

It is generally conceded that the majority of diseases are accompanied by faulty digestion. No remedy has before been discovered which has so beneficial an influence as Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites.

I have derived much benefit from using Fellows' Hypophosphites in chronic constipation. JOHN B. MOORE, Forest City, Montana.

"Buchupalba."

Suicide and Dyspepsia.

Edward W. Hasey, sixty-seven years old, and married, was found dead in the Hamilton canal at Lowell, Mass., on the 21st inst.

Cured of Drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for liquor, which had so prostrated him that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all that burning thirst; took away the appetite for liquor; made his nerves steady, and he has remained a sober and steady man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups; I know of a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it."—From a leading R. R. official, Chicago, Ill.—Times.

The captain, engineer and one deckhand of a tug were killed at Chicago on the 20th inst., by the explosion of the boiler. Two other men were hurt, one fatally, and the tug sunk at once.

Big Results from Little Causes.

"Do you know?" remarked a man to his friend on Chestnut street, a day or two since, "I believe both Conkling and Platt had a bad case of skin disease when they resigned!" "What makes you think so?" inquired the listener in astonishment. "Well, you see they acted in such an erupt̀ive manner—so rash—ly as it were. Save?" "Oh! yes, I save," replied the other, "they were troll—ing over and merely resigned to humor themselves, I suppose." If such be the case, the National difficulty might have been averted by applying Swayne's Ointment for skin diseases.

Summer Complaints

At this season, various diseases of the bowels are prevalent, and many lives are lost through lack of knowledge of a safe and sure remedy. PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER is a sure cure for Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Cholera, Cholera Morbus, Summer Complaint, etc., and is perfectly safe.

The President's Wound!
A Parallel Case in Army Life.

In the issue of the Philadelphia Record of the 27th of July was published an article relating to the case of Capt. William Palmer, now Quartermaster Second Brigade New Jersey State National Guard, who was wounded at the battle of Mossy Creek, East Tennessee, in the winter of 1863. In that article the striking resemblance of the case to that of President Garfield, in many particulars, was pointed out, the authority for the statement being the brave captain, himself. A still better authority is Dr. David Kennedy, then surgeon U. S. General Hospital, West Philadelphia, who had had charge of the case, and performed the operation of removing the detached bone, and finally extracted the bullet—Capt. Palmer is living to this day in the bloom of health. Dr. Kennedy does not hesitate to say that many of his patients both in military and civil practice owe their lives to the wonderful healing and strengthening powers of his medicine called "Favorite Remedy." The doctor is in possession of an autograph letter from Capt. Palmer, attesting his indebtedness for his present good health to this medicine—"Favorite Remedy"—which he says has doubled the obligation which he felt to the doctor for the treatment of the captain's terrible wound.

While Dr. Kennedy is engaged in the introduction of "Favorite Remedy," he still continues the practice of his profession at Rondout, N. Y., performing all the minor as well as capital operations of surgery. Address as above. 1d12

A Couple of Swindles.

Some swindles, no matter how thoroughly exposed, have long lives. Here is the "powder to prevent lamp explosions." It is over ten years ago that we showed up this powder, a pinch of which put into the lamp would not only prevent explosion of the oil, but insure against the breaking of the chimney. This wonderful stuff was nothing but common salt, colored blue with ultramarine, and, of course, utterly without effect in preventing explosions. We had not heard of this for several years, until a Spencerport paper came to hand with an account of the success of this swindle in one of the finest portions of New York state. Two well-dressed chaps not only sold the powder, but offered premiums of furniture and carpets to purchasers. At last accounts "they turned east at Ogden Center church," driving at full speed, and we regret to say that the sheriff failed to come up with them.

A friend sends us a show-bill of "an excelsior gas burner," which fairly shouts and screeches for persons to act as agents for it, and asks our opinion as to his taking the agency. We have read over the sheet carefully, and advise him, unless he wishes to become accessory to manslaughter, to let it alone. Though it is not so stated in plain terms, this burner is to be used with naptha, benzine, or similar light petroleum products, something "that will cost one-half less than kerosene." It claims over and over to give a "gas light," which is simply untrue. It is a contrivance for burning the vapor of one of the liquids mentioned. A gas is permanent at ordinary temperatures, the vapor produced by the heat of the burner is no more a gas than is steam. That a bright light may be produced is very likely, but there is always great danger when any of the liquids of the benzine class are in use. The sale of gunpowder is regulated by law, and so is the sale of poisons in most states, but these dangerous liquids, more dangerous than gunpowder, because so little is known of their real nature, may be sold freely in every country store. No device of burner, no form of lamp, can make it safe to have these liquids in use in the house.—American Agriculturist.

Sulphur for Fowls.

Those people who remember the "brimstone and treacle" which it was the fashion fifty or sixty years ago to administer to children in the spring of the year as an antidote against all possible and impossible "poisonous humors," may very likely have a prejudice against the use of sulphur,—a prejudice not lessened by Dickens' exhibition of its administration and effect on the poor wretches in "Dotheboys Hall" under the stimulus of Mrs. Squeers' vigorous pat with the huge iron spoon when any unlucky boy declined the yellow-green mass which she offered to antidote his morning's repast. But if we wish to have our fowls live and flourish we must set aside any little squeamishness in regard to the use of sulphur, and serve it more or less constantly in their food, besides dusting their nests and the birds themselves with a portion of "flowers" when any symptoms of parasites appear among the flock. It has been found to be one of the preventives and curatives in diphtheria among children, and its use in similar throat difficulties among poultry cannot but be beneficial. Vermin are an almost omnipresent evil in the poultry yard, and sulphur freely used is the surest remedy. But it seems a refinement of cruelty to make almost the entire nest, as some do, of the ill-smelling, and, when too largely used, injurious material. The tender chicks must think themselves ushered into a disagreeable world with sulphur above and sulphur below, and sulphur smells wherever they go. Use it, good friends, without abusing it.—Am. Poultry Yard.

It gives me great pleasure to say that Adamson's Botanic Balsam cured me of a severe cold, to which I have been subject, especially during the winter months, and I have in many instances recommended it to my friends, and all have been benefitted by its use. We think it has no equal as cough mixture.

How Long Would it take to Count two Millions?

Over two million volumes of the revised edition of the New Testament, were sold on the first day of its issue. These figures can only be equaled by the enormous sales of Swayne's Ointment for Itching piles, which is universally used as a standard remedy for stopping the itching at night, when one thinks that pin worms are crawling about the rectum. To calculate the extent of its sale in actual figures, would involve the labor of a lifetime. Will you be pestered longer from the aggravating piles?

Portsmouth Chronicle.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 24, 1881.

[Entered at the Post-Office at Portsmouth, N.H. as second-class matter.]

The President.

The department of state has received from Dr. R. Ellis, an eminent surgeon of England, through Minister Lowell, a package of draining tubes and other surgical instruments of which he is the inventor, which are largely used in the English hospitals and which he recommends for use by the president's physicians. The package has been forwarded to the surgeons having charge of the president's case. The instruments are accompanied with full instructions how to use them, and also with a letter of endorsement from Sir James Paget, one of England's greatest surgeons.

ROME, Aug. 15th.

To the Hon. James G. Blaine, Secretary of State, Washington: As the holy father learned with painful surprise and profound sorrow the horrid attempt of which the president of the republic was the victim, so now is he happy to felicitate his excellency upon the news that his precious life is now out of danger, and will ever pray that God may grant him a speedy and complete recovery of his health and long spare him to the benefit of the United States. The undersigned has to join in these sentiments of sincere congratulations and wishes for complete recovery.

L. CARDINAL JACOBINI.

To which Secretary Blaine sent the following answer:

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22d.

To his Eminence, L. Cardinal Jacobini, Rome: Please convey to his holiness the sincere thanks with which this government received the kind expression of his prayerful interest in behalf of the stricken president. Since your message was sent the president's condition has changed, and we are now filled with anxiety but not without hope. The president has been very deeply touched by the pious interest for his recovery shown by all the churches, and by none more widely or more devoutly than by those of the Roman Catholic communion.

JAMES G. BLAINE, Secretary of State.

The reports on the 23d offered little ground for hope. The President's stomach was said to be acting a little better; but the most that could be said of his general condition was that he appeared to be no worse than on the previous day. The Boston Traveller of Tuesday evening contained the following:

Despatches received by Messrs. Lee, Higginson & Co., and Kidder, Peabody & Co., in this city, over their private wires from New York and Washington, respectively, say that Vice-President Arthur has been sent for to proceed to Washington at once; and that Secretary Blaine said in reply to a question this afternoon that he had no encouragement to give. Another despatch from the same source says that President Garfield had not recognized his wife since yesterday, and was growing weaker.

News and Notes.

Two men were killed by a car which was making a "flying switch" at Providence, R. I., Aug. 23d.

Sam Saxon and another negro were taken from jail at Orange, Texas, Monday night, and shot to death by a mob.

It is reported that the Russian government has decided to request the extradition of the man calling himself Leo Hartmann in New York.

Private advices say the explorer Stanley is lying dangerously ill half way between Stanley pool and the mouth of the Congo river, in Africa. He has so little faith in his own recovery that he has made his will.

A child of Mr. Whitney of Livermore, Me., tipped a pitcher of hot water on its person, on Sunday, causing death in a few hours.

Willie Holt, aged six years, son of William Holt of Gardiner, Me., was drowned in Cobbossee stream, Aug. 22d, while playing on some logs. The body was recovered.

Mrs. Mahala Connor, forty-eight years of age, committed suicide Sunday night by drowning herself in a small brook near her house, in Windsor, Me. The cause was mental aberration.

Lieut. Henry O. Flipper, the colored cadet who graduated at West Point in 1877 and has since served in the tenth cavalry, has been arrested at Fort Davis, Texas, as he was on the point of starting for Mexico with about $2000 of government money. He has for some time been acting commissary of the post.

James W. Merrill, of Brunswick, Me., doing business in Boston as a produce broker, is under arrest, it being alleged that he hired a woman to entice a little girl named Nettie Whitney, twelve years old, residing with her parents on Leverett street, Boston, into house No. 9 Minot street, where it is charged he committed a felonious assault upon her on Wednesday of last week.

A double divorce suit, in which Adelina Harris sues for release from marital bonds to Daniel Harris and Wang Lee, a Chinaman, is agitating Memphis, Tenn.

Legal proceedings have been initiated against Bishop Loughlin of Long Island, for an accounting of funds connected with St. Anthony's Catholic church at Greenpoint. On Sunday last the priest read an order of excommunication of all members who had participated in the proceedings, and closed the church by the order of the bishop. Considerable excitement ensued, but no violence.

The secret Irish council, of which O'Donovan Rossa is the leading spirit, has issued a proclamation threatening to destroy all English merchant vessels after Sept. 1st, and warning the public not to take passage on them after that date.

The steamer City of Bangor left Bar Harbor, Mt. Desert, early in the morning on the 22d inst., with about forty passengers, and in a short time ran on a sunken ledge off Schooner head, knocking off her propeller and disabling her rudder. The disabled steamer was towed to Southwest Harbor. There was a dense fog at the time of the accident.

The investigation ordered by Governor Hamilton of the charges against the democratic registers of votes in Baltimore, although incomplete, shows that in seven wards there is a fraudulent registration of over 8000 names. This fully sustains the estimate that there are 20,000 names on the lists of Baltimore that have no right there. It remains to be seen what the party in Maryland which declares for a "pure ballot" will do about this astounding fraud.

It is said that S. Dana Hayes, formerly state assayer of Massachusetts, who disappeared from Boston about a year ago, has been seen twice lately in Denver, Colorado.

Naval Affairs.

The secretary of the navy has ordered a general court-martial to convene at the Charlestown navy yard for the trial of private James F. Freeman, U. S. M. C., who is charged with desertion. The following officers have been ordered to compose the court: Captain C. C. Carpenter, senior member; Commander Smith W. Nichols, Lieutenant-Commander Charles O'Neil, Lieutenant Frank W. Nichols, First Lieutenant L. H. Washburn, U. S. marine corps.

Commodore Earl English, chief of the bureau of equipment and recruiting, visited the navy yard at Charlestown on the 22d inst.

The U. S. S. Vandalia, Capt. R. W. Meade commanding, arrived at Boston on the 22d inst. She has recently been cruising along the British provinces.

—A lady who had quarrelled with her bald-headed lover said, in dismissing him, "What is delightful about you, my friend, is, that I have not the trouble of sending you back any locks of hair."

—A New York boy, seven years old, was bitten by a Spitz dog, which showed signs of madness. The boy's condition has since been watched with interest, but it is now thought he will recover, for since the time of the biting he has fallen out of a second-story window, shot himself with a toy-pistol, been kicked by a horse whose tail he twisted, and taken a swallow from a kerosene can under the impression that it contained soda water. Anxiety regarding his case has therefore been transferred to the dog.

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere. 25 cents a bottle. eow2 n 2 d g o52

The Evils that Attend Success.

Success generally creates envy—envy begets hatred—hatred gives place to malice—malice prompts mischief, and the baneful list goes on followed by crime and wrong doing. The Louisiana State Lottery, established by the highest authority, meets with no exception to this rule. Its success, induced by integrity and honesty in its management, with liberality and charity, have caused to spring up in New York opponents who try to circulate all kinds of false reports as to its permanency and ability to redeem its promises. Let every one who has lingering doubts write to M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La., to establish the truth that all that is promised will be performed.

AROUND HOME.

The steam yacht Nameless came in from Gosport roads on Tuesday morning, and left with her owner, Gen. Lawrence, on board for the Oceanic, later in the day.

A reference to the revised time-table of the steamer James Sampson will show that she now makes two trips each way daily between this city and Kittery Point, her landing at the latter place being near the bridge.

The White mountain travel is just now very heavy. The trains on the Eastern railroad to and from the mountain regions are unusually long, and well filled. During the next three weeks will be the most agreeable time to visit the mountains.

Maj. Urch started for Newburyport on one of his marine velocipedes, Tuesday afternoon, leaving the mouth of the river at three o'clock. He followed the coast around all the way, enjoyed a brisk shower which wet him to the skin, and arrived at Newburyport at seven o'clock. Leaving the machine there he returned home by rail.

Twenty-five seamen for the Lancaster arrived at the Boston navy yard on Monday of this week, from Philadelphia. The battery for the Lancaster, which has been in course of preparation at the Boston yard, was so nearly completed on Monday that a large number of mechanics and laborers were discharged from the ordnance department.

Officers of the Straw Rifles of Manchester and the Cadets of Great Falls went down river in the yacht Wm. H. Russell on the 21st inst., as guests of the officers of the Portsmouth City Guards. Though the sea was far from smooth, and the fog very thick "in spots," the schooner put to sea and remained out a good part of the day, running in during the afternoon and anchoring inside of Stillman's rock, where some of the captures of the forenoon were transformed into a chowder.

A wealthy Boston gentleman remarked recently on the piazza at the Wentworth, that "this is the most beautiful spot upon our entire coast. Go to any other watering place and you may have a good view of the ocean, but nowhere is seen such a magnificent inland view as here. The sunset view upon the western side of the house is unequalled anywhere. I have," said he, "been to every watering place in New England, but for beauty of location, and landscape and ocean view, I maintain the Wentworth is superior to all." So say we all.

Considerable interest was manifested in some quarters as to which of the two government tugs, the Cohasset and Leyden, would make the best time between this port and Boston, they having left the navy yard on Monday within five minutes of each other. The Leyden arrived at the Charlestown navy yard half an hour before the Cohasset, and could have widened the gap a good deal without much exertion. The Leyden will probably not return before Friday or Saturday, the men for the Lancaster not being ready for immediate transfer.

The City Guards, (Co. C, 1st Regt. N. H. N. G.,) Capt. J. E. Ford commanding, are doing some excellent work in the way of drill, and propose to bring their organization to a point where it will compare favorably in proficiency and discipline with any company they may meet, in or out of the state. This company, in spite of many drawbacks, not the least of which has been lack of public appreciation, has managed to outlive the favorite "crack" companies of the centennial year, the Light and Heavy Artillery; some excellent material has lately been recruited, and the company we believe will soon prove itself to be more deserving of public support than ever before.

The wife of Judge Asa Fowler, of Concord, while driving at Rye beach a few days ago, was thrown from her carriage and considerably bruised.

Sheriff Kent received a despatch on Tuesday forenoon that his mother, who is at the Bartlett house, Upper Bartlett, was quite ill, and thither he repaired on the afternoon train.

Major General W. S. Hancock passed through this city on Monday afternoon over the Eastern railroad, bound to Boston, where he expected to remain a short time to examine the fortifications.

Prof. Warren K. Day, of Concord, who was a leading music teacher in this city some years ago, and also organist at the Universalist church, is sojourning at the Ocean Wave hotel, Foss' beach, Rye.

The steamer Gen. Bartlett, from Haverhill, Mass., with an excursion party, came into port on Tuesday. Some of the party were not on hand when she left, and had to take rail transportation to get back to their homes.

The Amesbury (Mass.) News says: "Elder Waite, 'artist evangelist,' is now drawing the gospel net at Lynn. After the camp-meeting season is over he proposes to cast his net for gudgeons in the variety show business. Great is humbug."

We are requested to say by members of the board of instruction that the public schools will re-open next Monday, August 29th. An impression seems to have gone abroad that they commence a week later, which is not the case. The High school opens September 5th.

The captain of the steamer James Sampson complains that as the boat was coming up the river from Kittery Point on Tuesday, on one of her regular trips, she was run into near Seavey's island by the tug Naumkeag, the latter striking the James Sampson in the stern; he further alleges that he was compelled to stop and back his boat, to avoid being crowded ashore by the Naumkeag.

The Boston Post of Tuesday, in its report of the opening entertainment at the Museum on the previous evening, says: "Miss Clarke, Mrs. Vincent, Miss Martinot and Miss Bartlett, were each the recipients of most enthusiastic demonstrations of welcome, and beautiful floral offerings added fragrance to these testimonials. * * Miss Bartlett showed that fine appreciation of her role and the delicate sense which have characterized her acting hitherto, and which have served to secure for her a high position in the esteem of discriminating playgoers."

CARELESS SHOOTING.

While Mr. Wood, partner with Mr. Martin Hoyt in the hair-dressing business, was sitting at a window in the rear of their rooms on Congress street at half-past one o'clock Tuesday afternoon, a bullet whizzed just over his head, passing through two panes of glass (the lower sash of the window being raised) and burying itself out of sight in the wall some distance away, at a point several feet lower than where it entered the window. Mr. Wood left the chair without further ceremony. The bullet was travelling with great speed when it passed through the window, as is evidenced by the clean holes made in the glass; and it appeared to have come from the direction of the top of the custom house, as nearly as Mr. Wood could make out.

The stage at the navy yard bridge, used as a landing for steamer James Sampson, is being overhauled, and the steamer lands her passengers during the repairs at the town wharf in Kittery.

The schooner Triton, Capt. Card, engaged as a regular liner between Eliot and Boston, has gone upon the marine railway at Kittery, for a thorough overhauling below the water line.

The Cliff house at Bald Head cliff, York, is crowded. It has entertained a larger company this season, both regular and transcient, than ever before. The road to the cliff has been greatly improved since last year.

Elbridge G. Knight of Farmington, N. H., had a very narrow escape from death on the 21st inst. He left Portland, Me., on the afternoon train, getting off at Kennebunk. He had been drinking, and forgetting to get on the train again was left behind. Not aware there was another train in the evening he proceeded to walk home, but after tramping half a mile, lay down on the track and fell asleep. It was well for him he didn't do so near a curve, as it would have been his last sleep. The engineer of the Old Orchard beach return train observed Knight lying on the track, and brought his train to a stand-still within four feet of the drunken fellow, who was perfectly insensible to the terrible danger in which he lay.

American Wines.

The vintage of 1880 was estimated (including raisins and table grapes,) at $3,500,000, the principal item being 9,500,000 gallons of dry wines at twenty-five cents, 700,000 of sweet wines at sixty cents, and 450,000 gallons of brandy at $1.15. California is described as best supplied with Rhine wines, and is notably deficient in clarets, the Zinnfandel, of which Californians are very proud, and which generally passes for claret, being a Hungarian stock. There are no Burgundy plantations, nor any of true sherry grapes, the nearest approach to the latter being the Mission. Despite the drawbacks and disadvantages under which the infant industry labors, the California commissioners are confident that a great future is in store for the wines of that state, and that within a few years the wine product will be 100,000,000 gallons. In this confidence a very good authority at Marseilles shares, holding that, though America will not compete with France in high-class wines, her cheap wines for popular consumption will find a market; while, as to high-class wines, the American champagnes recently introduced into Paris and Havre have stood the test of competition with the best French growths.

The consumption of wine in the United States is large and increasing. In 1876, the value of the wine imported was $4,750,000; in 1880, it was $5,650,000, despite the increase of the home production. The importation of champagne in 1877 was 132,689 cases; in 1880, it was 214,822; this year it will be much larger, despite the advance in price, as the returns for May show an entry of 23,000 cases, as against 13,000 in May, 1880. There is here a large business to be secured, and the statistics with regard to common wines are quite as interesting and much more sensational. Though the vineyards of Bordeaux and Burgundy have been seriously affected by unfavorable weather and the phylloxera, there is no decrease in the consumption and exportation of those wines. More wine than ever is drank at home; more than ever is sent abroad. The inference is inevitable that the deficiency of production is made up by the manufacture of "wine" from other substances than grapes, or by the exportation of wines imported from other countries. The British consul at Bordeaux has reported a remarkable increase of importations from Spain and Portugal, amounting last year to 715,000 quintals; our own representative reports an increase of 100 per cent in one year in the quantity of wine imported from Mediterranean ports. In 1870, France exported $44,606,000 worth of wine, and imported $980,800 worth; in 1879, the exports were $45,917,000, and the imports $21,074,400. Millions of gallons of "wine" are retailed annually in Paris at about one-half the cost of producing the wine at the press, leaving out of the question the freight and the dealers' profits.

Raisins, glucose and potato spirit are the materials most employed in the manufacture of bogus wines, while cheap, thin, acid wines from Italy, Algeria or Russia are mixed and doctored, and sent abroad as the growth of Bordeaux or Burgundy. So openly has this sophistication been conducted, that at international exhibitions manufacturers have competed for prizes with their drugs and processes, and the government has been compelled to order an investigation. The prosecutions instituted by the German officials in Baden have revealed the fact that millions of gallons of "Rhine wine" have been fabricated annually out of "potato spirit, yeast, sugar, raisins and dye stuffs."

Though the existing tariff here is not favorable to the importation of low-priced wines, it would be too much to hope that people who were rascally enough to compound such mixtures, would be too philanthropic to employ them in the poisoning of innocent and unsuspecting foreigners. But, in every case, the fact that such wholesale adulteration of two wines most in favor in this country, the growths of Bordeaux and the Rhine region, is practised, will create a prejudice, or at least a suspicion, which must insure to the advantage of American wine-growers who can produce a pure, sound wine at a low price. And, as inevitably such fraud is detected and resented by the consumer, the French exporters will have nobody but themselves to blame if they find American light wines not only largely consumed here, but competing favorably with them in the markets of Europe and other European countries.

In October, Messrs. James R. Osgood & Co. will publish a new novel by Miss Blanche Willis Howard, whose former book, "One Summer," made such a decided hit.

Mrs. Martha J Lamb is to write the "Young Folk's History of New York" in Messrs. Estes & Lauriat's "Great Cities of the World." The same publishers announce a holiday edition of Tennyson's "Brook," with illustrations by Woodward, Bellows and Miss Humphrey.

Roberts Brothers, of Boston, announce a new edition of Miss Alcott's works, and a holiday edition of Jean Ingelow's "Songs of Seven."

New Hampshire Items.

The Boston Journal announces that Hon. Mason W. Tappan has accepted the re-appointment as attorney general of the state.

Owing to an epidemic of diphtheria at the Proctor house, in Andover, the guests have left that hotel. Three hundred started for home Monday morning. Three deaths have occurred, and one person is now sick.

A French boy named Gereau, seven years old, had both legs cut off by a train at East Haverhill, last Friday afternoon, and died Saturday night. He tried to board the train while it was in motion.

Henry Meserve of Berk Sweet is over seventy-six years old, while his worthy wife is a few years his junior. Notwithstanding this he has cruelly abused her several times within a short period. On Thursday last he assaulted her with a horsewhip, inflicting severe injuries, and compelling the unfortunate woman to flee to the house of a neighbor. Saturday she returned and was again abused, and the police officers were called but arrived when the abuse had ceased. We know of one man who will use the horsewhip on Meserve if he repeats any more of his cruelty.—Dover Democrat.

Early Frosts in the Garden.

Our gardens are often at their best in early autumn. We have a few days of early frost, in which the very tenderest things are killed off, and then follow days, often weeks, of the most delightful weather, in which the plants that have escaped the first frost are at their best. It is very disheartening to the amateur to see his beds of coleus, and cannas, all limp and useless, while the hardier geraniums seem to laugh at the disaster. So far as we have noticed, this is the usual experience, and it occurs to us so regularly each year that it seems worth while to prepare for these early frosts, in order to prolong the enjoyment of the garden. These early visitations, though sufficient to kill the tenderest plants, are so slight that they may be easily warded off. Whatever may be placed over the plants to prevent radiation of heat, will answer. The taller the plants, of course the more difficult it is to protect them. We have preserved a bed of tall cannas, by setting a still taller pole in the center, tying a sheet by its middle to the pole, and letting the sheet hang over the plants, its edges being supported by them. Beds of coleus and other tender plants may be readily protected by newspapers, held up by sticks placed here and there in the bed. Indeed, in early autumn, the newspaper is a most useful horticultural appliance, not only in the flower garden, but in the vegetable garden. By a proper use of newspapers for a few nights—the early frosts rarely continue for more than three nights—the crop of tomatoes may be prolonged for several weeks; especially where the plants are trained, as we have so often advised, to a trellis or a support of some kind.—Am. Agriculturist.

Rescued from Death.

William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., says: "In the fall of 1876 I was taken with a violent bleeding of the lungs followed by a severe cough. I soon began to lose my appetite and flesh. I was so weak at one time that I could not leave my bed. In the summer of 1877 I was admitted to the city hospital. While there the doctors said I had a hole in my left lung as big as a half a dollar. I was so far gone at one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs. I laughed at my friends, thinking that my case was incurable, but I got a bottle to satisfy them, when to my surprise and gratification, I commenced to feel better. My hope, once dead, began to revive, and to-day I feel in better spirits than I have the past three years.

I write this hoping you will publish it, so that every one afflicted with diseased lungs, will be induced to take Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs, and be convinced that consumption can be cured. I have taken two bottles and can positively say that it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness." Sold by all druggists.

—You can's always judge from outside appearance. Who, for instance, would believe the plump and sleek exterior of the shad covered such a wilderness of bones?

Grandmother Says!

When she was a girl that her mother always gave her sulphur and molasses to purify her bood, but she now gives Sulphur Bitters to her grandchildren as it is the best medicine she ever saw.—The Father.

—A New York Chinaman was asked his age, for the census. He thought it was the draft, and, wishing exemption, he replied: "Ninety years oldee, allee timee."

Big Results from Little Causes.

"Do you know?" remarked a man to his friend on Chestnut street, a day or two since, "I believe both Conkling and Platt had a bad case of skin disease when they resigned!" "What makes you think so?" inquired the listener in astonishment. "Well, you see they acted in such an eruptive manner—so rash—ly as it were. Save?" "Oh! yes, I save," replied the other, "they were boil—ing over and merely resigned to humor themselves, I suppose." If such be the case, the National difficulty might have been averted by applying Swayne's Ointment for skin diseases.

The President's Wound!

A Parallel Case in Army Life.

In the issue of the Philadelphia Record of the 27th of July was published an article relating to the case of Capt. William Palmer, now Quartermaster Second Brigade New Jersey State National Guard, who was wounded at the battle of Mossy Creek, East Tennessee, in the winter of 1863. In that article the striking resemblance of the case to that of President Garfield, in many particulars, was pointed out, the authority for the statement being the brave captain, himself. A still better authority is Dr. David Kennedy, then surgeon U. S. General Hospital, West Philadelphia, who had had charge of the case, and performed the operation of removing the detached bone, and finally extracted the bullet—Capt. Palmer is living to this day in the bloom of health. Dr. Kennedy does not hesitate to say that many of his patients both in military and civil practice owe their lives to the wonderful healing and strengthening powers of the medicine called "Favorite Remedy." The doctor is in possession of an autograph letter from Capt. Palmer, attesting his indebtedness for his present good health to this medicine—"Favorite Remedy"—which he says has doubled the obligation which he felt to the doctor for the treatment of the captain's terrible wound.

While Dr. Kennedy is engaged in the introduction of "Favorite Remedy," he still continues the practice of his profession at Rondout, N. Y., performs all the minor as well as capital operations of surgery. Address as above. 1m18

Naval Affairs.

The Ticonderoga, with Commodore Schufeldt on board, arrived in New York on Aug. 23d, from a two years' cruise around the world. The following are her officers: Commander, Bartlett J. Cromwell; lieutenants, E. W. Sturdy, Hobart L. Tremain, Franklin J. Drake, Kossuth Niles and Charles E. Vreeland; ensigns, Walter S. Hughes, F. F. Fletcher and David Daniels; passed-assistant surgeon, R. A. Urquhart; passed-assistant paymaster, H. Trumbull Stancliff; chief engineer, Frederick G. McKean; passed-assistant engineers, Samuel Graff, and Joseph P. Mickley; cadet engineers, G. W. McElroy and Joseph R. Wilmer.

The Telephonic Dispute.

Advices from Harrisburg, Pa., say: "The conflict over the speaking telephone which has been going on here for several months between the rival claimants of Drawbaugh and Bell, is approaching the end. One hundred and six witnesses have been examined and cross-examined. The substance of their testimony is that Drawbaugh conceived the telephone and experimented on his theory as far back as 1864, and that he had it so far advanced as to talk through it, and be distinctly heard and understood at a period as remote as 1869. As Bell, Gray and Edison only go back to 1875 in their claims, the possible outcome of the prolonged litigation is open to a favorable anticipation for the Drawbaugh claimants. The whole question, it seems, rests on the priority of the invention."

John McDonough of South Boston, aged seven years, on the 22d inst. shot himself through the right hand, and lodged a shot in the neck of Lizzie Curry, aged six years, while playing with a toy pistol. If he had only had a navy revolver it is thought he would have made things quite lively around there.

Ash-Tonic;

A perfected purifyer of the system. In 1-2lb. bottles; 75 cents. For dyspepsia, the many forms of liver complaint, impure and impoverished blood, and functional derangements attendant upon debility. For symptons indicated by indigestion, loss of appetite, nausea, sick headache, sour stomach, furred tongue, drowsiness, blanched lips, sallow complexion, pain in the side or back, eruptions, depression of spirits, nervous irritability and hysteria, and for building up the system, ash-tonic is unquestionably the most prompt and energetic remedy yet devised.

—A Philadelphia census-taker says he is surprised at the large number of full-grown idiots he found. Every sour-visaged woman he met said her husband was an idiot.

Wicked for Clergymen.

Rev. ——, Washington, D. C., writes: "I believe it to be all wrong and even wicked for clergymen or other public men to be led into giving testimonials to quack doctors or vile stuffs called medicines, but when a really meritorious article made of valuable remedies known to all, that all physicians use and trust in daily, we should freely commend it. I therefore cheerfully and heartily commend Hop Bitters for the good they have done me and my friends, firmly believing they have no equal for family use. I will not be without them."—New York Baptist Weekly.

—You don't find dime novels and fish-story papers in the rooms of Vermont boys. No, indeed! The tables are covered with hymn book- and testaments and "The Pilgrim's Progress." They keep the other stuff hidden in the barn, where the old man won't find it.

How Long Would it take to Count two Millions?

Over two million volumes of the revised edition of the New Testament, were sold on the first day of its issue. These figures can only be equaled by the enormous sales of Swayne's Ointment for Itching piles, which is universally used as a standard remedy for stopping the itching at night, when one thinks that pin worms are crawling about the rectum. To calculate the extent of its sale in actual figures, would involve the labor of a lifetime. Will you be pestered longer from the aggravating piles?

Portsmouth Chronicle.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 25, 1881.

[Entered at the Post-Office at Portsmouth, N.H. as second-class matter.]

The President.

The President's swollen parotid gland was opened on the 24th inst., by Dr. Hamilton, in presence of other physicians. The President stood the operation well, and said it gave him immediate relief. "A more hopeful feeling" is reported as existing in Washington, but on what grounds the hope is based is hard to see.

News and Notes.

Lucius Witham, a middle-aged man living with Widow Olden, just off the main road in the town of Readsboro', Vt., was fatally shot by an unknown party when about to retire and while sitting on the edge of the bed, Monday night, Aug. 22d. The shot was fired through the window from the outside, and is supposed to have been the act of a neighbor with whom Witham had quarrelled, and who had threatened the latter's life.

A despatch from Tucson, Arizona, dated Aug. 23d, says: "The sheriff has just arrived from Deming, and reports that not less than twenty-five settlers have been killed fifteen miles north of Nutt station, within ten days, by the Mescalero Apaches. The Indians are now moving south in Chihuahua. They crossed the Southern Pacific railroad fourteen miles east of Gage last night, about seventy-five strong. This morning one hundred soldiers and fifty Indian scouts struck their trail, and are in close pursuit."

On Tuesday morning, Aug. 23d, Mrs. Susan Gage of Portland, Me., an elderly lady, fell dead. The cause was a tumor in the stomach, weighing twenty-five pounds.

In Lake Valley, Col., a few days ago, Lieut. Smith and twenty soldiers overtook a strong party of marauding Indians, and attacked them. The troops were suffering severely when a band of twenty armed miners under command of George Daly arrived and joined in the fight, and the Indians were routed with great loss. Lieut. Smith, George Daly and four other whites were killed, and eleven wounded. The Indians lost heavily, but carried off their dead and wounded. Lieut. Smith was one of the most promising officers of the ninth cavalry. Lieuts. Dimmick and Taylor are in pursuit of the savages.

The New York Tribune wastes a column of its valuable space to prove that Vennor's predictions for the weather did not come within hailing distance of the actual weather during the month of July, as shown by the record.

SOME MORE.

Mr. Editor: If you will allow me space for just this one more communication I will not trouble you again,—at least not for several days. The Times of Aug. 23d says:

"Curio" again appears in the CHRONICLE, saying that he has not yet found out about the bills ordered paid at the last meeting of the board of aldermen, and further says that one of the aldermen had said that he understood the matter as the CHRONICLE had reported it. He undoubtedly understood wrong.

Not a bit wrong. He understood it exactly as the CHRONICLE reporter did, and as did the only other alderman with whom I have spoken on the subject. And the two aldermen to whom I refer are the peers of any members of the city government, for intelligence and reliability. Once again the Times:

It would seem that "Curio" is not very anxious to learn the truth of the matter; had he been he could have easily examined the city clerk's records of the meeting of the board—which are supposed to be public property—and there found out the full particulars, and which were, we think, reported correctly in the Times on the day following the evening of the meeting.

I have said nothing as to what may or may not appear on the records of the board; I have referred only to the business of the board as it was actually transacted. "The full particulars" as "reported correctly in the Times on the day following the evening of the meeting," were as follows:

Several bills were approved and ordered paid.

A very "full" and "particular" report that, indeed! I will close my extracts from the Times by giving you two at once:

Will the CHRONICLE and Journal please correct a stupid blunder in their report of the proceedings of the board of aldermen at their last meeting. They say that Mr. Hatch was allowed $147 for services in laying out the extension of Vaughan street. No such claim was ever allowed or presented.—Times, Aug. 20th.

Perhaps "Curio's" writing was prompted by a spirit of jealousy because he did not have a bill to present as well as Hon. Albert R. Hatch and the rest.—Times, Aug. 23d.

The first of the two preceding extracts evidently aims to convey the impression that Mr. Hatch did not present any bill; the last one apparently admits that he did present one. But whether he did or not is immaterial; the real question at issue is, whether or not the board of aldermen voted to pay a batch of bills not contracted by the city nor in the city's interest, without any enquiry whatever into the justice of the charges or into the city's legal obligation to pay them. Burnett's Flavoring Extracts, always standard.

A COUGH, COLD OR SORE THROAT should be stopped. Neglect frequently results in an incurable Lung Disease or Consumption. "Brown's Bronchial Troches" do not disorder the stomach like cough syrups and balsams, but act directly on the inflamed parts, allaying irritation, give relief in Asthma, Bronchitis, Coughs, Catarrh, and the throat troubles which Singers and Public Speakers are subject to. For thirty years "Brown's Bronchial Troches" have been recommended by physicians, and always give perfect satisfaction. Having been tested by wide and constant use for nearly an entire generation, they have attained well-merited rank among the few staple remedies of the age. Sold at 25 cts. a box everywhere. 1m.2b & f(cutlines)

THE WEATHER.

U. S. SIGNAL OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, D. C.
Aug. 25, 1:30 A. M.

Probabilities for New England:—

Warmer fair weather, preceeded near the coast by clearing weather, variable winds mostly southerly, lower pressure.

The Thermometer at the CHRONICLE Office, at 4:00 o'clock this morning, registered 59 degrees above zero.

AROUND HOME.

The clam-bake appointed for Friday is postponed to Wednesday next, 31st inst.

The weirs at Gerrish's island, which were badly used up by the recent easterly weather, have been put in complete order once more.

The schooner Water Lily brought in four sword-fish, and the Clara Belle nine, on Wednesday of this week. One of them weighed 480 lbs.

The dials of the city clock were taken down from the North church steeple on Tuesday of this week, to be painted and have the figures gilded.

About twenty-five soldiers of the late war, now living in this city, are in attendance on the grand reunion of Maine soldiers and seamen at Portland.

The schooners Annie Whiting, N. V. Rokes, Hannah E. Shubert and W. D. Cargill, all with coal to J. Albert Walker—1537 tons in all—arrived at this port on the 24th inst.

The party from Brooklyn, N. Y., who have been camping out at Sea point, Gerrish's island, for the past four weeks, break camp on Saturday next. They do so with many regrets.

The officers of the Mechanics' Association of this city have received invitations and complimentary tickets to the opening of the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanics' fair in Boston, Sept. 1st.

The steamer Mystic brought large numbers of passengers across the river from Kittery on each of her trips on the 24th inst., quite a large proportion of them being strangers, probably summer visitors.

Major Urch will visit Haverhill, Mass., to-day, on his marine velocipede, starting from Newburyport. He has been invited by the National Scientific Association to exhibit his invention at their fair in Chicago during the months of October and November.

The boat race on Wednesday of this week, from the Concord railroad wharf around the stone beacon and return, between two boats manned by employes of the shoe factory, was won by the Fawn, pulled by Fernald and Danielson of the cutting room. Time eighteen minutes.

The moss gatherers at Kittery Point are doing unusually well this season, although the weather has not been favorable for drying the moss. They expect to clear $70 a month, for the three months ending Sept. 1st. The moss is sold to Hon. Frank Jones for brewing purposes.

A bass weighing seventy-nine pounds was captured near Fishing islands in the lower harbor on Wednesday of this week, by Mr. Zach. Randall. The big fish made a hard struggle for its life, and it was two hours from the time it was hooked before it was "landed" in the fourteen-foot boat, which was half full of water at the last. The fish, which was bought by C. Sullivan & Co., attracted a good deal of attention from fishermen, being the largest one ever taken here, it is said.

On Sunday night, the 21st inst., an attempt was made to burglarize the house of Mrs. Blatchford, living on Water street, by a man who climbed to the roof of a shed and broke a pane of glass in a second-story window, which awoke the inmates of the house, whose movements in turn frightened the would-be burglar, who ran away. On the following night a suspicious-looking fellow was seen prowling around back yards at the south end, and an effort was made to interview him, but he made good use of his legs, and escaped.

The yacht "Republic," of Providence, R. I., H. J. Steere, Esq., owner, arrived in the lower harbor Aug. 24th.

Prof. Moses G. Farmer, for some years past electrician at the United States torpedo station at Newport, R. I., has resigned that position. Prof. Farmer was formerly a teacher in this city.

The superintending school committee of Kittery had a hearing on Tuesday afternoon, Aug. 23d, upon a complaint of the recent punishment of pupils in the high school by the teacher, Mr. Rowell. The committee disapproved of the action of Mr. Rowell in the premises, and propose to try the experiment of conducting the school without corporal punishment.

Frank Sandford, of Newmarket Junction, went on an excursion to Haverhill, Mass., Aug. 23d, and on his return left the train at South Newmarket, got drunk, and some time during the night started to walk to the junction on the Boston & Maine railroad track. On the way he became stupified and went to sleep on the track, and the midnight freight train from Boston for Portland cut both his legs off just above the knees. The wounded man laid where he was hurt until morning, when he was found and aided; but he cannot recover. The engineer of the train knew nothing of the occurrence. Sanford is twenty-one years old, and unmarried.

Capt. Amee, of the tug Naumkeag, says that the report in the CHRONICLE of Aug. 24th concerning the running into the steamer James Sampson by his boat on the previous day is not only making a mountain of a molehill, but is widely at variance with the facts. The two boats were coming up the river, the Naumkeag in the tide and the James Sampson in the eddy, the latter of course moving over the ground considerably the faster of the two, as the eddy was with her and the tide against the Naunkeag. When the James Sampson shot into the tide from the eddy she took a sheer, and swung against the Naumkeag, the former's guard catching on the latter's, well aft, and hanging there a moment, when the two vessels went clear. There was no damage done, the slight collision was through no fault of the Naumkeag's, the latter could not have forced the other boat ashore had she wished, and had no wish to harm the Sampson or any other boat had she had the power.

A number of prominent gentlemen from out of town arrived here on Wednesday forenoon of this week, on their way to Hampton beach to call upon Ex-Minister Noyes, who was expected to arrive at Boar's Head that day. The party included Senator Rollins, Hon. E. Ashton Rollins of Philadelphia, Congressman Briggs of Manchester, Hon. Wm. E. Chandler, District Attorney Daniel G. Rollins of New York, Franklin J. Rollins, of Portland, Me., collector of internal revenue, Superintendent Chamberlin of the Concord railroad Railroad Commissioner J. E. French, and "Put" of the Manchester Mirror and other representatives of the press. The programme laid out by the party was to embark on the steamer James Sampson, with invited guests from this city, and steam around to Hampton, and after visiting there run down to Boon island and possibly to the Isles of Shoals, making the excursion last through Thursday. The steamer left with the party about noon, taking along Charles Wallace to point out the best fishing grounds, and Charles Benson as pilot; but she arrived back at half-past six o'clock the same evening, the weather and state of the sea not being favorable to the carrying out of the original plan. The steamer made the run to Boar's Head in a little over an hour, and the party landed and dined there, the boat starting on her return shortly after five o'clock. Some of the party left on the evening train for Dover and Great Falls.

THE TOURISTS.

This evening, at Music hall, Smith & Mestayer's "Tourists in a Pullman Palace Car" will be presented. The piece is said to be greatly improved from what it was last season, when it was one of the most amusing things offered; the company too, good as it was then, is claimed to be much superior now. We can assure all who may attend that they will have several hours of mirth.

EXCURSION TO HAVERHILL.

On Monday next, August 29th, the steamer "General Bartlett" will make a trip from Portsmouth to Haverhill, Mass., and return, leaving the wharf at the foot of State street at nine o'clock A. M., and allowing passengers two hours in Haverhill. This is probably the only opportunity the citizens of Portsmouth will have this season for an excursion of this kind, and those who desire a pleasant and health-giving trip will do well, and we think will surely be satisfied, if they lay aside their cares for the day, and with their families make the trip to Haverhill. The best of order will be maintained on the boat. This trip will afford a fine view of all the summer resorts on the coast of New Hampshire, and also give an opportunity of beholding the beautiful scenery of the Merrimac river from Newburyport to Haverhill. The fare for the round trip is only one dollar; children half price.

THE "LANCASTER."

The U. S. S. Lancaster, which has for some time been undergoing repairs at this navy yard, is now nearly ready for sea, and we assert without fear of successful contradiction that she is in as nearly perfect a condition as any government vessel ever fitted for sea at this yard, or any other; and yet, with all the modern improvements made, the cost of the work has been considerably less than similar repairs made to vessels at other yards. All the work has been done under the superintendence of Naval Constructor T. D. Wilson, who has spared no exertion to perfect the ship in every respect as a useful vessel of war, and a comfortable and healthful home for the officers and seamen who are to remain on board of her for the next three years.

In the matter of ventilation, which is a sort of specialty with Mr. Wilson, he can be congratulated that his plans have met his own expectations, and surpassed those of all others; the blowers used for the circulation of air are from the Boston Co.'s works, and several trials made with the apparatus show that in less than five minues the foul air can be exhausted from the ship, and fresh air driven through every part of her. This, with the Wilson air-ports which have been supplied to the ship, will secure a constant and abundant supply of pure air. The spaces between the timbers from the keelsons to the spar deck are utilized as ventilators, and pipes are arranged to convey the foul air from the bilges to the spar deck. Still further to secure the best possible conditions for health, the arrangements are such that there are no spaces in the ship that cannot be reached to be cleansed. The floors of the store rooms, magazines, shell rooms and shot and chain lockers, and the limber boards, are on a level with the main keelson, and not with the sister keelsons as has previously been the case. The ship has not been lengthened between perpendiculars, but by making the lines sharper both forward and aft her extreme length has been increased about eight feet, and a great improvement effected. She has water-tight compartments forward and aft. As to strength, she is one of the staunchest vessels in the navy, and it has been the aim of the constructor in charge to add to her strength in every available manner. There are two magazines, one aft and one forward, and three shell rooms, one forward and two aft. The shot lockers and all rooms used for storage are well ventilated.

The officers' quarters are all fitted up in the best manner. The admiral's and captain's quarters are on the spar deck, and supplied with furniture of a new and unique design; these quarters are so arranged with folding doors that in case of need both apartments can be thrown into one. The ward room, steerage and warrant officers' quarters are all commodious, and can but be appreciated by those who will occupy them. All the officers' quarters are provided with electric bells. But it is not the officers only whose comfort and convenience has been attended to, for more than ordinary care has been given to the quarters of the men, who will have plenty of space for sleeping, there being room enough to sling 450 hammocks.

The rigging of the ship has been fitted in the most thorough manner, and reflects credit on those having that branch of the work in charge; no better work is needed. The same may be said of the spar work, which is all that could be demanded. The bowsprit is so arranged that in case of need it can be run in, to allow the ram to be used. The capstan is fitted to work by steam power, and will be used in heaving up, catting and fishing the anchors, and for other heavy work. A steam steering apparatus has also been put in, and experiments made with it seem to insure its entire success.

Chief Engineer Macomb and his competent assistants have reason to be entirely satisfied with themselves and their work. At the first starting of the engines they worked as smoothly and evenly as though they had been running for months, and they are ready for use and not merely for trial. The arrangement of the firing and engine rooms is excellent, and will be appreciated by those whose duties call them to either place.

The battery of the Lancaster is arranged on a new design. The broadside guns work on a railway fastened to the deck, and so planned that each gun is trained and elevated by a single man, and that very quickly. No breechings or side tackles are needed, and none are used. The recoil is regulated by compressors. The eight broadside guns and the two pivot guns are eight-inch rifles, "converted" from eleven-inch smooth bore Dahlgren guns. The only failure in the working of the battery is that there is not quite space enough in the ports to allow of extreme elevation; in all other respects it seems a perfect success in its working.

The operations on this ship, since orders were received to fit her for sea, have been pushed with unusual rapidity; and although several of the attachments for the ship were delayed beyond the stipulated time, she has been gotten ready to start on her cruise on the date specified, and is much nearer completeness than vessels going into commission ordinarily are. As a sample of the manner in which the work was pushed we may mention that she was taken into dock, her propeller, jacket and ram fitted and put on, her bottom coppered, and the ship put out of dock, in thirteen days. Those who have had charge of the work on this ship, and those who have done the labor, are entitled to the commendation of the navy department, for the ship they have turned out will bear comparison with any in the navy, as to the thoroughness of the work and the rapidity with which it was done, the perfection of the fittings and appliances, and last, but not least, the moderation of the bills.

The officers ordered to the Lancaster reported on Saturday, Aug. 20th. Originally it was intended by the department to detail Rear Admiral Fairfax to relieve Rear Admiral Howell, who is now in command of the European squadron; but at the request of Adm. Fairfax he is to be placed on the retired list, and Commodore Nicholson has been appointed to relieve Adm. Howell and will soon hoist his flag on the Lancaster.

"A THRILLING EXPERIENCE."

Manchester people who were at Rye beach yesterday witnessed a thrilling experience, and from Mr. G. D. Jones, of this city, we learn the following particulars: The steamer Cohasset left Boston at noon on Saturday, with a party of twenty marines, who were to be transferred to the Lancaster war-ship at Portsmouth. When off Hampton beach those running the steamer lost their bearings, owing to a heavy fog, and were compelled to anchor for the night. Sunday morning the boat was seen off Rye beach about eleven o'clock, at which time she was hoisting signals of distress and whistling vigorously for help. Captain Albion R. Philbrick and David Philbrick, residing near Rye beach, took a small boat and went to their assistance, but before reaching the steamboat three of the marines took another small boat and commenced pulling for the shore. As they neared it the surf was so heavy that their boat was capsized, and they only escaped drowning after a desperate struggle, being finally pulled out of the water in an exhausted condition by the spectators along shore. Captain Philbrick reached the boat in safety and piloted her off Philbrick's beach, where the broken machinery on the boat was repaired, and the captain then piloted the boat into Portsmouth. There is a life-saving station within a mile of where the steamboat signalled for help, but during all the trouble none of the occupants of it put in an appearance.

One reason why none of the occupants of the life-saving station appeared no doubt is that the station is not manned at all in August.

The fact that there is only one church in the city of Portsmouth which pays a tax, the valuation of all the others being placed below ten thousand dollars, demonstrates one of two things—either the churches of that city are very poor affairs, or the assessors fail to do their duty. Undoubtedly the trouble is in the latter direction. In many other places there is a similar delinquency.—Manchester Union.

There are two churches in this city which pay a tax,—the Congregational church on $2100, and the Unitarian church on $3000, above the $10,000 exempted by law.

Wild Bill, the Scout.

The surrender of Sitting Bull recalls one of the "genuine Indian scouts" of Gen. Custer. He was a fellow of the most singular temperament and was known on the plains as Wild Bill, albeit his actual name was James Hickok. Wild Bill, under circumstances of particular aggravation, shot and killed a desperado in Missouri. Years afterward, "Bill" became a member of Buffalo Bill's droll theatrical company, and, in compliance with the story of the play, had to repeat every night upon the stage the killing which, as a reality, had made him famous. "Bill" watched the first rehearsal patiently, then he went to the stage manager: "I can't kill that thar chap, no how," quoth Bill. "Why not?" inquired the manager. "Well," said Bill, tranquilly, "Buffalo slings him around in the first act, and Maeder clips him in the ear in the second act, and Mrs. Maeder drives him out of the ranch with a broom in the third act; then I've got to kill him after all in the fourth act. Why, I never killed such a coyote as that in all my life! It's all wrong, pardner! It's all wrong, making him out such a squawman as that! By goll, sir, he war the biggest gentleman I ever shot!"

Although he carried a dozen bullets more or less deeply imbedded in his flesh, "Wild Bill" never sustained an internal wound. He was killed, while playing cards, by a scoundrel who, for $500 blood-money paid him by gamblers, sneaked up behind "Bill" and blew his brains out. "Bill" was, strangely enough, a very honest and courageous fellow, and in his office of marshal was the terror of the "crooked" gamblers of the territory. The post-mortem examination of his remains explained his immunity from penetrative bullet wounds. It was discovered that his ribs were welded together, the intercostal cartilages and muscles having ossified. His lungs and heart, therefore, were naturally protected by a cuirass of bone. Such was the wonderful rapidity with which "Bill" could draw his pistol, that, even in the sudden death which befell him, he had time enough and sense enough to put his hand upon the butt of his revolver—The Hour.

A Democratic View.

The situation of parties as regards the prohibitory liquor law is about the same in Maine and New Hampshire. In both states the law was passed by a republican legislature, but republican administrations have enforced it only in particular localities, and then, generally, for partisan effect. The democratic party, although presumed to be opposed to prohibitory legislation, has not had the courage to come out boldly and say so. The law, however, has long been a dead letter in New Hampshire, and therefore it is not surprising that the democrats have not thrown down the gauntlet and made prohibition or license an issue. Not so in Maine. Whenever and wherever the republicans could gain a point by enforcing the law, they have done so. Year after year the democrats, as individuals, have denounced it, but when they have met in convention they have either dodged the question, or refused by vote to oppose it, by placing a good license plank on their platform. It is our candid opinion that if the democrats of Maine would put such a plank in their platform next year, and then stand by it throughout the campaign, they would poll a larger vote than they have yet polled, if they did not sweep the state.—Boston Post.

Orders have been given for the manning and opening of the life-saving stations upon the Atlantic and Gulf-coast for the ensuing season. At a majority of the stations the men are to go on duty September 1st, and at the remainder September 15th. The stations are to remain open and manned until May 1st, 1882.

And home restores to health and peace.

Secretary Windom had decred the award of the gold medal of the life-saving service to Capt. Charles P. Smith, the gallant commander of the Seawanhaka, and the medal arrived from the mint the day before Capt. Smith died. The testimony required by the law to be filed in such cases was not received at the department in time to enable an earlier issue of the medal.

Cured of Drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for liquor, which had so prostrated him that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all that burning thirst; took away the appetite for liquor; made his nerves steady, and he has remained a sober and steady man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups; I know of a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it."—From a leading R. R. official, Chicago, Ill.—Times.

A ferryboat with five people has been carried down the Rio Grande river, near Eagle Pass, Texas, and it is feared all are lost.

Big Results from Little Causes.

"Do you know?" remarked a man to his friend on Chestnut street, a day or two since, "I believe both Conkling and Platt had a bad case of skin disease when they resigned?" "What makes you think so?" inquired the listener in astonishment. "Well, you see they acted in such an eruptive manner—so rash—ly as it were. Save?" "Oh! yes, I save," replied the other, "they were boil—ing over and merely resigned to humor themselves, I suppose." If such be the case, the National difficulty might have been averted by applying Swayne's Ointment for skin diseases.

The President's Wound!

A Parallel Case in Army Life.

In the issue of the Philadelphia Record of the 27th of July was published an article relating to the case of Capt. William Palmer, now Quartermaster Second Brigade New Jersey State National Guard, who was wounded at the battle of Mossy Creek, East Tennessee, in the winter of 1863. In that article the striking resemblance of the case to that of President Garfield, in many particulars, was pointed out, the authority for the statement being the brave captain himself. A still better authority is Dr. David Kennedy, then surgeon U. S. General Hospital, West Philadelphia, who had had charge of the case, and performed the operation of removing the detached bone, and finally extracted the bullet—Capt. Palmer is living to this day in the bloom of health. Dr. Kennedy does not hesitate to say that many of his patients both in military and civil practice owe their lives to the wonderful healing and strengthening powers of his medicine, called "Favorite Remedy." The doctor is in possession of an autograph letter from Capt. Palmer, attesting his indebtedness for his present good health to this medicine—"Favorite Remedy"—which he says has doubled the obligation which he felt to the doctor for the treatment of the captain's terrible wound.

While Dr. Kennedy is engaged in the introduction of "Favorite Remedy," he still continue the practice of his profession at Rondout, N. Y., performs all the minor as well as capital operations of surgery. Address as above. 1st12

Borneo.

During our journey to and from the mountain, we met occasional parties of natives from the far interior on their trading excursions, the women, as a matter of course, carrying the heaviest loads; while the men carried nothing save a little food in a bag behind them, and their arms. Some had buffaloes with them. The women, as a class, are strong and healthy, with small hands, feet, and well-proportioned features. Indeed, in many cases, the young girls are very pleasing in form and figure, and have lovely black hair and the brightest of expressive black eyes. Early marriages, hard labor, and exposure in the fields, however, soon make sad havoc of beauty and shape and old hags of them. Their drapery is nothing worth mentioning, and in such a climate but little is required. Their manners are gentle and timid. Often, when we met them quite suddenly, they showed no surprise, even though they had never seen a white man before. They make affectionate wives and tender mothers. Indeed, I never saw a child beaten or children roughly dealt with during my years stay in the island.

In the capital and elsewhere on the coast, young Malay women are almost invariably kept secluded from the gaze of strangers; but here among these hills and, as elsewhere among the aboriginals proper, we found the women enjoying perfect freedom with the men.

While staying at these villages, all the women and girls flocked to see us, and watch the event and did not with evident interest. The young girls were especially confident, and formed laughing groups around us, chatting to each other in low, modulated tones, and evidently comparing notes on their observations. They frequently brought us little presents of fruit and eggs and fowls, and were delighted with the needles and thread, looking-glasses and white cloth, which we gave them in return. Some of the younger girls were much handsomer than the Malays, and stood lovingly together as they watched our movements.

Looking-glasses were considered fashionable at the time of our visit; and we could have disposed of many more with advantage, had we had them with us. Combs were not so desirable, since these are made by their husbands or sweethearts; and they are often very prettily decorated with carved work.

Some of the men seem "thoroughly domesticated," and I saw them affectionately nursing their naked little babies at night or in the day-time, while mamma had gone to the field for food or the forest for fuel. I particularly noticed the younger married men standing behind their nice little wives at night when we were at dinner. They folded their brown arms around their necks, and whispered loving gossip in their ears, evidently well contented with themselves and with each other; and perhaps their love is as real and as ardent and as true as it is in high places where dress clothes are worn. The farther one travels, the more plainly does one see how deep-rooted and how world-wide are all the springs of human feeling, whether of love and joy, or death and sadness. In every land and in every breast is written the great cry, "One touch of nature makes the whole world kin."

One night after dinner, a bevy of dusky beauties and gallants gathered around our mats; and, to afford some amusement, I showed them several carte de visite portraits of friends which I had with me. They were particularly interested in that of one lady, and examined it very attentively. Not a bead or button escaped their quick eyes. But they soon began asking questions: was she married? how many children had she? was she a good wife? I asked what they meant by the last question. "Well," they answered, "did she bring plenty of firewood? and could she clean padi [rice] well?" Thus, a woman among these tribes of villagers earns her good name as a wife by her capacity for physical labor. This is also so among other savage races. They were much interested in all particulars of dress as shown by the carte; but one girl regretted at the absence of rattan coils around the stomach and "chawats" of thick brass wire on the waist, and more of the like effect, all from the Kiau stand-point; for Kiau and its simple fashions are held to be inviolable. Kiau is all the world to them!—From a Naturalist's Journal.

How Long Would it take to Count two Millions?

Over two million volumes of the revised edition of the New Testament, were sold on the first day of its issue. These figures can only be equaled by the enormous sales of Swayne's Ointment for Itching piles, which is universally used as a standard remedy for stopping the itching at night, when one thinks that pin worms are crawling about the rectum. To calculate the extent of its sale in actual figures, would involve the labor of a lifetime. Will you be pestered longer from the aggravating piles?

—Young man, don't waste your energies in attempting to wear too delicate a shade of clothes; the girls don't care for them; their own finery occupies their attention.

Two Years Ago!

I was a sight to behold, and was unable to enjoy life at all. Now I am a picture of health, and can eat anything. What did it? Sulphur Bitters cured me of dyspepsia and liver complaint, after suffering two years.—W. H. B., Manchester.

—"Never leave what you undertake until you can reach arms around it and clinch your hands on the other side," says a recently published book for young men. "Very good advice, but what if she screams?" ask a bashful paragrapher.

Rescued from Death.

William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., says: "In the fall of 1876 I was taken with a violent bleeding of the lungs followed by a severe cough. Soon I began to lose my appetite and flesh. I was so weak at one time that I could not leave my bed. In the summer of 1877 I was admitted to the city hospital. While there the doctors said I had a hole in my left lung as big as a half a dollar. I was so far gone at one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs. I laughed at my friends, thinking that my case was incurable, but I got a bottle to satisfy them, when to my surprise and gratification, I commenced to feel better. My hope, once dead, began to revive, and to-day I feel in better spirits than I have the past three years.

I write this hoping you will publish it, so that every one afflicted with diseased lungs, will be induced to take Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs, and be convinced that consumption can be cured. I have taken two bottles and can positively say that it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness." Sold by all druggists.

Portsmouth Chronicle.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 26, 1881.

[Entered at the Post-Office at Portsmouth, N.H. as second-class matter.]

The President.

The condition of the president remains unchanged. A consultation of the physicians was held as to the advisibility of removing the patient; it was decided by the majority that it would be unsafe. The physicians are somewhat apprehensive as to the result of the operation on the parotid gland. His condition on Thursday was about the same as on Wednesday, except that his pulse was a little higher. Taking everything into consideration the president has not gained any ground since Wednesday morning.

News and Notes.

The Buffalo & Rock City Pipe Line company began the delivery of oil at Buffaly, N. Y., Aug. 23d. This is the first independent anti-Standard company organized un h r the act o" 1878. The pipe is sixty-four miles long, with a diameter of four inches, and when full contains 5,000 barrels. Midway between Buffalo and Rock City is the only intermediate pumping station. The oil is coming at the rate of 220 barrels an hour. The tanks at Buffalo have a capacity of 148,000 barrels.

Gen. Leslie Coombs, distinguished as a soldier in the Mexican war and as a whig politician and member of Congress, died at Lexington, Ky., Aug. 23d, aged sixty-eight years.

At Sherman, Texas, Aug. 23d, a quarrel between Ex-Sheriff Planton and Jas. Todd was settled by a bullet through Planton's head and another through Todd's heart, both men dying instantly.

A despatch from Houston, Texas, dated Aug. 24th, says: "The military have taken possession of Orange, where eight men were lynched yesterday. Further outbreaks are feared. The committee of 150 are still searching the country for other members of the gang. Communication with the outside world is cut off, as the citizens have driven from the town railroad employes, telegraph operators and newspaper men."

Fuller, the confidence man who induced Goodnow of Boston, the wealthy liquor dealer, to buy the barque Western Sea and load her with cotton, and Mosher, the captain of the vessel, have been sent to Massachusetts from Machias, Me., on the requisition of the governor of Massachusetts.

James Andrews, a track-walker on the Troy & Greenfield railroad, was run over and killed near North Adams, Mass., Aug. 24th.

Ernest Bessom and Edward Percival, boys about sixteen years old, were hunting in the woods four miles from Mansfield, Mass., Aug. 24th, when the former was fatally shot by the latter. The shooting was accidental.

Mrs. Kate Griggs, wife of the lessee of the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad, died at Long Branch a day or two since from blood-poisoning, supposed to have been caused by her use of an anti-fat medicine.

The Maine Beet Sugar company had to make 1,221 separate contracts in four different states to get 7,000 tons of beets last year. Some of the roots came from the Mohawk country all the way to Portland, and the expense of agents, freights, etc., brought the cost at the factory up to seven or eight dollars per ton.

Mr. George Millett was riding a bicycle from Marblehead to Salem, Mass., near midnight on Monday, Aug. 22d, where he was savagely attacked by a stray horse, which ran after him, knocking him over and damaging his bicycle. The police made a search for the animal, but could not find him. That horse is evidently opposed to cheap labor and free competition in transportation.

Dr. Astrander, a leading Pittston, Pa., physician, hanged himself on Tuesday morning, Aug. 23d.

About two o'clock Tuesday morning, Aug. 23d, unknown parties entered the jail at Monroe, La., took out Perry Mason and Alexander Wilson, both colored, charged with murder, and hung them some distance from the town.

The Maine Central railroad has further increased its equipment by adding two fine postal cars. They are named "Bangor" and "Augusta," and are to run from Bangor to Boston. They are finished in ash, cherry and white wood, and are furnished with all the modern improvements.

The new Eastern telegraph company, which was chartered by the last Maine legislature and organized in May, has commenced work. The company has contracted with John G. Moore & Co to construct 500 miles of line from Boston through the state of Maine to Bangor. The poles are now being distributed on the Eastern railroad, and the line will be completed to Portland in thirty days, and extended through the state in six months. It is understood that the line will be operated in conjunction with the Mutual Union.

The perfect of the Seine has informed Mr. Morton, United States minister at Paris, in a letter which is very complimentary to him and the Americans, that the Place de Bliche, where his official residence is situated, has been named the Place des Etats Unis.

The World's Crops.

M. Estienne, a high European authority, has brought out his estimates of the world's crops for 1881. This involves a wide survey and very careful observation. The results, by countries, are as follows:

France. The reports of the wheat crop in France are this year from over a larger area, and indicate a better crop, than last year. This year's barley, is not so good as in 1880, but is fairly. The maize crop is very ordinary. Oats and rye are fair. On the whole the crops are not up to those of last year, but wheat is not much below the average. None of the crops will be very good.

Great Britain. Wheat is ten per cent below the average, and likely to realize 10,000,000 quarters. Barley is ten per cent above the average, and oats are twenty per cent below the average. The year is one in which the farmers are not likely to recoup themselves for losses during the past five years.

Austria and Hungary. The crops are good all round. Wheat and barley are both above the average. Rye is very much, and oats are slightly, under the average.

Italy. The reports from Italy agree that the crops are of medium quality, and much below the abundance of those of 1880.

Turkey. In the Turkish provinces on the Danube the wheat harvest will be medium. Rye is good and abundant. Barley is good as regards quantity, but bad in quality. Oats are very much above the average.

Russia. All the reports from Russia agree that the barley is the best crop of the year, doubling that of 1880 in quantity, but not so plump and weighty. Rye is abundant.

Germany. Wheat is good throughout Germany. Winter and spring sowings are in marked contrast, the former yielding good and the latter very defective crops. Oats are very good. Barley is thin, and none of the crops are of the average. In the Prussian states the crops are fair.

Switzerland. The Swiss wheat crop is very poor in quantity, owing to drouth, but in quality it is very fine. Oats and barley are good in quantity and quality, but there is a small area sown of the latter.

Spain. All the crops in Spain are bad.

Holland. All the cereals in Holland are in good condition.

A COUGH, COLD OR SORE THROAT should be stopped. Neglect frequently results in an incurable Lung Disease or Consumption. "Brown's Bronchial Troches" do not disorder the stomach like cough syrups and balsams, but act directly on the inflamed parts, allaying irritation, give relief in Asthma, Bronchitis, Coughs, Catarrh, and the throat troubles which Singers and Public Speakers are subject to. For forty years "Brown's Bronchial Troches" have been recommended by physicians, and always give perfect satisfaction. Having been tested by wise and constantly increasing demand for nearly an entire generation, they have attained well-merited rank among the few staple remedies of the age. Sold at 25 cts. a box everywhere. 6m,th & f oct1,s81

England estimates that she will need 128,000,000 bushels of wheat in addition to the home crop, to carry her people through the winter. As the crops of France and Russia are short, she is looking to the United States for supplies. Hence the boom in the Chicago grain market.

Are you going on the excursion to Haverhill?

A large safe made by Dame & Co., of Boston, was put into the office of the collector of internal revenue, on the second floor of the custom house, on Thursday. Its weight is 6500 pounds.

The steamers Leyden and Cohassett, from the Charlestown navy yard, arrived at this yard between five and six o'clock in the afternoon on the 25th inst., with the men for the Lancaster.

The semi-annual meeting of the New Hampshire Medical society is to take place on Sept. 1st, at the Wentworth house. At least the preliminaries we understand are now being arranged.—Dover Republican.

A very large audience assembled in Music hall, Thursday evening, when the reconstructed "Tourists" took their first trip of the season in the "Pullman Palace Car." There is more laughable nonsense in the piece—it cannot be called a play—than there was last year, and it created lots of mirth. One fault about it was its length; half an hour less of it would be better.

E. G. Peirce, Jr., of this city, is one of the members of the committee upon miscellaneous articles at the New Hampshire State Agricultural Society's fair to be held at Laconia, Sept. 20th, 21st and 22d. Messrs. Lewis G. Davis and A. F. Howard are on the committee on pictorial and industrial art. Chas. H. Hayes is one of the judges of pulling oxen, and John S. Tilton is one of the judges on articles manufactuted of leather.

The city of Manchester allows to the War Veterans, Straw Rifles, Head Guards, Sheridan Guards and First N. H. Battery one hundred dollars each per year, as armory rent; and Keene, Great Falls, Nashua, Dover and Concord it is said also each allow to the several military organizations within their borders the same amount How would it do for Portsmouth to encourage the Cavalry and City Guards by similar action?

The deep-well pump of the Eastern railroad has kept at work every day this week, taking water only from the bottom of the bore. The supply of water is abundant, but the quality is still in question. The first discharge in the morning, after the pump has had a night's rest, is offensive to the smell, and it is feared that the well will prove a failure so far as railroad uses are concerned. As a fire-department reservoir it would be a great success.

As a buggy containing two ladies turned from Elm street toward Vaughan street, Thursday morning of this week, the horse was startled by the exhaust steam from the Eastern railroad pumping engine, and jumped to one side, whereupon the lady who was driving dropped the reins, and the horse started to run away. The buggy was capsized and smashed, and the occupants thrown out, in a few moments, and the horse then ran down on the wharf toward the Raynes shipyard, where he was caught.

An item appeared in the Times of Thursday evening unjustly reflecting on the police department of this city. We are requested to say by the city marshal that no complaints have been made to him or any other officer attached to the police force in relation to the alleged suspicious persons prowling around the residences at the south end. If any such complaints had been made they would have given them his immediate attention, as always has been done before. We think now, as we always have, that we have as good a police force as any of our sister cities can boast of, and certainly there is no city where better order is maintained than here, which speaks well for the force.

The Portsmouth cornet band will furnish the music on the steamer "General Bartlett" next Monday, on the trip to Haverhill.

Commodore Earl English, chief of the bureau of equipment and recruiting, visited the navy yard on Thursday last, and was honored with the customary salute.

The schooner Emma K. Smalley, Cousins master arrived Aug. 23d from Perth Amboy with 309 tons of coal for C. E. Walker & Co., and sailed on the 25th for Lubec, Me.

Capt. Graves, of Police Station No. 5 of Boston, and special officers Baker and Marden, were in this city on Thursday, and go to Hampton beach to-day in company with Mr. Leach, superintendent of the iron works at South Boston, to shoot along the marshes.

A reunion of the Cater family was held at Pinkham's grove, Dover point, on the 25th inst. H. F. Cater, John Canney and John C. Tasker were the committee of arrangements, and the number of persons present was greater than at any of the previous meetings of this family. A huge tent was set up at the grove for their accommodation. The Decaturs it is said are a branch of the Cater family, the name having been changed during the lapse of years.

William C. Swain, son of Daniel Swain of Dover, is in trouble, being charged with setting fire to his millinery store in Marblehead, Mass. The fire broke out on Sunday, Aug. 14th, at which time young Swain was on a visit to his parents in Dover, having left Marblehead at noon on the previous day. The fire was soon extinguished, and the charge of the prosecution is that it was caused by candles which had been placed in positions to burn a considerable time, and then set fire to light articles. The insurance people assert that Swain's stock was over-insured, its value not being over $1000 while the insurance was $1400.

ROMEO AND JULIET.

Miss Florence Gillette, supported by the popular actor Mr. Wm. N. Griffith and a fine dramatic company, will appear at Music hall on Tuesday evening next, Aug. 30th, in "Romeo and Juliet." The company is claimed to be the most costly and elegantly dressed one on the stage, Miss Gillette's costumes alone having cost over $10,000. Worth of Paris being the maker. Reserved seat tickets, 75 and 50 cents. On sale at Preston's Saturday.

RACES AT THE PARK.

There will be a grand sweepstakes race for $125 at the Rockingham trotting park on Thursday, Sept. 1st, at 2:30 o'clock P. M., best two in three, to harness. There are six entries, as follows: Danville Boy, Charley Knox, Runaway Boy, Lady Mac, Shoo Fly and Little Harry. Besides the trotting match there will be a half mile foot race for $5, and a greased pig chase.

STAR OF HOPE TEMPLE.

At the regular meetings of Star of Hope Temple, No. 6, I. O. G. T., Aug. 9th and 23d, the following were installed by D. G. W. C. T. Charles T. Wiggin:

D. T., James Janvrin;
D. V. T., Georgiana Laskey;
D. S., Francis E. Hall;
D. Treas., Daniel D. Waldron;
D. C., Mary Wiggin;
D. M., Amanda S Holbrook;
D. G., Rebecca Grant;
D. Sent., Annie Rowland.

A large two-story house at Kennebunkport, known as the "John Downing House" and owned by John Dearborn, was burned on the night of Aug. 24th. Loss $4000; partially insured.

It is said that Mr. F. W. Rice of Saco, now in Panama, is to be appointed to the consulate there, and that John M. Wilson, the present incumbent, is to be transferred to a European consulate. Mr. Rice was formerly consul at Panama.

The town of Kittery offers a reward of $200 for the conviction of the thief who recently robbed Mr. R. G. A. Freeman on the highway leading from Kittery to York, and $100 for the conviction of the thief who stole jewelry from the house of J. Lang Ward.

Mr. O. M. Lord of South Berwick, for three years past principal of the academy in that town, was recently presented by friends in South Berwick and Rollinsford, N. H., with a gold-headed cane, as a slight testimonial of their regard. Mr. Lord assumes charge of the high school in Biddeford.

Mrs. Waterhouse, the woman who was shot some days ago by her brother-in-law, Boynton, at Bar Mills, Hollis, is doing well and likely to recover. The ball passed through her hand and breast, following a rib around the right side to her back, where it was extracted. The putting up of her hand undoubtedly saved her life.

Naval Affairs.

Paymaster General George F. Cutter, chief of the bureau of provision and clothing of the navy department, will on the 30th inst. reach the age of sixty-two, when, under the naval retiring law he must retire from active service. He will be placed on the retired list with the relative rank and retired pay of commodore. The question of who will be his successor is agitating the pay corps of the navy.

Passed Assistant Surgeon Thomas H. Streets has been detached from the United States steamship Richmond and ordered to return to New York in the Powhatan, and on arrival to await orders.

Second Lieutenant H. K. Kilman, U. S. M. C., has been detached from the Brooklyn marine barracks and ordered to report to the commanding officer of the Adams, at Panama, as the officer to command the marine guard on board that vessel.

Lieutenant Commander R. M. G. Brown, commanding the United States torpedo ram Alarm, reports to the navy department that the trials have been entirely satisfactory in showing that a vessel of considerable size can be steered and propelled by a screw alone without a rudder, so that the hull itself becoming the gun carriage a small vessel is capable of carrying the largest size gun, and of aiming it with certainty and precision.

Sensible Colored Men.

At Chicago, Ill., Aug. 23d, the Colored Press Association met. Eighteen papers were represented, the delegates coming from Kentucky, Missouri, Mississippi, Washington, Indiana, Illinois, Minnesota, Kansas and Texas. J. Q. Adams presided. The committee on resolutions reported, calling upon the colored press to unanimously demand the opening of Oklahoma territory to the freedmen of the United States; for the support of the Mahone movement in Virginia, and for the employment of colored teachers in colored schools. A resolution of sympathy for President Garfield was telegraphed to Secretary Blaine. The following was adopted:

Whereas, the brutal attempt to assassinate President Garfield was manifestly prompted by an insane desire for notoriety,

Resolved, That henceforth we shall refrain from publishing the name of the assassin in the journals of this association.

A Horrible Story.

The London Times tells the following: "Some days ago Russian letters reported that 117 persons had been burned in a barn. Naturally, the story was received with incredulity, but the St. Petersburg Golos declares that it is only too true. According to this journal, 119 women and girls employed on a large turnip farm in the district of Putinol in the government of Koursk (southern Russia,) were much dissatisfied with the bread supplied by the farm steward, alleging that it was unfit for food, and threatening to leave off work. After their dinner they all withdrew to a barn to rest during the hottest period of the afternoon. The steward locked them in, and went away; but four farm laborers came and set fire to the barn. The fire spread rapidly through the building, which was like tinder, and soon the whole barn was in flames. The shrieks of the unfortunate prisoners soon brought some people to the spot. They could not help because the doors opened inward, and already the mass of frantic women so jammed the doors from within as to make any effort to open them fruitless. Five women were taken out alive, but so burned that they died immediately. All the remaining 114 perished on the spot. One of the incendiaries went off and drowned himself straight away; the other three are in prison."

Blackburn, who was sentenced at Brantford, Ont., to four months' imprisonment and forty lashes, for an attempted outrage on a little girl, received twenty lashes on the 23d inst.

At Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 22d, Judge Pearson urged the grand jury to indict persons whom they knew had conspired to pass old and decrepit persons as fit subjects for insurance.

FELLOWS' Compound SYRUP OF HYPO-PHOS-PHITES

THE Power of Arresting Diseases displayed by this preparation is honorably acknowledged by the Medical Faculty in every section where it has been introduced; and the large sale is the best guarantee of the estimation in which it is held by the public. For the effect produced by the inventor will refer to the medical gentlemen whose letters are attached hereto.

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites

[Extract from a letter.]

LYNN, MASS., March 1, 1876.

Messrs. FELLOWS & Co., St. John, N. B.

Gents: I have prescribed your Syrup (Fellows' Hypophosphites,) in my practice, for some hundreds of patients where its use was indicated, with quite satisfactory results.

J. A. MCARTHUR,
32 South Common st.

ELBRIDGE SIMPSON, M. D., of Hudson, N. Y., writes:

"I have used the Syrup of Hypophosphites made by Mr. Fellows, in cases of Consumption, and other Lung and Throat diseases, with the most gratifying results."

EDWIN CLAY, M. D., of Pugwash, N. S., writes:

"I know of no better medicine for persons suffering from exhaustion of the powers of the brain and nervous system, from long continued study, or the cough following the fever, etc., etc."

CHANDLER CRANE, of Halifax, N S., writes:

"I have used it freely in my practice, both in diseases of the chest, as consumption and bronchitis, etc., and infantile diseases of the prima via or stomach and bowels, with eminent success."

New Hampshire Items.

Judge Bingham of Ohio, an eminent son of New Hampshire, is mentioned for vice commodore of the Ohio Canoe association. The judge has "paddled his own canoe" for a good many years, and paddled it well, too.

During a drunken row on a steamer on the lake at the Weirs, Aug. 23d, Charles Gray received a blow which will probably result in the loss of the sight of an eye.

The legislature at its recent session repealed the local option feature of the prohibitory statute relating to cider, ale and lager beer. Some time since City Marshal Stark of Manchester ordered all saloon keepers to close at ten o'clock at night, but dealers in light drinks failed to comply. Under the repeal two lager beer dealers were arraigned before the police court, Aug. 23d, and paid $10 and costs each, The saloon keepers who promptly complied with Marshal Stark's orders have not been molested thus far.

Parsons B. Cogswell, city editor of the Concord Monitor, met with a serious accident at his residence about four o'clock Tuesday morning, Aug. 23d. He heard a strange noise, and thinking that perhaps a burglar was about he got up, and going into an adjoining room was seized with dizziness and fell the full length of a flight of stairs. The inmates of the house soon found him lying upon his back in a semi-unconscious state. Later he regained his senses, and a physician having been summoned it was found that his shoulder, arm and leg were severely bruised, and there were serious cuts upon his body. There were no bones broken, and it is hoped that no internal injuries were received. Mr. Cogswell is in his fifty-fourth year, and unmarried.

On Saturday, Aug. 20th, Jacob Clough of Effingham, fifty-three years of age, went to Ossipee Corner for the purpose, as is reported, of getting a supply of intoxicating liquor. While there he was joined by two other men, and all went to Duncan lake, a mile and a half from Ossipee. On the way all drank freely from Clough's jug. Later it is said that Clough called at one Kimball's to obtain supper. While eating he attempted to swallow a huge piece of beef, which lodged in his windpipe and caused his death in two minutes. There is no doubt that the man was much intoxicated, but the authorities were unable to satisfy themselves as to what kind of a carousal the three men had had at the lake. The piece of meat was said to measure full five inches in length and an inch in thickness.

Arthur H. Lamprey of Lake Villlage is building a screw propeller steamboat seventy-five feet long and fifteen feet beam, with four feet water draft, at a cost of $8,000. The engine is to be fifty horse power, the passenger capacity 500, and the boat is designed for excursions to various points around lake Winnipesaukee. It will be completed in season for the tide of summer travel next year.

A document, purporting to be the last will and testament of Horatio Foster, a dead master of East Machias, Me., was offered for probate before Judge Milliken at Machias recently, the amount involved being $8,000. The proving of the will was opposed by the heirs on the ground that deceased was incompetent. The position of the heirs was sustained, the judge ruling that his affliction rendered him incompetent to make a will.

—An old bachelor recently gave the following toast:—"Woman—the morning star of infancy, the day star of manhood, the evening star of age. Bless our stars, and may they always be kept at telescope distance."

However watched by loving care,
Home has distempers lurking there,
And human power cannot defend
From ills that constantly impend;
But Sanford's Ginger bids pain cease,
And home restores to health and peace.

—After the officials of a town had vainly endeavored to disperse a mob, a minister mounted a box and made the simple announcement: "A collection will now be taken up." The result can be easily guessed.

Big Results from Little Causes.

"Do you know?" remarked a man to his friend on Chestnut street, a day or two since, "I believe both Conkling and Platt had a bad case of skin disease when they resigned!" "What makes you think so?" inquired the listener in astonishment. "Well, you see they acted in such an eruptive manner—so rash—by as it were. Save?" "Oh! yes, I save," replied the other, "they were bad—ing over and merely resigned to humor themselves, I suppose." If such be the case, the National difficulty might have been averted by applying Swayne's Ointment for skin diseases.

U. S. CONSULATE,
CARPELLI, BRITISH PROVINCE, Feb. 8, 1881.
I have known PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER almost from the day it was introduced, and after years of observation and use I regard its presence in my household as an indispensable necessity.
T. S. POTTER, U. S. Consul.

HURSTON-ON-TRENT, ENG.
I had been several days suffering severely from diarrhoea, accompanied with intense pain, when I tried your PAIN KILLER, and found almost instant relief.
H. J. NOONE.

21 MONTAGUE ST., LONDON, ENG.
During a residence of twenty-three years in India, I have generally had my cases of diarrhoea, dysentery, and cholera, and never knew it to fail to give relief.
R. CLARIDGE.

No family can safely be without this invaluable remedy. Its price brings it within the reach of all.

For sale by all druggists at 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

The President's Wound!

A Parallel Case in Army Life.

In the issue of the Philadelphia Record of the 27th of July was published an article relating to the case of Capt. William Palmer, now Quartermaster Second Brigade New Jersey State National Guard, who was wounded at the battle of Mosey Creek, East Tennessee, in the winter of 1863. In that article the striking resemblance of the case to that of President Garfield, in many particulars, was pointed out, the authority for the statement being the brave captain, himself. A still better authority is Dr. David Kennedy, then surgeon U. S. General Hospital, West Philadelphia, who had had charge of the case, and performed the operation of removing the detached bone, and finally extracted the bullet—Capt. Palmer is living to this day in the bloom of health. Dr. Kennedy does not hesitate to say that many of his patients, both in military and civil practice owe their lives to the wonderful healing and strengthening powers of his medicine called "Favorite Remedy." The doctor is in possession of an autograph letter from Capt. Palmer, attesting his indebtedness for his present good health to this medicine—"Favorite Remedy"—which he says has doubled the obligation which he felt to the doctor for the treatment of the captain's terrible wound.

While Dr. Kennedy is engaged in the introduction of "Favorite Remedy," he still continues the practice of his profession at Rondout, N. Y., performs all the minor as well as capital operations of surgery. Address as above. 1eT2

• GINGER •

Impure water, unhealthy climate, unripe fruit, unwholesome food, cramps, chills, malaria, excessive heat and the thousand and one ills that beset the traveler or family are nothing to those fortified and sustained by the use of Sanford's Ginger, "the delicious." As beverages it quenches thirst, open the pores, relieves the head, regulates the stomach and bowels, eradicates a craving for intoxicants and imparts new life to the languid, careworn, overworked, nervous and sleepless. Beware of imitations said to be as good. Ask for Sanford's Ginger and take no other.

Have Signed or Endorsed the Following Remarkable Document:

Messrs. Seabury & Johnson, Manufacturing Chemists, 21 Platt St., New York:

Gentlemen:—For the past few years we have sold various brands of Porous Plasters. Physicians and the Public prefer Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster to all others. We consider them one of the very few reliable household remedies worthy of confidence. They are superior to all other Porous Plasters or Liniments for external use.

Benson's Capcine Plaster is a genuine Parmaceutical product, of the highest order of merit, and so recognised by physicians and druggists.

You will be disappointed if you use cheap Plasters, Liniments, Pads or Electrical Magnetic toys.

A SURE REMEDY AT LAST. Price 25cts. WEAR'S Medicated CORN and BUNION PLASTER.

Naval Affairs.

Capt. T. O. Selfridge, in command of the torpedo station at Newport, R. I., conducted some interesting and successful experiments on board the United States tug Nina, between fort Adams and Beaver Tail, in Newport harbor on Thursday evening last, in which he demonstrated the advantages of the system of electric lightning for war purposes on board ships, and by the aid of which torpedo boats from shore or from an enemy's ship could easily be detected.

Despatches dated on July 4th, from Condr. Wadleigh, commanding the Alliance, have been received by the navy department. On that date the ship was at Hammerfest, Norway. She had obtained supplies and a pilot, and intended to sail July 28th for Spitzbergen. The ice was reported heavy to the northward, and several vessels had returned, reporting that they were unable to get through to Spitzergen.

The U. S. S. Yantic arrived at Boston Aug. 25th, from Gloucester, Mass.

"St. Nicholas." The September number of this illustrated magazine for young folks, conducted by Mary Mapes Dodge, is promptly put forth by the Century Co. of New York. It has fifty pages of most interesting contents, full of illustrations and abounding in well written stories and songs. No magazine exceeds the St. Nicholas in the variety of attractions. The illustrations are well executed, the reading matter always of the best tone and adapted to the refined taste of the juvenile reader. Among the historical features of this number, is a copy in facsimile of Abraham Lincoln's speech at Gettysburg. The story of Tom Wallen is peculiarly interesting, and the picture of Jacob Hopkins handing up a watermelon from a boat lying under the bow of the "America" is true to life. The artist has made the bow of the schooner decidedly sharp for vessels of the era of 1813, but it is a fine picture. The subscription where young folks have a home, no investment more conducive to happy hours in the domestic circle can be devised than the regular receipt of this magazine, which has attained such a celebrity for the high standard of its literary and mechanical excellence. It can be ordered at any bookstore, or of the publishers, 743 Broadway, New York.

It gives me great pleasure to say that Adamson's Botanic Balsam cured me of a severe cold, to which I have been subject, especially during the winter months, and I have in many instances recommended it to my friends, and all have been benefitted by its use. Wicked for Clergymen.

Rev. ——, Washington, D. C., writes: "I believe it to be all wrong and even wicked for clergymen or other public men to be led into giving testimonials to quack doctors or vile stuffs called medicines, but when a really meritorious article made of valuable remedies known to all, that all physicians use and trust in daily, we should freely commend it. I therefore cheerfully and heartily commend Hop Bitters for the good they have done me and my friends, firmly believing they have no equal for family use. I will not be without them."—New York Baptist Weekly.

How Long Would it take to Count two Millions?

Over two million volumes of the revised edition of the New Testament, were sold on the first day of its issue. These figures can only be equaled by the enormous sales of Swayne's Ointment for Itching piles, which is universally used as a standard remedy for stopping the itching at night, when one thinks that pin worms are crawling about the rectum. To calculate the extent of its sale in actual figures, would involve the labor of a lifetime. Will you be pestered longer from the aggravating piles?

SATURDAY, AUGUST 27, 1881.

The President.

The reports from the executive mansion, Thursday night and Friday, indicated the end of the tragedy to be near. On Thursday evening Dr. Boynton informed Mrs. Garfield that there was hardly a vestige of hope left, and during the night the President was evidently slowly sinking, his mind wandering most of the time. The pus from the suppurated parotid gland had found an exit at the ear, Friday morning, and the attending surgeons drew a gleam of hope from this circumstance; but the discharge from the wound became more and more watery and unhealthy throughout the day, indicating the rapid deterioration of the blood.

During the weary watch of Thursday night, Mrs. Dr. Edson and Mrs. Garfield were sitting together in the sick room, when the sufferer awoke, and, recognizing his wife's presence, suggested to her in a feeble voice that she should go and get some sleep. Mrs. Garfield gently insisted on remaining, when the President, in a tremulous tone, said: "Well, dear, if it is true that we must soon be parted, perhaps you had better stay with me." This expression brought the tears to the eyes of Mrs. Edson, as well as to those of the sorrowing wife.

At 8:30 o'clock Friday morning the President's pulse was 108, temperature 99.1, respiration 17; at noon the pulse was at 118, and even the most hopeful considered death as but a question of a few hours. At 1:30 P. M., Secretary Blaine telegraphed to Minister Lowell, "His physicians pronounce his case to be critical." Dr. Bliss at two o'clock told a reporter that the case was not only critical but alarming. At 2:45 o'clock Dr. Boynton reported the President perceptibly weaker than at noon, and his pulse much higher.

The despatches received up to midnight on Friday afforded little encouragement; the President slept during the night. Pulse when last taken was 111. Physicians say there is no perceptible change from yesterday."

Information received from surgeons room is to effect that no noticeable change has occurred during the last hour—physicians apprehend no material change in presidents condition during the night.

News and Notes.

A diabolical attempt was made early in the morning, Aug. 25th, to wreck the early train from Bridgewater to South Abington, Mass., on the Bridgewater branch of the Old Colony road. The train left Bridgewater at 6:45, and when about one-fourth of a mile north of the East Bridgewater station, Engineer Duckworth discovered an obstruction on the track, consisting of sleepers laid crosswise. The train was going at the rate of thirty-five miles an hour, and the engineer was unable to stop before colliding with the obstruction, but fortunately no damage was done, except to smash the pilot and headlight. Between Abington and South Abington two other obstructions were found on the track, the first consisting of four stones, weighing about 200 pounds each, and the second of another lot of sleepers.

The coining house of the powder mill at Warren, Me., blew up on Thursday last, cracking glass and blowing open doors in West Camden and Thomaston, each five miles distant, and shattering to pieces Samuel Mank, who was at work in the building; 1875 lbs. of powder exploded.

Mr. Herrey Hills, seventy-seven years old, of Hartford, Conn., was found dead in a room of a boarding house on Asylum street, Aug. 25th. He was decoyed by a gang of "bunko" men into the room, and is supposed to have died from heart disease brought on by fright. It is not known that he was robbed of his money, for all that he was supposed to have, including his gold watch, was found on his person. He was out riding with his daughter during the morning, and until within half an hour before he was found dead. Mr. Hills was a man highly respected, and of unblemished character.

The boiler of an engine on the hoisting sloop Gazelle, used in the construction of the new draw-pier at the bridge across the Merrimac river between Groveland and Haverhill, Mass., exploded Aug. 26th, scalding the captain, setting the sloop on fire, and burning the diver's submarine suit and $500 in money which he had with him. The vessel was saved, and it is hoped the captain will recover.

Edward Musgrove, treasurer of the Musgrove Alpaca Co., of Chicopee, Mass., has disappeared, and his partners say he has carried off $60,000 belonging to the firm.

A freight train on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad was wrecked Aug. 24th through striking a horse and wagon. Five cars were shattered, a brakeman and fifty cattle killed, and many cattle injured.

Wm. Devine and John Farrell were killed in New York, Aug. 25th, by falling from the roof of Rev. Dr. Cuyler's church, where they were at work.

John Boyle has been found guilty, by a New York coroner's jury, of murdering Edward Berry because the latter refused to give him ten cents.

Paul Reid was killed in the Tremont mills at Lowell, Mass., on the 25th inst., while trying to leave the elevator when it was in motion. His head was caught and crushed.

At the London Bow street police court on Thursday, Wheelock, the absconding New York clerk, was again arraigned and further remanded to await the arrival of documents from America.

New Hampshire Items.

It is proposed to operate the line of railroads between Boston and Concord via Lowell by one management, but under the officers of the respective corporations. It is stated that Henry C. Sherburne, of Concord, will be general manager, and the contract for operation now under consideration will continue for five years, unless sooner broken up by some disaffected stockholders asking the law to set it aside.

The Spiritualists of New Hampshire and Vermont are now holding their fourth annual camp-meeting at Blodgett's Landing, Sunapee lake. It commenced on Aug. 18th, and holds until September 5th. There is a large attendance.

Mrs. Joseph Cheney, who was injured last winter by a runaway team, recently died in Woodsville.

While Franklin Hadlock of Monroe was attempting to kill a coon recently, he fell head foremost over a precipice twelve feet high, breaking both bones of one arm near the wrist, dislocating the wrist, and otherwise badly injuring himself.

Frank Knox, sixteen years old, a son of Hoses Knox of Farmington, had one of toi. It is feared he will lose the sight of the eye.

S. D. Miller of Northfield was attacked by three men Wednesday night, Aug. 24th, on the road between Franklin and Tilton, and robbed of a small sum of money.

Mr. Evans of Wakefield, 103 years old, buried a son recently who was seventy-six years old at the time of his death.

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere. 25 cents a bottle. m,w & s 4g eod

In the police court at Manchester, Aug. 24th, Maggie Welch, Mary Murphy, Annie Donahoe and Mary Garland, were fined $10 each, costs $4.62; Etta Armstrong, Mary Savage, Mary Foley and Mary Garland were sentenced to six months each in the house of correction; and Mary Murphy, Kate Donahoe and Maggie Sheehan, were sentenced to the reform school during their minority—all for stealing. These girls are none of them over sixteen years old, but have for some weeks been carrying on the "business" of shoplifting and stealing from houses, the plunder being pooled and equally divided. The gang numbered thirteen, all told.

A cottage on the camp ground at Weirs, owned by Alvah Cotton of Meredith, was entered on the night of Aug. 24th, and a gold watch, valued at $100, was stolen, the property of Mrs. Wood of Sandwich. An adjoining cottage was also entered and a pocketbook stolen. Detectives have been looking for the suspected parties, and arrests are soon to follow.

The question of celebrating the coming centennial anniversary of the birth of Daniel Webster is under consideration. He was born in a part of Salisbury, N. H., now included in the town of Franklin, Jan. 18, 1782.

THE WEATHER.

U. S. SIGNAL OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, D. C.
Aug. 27, 1:30 A. M.

Probabilities for New England:—Slightly warmer fair weather, winds mostly southwesterly, stationary or lower pressure.

Sky clear.

AROUND HOME.

The steamer Empire State took a large party from Boston to the Isles of Shoals on Thursday last.

The postal cards that are being made by the new contractors are noticeably inferior to those of former days.

The laborers and second class riggers in the equipment department at the navy yard were suspended on Friday.

The U. S. S. Lancaster went into commission at eleven o'clock Friday forenoon, Capt. Bancroft Gherardi commanding.

Schooner Ruth Shaw, McElwell master, arrived from Philadelphia on Friday with 510 tons coal to J. Albert Walker.

The shoe factory in course of erection at Epping by Bartlett Brothers & Co., it is said will employ four hundred hands. It is understood that Hon. John F. Cloutman of Farmington is a member of the firm.

The Dover Democrat says: "The new comet is visible to the naked eye in many places." Bro. Foster, how's this? we have hitherto supposed you to be a staunch temperance man. It is all we can do to see the comet in one place.

Pensioners can have the execution and forwarding of their vouchers attended to by calling on Mr. John P. Cooper, who will be at the office of William H. Rollins, Esq., for that purpose, on Monday, Sept. 5th, and for three or four days thereafter.

Mayor Sise on Friday evening arranged for keeping the telegraph office in this city open until four o'clock Saturday morning, and for the tolling of the North church bell in case the death of President Garfield should unhappily be announced during the night.

The Rockingham County Temperance association held a meeting in the town hall at Deerfield Centre, on Thursday last. Rev. J. H. Stearns presided in the morning. A special meeting was held, with a lecture by Rev. J. M. Field of South Newmarket, in the afternoon.

One of the men sent from Boston for the Lancaster jumped overboard twice from the U. S. S. Guard on Thursday night, and was with much trouble rescued from drowning. He is probably insane, and care has been taken that he does not repeat his efforts to destroy his life.

The Exeter Gazette says that if Elder Waite, the "artist evangelist," happens "to pitch the gospel tent anywhere in this vicinity, we shall anxiously await his coming to settle that little bill for advertising." Our brother of Exeter need not feel lonesome; there are other newspaper men we knew of in the same boat; but the elder has got a nice show-tent, all the same.

On Monday next the steamer Gen. Bartlett will make an excursion to Haverhill, Mass.,—the first excursion to that city within our recollection, and probably the only steamboat excursion along the coast from this port this season. The trip is a beautiful one, good order will be maintained, a band of music will be taken along, and the price of tickets is reasonable. The patronage should be liberal.

The mysterious bullet which bored holes through panes of glass in a rear window of Hoyt & Wood's hair-dressing saloon on Congress street, and then buried itself in the wall, Tuesday afternoon of this week, is now apparently accounted for. That afternoon John Burns' boy shot at a cat on top of one of the tall buildings on Church street, the saloon being in the line of fire; what the result was to the cat we are not informed, but Mr. Wood was induced to leave the window with judicious promptness.

On Friday we enjoyed a call, the only drawback to which was its brevity, from Jacob S. Thompson, Esq., formerly associate editor of the CHRONICLE, but for many years past on the staff of the New York Times.

Deacon Edmund J. Lane, of Dover, was in town last week. He has been making a short visit with his brothers at Stratham. Deacon Lane was 76 years old in June, and is the youngest of three brothers living. Charles, formerly of South Newmarket, now living in Stratham, is in his 85th year, and George, also living in Stratham, is in his 91st year. George E. Lane, of this town, is a nephew of these three brothers.—Exeter News-Letter.

The dozen or more of pedestrians, and the occupants of the seven teams which were delayed for ten minutes or more at the Vaughan street crossing between nine and ten o'clock Friday forenoon, by the backing and filling of a long freight train on the crossing, would like to know how much of a relief from this nuisance would result from the proposed extension of Short street through the Raynes shipyard.

B. F. Haley of Newmarket has been given the contract to equip the National Guard of this state. The best of materials will be used in the construction of the equipments, which will be plain, although rich in appearance, and devoid of all ornamentation, such as monograms. On each belt-clasp there will be a single large letter, designating the company to which the wearer belongs, the knapsack and cartridge box will be such as are worn by the New York National Guard, and the bayonet sheath will be of metal, the same as is used in the regular army. One great advantage arising from this style of equipment is the ease with which it is kept clean and in good condition.—Dover Democrat.

The CHRONICLE is "instructed say (swear, the writer undoubtedly intended to say), by the city marshal, that no complaints have been made to him or any other officer attached to the police force in relation to the alleged suspicious persons prowling around the residences at the south end." A report of one such case was made in that paper on Thursday morning.—Times.

Our brother is in error; neither the city marshal nor any other outside influence "instructs" the CHRONICLE what to say or what to omit saying. Further, a report in a newspaper is not a complaint to the police.

The annual reunion of the Trefethen family of Rye was held at Wallis' sands on Thursday last, and was attended by about 250 persons of all ages, most of them being connected with the Trefethens by blood or marriage, among the families represented being the Rands, Seaveys, Hoyts and DeRochemonts. An old-fashioned clambake was served, with other seasonable good things; the clam-bake was prepared by Mr. Joseph Trefethen and wife, of Rye, assisted by Mr. Alfred Trafton of this city, and was pronounced first-class by all the participants. The company held together until after supper in the evening, when they separated with the hope that all might be spared to meet at future reunions.

There was a smash-up at the Eastern railroad depot this morning, occasioned by a runaway horse being frightened at the puffing of the engine which pumps water from the deep well. * * Had the extension of Short street been laid out, this accident could not have happened, as the pump is quite a distance away, and nearly out of sight, from the Vaughan street crossing.—Times, Aug. 25th.

The theory implied in the foregoing, that when a person or corporation chooses to establish a dangerous nuisance near a previously-existing highway it becomes the duty of the city to make a new street in order to get around the nuisance, is a queer one; the abating of the nuisance would seem to be the better plan. And to a horse coming out of Short street the pump would be as plainly within sight and hearing as though he came from Elm street.

POLICE COURT.

FRIDAY, Aug. 26; Batchelder, J.

Blanche Howard and Loella Marden, for drunkenness, were sent to Brentwood for thirty days, and ordered to pay costs of $6.90 each. The Howard woman only returned to this city from Brentwood on the 24th. The pair were arrested in the den on Short street which was occupied by Samuel Wilson and his wife previous to their being sent to jail for keeping a disorderly house.

A male drunkard—common one—was sent to Brentwood for four months, costs being taxed at $8.04.

ROMEO AND JULIET.

The Gillette dramatic company, by whom Romeo and Juliet will be presented at Music hall on Tuesday evening next, have been playing in the British provinces, and the St. John (N. B.) Sun thus speaks of one of the performances in that city:

Romeo and Juliet, according to Dr. Johnson "the most superb love tale that was ever penned," was produced before a large and fashionable audience last evening, by Miss Florence Gillette, supported by an unusually strong company. The piece was well put on the stage, the entire wardrobe being much superior to any ever before seen in St. John, while the toilettes of Juliet were especially noticeable for their costly elegance. * * A more acceptable Juliet has never been seen in Saint John. Slender in physique, with lustrous dark eyes, a wealth of raven tresses, and a noble face, Miss Gillette won the attention of the audience from the first act to the close of the piece, being repeatedly applauded and finally called before the curtain. Her best efforts were in the balcony scene and at the death of Romeo, manifesting in the latter a dramatic power that roused her auditory to a high degree of enthusiasm. Mr. Wm. N. Griffith, as Romeo, made a great hit and proved himself a keen Shakesperian student; the Mercutio of Mr. Hastings was well sustained, and the Friar Lawrence of Mr. Day the best ever seen upon our local stage. The performance as a whole was one of the best ever given in St. John, and established the fact that the gifted and beautiful star heads a company selected with special reference to her repertoire and capable of giving her an effective support.

The Mousam Manufacturing company of Kennebunk has increased its capital stock from $75,000 to $100,000.

The Believers' Bible Conference at Old Orchard beach, composed of delegates from all parts of the Union, on Friday sent the following to Secretary Blaine: "The Christians assembled from many parts of the United States in conference at this place for Bible study hereby express increasing and prayerful sympathy with the President and Mrs. Garfield in their deep affliction, and recognizing that all human power is insufficient for our present extremity, and that all our hope is in God, respectfully ask that you will suggest as early a day as practicable for national humiliation and prayer, that Christians of every name may more perfectly unite in recognizing and entreating divine mercies."

"The United Service" for September has the navy well represented in its list of contributors, among the articles being Desertion in the Navy, by Lieut. T. B. M. Mason; Superstitions and Legends of the Sea, third paper, by Lieut. F. S. Bassett; Gentility in the Navy, by a naval lieutenant; the Need for a Coast-defence Vessel, by Lieut. Jacob W. Miller; the Bosun's Song, by Pay Inspector Caspar Schenck, and An Answer, by Lieut. T. H. Stevens,—two bits of poetry, and pretty good poetry, too. Other articles are the Artillery of Russia; the Volunteers of Great Britain; the Battle of Eutaw Springs; Post Traders; Trials of Staff Officers, third paper; Three Years on the Blockade, continued; editorial notes, and reviews of "service literature." This excellent monthly is published by L. R. Hamersly & Co., 1510 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, at $5.00 per year; single numbers fifty cents each.

"Eclectic Magazine." The September number of the Eclectic is fully up to its high standard as a readable periodical. The list of articles is as follows: The Early Life of Thomas Carlyle, by James Anthony Froude; Reminiscences of Prison Life; Italy—Her Home and Foreign Policy, by A. Gallenga; A Sunflower, a poem; Strange Players, by Dutton Cook; Leon Michel Gambetta; Concerning Names; an interesting paper on The Origin of Religion Considered in the Light of the Unity of Nature, by the Duke of Argyll; Old Dreams, a poem, by F. W. Bourdillon; Kith and Kin, a novel, by Jessie Fothergill, author of The First Violin, chapters XX. and XXI.; A Siberian Exile Eighty Years Ago; From the Cambridge Lecture-Rooms—Bonaparte, by Professor Seeley; The First English Poet, by William Allingham; On the Buying of Books, by a Bookworm, full of good sense; A Peep at French Schools, by James Benar; Curiosities of Criticism; How Some Authors Work; Literary Notices; Foreign Literary Notes; Science and Art; and Miscellany. Published by E. R. Pelton, 25 Bond street, New York. Terms, $5 per year; single copy, forty-five cents; trial subscription for three months, $1.

At the Exposition of Electrical Apparatus recently opened in Paris the Swan lamp was the great success of the occasion. It is a hand lamp with a globe. A wick of carbon gives out a soft light without heat, and it is said to be of indefinite duration. It is lighted and extinguished by turning a button. The lamp is an English invention. It is cheaper than gas, and far more brilliant. All Paris is in ecstacies over this lamp.

Cured of Drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for liquor, which had so prostrated him that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all that burning thirst; took away the appetite for liquor; made his nerves steady, and he has remained a sober and steady man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups; I know of a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it."—From a leading R. And home restores to health and peace.

—Fast men, like fast rivers, are generally shallow.

No preparation I have used can compare with Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites for restoring strength to the nervous system. I think it is the best medicine I have ever used.
W. J. HORNER, Buffalo, N. Y.

—A rod and lyin' catches the biggest fish of the season.

Big Results from Little Causes.

"Do you know?" remarked a man to his friend on Chestnut street, a day or two since, "I believe both Conkling and Platt had a bad case of skin disease when they resigned!" "What makes you think so?" inquired the Betsner in astonishment. "Well, you see they acted in such a eruptive manner—so rash—ly as it were. Save?" "Oh! yes, I save," replied the other, "they were bad—ing over and merely resigned to humor themselves, I suppose." If such be the case, the National difficulty might have been averted by applying Swayne's Ointment for skin diseases.

Summer Complaints

At this season, various diseases of the bowels are prevalent, and many lives are lost through lack of knowledge of a safe and sure remedy. PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER is a sure cure for Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Cholera, Cholera Morbus, Summer Complaint, etc., and is perfectly safe.

Read the following:

BAINBRIDGE, N. Y., March 22, 1881.
PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER never fails to afford instant relief for cramp and pain in the stomach.
JOSEPH BURDITT.

NICHOLSVILLE, N. Y., Feb. 2, 1881.
The very best medicine I know of for dysentery, cholera morbus, and cramps in the stomach. Have used it for years, and it is sure cure every time.
JULIUS W. DEE.

MONONA, IOWA, March 12, 1881.
I have used your PAIN KILLER in severe cases of cramp, colic, and cholera morbus, and it gave almost instant relief.
E. E. CALDWELL.

CARNESVILLE, GA., Feb. 28, 1881.
For twenty years I have used your PAIN KILLER in my family. Have used it many times for bowel complaints, and it always cures. Would not feel safe without a bottle in the house.
J. R. IVIE.

SACO, ME., Jan. 26, 1881.
Have used PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER for twelve years. It is safe, sure, and reliable. No mother should allow it to be out of the family.
H. I. NAYES.

ONEIDA, N. Y., Feb. 16, 1881.
We began using it over thirty years ago, and it always gives immediate relief. Would hardly dare to go to bed without a bottle in the house.
W. O. SPERRY.

CONWAYBORO, S. C., Feb. 22, 1881.
Nearly every family in this section keeps a bottle in the house.
Dr. E. MORZON.

U. S. CONSULATE,
CREFELD, RHENISH PRUSSIA, Feb. 8, 1881.
I have known PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER almost from the day it was introduced, and after years of observation and use I regard its presence in my household as an indispensable necessity.
I. S. POTTER, U. S. Consul.

BURTON-ON-TRENT, ENG.
I had been several days suffering severely from diarrhœa, accompanied with intense pain, when I tried your PAIN KILLER, and found almost instant relief.
H. J. NOONE.

21 MONTAGUE ST., LONDON, ENG.
During a residence of twenty-three years in India, I have given it in many cases of diarrhœa, dysentery, and cholera, and never knew it to fail to give relief.
R. CLARIDGE.

No family can safely be without this invaluable remedy. Its price brings it within the reach of all.

For sale by all druggists at 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

The President's Wound!

A Parallel Case in Army Life.

In the issue of the Philadelphia Record of the 27th of July was published an article relating to the case of Capt. William Palmer, now Quartermaster Second Brigade New Jersey State National Guard, who was wounded at the battle of Mossy Creek, East Tennessee, in the winter of 1863. In that article the striking resemblance of the case to that of President Garfield, in many particulars, was pointed out, the authority for the statement being the brave captain, himself. A still better authority is Dr. David Kennedy, then surgeon U. S. General Hospital, West Philadelphia, who had had charge of the case, and performed the operation of removing the detached bone, and finally extracted the bullet—Capt. Palmer is living to this day in the bloom of health. Dr. Kennedy does not hesitate to say that many of his patients both in military and civil practice owe their lives to the wonderful healing and strengthening powers of his medicine called "Favorite Remedy." The doctor is in possession of an autograph letter from Capt. Palmer, attesting his indebtedness for his health and good health to this medicine—"Favorite Remedy"—which he says has doubled the obligation which he felt to the doctor for the treatment of the captain's terrible wound.

While Dr. Kennedy is engaged in the introduction of "Favorite Remedy," he still continues the practice of his profession at Rondout, N. Y., performs all the minor as well as capital operations of surgery. Address as above. 1eo2

Have Signed or Endorsed the Following Remarkable Document:

Gentlemen:—For the past few years we have sold various brands of Porous Plasters. Physicians and the Public prefer Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster to all others. We consider them one of the very few reliable household remedies worthy of confidence. They are superior to all other Porous Plasters or Liniments for external use.

Benson's Capcine Plaster is a genuine Pharmaceutical product, of the highest order of merit, and so recognized by physicians and druggists.

You will be disappointed if you use cheap Plasters, Liniments, Pads or Electrical Magnetic toys.

A SURE REMEDY AT LAST. Price 25cts. at all druggists. Beware of Worthless Imitations. Ask for BENSON'S Medicated CORN and BUNION PLASTER.

—The Louisville Courier-Journal keeps alive its hope that the President will recover by recalling the following experience: "There is a man in a stone's throw of us as we write, who is a pretty fine marksman, who lay in bed eighteen months with a bullet through the body and a shattered leg, and in that time he fell off from 190 to seventy-five pounds. He had pyæmia badly, and gangrene, and chills, and diarrœa, and erysipelas, and had to be nourished again and again for a week at a time, by enema, because his stomach rejected food, and got so weak that he was unable to indicate that he was conscious, and was worried with morphine, and was cut into a dozen times for pus cavities and abscesses. He had everything that anybody has said the President was threatened with, and had it bad, on account of which and other cases more or less similar we are disposed to trust nature and a good constitution and pluck against all the scientific theories which leave experience out of consideration."

How Long Would it take to Count two Millions?

Over two million volumes of the revised edition of the New Testament, were sold on the first day of its issue. These figures can only be equaled by the enormous sales of Swayne's Ointment for Itching piles, which is universally used as a standard remedy for stopping the itching at night, when one thinks that pin worms are crawling about the rectum. To calculate the extent of its sale in actual figures, would involve the labor of a lifetime. Will you be pestered longer from the aggravating piles?

Portsmouth Chronicle.

MONDAY, AUGUST 29, 1881.

(Entered at the Post-Office at Portsmouth, N. H., as second-class matter.)

The President.

Saturday brought little encouragement. Early in the forenoon Secretary Blaine sent the following telegram to Minister Lowell:

The President had a bad night, and his symptoms at this hour, nine o'clock, are of the most alarming character.

At nine o'clock the President's pulse was 120; temperature 98.4; respiration 22, with rapid fluctuations. At 9:15 his pulse rose to 130, but decreased ominously in strength. At noon Dr. Bliss reported no marked change in the President's condition, but that he was gradually losing his little remaining strength. During the day his mind remained clear, but it was evident that the hope of recovery which he had previously held was vanishing.

At two o'clock Mr. Blaine telegraphed to Minister Lowell as follows:

There has been no change for the better in the President's condition since morning. His fever has risen, and his pulse at this hour is 120. His physicians do not regard his case as hopeless, but very dangerous and critical.

The 6:30 P. M. bulletin stated that the President's symptoms shew a slight amelioration during the afternoon. His pulse was somewhat less frequent and his temperature lower; moreover, the mental disturbance described in Friday morning's bulletin had disappeared. The parotid swelling had discharged a little pus by the opening spontaneously formed into the ear, as well as by the incision made, but was not perceptibly smaller.

About nine o'clock the President expressed a desire for milk toast, which was given him and which he eat with apparent relish. This was the first solid food which the patient had eaten for two weeks. At midnight Rockwell, who was at the bedside of the President, stated that the slight improvement of the afternoon was fully maintained, that his pulse was 104, and he was sleeping quietly.

Secretary Blaine at 10:30 P. M. sent the following message to Minister Lowell at London:

There is a somewhat more hopeful feeling to-night in regard to the President. The regular evening bulletin was more favorable, and the good indications have continued. His pulse is lower, being now 111. His mind is entirely clear. He has shown positive appetite, asking for milk-toast, a small quantity of which he was permitted to eat. This is the first time for many days that he has swallowed anything but liquid food. A slight increase in his respiration is the only adverse symptom reported at this hour—10:30 P. M.

At 11 P. M. on the 28th.

At this hour Dr. Woodward states there are no discouraging signs noticeable, the temperature has gone down, the preside nt is resting quietly.

News and Notes.

A man named Howard, living near Waukesha, Wis., on Thursday of last week poisoned his whole family. His wife and two of the children have already died. Domestic troubles are said to have been the cause of the act.

A dispatch from Brockett, Tex., says while four horse thieves belonging to the extensive gang which has been operating along the Rio Grande for a long time were being taken to that place on Thursday in charge of officers, they were attacked near the town of Dolores and all the thieves killed.

Ben. Perkins, colored, was executed at Livingston, Ala., on Friday, for the murder of Gif. Roberts, colored. He died protesting his innocence.

Thomas Rogan of Providence, R. I., aged ten years, was probably fatally injured Thursday evening, Aug. 25th, by a fall from a rope on which he was swinging.

Andrew Saunders, colored, was hanged at Covington, Ky., on Friday afternoon, for murder. A large number of negroes were present.

Sylvester Greene, a farmer of Bennington, Vt., was fatally gored by an ox, Aug. 25th.

Acting Commissioner of Internal Revenue Rogers has received telegrams from District Attorney Melton and United States Commissioner Brayton announcing the conviction at Columbia, S. C., Aug. 25th, on ten counts, two for conspiracy and eight for violating internal revenue laws, of Lewis R. Redmond, who has long defied the authorities and been one of the most prominent and notorious "moonshiners" in Georgia and the Carolinas.

Edson Fuller, fifty years old, is under arrest on suspicion of his being the murderer of Lucius Witham, who was shot dead one night last week in Readsboro', Vt., while in his room preparing to go to bed. The evidence is entirely circumstantial, but beats very strongly against Fuller.

In Floris, Davis county, Iowa, on the night of Aug. 24th, Hiram Brooks, aged eighteen years, shot and killed his father. The elder Brooks was beating his wife with a club. The boy interfered, and the father turned on him with the club, threatening his life. The boy retreated to the wall, and then shot the old man in the left temple with fatal results. The young fellow is in jail.

On Friday morning of last week, at West Newbury, Mass., Benjamin Edwards, a highly respected resident aged eighty years, arose very early, went down to an old wharf on the bank of the river, tied his legs and fastened a large stone around his neck, enveloped his head in a shirt, and threw himself and the stone into the river. He had previously tied one end of a line to a stone on the bank, where he left a note saying "Pull gently," so that his body was soon recovered. Mr. Edwards was for many years one of the leading business men of West Newbury. He was one of the early abolitionists, and joined the republican party when it was first formed.

George E. B. Jackson, president of the Maine Central railroad, Stephen Young, Esq., of Brunswick, Me., and E. B. Phillips, president of the Eastern railroad, have gone on a brief pleasure trip to Prince Edward Island and Quebec.

Thieves, gamblers and pickpockets reaped a rich harvest in Hartford, Conn., during the races last week. E. N. Welch, a wealthy manufacturer from Bristol, R. I., had a $1000 diamond pin stolen from his shirt bosom at the park, and at the Park Central hotel Mr. Fern of Boston, reported to be part owner of the trotter Trampoline, had $500 and a gold watch stolen.

It is now said that the stealings of Edward Musgrave, the runaway treasurer of the Musgrave Alpaca Co. of Chicopee Falls, Mass., amount to over $100,000.

Theodore Ulke, aged fifty years, son of a Prussian general, and in the employ of L. G. Tillotson of New York, was found dead on Thursday morning last with two gashes in his head. He was evidently murdered.

Naval Gazette.

Master Edward B. Underwood, Engineer P. A. Pearick, Surgeon J. M. Flint, Passed Asst. Engineers J. W. Gardner and H. D. McEwan, and Cadet Midshipmen Spencer M. Case, Edward H. Harmon, James D. Crenshaw, Frederick A. Smiles, Alex. S. McCrea, Benj H. Craig, McDonough Craven and Francis E. Sutton, have been ordered to the Pensacola.

Leave of absence for one month from Aug. 23d has been granted Pay Inspector Frank C. Crosby, and for one month from August 18th to Midshipman J. A. Bell. The leave of Commodore S. P. Quackenbush has been extended until October first, and that of Passed Assistant Engineer Charles W. Rae two weeks. A furlough for six months has been granted Master William H. Slack, with permission to leave the United States when detailed from his present duties at the torpedo station. The orders of Midshipman Herman J. Robinson to the Minnesota have been revoked, and he has been placed on sick leave.

Master Chauncey Thomas, Cadet Midshipmen Lincoln Karmany, David Morgan, John A. Kimball and Thomas L. Bonfils, and Passed Asst. Paymaster Francis H. Clark, are ordered to the Adams; Assistant Paymaster Geo. M. Allen has been detached from the Adams on the reporting of his relief, and ordered to return home and report his arrival.

Rear-Admiral J. H. Spotts assumed command of the South Atlantic station, July 25th. In a general order of that date he announced the following as his personal and general staff; Captain W. A. Kirkland, chief of staff; Master H. P. H. McIntosh, flag lieutentant; Ensign York Noell, secretary to the commander-in-chief; Paymaster J. E. Tolfree, fleet paymaster; Chief Engineer W. J. Lamkin, fleet engineer; Captain E. B. Meeker. United States marine corps, fleet marine officer.

A man calling himself Capt. J. C. Burslem of Windsor Castle, Eng., and claiming to be a British army officer, was soundly thrashed with a cane, one day last week, at Cozzens' hotel, West Point, by Miss Ida Scoofy, a young lady from San Francisco, whom he had insulted. The British consul in New York cannot find any such name in the British army register. "Capt. Burslem" is said to have left for Newport, R. I.

AWAY TO SCHOOL.

This (Monday) morning the public schools resume their sessions. The teachers have returned refreshed by the pleasures of the long vacation; the scholars, wearied with out-of-door recreation, in frequent instances signify a readiness to again take up the tasks of the school room; and parents, with a grateful long breath, rejoice that the period has come when they know where their offspring may be found for a season. Many children this week will need new books, with which to begin new studies, and they will find at Mercer Goodrich's, corner of Daniel and Market streets, a general assortment of all books used in this state or in York county, Me., with a full line of articles needed to commence school duties in a proper manner.

SOMETHING FOR A RAINY DAY.

There is perhaps no more judicious use of money than the provision one can make for himself by an endowment policy, or for his family or relations by a life insurance policy. The most sagacious men have tested this question. The most searching investigation and the most critical discussion have only served to show that really sound life insurance,—and by this we mean insurance by a company of acknowledged ability, and conducted upon the broadest principles of financial success, coupled with integrity beyond question,—is perhaps, taken all in all, the best investment even for those who are adepts in financial matters. But to the beginner, the young man starting in life, or the person of either sex who wants a certain return at some future period, there can be no better, safer or more judicious outlay than a life insurance policy. The important care is to secure a policy in a company conducted upon sound principles; not a loosely managed affair, which among careful men has no standing, not a speculative concern of any doubtful character, that can float only under serene skies and with fair winds, but one of well tried stability, such as the recent investigations (made at the instance of its own managers, for the information of its policy holders) convinces every fair minded man who gives the subject attention, is the leading company of the world. Such is the Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York. We refer to its advertisement in another column, and the company in turn refers to some of our most prominent citizens, who for many years have known all about it, because they have as policy holding members a large interest in its condition and progress.

POLICE COURT.

SATURDAY, Aug. 27; Batchelder J.

Charles E. Gray, for an alleged assault on Charles W. Folsom, was held in $100 for his further appearance on Monday morning, to answer to the charge.

AN ACCIDENT WON'T SUFFICE.

A young son of Mr. Samuel J. Horton met with quite a serious accident, and a narrow escape from death, on Thursday afternoon. He jumped upon a train just coming into the Eastern railroad station, and when the train was moving quite fast, attempted to get off. In so doing, he was thrown to the ground and received a very severe cut on the face and another on his knee. He also received bruises which will cause temporary lameness in the back. Nothing short of a serious accident will learn boys to give up this dangerous practice, and such a one will come some time, sooner or later.—Times.

No accident, however serious, will prevent boys from stealing rides on the cars, because no boy can ever be brought to believe that an accident can possibly happen to him, however unlucky or clumsy other boys may be. Some years ago a boy who was most persistent in jumping on the trains when in motion, and who was as active as a cat, fell under the wheels and lost a leg. The accident was certainly a serious one, but it not only failed to teach the other boys "to give up this dangerous practise," but was a failure as a lesson to the victim himself, for as soon as he was able to get about he was on hand again, "hooking rides" as cheerily as ever! The arrest and legal punishment of two or three boys for trespassing on the property of the railroad would do more to break up this dangerous sport than would the grinding up of a dozen boys into sausage meat.

TO-DAY'S EXCURSION.

Persons who fail to make the trip to Haverhill, Mass., in the steamer Gen. Bartlett to-day, will miss what will be (with fair weather) the most enjoyable excursion of the season. The Portsmouth cornet band has been engaged, and besides furnishing music for the trip will give a concert on Market square before the start. See advertisement for sailing hour and price of tickets.

ROMEO AND JULIET.

To-morrow evening, at Music hall, Miss Florence Gillette and her dramatic company will present "Romeo and Juliet." Of this play as presented by this company, a recent issue of the News of St. John, N. B., says:

The audience gave unmistakable signs of pleasure and appreciation in the performance. Miss Gillette as Juliet appeared in most elegant and costly toilettes, and did her part in an admirable manner, in many instances showing histrionic ability worthy of the character and the play. As might be expected she created a most favorable impression in the balcony scene, which the audience evidently thought all too short; and again in the third act, where the nurse conveyed to her the tidings that Tibalt was slain and Romeo banished, she displayed an admirable conception of the author, and did not over-do the part. But, perhaps, she showed to better advantage in the scene in the 4th act, in which she comments on the advice given her by Friar Lawrence, and discusses the possibility of the drug not doing its work, and the prospect of smothering in the vault. Her crowning effect, however, was at the death scene of Romeo, in which she elicited the highest admiration of the audience. Mr. Wm. N. Griffith made an admirable Romeo, and showed himself an adept in the art of making love. The other members took their parts well, and made the play the most interesting which has been seen at the Institute for a long time. The public is fortunate in having an opportunity of witnessing the legitimate drama as presented by this company.

AROUND HOME.

A revenue steamer arrived in the lower harbor on Saturday, and sailed Sunday morning.

The United States training ship Portsmouth arrived in the lower harbor on Sunday afternoon.

Among the patents issued by the United States Patent office on Tuesday, Aug. 23d, was one to David Urch of Portsmouth for an improved anchor.

Miss Fanny C. Rice of Boston, the well-known soprano singer, appeared in the Unitarian choir on Sunday. Miss Rice has been noted for her solo cornet playing at concerts in New England cities. Her singing on Sunday was listened to with marked appreciation.

A letter from Capt. John S. Hontvet, of the schooner Maud B. Wetherell, on the Grand banks, reports the loss of two men, named Anderson and Fraley, in a fog, while off tending their trawls. There is fair ground for hoping that they have been picked up by some other vessel.

The services held Thursday in St. Patrick's church were for the repose of the soul of Mr. James Brennan, lately deceased. There was a solemn high mass. The celebrant on the mournful occasion was the pastor, Rev. J. T. McDonnell; deacon, Rev. J. W. Murphy, Augusta, Me.; sub-deacon, Rev. D. W. Murphy, Dover; master of ceremonies, Rev. Eugene O'Callaghan, Portsmouth. Quite a number were present on the occasion.—Newmarket Advertiser.

The schooner Richard S. Leaming, Doughty master, from Philadelphia, arrived at the navy yard on Saturday with 752 tons of coal for the department of yards and docks, on the contract of J. Albert Walker. The schooner Carrie M. Richardson, Richardson master, from Hoboken, arrived at the yard on the same day with coal for the department of construction and repair, on the contract of C. E. Walker & Co.

Frederick Heningar, of Lynn, Mass., a carpenter forty-one years old, was killed at Lynn last Thursday night by a train on the Eastern railroad. He had attended a meeting of the Knights of Honor that evening, and was on his way home, walking on the railroad track, when in stepping out of the way of an eastward-bound train he got in front of one bound for Boston, and was struck by the locomotive, which broke his neck, one arm and one leg. He leaves a family.

The superintendent of the census sends us a number of census bulletins with the request "to note any errors and communicate them to him," intimating that "errors are not unlikely to occur." Just so. The first error which occurs to us is, that in these bulletins the population of several inconsiderable out-of-the-way places in Kentucky and many other remote states, the precise number of inhabitants whereof we for the life of us cannot tell, are printed upon more than one side of the sheet. A man who is fit to be superintendent of the census ought to know that much of the material sent to editors is of no sort of use, unless one side is clear for him to occupy in writing something more important than that which has spoiled the other side. Other errors may hereafter turn up, but we find this on the start.

A LAST WORD.

Instead of replying to a few direct questions, which we asked the editor of the Portsmouth Times, as the self-announced conscience-keeper of the Portsmouth representatives, he turns about, and invites us to come down and go fishing, promising that his "boys" shall take us out "any morning, before the sun peeps into such an out-of-the-way corner as Laconia."

Our brother's system of longitude is, like everything else connected with his city, altogether sui generis, but though we don't understand clearly at what unholy hour the proposed excursion will take place, we thank him for the invitation all the same, and we are especially grateful for the offer of the "boys." We think we should feel considerably more secure with them than with the presiding genius of the sanctum; for, if the latter should manifest such a predilection for fogs in navigation, as he displays in writing his editorials, we should be pretty certain to come to grief.

Before we purchase our ticket, however, we must insist upon his giving a bond that he will keep his promise, and won't back out after we have once reached the fair city of dreams. We don't impose this condition because of any especial lack of confidence in our brother, as an individual, but because we distrust him as a representative of a community whose members have lately shown themselves to be very much like the Irishman's flea: "When ye've got him, ye've lost him; and when yez put yer finger on him, begorrah, he's somewhere else."

We would suggest, moreover, that if Laconia is an "out-of-the-way corner," it is from necessity and not from choice. Unlike Portsmouth, she does not stagnate from preference. She doesn't elect to remain small, insignificant, and half-developed. She doesn't rest because she likes to, and she isn't idle because she considers enterprise a disgrace; and whoever writes her commercial epitaph, will not be able to say of her, as of our only sleep-port: "She died of slow suicide." It is hardly magnanimous, certainly, for Portsmouth, after having contributed to Laconia's defeat, to taunt her with her failure. "Out-of-the-way," is she? We will bet a picayune she'll be in the way of somebody, before this matter is finally settled.

So far as our brother's efforts to make it appear that the Tocsin is self-contradictory, are concerned, we have only to suggest that if he would quote a little more accurately, his criticisms would be at once more valuable and more comprehensible. But then, he lives in Portsmouth, poor fellow!—Belknap Tocsin.

The Great Falls Free Press says that a few days since Mr. George Stillings of Berwick, while in the field, scratched his hand slightly upon a vine, hardly noticing the accident at the time. Shortly afterwards, while pulling some potato tops, a potato bug was jammed upon his hand immediately over the scratch. Inflammation and swelling set in almost at once, and a poison seemed to have permeated the whole body. The case rapidly grew worse, and in a short time Mr. Stillings died. Whether it was the potato bug or the Paris green upon the tops which caused the death is a question.

New Hampshire Items.

Oscar A. Woods of Milford, one of the parties recently arrested for incendiarism in that town, was arrested on a requisition from the governor of Massachusetts on Friday, and taken to Townsend, Mass., to answer to charges of breaking and entering.

Two hundred freight cars are in course of construction by the Laconia Car Co. for the Massachusetts Central railroad, and the first lot of between thirty and forty arrived at Boston on Friday of last week.

The Nashua City Guards on Friday paid a return visit to the Mechanic Phalanx in Lowell, Mass. The Phalanx met the guests at the Northern depot and escorted them, with music, through the principal streets. A drill at the armory followed, closing with a banquet and speeches. The visitors returned by special train about midnight.

Important business improvements are being made at Hillsborough. Boston parties have put in $40,000 worth of new machinery in the woollen mill, and will employ 350 hands. Much private building is in progress.

Albert Congdon of Lancaster, while at work on the schoolhouse in that town recently, fell from the roof and broke both wrists, and was otherwise injured.

Thirty sheep belonging to Capt. John McMilan, were recently killed by lightning in Jackson.

Masonic.

The Annual Conclave of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar of the state of New Hampshire will be held at Concord, on Tuesday, Sept. 27th. M. E. Benjamin Dean, Grand Master of Knights Templar of the United States, has signified his intention to visit the Grand Commandery at this Conclave. M. E. Jno. Regnault, Grand Commander of the General Commandery of Virginia, has extended an invitation to the Grand Commandery of New Hampshire and all the Knights Templar of the thirteen original States to participate in performing escort duty to the Grand Lodge on the occasion of laying the corner stone of a monument to be erected at Yorktown by the United States government, in commemoration of the surrender of Lord Cornwallis to Brother General George Washington, which ended the struggle for American independence, on the 18th day of October, 1781.

George French and Frederick Miller of Randolph, Mass., were before the district court Friday morning, charged, with setting fire to the stable of Ephraim Wales in Randolph, on the night of Aug. 17th. In default of $2,000 bonds they were committed to await the action of the grand jury.

Two Years Ago!

I was a sight to behold, and was unable to enjoy life at all. Now I am a picture of health, and can eat anything. What did it? Sulphur Bitters cured me of dyspepsia and liver complaint, after suffering two years.—W. H. B., Manchester.

—The condition of the newspaper fraternity has improved wonderfully since the war. Twenty years ago it was customary for an editor to frequently acquaint his readers with the fact that if four-story brick houses were selling for ten dollars apiece he couldn't raise money enough to buy a single brick. Now it is different; the newspaper man goes to the other extreme, and endeavors to convey the impression that if bricks were selling at ten dollars apiece he could purchase several four-story brick structures without materially affecting his bank account.—Norristown Herald.

Rescued from Death.

William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., says: "In the fall of 1876 I was taken with a violent bleeding of the lungs followed by a severe cough. I soon began to lose my appetite and flesh. I was so weak at one time that I could not leave my bed. In the summer of 1877 I was admitted to the city hospital. While there the doctors said I had a hole in my left lung as big as a half a dollar. I was so far gone at one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs. I laughed at my friends, thinking that my case was incurable, but I got a bottle to satisfy them, when to my surprise and gratification, I commenced to feel better. My hope, once dead, began to revive, and to-day I feel in better spirits than I have the past three years.

I write this hoping you will publish it, so that every one afflicted with diseased lungs, will be induced to take Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs, and be convinced that consumption can be cured. I have taken two bottles and can positively say that it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness." Sold by all druggists.

—An Old City man purchased a small hand bellows, took it home and told his wife he had concluded to blow his brains out; whereupon she replied that a smaller sized bellows would have answered the purpose better.

Big Results from Little Causes.

"Do you know?" remarked a man to his friend on Chestnut street, a day or two since, "I believe both Coukling and Platt had a bad case of skin disease when they resigned!" "What makes you think so?" inquired the listener in astonishment. "Well, you see they acted in such an erupting manner—so rash—ly as it were. Save?" "Oh! yes, I save," replied the other, "they were loal—ing over and merely resigned to Hunior themselves, I suppose." If such be the case, the National difficulty might have been averted by applying Swayne's Ointment for skin diseases.

Summer Complaints

At this season, various diseases of the bowels are prevalent, and many lives are lost through lack of knowledge of a safe and sure remedy. PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER is a sure cure for Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Cholera, Cholera Morbus, Summer Complaint, etc., and is perfectly safe.

Read the following:

BAINBRIDGE, N. Y., March 22, 1881.

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER never fails to afford instant relief for cramp and pain in the stomach.

JOSEPH BURDITT.

NICHOLVILLE, N. Y., Feb. 2, 1881.

The very best medicine I know of for dysentery, cholera morbus, and cramps in the stomach. Have used it for years, and it is sure cure every time.

JULIUS W. DEE.

MOUNGONA, IOWA, March 12, 1881.

I have used PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER in severe cases of cramp, colic and cholera morbus, and it gave almost instant relief.

J. E. CALDWELL.

CARNESVILLE, GA., Feb. 28, 1881.

For twenty years I have used your PAIN KILLER in my family. Have used it many times for bowel complaints, and it never fails. Would not feel safe without a bottle in the house.

J. B. FYFE.

SACO, ME., Jan. 22, 1881.

Have used PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER for twelve years. It is safe, sure, and reliable. No mother should allow it to be out of the family.

H. J. NATES.

ONEIDA, N. Y., Feb. 19, 1881.

We began using it over thirty years ago, and it always gives immediate relief. Would hardly dare to go to bed without a bottle in the house.

W. O. SPERRY.

CONWAYBORO, S. C., Feb. 24, 1881.

Nearly every family in this section keeps a bottle in the house.

DR. E. MORTON.

U. S. CONSULATE,

CREFELD, PRUSSIA, Feb. 8, 1881.

I have known PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER almost from the day it was introduced, and after years of observation and use I regard its presence in my household as an indispensable necessity.

I. S. POTTER, U. S. Consul.

BURTON-ON-TRENT, ENG.

I had been several days suffering severely from diarrhœa, accompanied with intense pain, when I tried your PAIN KILLER, and found almost instant relief.

H. J. NOONE.

21 MONTAGUE ST., LONDON, ENG.

During a residence of twenty-three years in India, I have given it in many cases of diarrhœa, dysentery, and cholera, and never knew it to fail to give relief.

R. CLARKSON.

No family can safely be without this invaluable remedy. Its price brings it within the reach of all.

For sale by all druggists at 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

The President's Wound!

A Parallel Case in Army Life.

In the issue of the Philadelphia Record of the 27th of July was published an article relating to the case of Capt. William Palmer, now Quartermaster Second Brigade New Jersey State National Guard, who was wounded at the battle of Mossy Creek, East Tennessee, in the winter of 1863. In that article the striking resemblance of the case to that of President Garfield, in many particulars, was pointed out, the authority for the statement being the brave captain himself. A still better authority is Dr. David Kennedy, then surgeon U. S. General Hospital, West Philadelphia, who had had charge of the case, and performed the operation of removing the denuded bone, and finally extracted the bullet—Capt. Palmer is living to this day in the blooom of health. Dr. Kennedy does not hesitate to say that many of his patients both in military and civil practice owe their lives to the wonderful healing and strengthening powers of his medicine called "Favorite Remedy." The doctor is in possession of an autograph letter from Capt. Palmer, attesting the indebtedness for his present good health to the medicine—"Favorite Remedy"—which he says has doubled the obligation which he felt to the doctor for the treatment of the captain's terrible wound.

While Dr. Kennedy is engaged in the introduction of "Favorite Remedy," he still continue the practice of his profession at Rondout, N. Y., performs all the minor as well as capital operations of surgery. Address as above. 1eo2

How Long Would it take to Count two Millions?

Over two million volumes of the revised edition of the New Testament, were sold on the first day of its issue. These figures can only be equaled by the enormous sales of Swayne's Ointment for Itching piles, which is universally used as a standard remedy for stopping the itching at night, when one thinks that pin worms are crawling about the rectum. To calculate the extent of its sale in actual figures, would involve the labor of a lifetime. Will you be pestered longer from the aggravating piles?

Wicked for Clergymen.

Rev. ——, Washington, D. C., writes: "I believe it to be all wrong and even wicked for clergymen or other public men to be led into giving testimonials to quack doctors or vile stuffs called medicines, but when a really meritorious article made of valuable remedies known to all, that all physicians use and trust in daily, we should freely commend it. I therefore cheerfully and heartily commend Hop Bitters for the good they have done me and my friends, firmly believing they have no equal for family use. I will not be without them."—New York Baptist Weekly.

Naturalization.

It is but a few years since the doctrine of expatriation, long ago insisted upon by the United States, was recognized by Great Britain, and it is now a settled principle of international law, this doctrine is that a man may forsake the country of his birth, and owe it no allegiance whatever, by becoming an adopted or naturalized citizen of some other country. Our naturalization laws cover a period of seventy years, from 1802 to 1872, and form a defective system, if indeed they can be termed a system at all.

An article in the International Review for September, by Alexander Bliss, of Washington, discusses the subject of our naturalization laws with ability and fairness. The writer, we understand, was secretary of legation at Berlin, while George Bancroft was minister. Mr. Bancroft negotiated the first treaty between the United States and a foreign nation that fixed a period (five years) of residence in either country to entitle a subject of the other to the rights of naturalization. The files of our diplomatic correspondence of late years show that the legation at Berlin has been constantly applied to by persons who had visited our shores and stayed here just long enough to get naturalized, and then returned to Germany to live there, claiming all the rights of American citizens, but with no intention of living again in America. They hope thus to escape military service in Germany.

Whether from a personal acquaintance with many of these cases, or from that liberality of sentiment that a true American enlarges by diplomatic service, the writer is led to discuss the leading features of our naturalization laws in the light of their effect upon foreign nations. As for the provisions for foreigners who are to avail themselves of our laws, Mr. Bliss remarks: "The main thing thought of was how soon they vote. The effect that these laws might have in the countries which those thus naturalized had quitted, especially in case of the return of the naturalized either temporarily or permanently to their former homes, was not evidently taken into consideration."

The general requirement of five years' residence was dispensed with by an act, passed during the war, which provided that one year's service in the army should be considered equivalent to five year's residence. A similar exception was engrafted upon the law in 1872, permitting a foreigner who shall declare his intention to become a citizen and who shall serve three years on board a merchant ship of the United States, to be admitted as a citizen. This latter act also provides that "such seaman shall, for all purposes of protection as an American citizen, be deemed such after the filing of his declaration of intention to become such citizen." While these provisions are in force, a certificate of naturalization is no assurance to a foreign nation that her former subject has been five years resident here. A treaty requirement would, of course, override them; but it may well be urged that the symmetry of the system demands their repeal.

Again, over two thousand district courts in the United States may issue certificates of naturalization. There is no prescribed form. There is no verification required under the seal of the United States. The door stands wide open for fraud, and indeed it became needful to pass an act in 1870 to punish the offence of fraudulently issuing naturalization papers. To what extent party politics may enter into the question of a reform in our naturalization laws, Mr. Bliss does not seek to enquire. He has contented himself with calling attention to the need of intelligent and careful legislation to this end. We are struck with the fact that the problem here presented will soon be pressing upon Congress for solution. We do not doubt that changes will be made to remedy most of the defects to which this observant and acute writer has thus timely called attention.

The President.

On Sunday the President astonished everybody, and despair gave place to hope. Dr. Hamilton said "We are exceedingly hopeful," and Dr. Agnew said "The President has now more than an even chance." At noon his pulse was 104, and the improvement in other respects encouraging; at 6:30 P. M. his pulse was 110, the general improvement being maintained.

Throughout Monday the favorable condition, continued. The flow of pus from the parotid gland increased, and the swelling became less rigid; at noon the usual daily rise in temperature had not occurred. A report of lung trouble caused great uneasiness, but was unfounded. Dr. Hamilton, who arrived in New York from Washington Monday forenoon, said "The President is going to get well." Mr. Blaine sent the following to Minister Lowell in the afternoon.

The President had a good night and is having a good day. At this hour (two P. M.) his pulse is 103, showing a decrease from the forenoon. For many days past the pulse has shown a decided increase by this time in the afternoon. His respiration is normal. All other symptoms rre reported by his surgeons to be favorable.

News and Notes.

In the cars, on his way to Portland, Me., during his recent trip eastward, Gen. Hancock was asked his opinion of Gen. Arthur, and with much warmth replied that he was an able, patriotic, high-minded gentleman, and in the event of his being called to the chief magistracy would discharge the duties with but one purpose—that of benefitting the entire country—and that the people might rely on his judgment with absolute confidence.

The British Parliament was prorogued by the queen on Saturday last.

Chang Tsoo has been appointed Chinese minister to the United States.

On the evening of Aug. 28th, while Joseph Ritchie of Freeport, L. I., was gunning in a swamp near that town, he came upon the body of a young woman cut in two through the stomach, the two pieces lying a few feet apart. The remains had no clothing on, but each piece was wrapped in a New York Herald of Aug. 18th.

By the collision of two freight trains near Lancaster, Ont., Aug. 29th, two brakemen and a fireman were killed, another fireman and both engineers fatally hurt, and two engines and nineteen cars demolished. The collision was caused by the carelessness of a telegraph operator.

The body of Theodore Schneider, a German printer aged thirty-four years, was found in the water at West Haven, Conn., about a mile from where Jennie Cramer's body was previously picked up, Aug. 28th.

Eugene F. Forman, editor and proprietor of the Lynn, Mass., weekly Reporter and daily Bee, fell backward out of a fourth-story window of the Sagamore hotel while taking off his shoes preparatory to going to bed, last Friday night, and was fatally injured by striking the sidewalk below. He was unmarried, thirty years old, and a very able writer and newspaper man.

The steamer State of New York, plying between New York and Hartford, Conn., left the latter city at four o'clock Sunday afternoon with 200 passengers, and was sunk near Goodspeed's landing on the Connecticut river through striking a rock while steering out for a schooner. She was run ashore, where she filled. Only one life was lost; the baggage master Sydney Sellen, was drowned in the ladies' cabin, whither he went to see if all had escaped.

Owen Kelly, a young hoodlum of Boston Highlands, was pounding on the door of the residence of Michael Dolan, an old man of seventy years, when the latter fired a pistol at him, putting the bullet into his mouth and knocking out three of his teeth. Dolan is under arrest.

The greenback and republican state conventions of Mississippi, in session at Jackson, have agreed upon a fusion ticket as follows: Ben King, governor; J. B. Yellowby, lieutenant governor; J. J. Spellman, (colored), secretary of state; W. H. Bynum, treasurer; A. T. Wimberly, auditor; W. F. Fitzgerald, attorney general; W. D. Housee, superintendent of education.

It has finally been decided to postpone the opening of the Mechanics' fair at Boston until September 13th, the directors believing that it will prove far better to open the exhibition when complete than when in half order.

The Vandalia arrived at Newport, R. I., Aug. 27th, from Boston.

Commodore Beaumont, commandant of the navy yard, was saluted by the training ship Portsmouth in the lower harbor on Monday morning. Later in the forenoon the Portsmouth received a salute of seven guns from the battery at the yard, she having came up to the yard to receive some needed repairs.

Important.

AROUND HOME.

Hon. Ossian Ray is at the Wentworth, Newcastle.

John Greenleaf Whittier came in from the Shoals on Monday.

The clam bake appointed for Wednesday, 31st inst., is indefinitely postponed.

School books and all other school supplies can be procured at H. B. Buzzell & Son's, Market square. See adv't.

The semi-annual meeting of the New Hampshire Medical society, at the Wentworth, Newcastle, will be held Sept. 1st.

Samuel Adams, Esq., and wife, leave this city this morning for Minneapolis, Minn., on a visit to their children and grandchildren there.

The schooner Grace Choate arrived on Sunday with two hundred barrels of mackerel. The Water Lily arrived on the same day with ten sword-fish—all to C. Morris Tredick.

A Water street storekeeper was in such a hurry to go on the trip to Haverhill, Mass., in the steamer Gen. Bartlett on Monday, that he left his store door not only unlocked, but wide open.

Mr. John Philbrick, a well known resident of North Hampton, committed suicide by hanging last Sunday forenoon. Depression of spirits, occasioned by ill health, is assigned as the cause.

Rev. James DeNormandie preached to a large gathering of visitors at the Marshall house, York harbor, on Sunday last. Mr. DeNormandie will resume his pulpit duties in his own church next Sabbath.

Mr. John F. Hobbs, son of Hon. John W. F. Hobbs of North Hampton, was struck by a train last Saturday at Amsterdam, N. Y., and so severely injured that he died within a few hours, after suffering the amputation of an arm.

The camp-meeting at the Hedding camp-ground in Epping opened on Monday. The branch track built by the Concord railroad from the East Epping station to the camp-ground, was completed in time for use on the opening day of the meeting.

A colored lady locked up in the police station for lack of money to pay a fine for drunkenness, and awaiting trial on another charge, Monday afternoon, sang "I can't stay here much longer" in good style for about an hour, and then switched off on to "There's no place like home." The court thought she had best not stop there much longer, and accordingly sent her to Brentwood for two months.

A French child about four years of age fell overboard from Plaisted's wharf, Monday afternoon, and would probably have been drowned but for the courageous action of Mr. James Cary, in the employ of Mr. J. Albert Walker, who jumped overboard from the Concord railroad wharf, swam across the dock to Plaisted's wharf, and took the child ashore. Mr. Cary deserves much credit for his prompt bravery.

At a meeting of the Strafford Guards, of Dover, last week, to elect a captain in place of the late one, promoted to be major of the 1st Reg't N. H. N. G., the first lieutenant of the company announced that under a new military law sanctioned by the legislature, commanding officers of companies and their subalterns will hereafter be chosen by the field officers of the regiment. The rule should have been extended so as to allow the field officers to choose the privates also, for under the rule as given few enlistments will take place.

It is reported that the orders regarding the artesian well at the Eastion railroad station are to keep on pumping right along until further notice. It is said that all sorts of waters are coming up, of all colors, odors and kinds.

The exodus of sea-side visitors within a few days has been large; the trains leaving the Eastern and Concord railroad stations on Monday were filled with returning summer sojourners. The baggage vans and coaches from the Wentworth were heavily loaded, and the Rye and York beach teams had big loads into the city, and very light ones on their return trips. "The season" of 1881 is a thing of the past.

The excursion party from this city to Haverhill, Mass., Monday, by steamer "Gen. Bartlett," was not so large as it should have been, nor so large as we had supposed it would be. Still it was very fair in numbers, and of excellent quality; and all enjoyed a day of unalloyed pleasure. The trip up the river from Newburyport to Haverhill is one of rare beauty, and no unpleasant incidents occurred to mar the occasion.

The schooner Jessie Williamson, Jr., Craig master, 157 tons register, was run down and sunk early Saturday morning nine miles off Boston light by steamship Missouri, during a fog. Capt. Craig was so badly hurt that he died in a few hours, leaving a widow and five children. The schooner was bound from Elizabethport to Boston with a cargo of coal, and is a total loss. She formerly hailed from this port, being principally owned by persons in Newmarket and Durham; she was wrecked on Long Island several winters ago, and sold to parties who raised and refitted her, since which time we believe she has hailed from Boston.

At a about two o'clock Monday afternoon a boat containing four or five boys ran into Portsmouth bridge, about midway between the two shores; they struck the bridge on the down-river side, and went up through, losing an oar, getting the boat nearly filled with water, and having one boy pitched overboard, who afterward recovered his hold on the boat. Messrs. Wm. Perkins and Samuel Cottle, employed on the bridge, went to their assistance when they struck. The oar lost was afterward picked up at Eliot neck. There are not very many persons who have been through Portsmouth bridge other than through the trestle spans, and live to tell of it.

POLICE COURT.

Monday, Aug. 29; Batchelder J.

Charles E. Gray, for an assault on Charles W. Folsom, (case continued from Saturday,) was fined $3, costs $9.18. Paid.

John Reagan, Olive Austin, Patrick Kenney and Artie Barney, were held in $100 each for trial at the October term of the supreme court on a charge of fornication. These persons were captured by the police at about one o'clock Monday morning, in the mansion on Short street known as "Sam Wilson's ranch."

John Condon, drunk, fine $10, costs $6.90; jail in default of payment. Mr. Condon was another of the Short street "ranchers," having been gathered in by the officers on their Monday morning raid. Mr. Wilson and his wife had best come out of jail at the first convenient moment to look after their home, unless they want it to get a bad name.

Mary Mitchell, a colored woman and one of the regular customers of the court, was charged with drunkenness, and fined $3, costs $6.90. Mary was found on Bridge street by the police on Sunday night at about midnight, in company with a man, and on being interrogated said she was hunting for a dressmaker, and the man in her company was aiding her in the search for one. The court did not accept this as an excuse for her being drunk.

James Devine, for brawl and tumult, was fined $2, costs $6.90.

Mrs. James Devine, charged with drunkenness, was adjudged guilty; but it being her first offence, or at least the first time she has appeared before the court, on the suggestion of the police sentence was suspended.

Albert Emery, complained of for refusing to aid an officer in the execution of his duty when called upon, was discharged.

Mary Mitchell, for being a common street walker, was sent to the county house of correction for sixty days, costs being taxed at $9.55.

That was all there was.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

A telegram received in this city on Monday afternoon from Newport, R. I., announced the instant killing of Lieut. Lyman G. Spalding, U. S. N., of this city, and Lieut. Benjamin L. Edes, by the premature explosion of a torpedo at the United States torpedo station at that place. No details of the sad disaster were given.

Lieut. Spalding entered the service June 28th, 1871, and was commissioned lieutenant July 10th, 1875. His last cruise was in the Enterprise, and he rendered excellent service during that vessel's survey of the Madeira river in South America, being complimented with a special mention in the commander's report of the expedition; some very interesting letters were written home by Lieut. Spalding from South America, and attracted considerable attention when published in a local paper. A few months ago he returned from an extended tour in the south of Europe, which he made in company with several lady members of his family, and was ordered to torpedo duty at Newport. He was an unassuming gentleman and a promising young officer, and his relatives will have in their sad affliction the sincere sympathy of all who knew him.

THE NEW STREET.

The claim probably referred to is the judgment of the supreme court against the city for the costs of laying out the new highway, $149.20, and includes the fees and expenses of the county commissioners, attendance of witnesses, etc.—Times, Aug. 20th.

The mayor announced that certain bills had "got to be paid" by order of the court, and specified * * * the county commissioners' bills, aggregating about $100, and a surveyor's bill for $15.—"Curio," in Chronicle, Aug. 23d.

The fact was, that the judgment of the court for the costs of laying out the highway, amounting to $149.20, was ordered to be paid by the mayor and aldermen. * * The order of the court is that the new street be completed by the first of October.—Journal, Aug. 27th.

PORTSMOUTH, Aug. 29th.

Mr. Editor: The above paragraphs are to me a puzzle. Has the supreme court ordered the Short street extension built? If so, when? and why has not the order been made public by those whose duty it was so to do? The late board of aldermen twice voted unanimously in opposition to this outrageous "job;" once when they laid the petition for the new street on the table; and once when they instructed City Solicitor Foster to defend the city's interests, and empowered him to employ additional counsel. Clearly, if the court made an order adverse to the city, the aldermen should have known it; the city employed counsel, whose duty it was to have known what was going on, and to have reported it to the city government; yet no word has ever been given to the board of aldermen. Did the late city solicitor neglect his duty in this matter, or is some one else to blame for the ignorance in which the city councils have kept? Please let me know. ENQUIRER.

[We should be glad to answer our correspondent's conundrums, but are not able to. All we know about the matter is that the board of aldermen twice voted adversely to the new street; that counsel was engaged to oppose it; that no report of any action by the court was ever made to the board of aldermen, as a board; and that work on the new street was commenced on Monday. To us it looks very much as though the board of aldermen had been "euchered" by a bit of sharp practice—by whom we do not care to say. —Ed. Chronicle.]

Henry Willett, aged eighteen, was killed at Meriden, Conn., on Sunday, while stealing a ride on a morning freight train.

Mount Garfield.

The selectmen of Franconia on Friday of last week renamed the mountain called the "Haystack," near Mt. Lafayette, and hereafter it will be known as "Mount Garfield." This mountain has long been famous as the most symmetrical of the White mountain group, and one of the most conspicuous of the higher peaks, attaining a height of 4,500 feet, which is 700 feet less than Mount Lafayette, its near neighbor. Sixty years ago it was called "Moose mountain," while Mount Lafayette was known as the "Great Haystack." After the assassination of President Lincoln, the mountain adjoining Mount Lafayette on the south was called Mount Lincoln.

Naval Affairs.

Naval Constructor Frank L. Fernald is granted leave of absence during September.

Commodore J. W. A. Nicholson appeared before a special examining board at Washington, D. C., Aug. 24th, for examination for promotion to the grade of rear admiral. The board was composed of Rear Admirals John Rodgers, T. H. Patterson and E. T. Nichols.

New Hampshire Items.

The New Hampshire Insurance Co., of Manchester, had a risk of $2500 on the property burned in Chicago, Aug. 26th.

The farm buildings of Charles Bullock, in Alexandria, were burned by an incendiary fire on the night of Aug. 25th. Loss $2000; insurance $1300.

Dana Newman, a young man living in Washington, committed suicide about four o'clock Sunday morning by shooting himself through the heart, dying in a few moments. He had been partially insane for some time.

A Braying Ass Unduly Honored.

The editor of the Quincy, Ill., Herald, a democratic paper, on Aug. 11th in a leading editorial used this language: "We believe Guiteau to be just as honorable as the man he shot, and a mighty sight less dangerous to the country at large." The Herald editor has from time to time since that date reiterated and aggravated this statement by such assertions as "When the doctors finish Guiteau's work, as they seem likely to do, there will be no national sorrow." He also added that he had the support of all reputable democrats everywhere. Public indignation against the Herald ran high among reputable democrats as well as republicans, and the feeling of anger culminated last Sunday night in the hanging and burning of the editor in effigy together with a companion effigy of Guiteau. In this demonstration both republicans and democrats were engaged, but no personal violence of any kind was attempted.

"Buchupaiba."

Suicide and Dyspepsia.

A most remarkable cure for dyspepsia, "Wells' Health Renewer." The greatest tonic, best billious and liver remedy known. $1. Druggists. Depot, Thacher's

By a fire at the Union Stock yards in Chicago, Aug. 26th, a loss of $1,000,000 was sustained. Fully insured, in a large number of companies.

Cured of Drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for liquor, which had so prostrated him that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all that burning thirst; took away the appetite for liquor; made his nerves steady, and he has remained a sober and steady man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups; I know of a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it."—From a leading R. R. official, Chicago, Ill.—Times.

A despatch from Tombstone, Arizona, says that on Aug 26th the town of Eureka, New Mexico, was attacked by Indians and all the inhabitants murdered. The victims numbered about seventy.

No preparation I have used can compare with Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites for restoring strength to the nervous system. I think it is the best medicine I have ever used.

W. J. HORNER, Buffalo, N. Y.

Charleston, S. C., was visited by a furious gale Aug. 27th. One white man, a son of Chancellor Lesesne, was blown overboard off the battery sea wall, and drowned: two negro men and a negro woman also lost their lives. The damage to buildings in the city is estimated at $100,000, with $40,000 more at Sullivan's island. The shipping in port made preparations for the gale, and rode it out unharmed.

Big Results from Little Causes.

"Do you know?" remarked a man to his friend on Chestnut street, a day or two since, "I believe both Conkling and Platt had a bad case of skin disease when they resigned?" "What makes you think so?" inquired the listener in astonishment. "Well, you see they acted in such an eruptive manner—so rash—ly as it were. Save?" "Oh! yes, I save," replied the other, "they were heal—ing over and merely resigned to hesoir themselves, I suppose." If such be the case, the National difficulty might have been averted by applying Swayne's Ointment for skin diseases.

Summer Complaints

At this season, various diseases of the bowels are prevalent, and many lives are lost through lack of knowledge of a safe and sure remedy. PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER is a sure cure for Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Cholera, Cholera Morbus, Summer Complaint, etc., and is perfectly safe.

Read the following:

BUTLER, N. Y., March 22, 1881.

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER never fails to afford instant relief for cramp and pain in the stomach.

JOSEPH BURNETT.

NICHOLVILLE, N. Y., Feb. 2, 1881.

The very best medicine I know of for dysentery, cholera morbus, and cramps in the stomach. Have used it for years, and it is sure cure every time.

JULIUS W. DEE.

MONONA, IOWA, March 12, 1881.

I have used your PAIN KILLER in severe cases of cramp, colic and cholera morbus, and it gave almost instant relief.

L. E. CALDWELL.

CARNESVILLE, Ga., Feb. 28, 1881.

For twenty years I have used your PAIN KILLER in my family. Have used it many times for bowel complaints, and it always cures. Would not be without a bottle in the house.

J. R. IVIE.

SACO, ME., Jan. 25, 1881.

Have used PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER for twelve years. It is safe, sure, and reliable. No mother should allow it to be out of the family.

H. I. NAYES.

ONEIDA, N. Y., Feb. 19, 1881.

We began using it over thirty years ago, and it always gives immediate relief. Would hardly dare to go to bed without a bottle in the house.

W. O. SPERRY.

CONWAYBORO, S. C., Nov. 22, 1881.

DR. E. MORTON.

U. S. CONSULATE,

CREFELD, RHENISH PRUSSIA, Feb. 3, 1881.

I have known PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER almost from the day it was introduced, and after years of observation and use I regard its presence in my household as an indispensable necessity.

I. S. POTTER, U. S. Consul.

BURTON-ON-TRENT, ENG.

I had been several days suffering severely from diarrhœa, accompanied with intense pain, when I tried your PAIN KILLER, and found almost instant relief.

H. J. NOOTE.

11 MONTAGUE ST., LONDON, ENG.

During a residence of twenty-three years in India, I have given it in many cases of diarrhœa, dysentery, and cholera, and never knew it to fail to give relief.

R. GLEDHOW.

No family can safely be without this invaluable remedy. Its price brings it within the reach of all.

The President's Wound!

A Parallel Case in Army Life.

By Dr. David Kennedy, one of the Surgeons on Duty at the U. S. A. General Hospital, West Philadelphia,

Now of Rondout, N. Y.

In the issue of the Philadelphia Record of the 27th of July was published an article relating to the case of Capt. William Palmer, now Quartermaster Second Brigade New Jersey State National Guard, who was wounded at the battle of Mossy Creek, East Tennessee, in the winter of 1863. In that article the striking resemblance of the case to that of President Garfield, in many particulars, was pointed out; the authority for the statement being the brave captain himself. A still better authority is Dr. David Kennedy, then surgeon U. S. General Hospital, West Philadelphia, who had had charge of the case, and performed the operation of removing the detached bone, and finally extracted the bullet—Capt. Palmer is living to this day in the bloom of health. Dr. Kennedy does not hesitate to say that many of his patients both in military and civil practice owe their lives to the wonderful healing and strengthening powers of his medicine called "Favorite Remedy." The doctor is in possession of an autograph letter from Capt. Palmer, attesting his indebtedness for his present good health to this medicine—"Favorite Remedy"—which he says has doubled the obligation which he felt to the doctor for the treatment of the captain's terrible wound.

While Dr. Kennedy is engaged in the introduction of "Favorite Remedy," he still continues the practice of his profession as Rondout, N. Y., performs all the minor as well as capital operations of surgery. Address as above. 1w52

Hardly Consistent.

The American, of Philadelphia, says "The will of Mr. Matthew Vassar, just published, contains, as might have been expected, a large number of bequests to religious and benevolent objects. No less than seven religious denominations are thus remembered, the Baptist body, of course, receiving a lion's share. We notice this fact to remark that Mr. Vassar made the money thus bequeathed by brewing. If we may judge by the language which the representative bodies, the pulpits and the press of these bodies, use in regard to beer as well as whiskey, they think he might as well have made it by investments in the 'social evil.' But they are inconsistent enough to accept the gift, saying nothing about the employment of the giver. Nummus non olet—'Money has no smell'—as Vespasian said to Titus when the younger Emperor objected to drawing revenue from a necessary but unsavory article of household furniture. Yet when a man like Dr. Crosby declines to unite in these inconsistent tirades against all and any use of malt and spirituous liquors, he is decried as having abandoned the cause of religion itself."

The English farmer seems doomed to economical ruin. All the early prospects of the harvest were promising, but the late rains have ruined the corn and caused enormous losses. Year after year the luck has been running against him, nature and American competition combining to force him back upon the soil and to exhaust his scanty store of savings. This new disaster will increase the tendency in the English counties to abandon agricultural pursuits, and either to seek a new occupation in the cities or to emigrate.

A man drove up at a terrific pace to the railroad station at Farewell, Mich., and inquired for his wife. She had eloped with a neighbor, and was about to take a train for the east. "Thank goodness, I'm in time!" the husband cried, in great excitement. "Here's your child," he continued, producing a little girl; "reckon you forgot her in your hurry. Now you can get off as fast as you like." Leaving the girl with the runaway pair, he drove away with his placidity entirely restored.

As a part of Dr. Holman's absorption theory of cure the Holman Plasters are of the utmost importance. They are especially intended to act as an adjunct of Holman's Pads in stubborn cases, where there is persistent local pain or deficient circulation; but they must be used without the pad, if desired in any spot or place where a powerful and really curative plaster is useful.

How Long Would It take to Count two Millions?

Over two million volumes of the revised edition of the New Testament, were sold on the first day of its issue. These figures can only be equaled by the enormous sales of Swayne's Ointment for Itching piles, which is universally used as a standard remedy for stopping the itching at night, when one thinks that pin worms are crawling about the rectum. To calculate the extent of its sale in actual figures, would involve the labor of a lifetime. Will you be pestered longer from the aggravating piles?

Portsmouth Chronicle.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 31, 1881.

[Entered at the Post-Office at Portsmouth, N.H. as second-class matter.]

The President.

The President continued to improve throughout Monday and Monday night. On Monday night Mr. Bixine sent the following telegram to Minister Lowell at London:

At 10:30 to-night the general condition of the president is favorable. Late in the afternoon his pulse rose to 112 and his temperature to 100, both a little higher than the surgeons expected. Pulse has now fallen to 108, and fever is subsiding. The parotid swelling is steadily improving, and is, at last, diminishing in size. Apprehensions of serious blood poisoning grow less every hour.

The surgeons say that the President's wound is looking better than for several days past, that the work of granulation is beginning to show itself again, and that the pus is slightly better in quality, not being so watery as during the past ten days. At the dressing on Tuesday morning another incision was made in the lower part of the swelling on the right side of the patient's face, which was followed by a free discharge of healthy looking pus. The swelling is perceptibly smaller, and looks better. The wound remains in an unchanged condition. There has been little rise of temperature since morning, but the pulse is more frequent. In other respects the condition was about the same. At 2:20 in the afternoon a report came from the President's room that his pulse had gone up to 120, and that his symptoms did not appear so favorable as when the last official bulletin was issued. This report caused much uneasiness, but the surgeons attributed the increase to the cutting that morning, and said they believed the pulse would be lower when the evening examination was made. Secretary Blaine cabled the following despatch to Minister Lowell at London in the afternoon:

The President's condition has not materially changed since my last despatch. Another incision was made this morning in the parotid gland, with very satisfactory results. Pus flows freely, and the swelling grows less. The pulse at this hour, two P. M., is lower than during the forenoon of yesterday, but on both days was higher than his other good symptoms would seem to warrant. It is now 110. At noon it was 116.

News and Notes.

At Port Royal, S. C., Saturday night, forty lives were lost through the ferry-house being blown into the bay. The lightship, buoys and other harbor marks at Charleston were all driven from their proper positions by the storm. At Savannah, Ga., great damage was done to vessels in the port, many buildings were destroyed or injured, and the loss of life was very large.

It is reported that the Mutual Union, Rapid, Canadian Mutual, and Baltimore & Ohio systems of telegraphs have entered into a combination by which some 50,000 miles are to be placed under one management, of which the Baltimore & Ohio party are understood to be the principal factors.

The "thirteen at table" superstition has a new support in the recent death of Editor Forman of the Lynn Bee. He was one of a number of persons at a banquet at the Sagamore hotel in that city one evening last winter, and when about half through the meal he suddenly exclaimed: "Thirteen at table; there will be one of us gone before the year is out!" After a pause he said to one of his employes present: "Look out, George, you will be the one." Mr. Forman took further notice of the matter by taking down the names of all present, which list he subsequently filed at the Bee office, where it now is. The employe referred to met with a serious mishap a few weeks ago, but it remained for Mr. Forman to give further ground to the famous superstition.

The barque "Western Sea" has arrived in Boston from Machias, Me., and Mr. Goodnow would like to sell her cargo of 357 bales of cotton, 122 bags of wool, and other merchandise, and by this means help repair the damages from the bad operation he was induced to enter into by the sharp sailors of the Western Sea.

It is reported that there is trouble brewing in the treasury department at Washington, between Secretary Windom and First Comptroller Lawrence. Mr. Lawrence claims power which the secretary maintains he does not possess, and it is stated but for the condition of the President, Secretary Windom would ask for the removal of Comptroller Lawrence.

Edward Picard of Granby, Quebec, has been arrested and bound over in $2,000 for committing an outrageous assault on an eighteen-year-old idiotic girl. He is married, and has four children. His brother furnished bail, and he has fled. The girl will not live.

By the capsizing of a yacht off Long beach, N. Y., on Sunday, Col. William Chalmer of New York was drowned.

A despatch from Geneva, Switzerland, reports that a huge mass of rock and earth has fallen from the mountain side at Somvix in the caution of Grisons, and blocked up the course of the river Jobel, an affluent of the Rhine, converting the valley into a lake.

The class of officers under instruction at the torpedo station at Newport, R. I., graduates this week, the graduating exercises commencing on Thursday before the official board appointed for the purpose.

An English clergyman visiting the Old South church in this city was much impressed with its architectural beauty, and said there was no Congregational edifice in Great Britain that could compare with it. He was also surprised that the officiating clergyman wore a white vest, having never seen such a garment in the pulpit. —Congregationalist.

New Hampshire Items.

All departments in the Wallace Brothers' new shoe factory and tannery buildings at Rochester are now running in full, and the business prospects of that town look very favorable indeed.

Michael Burt, aged thirteen years, was drowned Monday morning in the Merrimac river, below Granite bridge, Manchester. He was swimming out to some boats in the stream with a boat key in his mouth, which he swallowed, and choking instantly sank.

Thomas Benway, of Charlestown, a middle-aged man with a family, fell from the Burlington & Lamoille railroad bridge, near Burlington, on Monday, to the rocks below, a distance of sixty feet. He cannot recover.

Rosa Blake of Piermont, a married lady about thirty years old, hung herself in the garret, Monday morning. Insanity is thought to have been the cause.

Mr. George W. Goddard, of Greenville, is evidently a farmer. He enters for the New England fair a Jersey bull, pair of working oxen, a Berkshire boar and three sows, traces of seed corn, spring wheat, oats, barley, buckwheat, rye, field beans, early Marblehead sweetcorn, cucumbers, Bliss's triumph potatoes, and ten pounds of butter.

On Monday morning John Newbury, aged forty years, a native of Effingham, while at work on the Eastern railroad wharf fell some distance from a staging, and fractured his skull, in Boston.

The adjourned law term of the supreme court of the state is to be held at Concord this week. Seventeen candidates for admission to the bar have presented themselves to the tender mercies of the committee upon examination.

Increase of Insanity.

A recent medical paper on insanity, while admitting that it is largely increasing, and is covering an extensive range of mental affection, avers that we know next to nothing of its pathology. It is thought to be a disease of physical degeneration rather than one of civilization (as stated by Esquirol;) but the causes of mental disease, its course, and its methods of cure are regarded as yet remaining undiscovered. It is estimated from statistics that one in thirty of all persons reaching the age of twenty may be expected to become insane in the older states of the Union. Insanity is found to be much less prevalent in new and fresh places than in those where the population is centralized; is more common in the eastern states than in those of the west, and is least often met with in the farm districts of our new states. Its frequency has become more and more strongly marked in the last twenty-five years, and a much closer attention to neurological investigations is recommended.

A Little Misprint.

He walked into the office this morning looking much like a man pretty well satisfied with general results, and said:

"Can I see the editor?"

He was shown that eminently useful adjunct to a newspaper at once.

"Good morning, sir," he cheerily began.

"Mornin'," said the editor.

"I came in," he proceeded, "to tell you of a misprint in the paper."

"Yes? What is it?"

"Well, you see, I sent a notice around yesterday that Mr. Smith had been married, and your compositor, I see, has got it 'Mr. Smith has just been martyred,' but I guess it don't hardly make difference enough to change it."

The editor scratched his head a minute and thought of house cleaning and other female eccentricities, and told the visitor of course it didn't, and he went away whistling, "Why should the spirit of mortals be proud?"—Steubenville Herald.

Baby on the Ocean.

Some of the passengers were very miserable in their berths below, but baby, all unconscious of danger, seemed, as usual, to thoroughly enjoy the various ludicrous incidents and small catastrophies that always occur on these occasions. There was a good deal of loose water flying about, and not much room on deck, with all the boats on board. A snug place was therefore found for her, just inside the deck-house door, where, enveloped in macintoshes, she fairly screamed with delight as the men slithered and slid and fell about on the slippery decks. She thought it especially amusing when the cook opened the meat safe and a leg of mutton flew out in his face, while a large piece of beef followed suit, striking him on the chest and completely knocking him over. The cook's boy was busily engaged at the same time in the vain pursuit of carrots, turnips and potatoes, that broke loose from the vegetable bunkers and were floating about in the lee-scuppers, while a few poor, miserable-looking, draggle-tailed cocks and hens sought shelter beneath the sails and completed the picture of discomfort and confusion. One of the hen-coops had already been washed adrift, and its twelve unfortunate occupants drowned.—Eclectic Magazine.

—No one is so blind to his own faults as a man who has the habit of detecting the faults of others.

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere. 25 cents a bottle. m,w & s & g ow

AROUND HOME.

Capt. John G. Moses has arrived home from Europe.

The bald-headed men don't know what they missed by not visiting Music hall on Tuesday evening.

The annual meeting of the Newmarket Manufacturing Co. is to be held in Newmarket on Thursday, Sept. 1st.

The Ocean Wave house at Rye beach has been filled to overflowing this season, the guests consisting mostly of people from the west; and applications are even now daily received for rooms.

Orders have been received at the navy yard to have the Lancaster in readiness to drop below on Sept. 6th; her shot and shell were being put on board Tuesday. The training-ship Portsmouth will remain at the yard about ten days, during which time she will fit for the Yorktown centennial.

In the telegraphic report of the damage done by the hurricane at Savannah, Ga., on Saturday night last, we find the following: "Engineer Richard Fitzgerald, of the steamer 'H. B. Plant,' was drowned." Mr. Fitzgerald belonged in this city, where his parents now live.

The steamer Startled Fawn came in on Tuesday forenoon from the Merrimac river with a party of excursionists, who were transferred to the steamer James Sampson and ferried over to the navy yard. The Startled Fawn left with her party at about two o'clock in the afternoon.

The two men who were reported as lost from the schooner Maud B. Wetherell last week, while fishing on the Grand banks, were picked up by the schooner Nevada and landed at North Haven, Me., and arrived in this city on Tuesday morning. They were sixty-two hours without food or water before being picked up. They report the Maud B. Wetherell as having 1200 quintals of fish on board.

Paymaster General Cutter of the navy was retired on Tuesday, he having reached the age of sixty-two years. He is retired as commodore under the existing law. The office of paymaster general will remain vacant at present. By request of Secretary Hunt he will remain and superintend the office until his successor is appointed by the president. Gen. Cutter and his wife are to make a visit to this city next week.

On Saturday afternoon of last week David Hammond of Dover hired a horse and wagon of a man in that city to go to Northwood. On his arrival there the horse appeared ill, and was put in a stable, where it died next day. Hammond then hired a horse of a Northwood farmer, and drove back to Dover, the owner of the horse accompanying in another team. On arriving at Dover Hammond's second horse was taken sick, and died Monday.

The friends of Mr. Samuel W. Foss of this city, a graduate of our High School and a member of the class of 1882 of Brown University, have invited him to deliver before them the lecture which he gave a few months ago in Foxboro', Mass. It will be delivered in the chapel of the North church, on Middle street, Tuesday evening, Sept. 6th. Mr. Foss' abilities as a writer have long been regarded as unusually promising. The general knowledge of this fact, combined with those admirable personal qualities recognized by all who have come in contact with him, will without doubt attract a goodly audience to listen to his effort on the evening mentioned. The price of tickets has been placed at twenty-five cents, and they may be found after Saturday morning next at Goodrich's and Myers' bookstores.

The steamer Appledore carried a very large number of passengers to and from the Shoals on Tuesday.

The New Hampshire Medical Association will meet at the Wentworth, Newcastle, on Tuesday of next week. The married members will take their wives along, and a good time is anticipated.

The Bangor express to Boston, Tuesday forenoon, was fifty minutes late in arriving at this city, owing to the heavy train. The White Mountain express and the Bangor express are run separately to Boston, the travel being so heavy that it is impossible to run the trains consolidated.

The Strafford Bow Lake band, of twenty-three pieces, stopping at York beach for this week, propose making an excursion to the Shoals to-day per steamer Appledore, going out at eleven o'clock and returning at 4:30. The band is said to be a fine one, and will make plenty of music on the trip. Persons wishing to go out can get round trip tickets at 75 cts. each.

Two boys were driving a sedate old horse down Congress street, Tuesday, when the animal "stubbed his toe" opposite Congress block, and fell, breaking both shafts of the wagon and pitching the two boys out. All three got up and looked at each other in wonder as to what was the matter, none of them being injured; then the boys coolly unharnessed the horse, and towed him off.

A monster sword-fish was captured Monday afternoon by a party of gentlemen at the Oceanic, in the yacht Eliza, skipper Winslow. His length was thirteen feet two inches, weight 689 pounds. Three smaller ones were also captured, one weighing 400 lbs., and the other two about 250 lbs. each. One of the smaller ones was sent to Oscar Barron of the Fabyan house. Sword-fishing at the present time is one of the principal amusements among the guests at the Oceanic.—Times.

Rev. W. W. Smith, pastor of the Methodist church in this city, preached the opening sermon of the twentieth annual camp-meeting at the Hedding campgrounds, East Epping, on Monday afternoon at two o'clock. Rev. George W. Noyes of Great Falls preached in the evening at six o'clock. The weather was fine, and the attendance good. Over two hundred cottages and tents are occupied by families that will stay through the meeting.

A small audience assembled in Music hall, Tuesday evening, to see "Romeo and Juliet" performed by the Florence Gillette dramatic company. The evening was one of the most oppressively warm ones of the season, but the audience sat out the play to the end, and seemed to enjoy it. Miss Gillette was twice called before the curtain, and Mr. W. N. Griffith, the Romeo, was well received. The minor parts were fairly taken, Mercutio meeting with special approbation.

The schooner Jesse Williamson, Jr., an account of whose sinking off Boston light on the morning of Aug. 27th we have already given, we are informed was not owned in whole or in part by up-river parties at the time she hailed from this port. Rider & Cotton in 1878 bought her from Col. William H. Sise, and put her in command of Capt. Swett; in February, 1880, they sold her to Capt. Craig, the unfortunate gentleman who lost his life in the collision which destroyed his vessel.

A car load of molasses consigned to Wm. Ward & Sons came into the freight yard at the Eastern depot on Saturday in very bad condition, the dripping sweetness having besmeared nearly every tie between Newburyport and this city. All day Sunday the oozing process continued, the molasses forming large puddles, around which gathered scores of urchins "on sweets intent" and burdened with every conceivable vessel from a nail keg to an essence bottle. The loss was about seven hundred gallons.

The schooner Eldorado, Yeaton master, of and from Portland, Me., was at anchor in the lower harbor at two o'clock in the morning on Tuesday, with no one on board, when she broke adrift and dragged up the river, bringing up against Portsmouth bridge. She was taken from that position by the steam-tug Clara Batemen, Capt. Magraw placing a man on board and towing her to a place of safety. The schooner's captain it is said was in Portland, and the crew apparently took advantage of the situation to neglect their duty.

POLICE COURT.

TUESDAY, Aug. 30; Batchelder, J.

There was only one case before the court to-day. The proprietor of a hotel was charged $10.76 for keeping his bar open on Sunday, and paid it.

THE NEWPORT DISASTER.

The following is the Associated Press account of the terrible accident at Newport, R. I., Aug. 29th, resulting in the instant death of Lieuts. Edes and Spalding:

Both officers were in the inner harbor in a torpedo launch, and were putting a torpedo in position, in order to exhibit the experiment to Admiral Porter, who had been at Newport several days. The torpedo was to be exploded by the breaking of the electric circuit. Edes had the deadly missile in his lap, while Spalding was rowing the launch. The tide was low, and the torpedo was to be planted in about three fathoms of water. Near by was a steam launch with the remainder of the class under instruction on board. Admiral Porter, Capt. Selfridge and officers of the torpedo station were on Goat Island, where the torpedo station is located, for the purpose of witnessing the experiment. Edes leaned forward to put the torpedo in the water, when a terrific explosion was heard, and the bodies of the unfortunate men were seen in the air. It was a terrible sight. Admiral Porter and the unfortunate officers' class mates stood appalled at the sight of the bodies being literally blown to fragments. The bodies went in the air some thirty-five feet, and with them ascended the debris of the boat.

The workmen employed on the station went into the water as soon as possible, and recovered all that was possible of the bodies. Edes' legs were torn from the trunk, and split in two; Spalding's feet were blown off, and while his boots were found in good order not a trace of his feet was discovered. The spectators were actually speechless at the horrible spectacle. The class immediately returned to the island, and an officer was detailed to go to Narragansett pier and break the news to Edes' wife, who had gone there that morning for a few days' visit. She had resided at Newport all summer, with her husband and two children.

The coroner's inquest brought in a verdict to the effect that Edes and Spalding met their death by the accidental explosion of a torpedo, which would not have happened had they followed instructions. No one at the torpedo station is to blame. This exculpates Lieut. Caldwell, one of the instructors, who in doing his duty in closing the circuit made possible the accident, for Edes depended upon keeping this circuit open though he failed to inform Caldwell of his intentions. Both the deceased officers had just been detached.

Lieut. Spalding had a strange presentiment of death before leaving his boarding place that morning. He gave his card to Mrs. Ellis, the landlady, with his address upon it, and said he wanted her and his friends to know where to send his body in case anything happened to him. He was constantly referring to his detachment, and said that he hoped the day was not far distant when he should cease handling explosive missiles.

The flags on the vessels of the training fleet, Fort Adams, and at the torpedo station, were put at half-mast.

Two aged men who recently died in Wolfeborough, N. H., were natives of York county. James Horne, who was eighty-one years old at the time of his decease, was born in Wells, and moved to Wolfeborough only four years ago; he was a man of great physical power and endurance, and left a widow, four sons and two daughters. Elisha Goodwin, who died Aug. 7th at the age of eighty-seven years and seven months, leaving two daughters and a son, was born in Kittery, but had resided in Wolfeborough about forty-five years.

Mr. Mark Dennett of Kittery, who reached the ripe old age of ninety-five years on the 28th of August, spent the 25th with his daughter, Mrs. Burnham, at York beach. The old gentleman stood the ride well, and is looking hale for his years. His wife, a most worthy and loving partner and devoted mother, died a short time since.

Mr. James Burrier, late principal of the Provincetown, Mass., high school, has been elected supervisor of schools at Biddeford, at a salary of $1,300 per year.

Ex-Mayor Marvin and party, who have been recruiting on Gerrish's island, Kittery, for a couple of months past, occupying the large house just eastward of the government grounds, came up to the city the latter part of last week, very reluctantly.

Officers made a raid Sunday upon a restaurant at Old Orchard beach kept by Atwood Gammon, and captured four gallons of whiskey, one gallon of rum, and twenty dozen bottles of lager. Gammon was formerly on the police force of Dover, N. H., and a prominent member of the Dover reform club.

Mr. Ben Israel Butler is very ill at the Bay View house, Old Orchard. General Butler has been telegraphed for, and sailed from Halifax in his yacht last Friday.

George Hutchins, a farmer of Kennebunkport, while threshing grain last Monday, had his hand caught in the beater, and the hand and forearm were so crushed that it was necessary to amputate the arm at the elbow.

A correspondent of the Boston Advertiser writes an enthusiastic letter about the attractions of York, although much of the information contained in this communication must have been possessed by the intelligent readers of that paper long before.

The Small Boy's Explanation.

It was Sunday evening. Augelica had invited her "best young man" to the evening meal. Everything passed off harmoniously until Angelica's seven-years-old brother broke upon the blissful silence by exclaiming:

"Oh, ma, yer oughter seen Mr. Lighted the other night, when he called to take Angie to the drill; he looked so nice sitting 'long side of her with his arm"—

"Fred!" screamed the maiden, whose face had begun to assume the color of a well-done crab, quickly placing her hand over the boy's mouth.

"Yer oughter seen him," continued the persistent informant, after gaining his breath, and the embarrassed girl's hand was removed, "he had his arm"—

"Freddie!" shouted the mother, as in her frantic attempts to reach the boy's nuclear appendage, she upset the contents of the tea pot in Mr. Lighted's lap, making numerous Russian war maps over his new lavender pantaloons.

"I was just going to say," the half frightened boy pleaded, between a cry and an injured whine, "he had his arm"—

"You boy!" thundered the father, "away to the woodshed."

And the boy made for the nearest exit, exclaiming as he waltzed, "I was only goin' to say Mr. Lighted had his army clothes on, and I'll leave it to him if he didn't!"

And the boy was permitted to return, and the remainder of the meal was spent in explanations from the family in regard to the number of times Freddie had to be "talked to" for using his fingers for a ladle.—Yonkers Statesman.

—In the "wants department" of an exchange a resident advertises for a "woman to wash, iron and milk one or two cows;" a wine merchant asks for bids "for sixty dozen of prime port, lately the property of a gentleman forty years of age, full in body, and with a high bouquet;" a livery stable offers cheap "a mail phaeton, the property of a gentleman with a moveable head as good as new."

—A novel form of landlordism has been introduced in Iowa. A company of English capitalists have purchased 100,000 acres of land, divided it into farms of 160 acres each, and established upon it a colony of tenants from England. Each tenant provides labor and machinery, paying rent for wheat lands in kind on the half-share system, and for corn lands at $2 per acre. The tenant's own labor, with one assistant, usually a son, is enough, except at harvest time, to cultivate 160 acres, if divided between wheat and Indian corn. Thus the laborers are directly interested in the yield. Every forty farms, or thereabouts, are placed under the superintendence of a steward, who is responsible directly to the company.

—It is published as a noteworthy circumstance that Senator Conger is actually in love with his wife. His demeanor toward her is knightly. He is the ardent lover and devoted admirer always. He has eyes for no one else when she is present, and in short, he gives evidence of complete infatuation, nor does it seem to matter to him who knows it, or, knowing it, what they say or think of it. The one opinion for which Senator Conger cares is that of Mrs. Conger, and he is completely oblivious or indifferent to all else beside. This gives occasion for sneers of witlings, but Conger goes on all the same, bowing and smiling to his inamorata, with sly glance and love-lit eye, like a school-boy of sixteen to that little ringleted thing in short clothes.

Mr. Patterson Meant What he Said.

I hereby testify that my boy, ten years of age, was taken sick with typhoid fever, followed by congestion of the lungs. Dr. Dyer, an eminent physician of this place, stated that he thought the boy would run down with quick consumption. A Mr. Patterson told me that Coe's Cough Balsam was curing similar cases, and advised us to purchase it. When I carried it home, my wife laughed at me, but I knew that Mr. Patterson meant just what he said, and I determined to try it. Two bottles effectually cured him, so that now he is as tough and healthy as anybody.

Anderton & Dunn, the Chicopee Falls, Mass., alpaca manufacturers, are entirely ruined by the villiany of their late partner, Edward Musgrave. The latest developments of the scoundrel's conduct show that he spent large sums in dissipation, sometimes as high as $1600 per week, and that he stole altogether at least $200,000.

Big Results from Little Causes.

"Do you know?" remarked a man to his friend on Chestnut street, a day or two since, "I believe both Conkling and Platt had a bad case of skin disease when they resigned!" "What makes you think so?" inquired the listener in astonishment. "Well, you see they acted in such an eruptive manner—so rash—ly as it were. Save?" "Oh! yes, I save," replied the other, "they were bad—ing over and merely resigned to hinder themselves, I suppose." If such be the case, the National difficulty might have been averted by applying Swayne's Ointment for skin diseases.

Summer Complaints

At this season, various diseases of the bowels are prevalent, and many lives are lost through lack of knowledge of a safe and sure remedy. PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER is a sure cure for Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Cholera, Cholera Morbus, Summer Complaint, etc., and is perfectly safe.

Read the following:

BUNNBRIDGE, N. Y., March 22, 1861.
PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER never fails to afford instant relief for cramp and pain in the stomach.
JOSEPH BURNETT.

NICHOLVILLE, N. Y., Feb. 2, 1861.
The very best medicine I know of for dysentery, cholera morbus, and cramps in the stomach. Have used it for years, and it is sure cure every time.
JULIUS W. DEE.

MORINGONA, IOWA, March 12, 1861.
I have used your PAIN KILLER in severe cases of vomiting, cold and cholera morbus, and it gave almost instant relief.
L. E. CALDWELL.

CARNESVILLE, GA., Feb. 28, 1861.
For twenty years I have used your PAIN KILLER in my family. Have used it many times for bowel complaints, and it always cures. Would not feel safe without a bottle in the house.
R. R. TYTE.

SACO, ME., Jan. 25, 1861.
HAVE used PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER for twelve years. It is safe, sure, and reliable. No mother should allow it to be out of the family.
H. I. NATES.

ONEIDA, N. Y., Feb. 19, 1861.
We began using it over thirty years ago, and it always gives immediate relief. Would hardly dare to go to bed without a bottle in the house.
W. O. SPERRY.

CONWAYBORO, S. C., Feb. 22, 1861.
Nearly every family in this section keeps a bottle in the house.
DR. E. MORTON.

U. S. CONSULATE,
CREFELD, RHENISH PRUSSIA, Feb. 8, 1861.
I have known PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER almost from the day it was introduced, and after years of observation and use I regard its presence in my household as an indispensable necessity.
R. POTTER, H. S. Consul.

BURTON-ON-TRENT, ENG.
I had been several days suffering severely from diarrhœa, accompanied with intense pain, when I tried your PAIN KILLER, and found almost instant relief.
H. J. NOONE.

21 MONTAGUE ST., LONDON, ENG.
During a residence of twenty-two years in India, I have given it in many cases of diarrhœa, dysentery, and cholera, and never knew it to fail to give relief.
E. CLARIDGE.

No family can safely be without this invaluable remedy. Its price brings it within the reach of all.

The President's Wound!

A Parallel Case in Army Life.

In the issue of the Philadelphia Record of the 27th of July was published an article relating to the case of Capt. William Palmer, now Quartermaster Second Brigade New Jersey State National Guard, who was wounded at the battle of Mossy Creek, East Tennessee, in the winter of 1863. In that article the striking resemblance of the case to that of President Garfield, in many particulars, was pointed out, the authority for the statement being the brave captain, himself. A still better authority is Dr. David Kennedy, then surgeon U. S. General Hospital, West Philadelphia, who had had charge of the case, and performed the operation of removing the detached bone, and finally extracted the bullet—Capt. Palmer is living to this day in the bloom of health. Dr. Kennedy does not hesitate to say that many of his patients both in military and civil practice owe their lives to the wonderful healing and strengthening powers of his medicine called "Favorite Remedy." The doctor is in possession of an autograph letter from Capt. Palmer, attesting his indebtedness for his personal health to this medicine—"Favorite Remedy"—which he says has doubled the obligation which he felt to the doctor for the treatment of the captain's terrible wound.

While Dr. Kennedy is engaged in the introduction of "Favorite Remedy," he will continue the practice of his profession at Roudout, N. Y., performs all the minor as well as capital operations of surgery. Address as above. 6t2

Henry F. Gerrish.

Daily Chronicle.

Her First Appearance.

It really was "quite too awfully vexing," after all her preparations were made, that now, nearly at the last moment, such a contretemps should occur, and the more she thought of it the more was Mrs. Stewart Allenby in despair.

And with good reason, for she had issued cards for a morning concert—a matinee musicale, as she called it on the invitations; the first she had ever given since she moved to the great house in one of the most fashionable roads in South Kensington, and she particularly desired that it should be a success—and now Signora Belcore had gone and fallen sick at the eleventh hour, and the programme would be too short unless some one could be found to sing the cavatina from 'Linda de Chamounix."

"Put in a comic song instead," suggested Mr. Allenby, who whose taste was not educated up to concert pitch.

"A comic song indeed!" echoed his wife, with a scornful laugh. "George, you are a fool!"

But as Mr. Allenby had heard this blunt statement a good many times before, he was not discomposed by it. At that moment the door opened softly. Mrs. Allenby started up.

"Williams," cried she to the footman, "I'm not at home! Didn't I tell you I could see nobody this morning!"

"Yes, madam," the footman answered, coughing behind his hand; "but it isn't company, madam—it's the visiting governess."

"Oh!" Mrs. Allenby was visibly relieved. "Come in, Miss Ashton. Williams, call Miss Constance at once to her lessons."

Margaret Ashton came quietly in, a little, gray-dressed creature, like a nun, with soft hazel eyes, a complexion as pale as ivory, and meended gloves upon her small hands.

"You are not well, Mrs. Allenby, I am afraid?" she said, gently, as she seated herself.

"I am well enough!" said Mrs. Stewart Allenby, petulantly—"only I'm in despair. You don't know of any one who could sing that cavatina for me, do you, Miss Ashton?"

"Perhaps—I could," said Margaret.

"You?"

Mrs. Allenby stared as if the visiting governess had stated that she could construe a sentence in Sanscrit.

"I could sing a little once," said Margaret; "and that cavatina was one of my favorite pieces."

"You darling!" she cried, "If only you could help me out of this dilemma, I'll be grateful to you all my life long."

Margaret went back to the humble little surburban cottage where she rented three rooms—a cottage where she supported a fretful valetudinarian mother, and a pretty widowed sister, whose life had been a failure all the way through,

"Charlotte," she said to the latter. "I'm going to sing at a concert next Wednesday!"

"You!" echoed the widow. "You'll fail, for a certainty."

"I can try," said Margaret, with a fluttering sigh.

"Your voice is well enough," said the sister, disparagingly; "but it has no volume. And you never will have the confidence to sing before an audience."

The tears came into Margaret's eyes. "I must do something, Charlotte," said she. "We cannot live on as we are living now. We are in debt everywhere; and since the doctor has prescribed dainties for mamma I haven't known where to look for money to buy them with."

"Perhaps I shall get something to do soon," said Charlotte.

"But in the meantime?" said Margaret, with a sorrowful uplifting of her eyebrows. She was a magnanimous little thing, this hard-worked, pale-faced visiting governess, or she would have reminded her elder sister that sitting all day with curl-papered locks and dog's-eared novels, was no way to obtain a lucrative situation of any sort.

"It's very hard on me," said Mrs. Ashton, who sat with a devotional book in her lap and a bunch of grapes on a china plate besides her. "If Margaret had been like any one else she would have made a brilliant match long ago."

[Margaret did not remind her mother how she had discarded Basil Hepburn long ago, because he was not sufficiently aristocratic and wealthy to suit Mrs. Ashton's lofty ideas—and how Mr. Hepburn had since become a rich man, and a man of mark. "If he knew how very poor we are," said Margaret to herself, with a sigh, "I think he would be sorry. But I could not tell him; and now that he has gone to travel in Egypt, and up the Nile, it isn't likely I shall see him again."]

"You haven't any more voice than a sparrow," said Mrs. Ashton.

"You have never cultivated what little you have," said Mrs. Charlotte; "and the idea of your standing up to sing among those professional vocalists is simply preposterous!"

But Margaret stood valiantly to her colors, and when the eventful night arrived she stood there on the velvet-covered platform, in her well-worn black silk, softened by bunches of pale pink rosebuds, and a drapery of misty black lace, a spray of rosebuds in her hair, and an intent look in her soft brown eyes.

"Now don't fail," Mrs. Allenby had whispered, as the portierers of crimson velvet were lifted for her to pass out upon the mimic stage.

"No," she answered, quietly, "I shall not fail."

But, for an instant, as she faced the brilliant audience, the flutter of fans, the flash of diamonds, the glitter of the footlights seemed to blind and dazzle her; a suffocating sensation arose in her throat.

"I am going to fail," she thought, and the recollection of Charlotte's dismal prophesies occurred to her—her mother's prognostications of evil, her own tormenting doubts.

"I will not fail!" she said to herself, and advancing boldly into the little arena, she faced the circle of intent eyes, and began to sing.

Sweet and clear, like the liquid notes of a lark, her voice soared up, until, forgetting her own identity in that of Donizetti's Swiss heroine, she became almost inspired; and at the close a perfect shower of bouquets rained down upon the stage at her feet—an ovation of voices rang up again and again in deafening applause. But Margaret was conscious only of one thing—she had not failed. Mrs. Allenby welcomed her rapturously to the pretty little "green-room."

"My dear Miss Ashton," she cried, "you are a genius—a second Jenny Lind! Who was to suppose that you had such a divine voice? You are the star of my little concert—the prima-donna of the evening! No, don't take your bonnet," as Margaret mechanically stretched out her hand for it. "You must come in to the drawing-room. They are all wild to know you."

"But I cannot," pleaded poor Margaret, with a downward glance at her dress. "I am not prepared."

"You are perfect," said Mrs. Stewart Allenby, with winning despotism. "Besides, one of my guests says you are an old acquaintance of his—Mr. Hepburn, who has just returned from Palestine and the Holy Land."

So Margaret was led into the midst of the glittering throng, and introduced here and there, until, like one moving in a dream, she found herself leaning on Basil Hepburn's arm.

"So you are a great singer," he said.

"I never sang in public before in all my life."

"You will be prouder and more haughty than ever."

"I never was humbler in all my life."

"Margaret," he uttered, softly.

"Well, Mr. Hepburn?"

"Mr. Hepburn! That sounds cold. Suppose you say, as you used to say, Basil."

"But things are not as they used to be," said poor Margaret, her heart beginning to beat unevenly in her breast.

"Can they not be so again, dear little Margaret?" he whispered, bending his tall head to the level of the cluster of rosebuds in her hair. "Can we not go back to the initial chapter of our lives, and begin it all over again. I am a rich man, now, but all my money cannot buy me any treasure half so sweet and priceless as your love. Dearest Margaret, tell me that you, too, have not entirely forgotten the past."

And Miss Ashton went home from Mrs. Stewart Allenby's matinee musicale an engaged young lady.

"I didn't fail, after all," she said radiantly. "And I had half a dozen applications to sing again at private concerts, and Mrs. Allenby's money will just buy my wedding dress."

So the current of true love was running smoothly again, after all.

Is it Possible

that a remedy made of such common, simple plants as hops, buchu, mandrake, dandelion, etc., make so many and such marvelous and wonderful cures as Hop Bitters do? It must be, for when old and young, rich and poor, pastor and doctor, lawyer and editor, all testify to having been cured by them, we must believe and doubt no longer. See other column.—Post.

Castoria.

For sour stomach, constipation, and fretfulness of children. Pleasant, safe and cheap. 900 drops; 35 doses, 35 cents.

—A little girl in a London Sunday-school, being asked why God made the flowers of the field, replied: "Please, ma'am, I suppose for patterns for artificial flowers."

Ash-Tonic;

A perfected purifyer of the system. In 1-2lb. bottles; 75 cents. For dyspepsia, the many forms of liver complaint, impure and impoverished blood, and functional derangements attendant upon debility. For symptons indicated by indigestion, loss of appetite, nausea, sick headache, sour stomach, furred tongue, drowsiness, blanched lips, sallow complexion, pain in the side or back, eruptions, depression of spirits, nervous irritability and hysteria, and for building up the system, ash-tonic is unquestionably the most prompt and energetic remedy yet devised.

—At Santa Cruz, California, recently, Miss Blanche Masonnette, a little blonde of nineteen, saved the life of a prominent military man, who had been stunned by a breaker and was helplessly drifting out, face downward, on the receding wave. With extraordinary courage the little lady swam to his relief, turned him on his back and guided him to the safety rope, where he was able to recover his senses.

American Ladies.

The first impression Sara Bernhardt received of the American ladies manifested itself thusly: "Oh! so ladies, so are so beautiful, such clear complexion I nevare see before" all of which is due to the universal use of Swayne's Ointment for skin diseases, which insures a clear and clean complexion, and a healthy color. This recalls to mind the divine precept, "cleanliness is next to godliness."

Portsmouth Chronicle.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 1. 1881.

[Entered at the Post-Office at Portsmouth, N.H. as second-class matter.]

The President.

The midday bulletin on Aug. 31st was the best that has been issued for two weeks. It was as follows:

At the dressing of the President, this morning, the parotid gland swelling was found to be discharging freely. It looks well, and has materially diminished in size. The wound remains in about the same state. His general condition is evidently more favorable than at this hour yesterday. Pulse, 95; temperature, 98.4; respiration, 17.

The President's condition is very encouraging to-day. Pulse down to 95,—lower than it has been for several weeks. Temperature and respiration normal. No adverse symptoms apparent at this hour, two P. M.

Life on the Ocean.

The ship Sandusky, from Pensacola for Liverpool with lumber, was fallen in with by steamship Hudson Freemen, from New Orleans for New York, Aug. 28th, waterlogged, dismasted and in her stern gone, and the survivors of the crew were taken off. The Sandusky registered 1018 tons, and was built in Newcastle, Me., in 1849. Two seamen and the cook were lost when the masts and deck load went, and the survivors had been seventy-eight hours without food or water when rescued.

The steamer Chalmette, from New Orleans for New York, on Aug. 28th took from the sinking wreck of the schooner Lucie Wheatley the captain and crew, who had been four days without food or water, and clinging to the hull of the schooner, which was completely submerged.

The steamer Juniata, from New York for Savannah, on Aug. 28th rescued the crew of the wrecked schooner Hannah A. Sollis. The captain of the schooner was lost.

The steamer Santiago de Cuba on Aug. 29th picked up a man naked and delirious, found floating on a piece of a vessel's cabin, and carried him into Savannah. He proved to be James G. Harris, mate of the schooner Mary G. Fisher, which foundered Aug. 24th off Frying Pan shoals, all hands except Harris being drowned.

Barque Brunswick, from Pascagoula for Boston, foundered off Tybee, Ga., and four men were drowned. The captain and six men floated two days on a raft, and were then picked up by a pilot boat.

Schooner Caroline, Hall master, was abandoned at sea, the crew arriving at Charleston, S. C., Aug. 30th, in barque Minnie Gray, from Boston.

The barque Aurea Para, from Charleston for Bull river, collided with an unknown vessel during the storm, and was much damaged; the other vessel is supposed to have gone down, with all hands.

Numerous minor disasters are reported. Many vessels managed to crawl back to the southern ports in a disabled condition, among them being the steamship Desaugy, which brought over the obelisk, and which took the hurricane the day after leaving Savannah. The steamship Maharajah and a schooner went on Sapelo bar, Ga. The revenue cutter Boutwell was driven ashore in a marsh back of Fort Pulaski, and many small craft are reported stranded along the coasts of Georgia, Florida and the Carolinas. The lives lost by the storm, on land and sea, are numbered by the hundreds.

News and Notes.

Two houses at Whitehall, N. Y., were broken into on the night of Aug. 29th, and money and jewels to the amount of $2000 stolen. Two suspicious looking men were seen to board the cars seven miles from Whitehall, Aug. 30th, and orders were telegraphed ahead of the train to arrest them at Mechanicsville, where Sheriff Post and a deputy boarded the train for that purpose, when one of the men shot the sheriff through the neck, the ruffians then running up the track, pursued by the deputy and some of the passengers. One of the passengers was returning from a shooting excursion, and brought both the scoundrels down with bird-shot. Much of the stolen property was found on them.

Horace Montgomery and Kate Bartholomew of Waddington, St. Lawrence county, New York, were drowned Tuesday afternoon, Aug. 30th, while attempting to run the rapids at DuPlatte in a small boat. Another young lady and two boys, in the same boat, were saved.

At Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 30th, Herman Hilton shot and killed his stepfather, Paul Kimmer, and mortally wounded his mother, Mrs. Kimmer, at Kimmer's residence. The murderer was arrested.

Six men and three girls were injured, and the building badly damaged, by an explosion in the loading room of the Winchester Repeating Arms Co. at New Haven, Conn., Aug. 30th. One of the men may die, but all the others will recover.

Mrs. Samuel Hoyt, aged nineteen, was burned to death at Morris, Conn., a few days ago, by her clothes catching fire from kerosene that she was using to kindle a fire. She was a Hartford girl, and had been married but ten months.

At Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 30th, a train of cars ran into one side of the new exposition building, knocking it out and doing damage to the amount of $60,000.

The reported massacre of seventy-nine whites at Eureka Springs, N. M., by Indians, is contradicted. There has been no trouble there.

Francis C. Pease, aged twenty-three years, on Tuesday evening, Aug. 30th, shot and killed his wife at their boarding place in Boston, and then shot himself four times, inflicting mortal wounds. Mrs. Pease was but eighteen years old, and of very attractive appearance; she had been married two years, and has one child ten months old, living with Mrs. Pease's mother at Rockland, Me., from which place the couple removed to Boston not long ago. The murderer was a hard drinker, and no other cause for the tragedy is known, as the pair were not known to have any trouble together.

The schooner B. F. Somes, of Gloucester, Mass., arrived home a few days ago from a banks trip without either fish or skipper on board, the crew having charge of the vessel. James Lagdon, who went out as master, put into Liverpool, Nova Scotia, sold the bait and supplies, and decamped. He leaves a family in Gloucester.

A telegram from Tchesme, Asia Minor, says that a recent earthquake there and on the island of Chio was more violent than that of last April. The inhabitants are in despair.

Our General Railroad Act.

The Springfield Republican says that the laying out of railroads is becoming a serious matter in more than one locality, and cites a case of gross injustice to property owners. Our present railroad law is based upon the broad ground that if an association of capitalists possess money to build a railroad it is evidence sufficient that the railroad is needed, and private rights must give way. It is a monstrous stretch of power, and will sooner or later secure revision. If the selectmen of a town refuse a location, the railroad commissioners are obliged to locate the road. It is in the power of any number of persons to ruin the best streets and the finest estates by building a railroad which is of no possible benefit to the town injured, and may be, as the Republican suggests, a project to carry a barrel of flour from Iowa to the English operative in Manchester, England, cheaper than to the American operative at Chicopee or Holyoke. Tracks are laid running parallel with town roads, and crossings at grade are multiplied to the detriment of the public, and yet there is no relief or remedy for the public.

But this is not the worst feature of this law. It openly aids and abets swindling schemes. A railroad is built which is of no possible benefit to the public, and it is bonded, perhaps, for more than it costs. The bonds are sold to innocent parties, who imagine that the state of Massachusetts would not charter a road if it were not wanted. The original promoters of the scheme step out if it does not pay, and the bondholders are victimized. This is what is sure to take place in this state unless the railroad commissioners are intrusted with the proper authority to refuse a location if in their judgment the railroad is not wanted for the benefit of the people of the state. It is quite time that the state should put its foot upon these railroad tramps, who go about with protection papers in their pockets given to them by the state of Massachusetts.—Boston Journal.

Irritation of the Scalp.

An Authentic Testimony.

Gentlemen,—For five years I have been greatly troubled with dandruff, with a severe itching of the scalp, and my hair falling out. I have tried almost every known remedy, all proving worthless. Seeing Burnett's Cocoaine and Burnett's Kalliston advertised, I procured a bottle of each, and am happy to state that the dandruff is completely removed, and no itching whatever remains.

A Fortunate Tailor.

Mr. P. S. Kearney, a tailor in the house of Warner & Sweetwood, Vicksburg, Miss., has been the fortunate winner of half the capital prize in The Louisiana State Lottery, $75,000. The lucky number was 78,112. Kearney came from Memphis about six months ago. He is an excellent workman and is charitable and good natured in the extreme. His employers speak of him in unbounded terms of praise and compliment, and are as much rejoiced at his streak of good fortune as the lucky man himself.—Vicksburg, Miss., Herald, July 13th.

A COUGH, COLD OR SORE THROAT should be stopped. Neglect frequently results in an incurable Lung Disease or Consumption. "Brown's Bronchial Troches" do not disorder the stomach like cough syrups and balsams, but act directly on the inflamed parts, allaying irritation, give relief in Asthma, Bronchitis, Coughs, Catarrh, and the throat troubles which Singers and Public Speakers are subject to. For thirty years "Brown's Bronchial Troches" have been recommended by physicians, and always give perfect satisfaction. Having been tested by wide and constant use for nearly an entire generation, they have attained well-merited rank among the few staple remedies of the age. THE WEATHER.

U. S. SIGNAL OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, D. C.
Sept. 1, 1:30 A. M.

Probabilities for New England:—

Increasing cloudiness, followed by local rain, brisk westerly winds, stationary or higher temperature, lower pressure.

The Thermometer at the CHRONICLE Office, at 4:00 o'clock this morning, registered 74 degrees above zero.

Cloudy.

AROUND HOME.

Orders have been received at the navy yard to commence work at repairing the Omaha.

The thermometer was up to ninety-six in the shade in a garden on State street, Wednesday.

Joseph Robinson, Esq., assistant solicitor of the United States treasury was in town on Wednesday.

Rev. William Lamson, D. D., formerly pastor of the Middle street Baptist church in this city, accompanied by Mrs. Lamson, was in town on Wednesday.

The Sunday school of the Christian church at Beech Ridge, York, to the number of one hundred persons, picnicked at York beach on Wednesday.

There is to be a grand excursion to the White Mountains from this city on Wednesday, Sept. 7th, through the White Mountain Notch to the Fabyan house; train will leave here at 7:30 A. M., arrive at Fabyan's at 11:30; leave Fabyan's at four P. M., arriving in Portsmouth at eight. Tickets only $2.25 for the round trip,—and good for six days, for returning on. If the 7th should be stormy, the excursion will be postponed to the next fair day.

The railroad men report the travel over the Eastern road for a week past as heavier than ever known before. One train for Boston on Saturday, Aug. 27th, had fifteen passenger cars, all well filled; there were ten cars, with 368 passengers, in the train when it left Portland, and three cars were added here. Over 600 pieces of baggage were handled in the depot here the same day. Though such crowds of people are going westward, large numbers also pass east through this city, the mountain travel being very large.

Adjutant General Ayling has issued General Orders No. 8, disbanding the following-named military organizations and honorably discharging the enlisted men connected with the same: Platoon A, second battery, Dover; Co. G, 1st Reg't, Newmarket; Co. A, Lydeborough, and Co. B, of Peterborough, of the 2d Reg't; and Co. I, of Colebrook, 3d Reg't. The Manchester War Veterans, Co. I, of the 1st Reg't, having been chartered as an independent organization, has ceased to be a part of the New Hampshire National Guard.

A correspondent says that when the fishing schooner Eldorado, Nathaniel B. Yeaton of Newcastle master, drifted with the tide against Portsmouth bridge on the night of Aug. 29th, "she struck the bridge so hard as to break several piles and considerably damage the schooner. She was heeling over a great deal, and would probably have filled and gone down but for the night watchman on the bridge, Mr. John Williams of Kittery, who summoned help and had the schooner towed alongside the pier at the draw. During the ten years Mr. Williams has been in the employ of the Eastern railroad company he has saved many thousands of dollars' worth of vessel property which has drifted against the bridge, and on one or more occasions has saved life from being lost at this point."

POLICE COURT.

WEDNESDAY, Aug. 31; Batchelder, J.

Edward Foster, Edwin Lowd, Charles Medwood and Wellington Vine, were all up for drunkenness. The first named two signed the pledge, and were dismissed on probation; the other two were allowed to go on their promise to leave town at once.

LYMAN GREENLEAFE SPALDING.

The burial service of the Episcopal Church was read at the Torpedo Station, Newport, Rhode Island, Tuesday afternoon, August 30th, over the late Lieutenant Lyman Greenleafe Spalding, U. S. N. Afterwards, led by the band from the Station, and escorted by a long procession of officers, sailors and marines, the body was placed in the receiving tomb in the Island Cemetery at Newport. The ceremony concluded with the usual volleys of musketry. The family was represented at the sad occasion.

Under these circumstances there will be no funeral services held in Portsmouth, only a committal rite at the receiving tomb.

CORRESPONDENCE.

The correspondents who want information are numerous. One writer desires to know why, in a city where are owned and driven so many private horses, there is not a place where the best quality of hay is kept on sale; or if such an establishment exists, why it is not advertised that strangers in and about Portsmouth at this season may know, of it

Another correspondent wants the authorities to dredge the mill ponds around the shores, and deepen the places now giving forth bad odors; but this would open a sluice-way of correspondence, and we have had our share of this.

Still another asks if every old fish-story which may be revamped in a letter of later date is to be believed except by the marines. This conundrum we cannot answer.

A returning son deprecates the condition of the south cemetery; thinks the lots in a majority of instances are kept in bad condition; that the carriage ways and paths need being put in order, and that much improvment suggests itself to the stranger. He says there should be a board of trustees or a corporation organized, to receive bequests and trusts, the income of which should be expended in the care of lots and avenues and trees; that the place is deteriorating, for once it was attractive but now shows the want of judicious care; and he hopes it will be placed in the hands of a board of managers who will exercise proper oversight. The communication is lengthy, but we give the substance, and commend the subject to the consideration of our resident lot owners.

A trader asks if it is proper for stranger pedlers to come and sell, or attempt to sell, their wares in open market in our streets, without proper restrictions or payment of a license. We presume not.

THE YORK COUNTY HIGHWAYMAN.

The festive highwayman is again on the rampage across the river, if we can credit the following story, which we heard in a blacksmith shop over there on Wednesday:

Two ladies driving in a buggy from South Berwick to York beach, by way of Eliot, on the 30th ult., when in a thick piece of woods near Smith's crossing, Eliot, were stopped by a man who came out of the woods and presented a pistol. The fellow robbed the terrified ladies of their jewelry, and also took from them two silk dresses, after which he allowed them to go on. Shortly afterward a male pedestrian passing along the same road met a man with a valise, who wanted to sell him two silk dresses at $2.00 each, and shew them to him, but the traveller declined to buy, as he had no money and did not want the dresses.

THE TORPEDO DISASTER.

The funeral of the two victims of the torpedo explosion at Newport, R. I., Lieut.-Comdr. Benjamin Long Edes and Lieut. Lyman G. Spalding, took place at the torpedo station on Goat Island, Newport, Tuesday afternoon, Aug. 30th, at three o'clock. The funeral service was read by Chaplain Hayward of the United States training-ship Constitution. At the wharf in Newport the remains were met by marines and sailors from the United States ships Vandalia, Kearsarge, Constitution and New Hampshire. A long procession of officers and men then escorted the remains of the two victims to Island cemetery, where they were temporarily placed in a vault. To each hearse there were sixteen bearers, eight naval officers and eight sailors. The funeral procession included Admiral Porter, Commandant Selfridge, the officers and class of the torpedo station, and the officers of the government vessels, making in all over seventy-five officers. The flags at the station, in the city and at Fort Adams were at half-mast. The procession was witnessed by a large concovrse of sympathizing citizens. A naval investigation into the cause of the accident will be held by government order at the torpedo station. All experimental work at the station was laid aside on the day of the obsequies.

E. C. Spinney, Esq., who some time ago purchased a half interest in the Rice farm at Kittery, has recently bought the other half, and can now claim to own one of the best farms in York county, if indeed it is not the very finest.

The Biddeford Times of a recent date, in its "Old Orchard notes," has the following: "The Ocean house, under the new management of Mr. Job Jenness & Son, of Rye beach, N. H., has been a success this season, although it is behind the times in improvements. Next year, however, these will be put in, and the backeyed 'all modern conveniences' will apply to its arrangements. Mr. Jenness fully understands the hotel business in all its complications, having had the charge of large houses at different watering places and in the cities. Mr. Chas. Jenness, his son, is very popular with the guests, and occupies his time looking after their welfare. A few more such men would build our grand old beach up higher still. The office has been in the charge of Mr. N. R. Goss, whom everybody likes, and finds faithful to his duties. These gentlemen will probably have the house another year."

A Centenarian.

Mrs. Hannah Cox died at Holderness, Aug. 29th. She was the oldest person in this state, and probably in New England. Her birth occurred at Preston, Conn., June 25th, 1776. There can be no question as to the time when she first saw the light, for her birth is plainly recorded in the parish register of the old Episcopal church at Preston. She was the fifth child of Isaac Wheeler Stanton, and her mother's maiden name was Eunice Ayer. When Hannah had reached the age of nine the family removed to Fairlee, Vt., and four years later went from there to Holderness, which latter place was her home from that time to her death. Her father was an officer in the revolutionary war, and lived to the age of eighty-six. It is a remarkable fact that Mr. Stanton and three of his brothers were living when the youngest reached eighty. At the age of twenty-two Hannah was united in matrimony to Robert Cox, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Robert Fowle, the first rector of the ancient church at Holderness. Her husband died in 1822, leaving seven children of of whom Hon. Russell Cox, aged eighty-two, and Mrs. Louisa Calley, aged sixty-nine, alone survive. The former, with whom Hannah for many years had made her home and under whose roof she quietly breathed her last, is one of the prominent men of northern New Hampshire. He has been a member of the house of representatives and of the the executive council, was elected to the constitutional convention of 1850, and in former years was frequently mentioned as a suitable person for the democratic nomination for governor.

New Hampshire Items.

The Manchester saloon keepers are required to close their places at ten o'clock at night, or suffer the consequences. As a result, seventeen answered to roll call in the police court one morning recently.

Dr. C. V. Pickering, a Laconia dentist, has sued the town of Gilford for $1,000 damages because of injuries received last spring in consequence of a defective highway.

Jacob and Austin Howard of Bridgewater were recently arrested for catching trout less than four inches long, and bound over to the November term of the supreme court in the sum of $300 each.

James W. Merrill of Boston has been held in $3000 on a charge of feloniously assaulting Nellie Whiting, a girl thirteen years old; Sophia Henley and Estella C. Ford are held in $2 00 each, as accessories before the fact. Merrill furnished bonds, and is at large; the two women are in jail.

How to get Sick.

Expose yourself day and night, eat too much without exercise; work too hard without rest; doctor all the time; take all the vile nostrums advertised; and then you will want to know

HOW TO GET WELL,

The national board of health has received advices from Martinque that yellow fever is prevailing there, and fears are entertained it will soon become epidemic.

As a part of Dr. Holman's absorption theory of cure the Holman Plasters are of the utmost importance. They are especially intended to act as an adjunct of Holman's Pads in stubborn cases, where there is persistent local pain or deficient circulation; but they must be used without the pad, if desired in any spot or place where a powerful and really curative plaster is useful.

Advices from Havana say that the deaths from yellow fever in that city are largely increasing in number.

However watched by loving care,
Home has distempers lurking there,
And human power cannot defend
From ills that constantly impend;
But Sanford's Ginger bids pain cease,
And home restores to health and peace.

The policemen have arrested another "crank" at the White House gate. He was a poor colored man, manifestly insane. He was bent upon a mission of killing every man who was not a Garfield man, and had a large tin can into which he proposed to place their heads!

Man's Ingratitude.

This is an ungrateful world to say the least. A man will act like a lunatic when he has the itching piles, and declares that he knows he can't live another day, yet he applies Swayne's Ointment, the intense itching is allayed at once, he gets cured, and goes down to the lodge without one whit of gratitude. When asked why he looks so cheerful, he dodges the question by an indifferent answer. Its just like a man though, isn't it?

The President's Wound!

A Parallel Case in Army Life.

In the issue of the Philadelphia Record of the 27th of July was published an article relating to the case of Capt. William Palmer, now Quartermaster Second Brigade New Jersey State National Guard, who was wounded at the battle of Mossy Creek, East Tennessee, in the winter of 1863. In that article the striking resemblance of the case to that of President Garfield, in many particulars, was pointed out, the authority for the statement being the brave captain, himself. A still better authority is Dr. David Kennedy, then surgeon U. S. General Hospital, West Philadelphia, who had had charge of the case, and performed the operation of removing the detached bone, and finally extracted the bullet—Capt. Palmer is living to this day in the bloom of health. Dr. Kennedy does not hesitate to say that many of his patients both in military and civil practice owe their lives to the wonderful healing and strengthening powers of his medicine called "Favorite Remedy." The doctor is in possession of an autograph letter from Capt. Palmer, attesting his indebtedness for his present good health to this medicine—"Favorite Remedy"—which he says has doubled the obligation which he felt to the doctor for the treatment of the captain's terrible wound.

While Dr. Kennedy is engaged in the introduction of "Favorite Remedy," he still continues the practice of his profession at Rondout, N. Y., performs all the minor as well as capital operations of surgery. Address as above. 1w12

Suggestions of and for the Season.

The leading farm work for September, in many parts of the United States, is the sowing of the fall crops. This involves putting the soil in thorough readiness, and the selection and sowing of the seed. There are a number of essentials in the proper preparation of the seed bed, all of which should obtain in every field devoted to a grain crop. The soil should be rich, either by the accumulated fertility of long years of undisturbed vegetation—the virgin soil, or made so by the addition of a fertilizer in the form of barn-yard dung or the so-called "chemical manures." Of these two, that made in the barn-yard and stable is to be the first chosen, and the superphosphates and other "salts" only used as a supplement to the barn-yard manure, or in cases where the latter is not to be obtained.

Next to richness should come a fine tilth. This requires that the soil be proved in a thorough manner, and afterward stirred with the harrow or some other cultivator—in fact with any implement, until the lumps are reduced, and the whole soil is in a fine, mellow state. The importance of the mellowness of the soil for all seeds can not be too strongly insisted upon, as without it the seeds do not come into intimate contact with the particles of earth, and therefore cannot make a good start, and many of them do not grow at all. With a good supply of plant food, in a condition to be readily taken up by the young plants, the next thing is to select the seed, and sow it properly.

To put the matter of selection in a nutshell—sow the best seed to be found, even if it costs double that of the ordinary sort. When the fact becomes more thoroughly known that of two kinds of grain, for example, under identical conditions, one will yield twice as much as the other, more attention will be given to a proper selection of seed. It is not for us to say which variety of wheat or other grain is the best; that depends upon local circumstances and conditions, and each farmer must, after careful study, decide such matters for himself. The "Clawson" wheat is at present taking a high rank for yield and quality in many localities. It may not be the best for all places. Were it not for the Hessian fly, early sowing of wheat should be recommended in all cases. Late sowing is a disadvantage in itself, as the plants make a smaller growth before winter sets in. The richer the soil the later the sowing may be done with safety.

The old strawberry beds should be kept clean of weeds, removing all runners not needed for new plants. New beds may be set this month, but there is very little gained in point of time over spring planting unless "potted plants" are used. These are plants from runners which have struck root in pots of earth, set under them; by removing the earth with the plant there is no checking of growth, and a fair crop of fruit may be expected the following summer. There is a gain in setting ordinary strawberry plants in the fall in that the soil is in better condition, and that the garden and other work is not so pressing.

Blackberries and raspberries start very early in the spring, and should be planted in the fall. If it is desired to propagate the black caps, and a few varieties of the red, the canes must be bent down and earth placed on the tips, which then will soon strike root. Most red raspberries and blackberries may be propagated readily by "suckers," or shoots which spring from below ground. The currants and gooseberries may be pruned as soon as the leaves are ready to fall. Propagation is done by cuttings planted in rows with one bud above the surface. If put in early, they will form roots before winter sets in.

The gathering of the grapes is an important operation, and is best done with the scissors made for the purpose; this avoids handling the fruit, which by removing the "bloom," injures the appearance and therefore the sale.—American Agriculturist for Sept. 1st.

Of Cambridge, wishes all Catholic children to attend the parochial schools. If their parents give them Sulphur Bitters they will have rosy cheeks and be strong and healthy. See another column.

—A girl in Pennsylvania was recently thrown into convulsions at the sight of a lot of circus posters. We thought the small boy was the only person whom they affected in this way.

American Ladies.

The first impression Sara Bernhardt received of the American ladies manifested itself thusly: "Oh! zo ladies, za are so beautiful, such clear complexion I never see before" all of which is due to the universal use of Swayne's Ointment for skin diseases, which insures a clear and clean complexion, and a healthy color. This recalls to mind the divine precept, "cleanliness is next to godliness."

—When a man discovers that the world is made up of disagreeable, quarrelsome people, it is time to look at himself through the big end of a spyglass to see if he can't find a fault or two at home.

Mr. Patterson Meant What he Said.

I hereby testify that my boy, ten years of age, was taken sick with typhoid fever, followed by congestion of the lungs. Dr. Dyer, an eminent physician of this place, stated that he thought the boy would run down with quick consumption. A Mr. Patterson told me that Coe's Cough Balsam was curing similar cases, and advised us to purchase it. When I carried it home, my wife laughed at me, but I knew that Mr. Patterson meant just what he said, and I determined to try it. Two bottles effectually cured him, so that now he is as tough and healthy as anybody.

Portsmouth Chronicle.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 2, 1881.

[ENTERED AT THE POST-OFFICE AT PORTSMOUTH, N.H. AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.]

The President.

The progress toward recovery made by the President on the 31st was more marked than during any preceding twenty-four hours since he was shot; his pulse had not before been down to 95 since the 8th of August, the wound was looking better, and the stomach was evidently regaining tone: the swelling of the parotid gland had gone down two-thirds, and the patient's color was healthier, his eye clearer and his voice firmer. The official bulletin of the surgeons at six o'clock P. M. said "The President has passed a better day than for some time past. He has taken his food with increased relish, and the afternoon rise of temperature did not occur." The second dispatch of the day from Secretary Blaine to Minister Lowell, was as follows:

The President has had less fever this evening than upon any previous evening since he was wounded. His temperature at six o'clock was normal. His entire day has been most encouraging in all his symptoms. Hereafter I shall send but one report daily.

One Hundred and Seventy Lives Lost.

The Union mail steamer Teuton arrived at Cape Town, C. G. H., Aug. 29th, from England, landed some passengers and cargo, and proceeded to Algoa bay. She struck on Quoin point, near Algoa bay, that night or the next day, and of the two hundred persons on board only twenty-seven escaped with their lives. A British man-of-war went from Cape Town to render aid if possible. The Teuton was the second of the Union mail steamers to be wrecked on Quoin point.

News and Notes.

The brig Walter Smith was abandoned Aug. 28th, southeast of Hatteras; her crew have arrived at Savannah in the steamer Belle Higgins.

The schooner Pride of the East, dismasted and abandoned, was passed forty miles off Frying Pan shoals, Aug. 29th. No tidings of her crew have been given.

William Crawford of Port Jervis, N. Y., died on Wednesday, Aug. 31st, from eating 150 baked clams on a wager a week previous.

At Warrenton, Va., on the evening of Aug. 30th, a duel occurred between Robert R. Campbell, readjuster candidate for the legislature, and son in-law of Col. John S. Mosby, and James C. Scott, son of the commonwealth's attorney for Fauquier county. Both are prominent young lawyers in Warrenton. Recently Campbell made a speech, and Scott at the same time, being present, charged him with selling out to the readjusters for dollars and cents. Scott was wounded in the left hand at the first fire. He demanded a second fire, but the seconds refused to permit it, and the parties then shook hands. They were both arrested.

The New York republican state committee has decided to hold the state convention in New York city on Oct. 5th.

At Winslow, Ind., for a year or more, several boys from sixteen to twenty years of age have been committing robberies and other misdeeds. One of the gang, named Morton, now on his death bed, has confessed that he murdered a companion named Hopkins, who had been given $25 by his mother to leave the country. Morton is dying from a bullet wound inflicted by another of his companions, named Burton, because he told too much to the public. Hopkins' body has been found at the spot indicated by Morton.

At Pulaski, Tenn., Aug. 30th, M. P. Ezell was shot and killed by Fletcher Hargrave. Ezell was accompanying Dr. McKnight, who had just been married to Hargrave's sister after an elopement. Hargrave overtook the party, and announcing his purpose to kill McKnight, began firing. McKnight was wounded, and Ezell shot dead. Their horses becoming frightened, ran away, seriously injuring Mrs. McKnight.

A warrant has been issued for W. F. Willard, clerk in the Family drug store in Lynn, Mass., for making up a wrong prescription, which caused the death of John L. Ford.

In Arlington, Mass., Aug. 30th, a girl named Breen, eleven years old, hastened the fire with kerosene. The result was the same as though she had played with an unloaded revolver or a toy pistol.

Three young men, each about twenty years old, sons of Caleb Durgin, Samuel Durgin and Andrew McDonald, were drowned in the Saco river at Brownfield, Me., Aug. 31st. A companion was on the bank, but could render no assistance. All were unable to swim. Their bodies were recovered after four hours.

A report has reached St. Johns, Newfoundland, from St. Pierre, Miquelon, of a plot which was happily frustrated. A number of convicts at St. Pierre had fully arranged to kill the governor, chief justice and all other officials, seize the arsenal, cut off the water supply, burn the place and escape on two schooners which they were to capture. The plot was discovered, and a large number of the conspirators captured on the evening of the night it was to be carried out. About twenty conspirators have been sentenced to be shot.

William Nye of Lebanon, Conn., unsuccessfully tried to murder his wife and mother-in-law by shooting Aug 30th, but the pistol was out of order. He then tried to kill himself with laudanum, and cutting his throat with a jacknife. He will probably not live.

The dory Little Western has arrived at Point Michan, Cape Breton, on her passage from London to New York. The crew report heavy weather the entire passage. They were dismasted, their mainboom carried away, and they lost the cable, square sail and yard and fore hatch. The little craft has been leaking four inches an hour.

Capt. James F. Bassett of Lowell, Mass., of the forty-eighth regiment of veterans in the war, has had removed from back of his neck a bullet with which he was shot in the mouth at the battle of Donaldsonville, La., in 1863.

A little girl named Reardon, visiting Lowell, Mass., from Lawrence, while playing on the bank of the Pawtucket canal, Aug. 31st, fell in and was drowned.

Irritation of the Scalp.

AN Authentic Testimony.

Gentlemen.—For five years I have been greatly troubled with dandruff, with a severe irritation of the scalp, and my hair falling out. I have tried almost every known remedy, all proving worthless. Seeing Burnett's Cocoaine and Burnett's Kalliston advertised, I procured a bottle of each, and am happy to state that the dandruff is completely removed, and no itching whatever remains.

AROUND HOME.

Alderman Slater unanimously "vindicated" Mayor Sise, Thurday evening.

The Fifth Avenue Opera Co. will appear at Music hall Sept. 9th, in the "Orphans."

The schooner Helen F. Tredick arrived on the 1st inst., with a full fare of mackerel, 176 barrels.

A thick smoke hung over the city all day on the 1st inst., no doubt coming from extensive fires in the woods some distance away.

The frame of a new scald-shed is being erected at the Jones brewery. The building is to be one hundred feet long and sixty feet wide.

The mayor assumed the position of long-range editor of the CHRONICLE, in the Board of Mayor and Alderman Slater, Thursday evening.

The schooner Miantonomah, with 290 barrels of mackerel, the Lizzie Thomson, with 287 barrels, and the G. W. Brown, with 310 barrels, arrived Aug. 30th.

Hon. John H. Broughton on Thursday evening received a despatch from Syracuse, N. Y., announcing the death in that city of his brother, Mr. Noah Broughton.

Mr. Lewis Holmes on Thursday last disposed of one of his sail-boats to go to the eastward, on private terms. This will not in any way interfere with his boat-letting business, as she has not been one of his letting fleet.

Rev. Charles A. Holbrook received on Thursday, Sept. 1st, a check for $250 from J. Fisher Sheafe, Esq., of New Hamburg, New York, to be added to the fund for establishing in this city a cottage hospital, under trained nurses. There is no institution of the proposed kind in this state.

It was reported to us on Thursday evening that a man named Joseph Morey, who has been boarding at Mrs. Mary J. Marr's on Market street, cleared out early in the morning on that day, leaving a week's board unpaid, and taking with him several shirts and other articles stolen from a fellow-boarder's valise.

The following despatch has been received in this city from Savannah, Ga., sent by a brother of Engineer Richard Fitzgerald, whose death was briefly reported a few days since: "Richard was drowned while doing his duty in a hurricane on Saturday. He was buried in Jacksonville on Tuesday. The steamer Plant was injured $5000."

The steamer Acushnet will make the last moonlight excursion of the season on Tuesday evening next, Sept. 6th, leaving her wharf at the foot of Daniel street at 7:45 o'clock sharp, and returning about 10:30. The American band of Portsmouth has been engaged to furnish music for the occasion, and as on previous excursions by this boat no rowdyism or disorderly conduct will be permitted. Tickets only 50 cents each, and number limited; to be obtained at the steamboat office, 67 Daniel street, of Richard B. Beaumont, agent.

Secretary of the Navy Hunt has ordered a court of enquiry to convene at Newport, R. I., to enquire into and report upon the manner of the death of Lieut. Comdr. B. L. Edes and Lieut. Lyman G. Spalding, and "the cause which led to it, and especially whether the deplorable disaster is anywise attributable to the fault or negligence amounting to fault on the part of any of the officers and men in charge of or belonging to the torpedo station." Secretary Hunt has designated the following officers to serve on the board of enquiry: Capt. James A. Greer, Commanders Brown and Whitehead, and Lieut. Wm. Little.

The dividend due the stockholders of the Wolfeboro' railroad will be paid at the office of Ex-Gov. Goodwin on Saturday, Sept. 3d, from ten o'clock A. M. until two P. M.

Mr. Joseph Locke's red Irish setter, "Bess," on the 29th ult. produced fifteen puppies, the sire being "Dash Elcho," also owned by Mr. Locke, which took first prize in the grand puppy class when under seven months old, at the bench show of the Massachusetts Kennel club in Boston. A previous litter by "Bess," on the 29th of January last, also numbered fifteen.

HORSE RACE.

A horse race for a sweepstakes of $125, mile heats, best two in three, to harness, came off at Rockingham trotting park on Thursday, the 1st inst. There were six entries, but only three horses trotted, viz: "Charley Knox," driven by George D. Sykes; "Danville Boy," driven by Ed. Shannon; and "Runaway Boy," driven by Lewis Martin. The race was won by Charley Knox in two straight heats, the time of the three horses being as follows:

	1st heat	2d heat
Charley Knox	2:36	2:34
Danville Boy	2:35	2:36 1-2
Runaway Boy	2:36	2:36

The above is the report of the race as originally handed to us; but we have since been informed that "Shoo Fly," entered by Edgar D. Stoddard, took part in it, coming in second on the first heat, and third on the second one, having broken a wheel in the latter. "Shoo Fly" was allowed second place by the judges.

A foot-race of half a mile for a prize of $5, and a greased-pig chase, which had been announced, did not come off.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, regular meeting, Thursday evening, Sept. 1st, Mayor Sise in the chair:

Record of last meeting was read, that the judgment of $149.20 against the city in favor of Albert R. Hatch, was ordered paid.

The mayor stated that the report of the last meeting, in the CHRONICLE, was incorrect. Upon this question he called a vote of the aldermen, and there was one vote thereon, Ald. Slater voting "yes!" The reporter of the CHRONICLE thereupon requested a full vote of the board, but the subject was indefinitely postponed, the aldermen apparently being unwilling to oppose the mayor, while unable to support his statement

The records of the clerk were approved.

Albert Rowe was appointed a special police officer at the Rockingham house, and Robert Anderson at the navy yard landing.

Bond of Wm. Shannon as keeper of the almshouse was approved; also bond of John Turner as police officer.

Wm. L. Dwight asked the refunding of $63.21, taxes which he claims were illegally assessed in 1879, and paid by him in 1880 under protest. Referred to the committee on claims.

Samuel L. Green and others asked for naphtha light on Jackson street. Referred to the committee on street lights, with power.

Justin V. Hanscom complained of sickening odors coming from Walker's soap factory. Referred to the board of health.

A request that Hanover street be cleaned up was presented.

The commandant of the navy yard asked a renewal for five years of the lease of the navy yard landing at the foot of Daniel street.

Capt. Ford, of the City Guards, and Capt. Coffin, of the Portsmouth Cavalry, asked for $100 for each company, to aid in defraying their expenses. It was stated that Manchester and other cities gave such aid to companies within their limits. Referred.

James E. Ford, captain of Co. C, N. H. N. G., (City Guards,) asked the appropriation of $100 to aid the company in procuring new uniforms previous to the muster, so that they might appear creditably in comparison with other companies of state troops. The colonel of the regiment (in a letter read) said other companies had been thus aided. Indefinitely postponed.

On motion of Ald. Slater, leave to withdraw was granted on the request of George Ayers for permission to extend the steps of his house upon the sidewalk on Hanover street.

Ald. Slater offered an amendment to the ordinance relative to naphtha lights. Referred.

The board of health reported in regard to the north millpond, that it is in a bad condition. There was considerable talk on the matter, but no definite action was taken.

The question of putting a telephone into the city teamster's quarters, for fire alarm purposes, was indefinitely postponed.

The mayor made a harangue, in the course of which he several times spoke of the CHRONICLE in a manner to lead one to suppose it had trodden on his toes. The Short street extension matter was then brought up. Ald. Slater reported that work on the same had commenced. The mayor said there was no evading the order of the court. Ald. Green enquired if any report of the order of the court had ever been made to the board of aldermen. The city clerk said the finding of the county commissioners was reported to the board; but that Mr. Hatch had been sick, and no report of the order of the court had been communicated. The city solicitor said the case had been tried by Mr. Hatch on one side and Mr. Frink on the other; the case had gone against the city, and the claimants against the city must be paid promptly. The mayor said that so far the work done was on the city's land; and the city solicitor said land damages should be at once tendered the persons whose property will be taken. The mayor said he had received from Mr. Hatch, solicitor, a very kind offer to furnish gravel at twenty cents per cubic yard; and that he had been associated with Mr. Hatch for three years as a director on the railroad, and never saw anything to justify any such personal attacks as had been made upon him in the CHRONICLE. Ald. Caswell said he thought those up-country fellows, the commissioners, were the ones to be blamed for this whole fuss.

Adjourned for one week.

SUPREME COURT--LAW TERM.

At the law term of the supreme court, held in Concord on Thursday, the first instant, thirteen out of nineteen candidates for admission to the bar were allowed to become members of the profession.

On the Rockingham docket, in Dodge vs. Stickney, appeal from the decree of the judge of probate, relative to the settlement of Stickney's account as executor of Geo. H. Dodge, late of Hampton Falls, an opinion was rendered by Judge Clark. The estate amounted to $130,797.72, exclusive of a claim against Gilmore and Kenrick. The net balance of personal estate after debts was $39,727.37. The court held that the settlement of Mrs. Dodge with Judge Stickney was proper, and the charge that it was fraudulent was without foundation in fact. The claim for Bailey, mortgagee, it is held was fully adjusted in a final settlement of the estate, and the decree of the Probate court sustains the position. The conclusions of the referee are adopted by the court, and the judgment of the court is that the appeal be dismissed, with the exception of one cause of appeal which stands open. Judgment on the report. W. H. Dodge for appellant; Wiggin for Stickney. In the opinion the court administered a severe rebuke upon the style of language used by the appellant's counsel in his brief.

In the Portsmouth bridge case, the rates are to be those found by Mr. Ramsdell, referee, upon which the court will make an order for a table of reduced rates of toll.

W. F. Towle vs. Wood. Opinion by Stanley, J. Suit to collect money collected by Wood; plff. not entited to recover. Judgment for defendant.

Messer vs. Smith. Motion to dimiss denied.

Star Fire Ins. Co. vs. New Hampshire National Bank. Opinion by Allen, J. Action on a draft collected by the bank, alleged to have been forged as to the endorsement of D. W. Moulton and Goodwin. The draft was presented by A. F. Craig, and the money paid to him by the bank. The verdict was for plff. The deft. excepted; exception now overruled, and judgment on the verdict for plaintiff. Page for plff.; Frink for bank.

Ins. Co. vs. J. W. Smart. Action to recover cost of insurance on Smart's schooner. Opinion by Smith, J. The policy was sent to Newmarket, where Smart lived. It was contended that the contract was made out of the state. Nothing appeared to show where it was made. Plffs. are a partnership association, but had not complied with the law of this state relative to foreign insurance companies. The premium note in this case is valid. The policy was binding on the association. Exception overruled. Judgment for plff. Mellows and Frink for plff.; G. K. and G. C. Bartlett, and Wiggin, for deft.

John W. Wheeler vs. Liverpool & London & Globe Ins. Co. Question as to removal of cause from the state court to the circuit court of the United States. Opinion by Smith, J. The term at which the case should be removed is the term at which the issue is framed. Motion to remove was seasonably made. Exceptions sustained. Case removed to United States court. Marston & Eastman and Frink for plff. S. C. Eastman for deft.

Judge of Probate vs. Mathes and others. Opinion by Doe, C. J. Executor loaned $1200 to a supposed solvent man, but must pay the same on his bond. Judgment for plff. Wiggin and Fuller for plff.; Smith and Hatch for deft.

Frank L. Chauncey vs. German American Ins. Co. Opinion by Doe, C. J. Judgment for plff., on verdict recovered at a recent trial term. Page for plff.; Barton (of Massachusetts) for deft.

Joseph D. Weeks vs. Robert Pike. Trover for lumber. Opinion by Allen, J. Judgment for plff.

Gardner Towle vs. Adna B. Lane and al. Opinion by Doe, C. J. Defendant, A. B. Lane, is bound by judgment obtained by his assignee, and satisfied; as to Jesse Lane, case remains for further hearing if counsel desire it.

Fellows vs. Allen. Appeal from decree of judge of probate proving will of E. R. Fellows. The formal execution of the will was admitted. The will was not cancelled within the meaning of the statute. The will made before marriage is valid. Decree affirmed.

Kimball vs. Penhallow. Petition as to the construction of the will of Miss Penhallow, giving certain sums to the children of A. J. Ponhallow, and praying for instruction from the court. Legacy held valid. Opinion by Smith. J., giving directions as asked for; legatees to recover legacies of $2000, and have income upon terms and conditions indicated by the court. Case discharged.

A race on York beach, Aug. 26th, between the teams of Ephraim C. Cook and Charles Spinney of Kittery, for ten dollars a side, was won by Cook, who also sold his horse next day at a very satisfactory price, as a result of the race.

Albion Libby of Kittery and John Langdon of York, who contracted for $200 to build a bridge at the head of York river on the line of the new road, have finished their job. Charles Spinney has also finished his contract for building the road.

Mrs. Eleanor Grover, of Beech Ridge, York, was ninety-eight years old in April last. A gentleman who passed her house a day or two since saw the old lady sitting on the doorstep, eating an apple; she was using no knife, but bit into the hard fruit just like a school-girl. Her hair, though snowy white, is thicker than that of many a young woman.

The Tremont Gun club, of Boston, held their annual shoot in Eliot, Me., on the 1st inst., and attracted a large number of sportsmen; the club brought down 700 birds. In a match for $50, placed by Pashas of Lynn against the medal long held by Johnson of Boston, the latter won, bringing down twenty-three birds against Pashas' twenty-two. "Frenchy" Johnson, of Boston, shot every bird and struck every ball he fired at.

A gentleman who passed over the old "post road" from York to Portsmouth bridge on Wednesday, the 31st ult., says he never before saw it so crowded with teams going both ways. There were hundreds of them, of all sorts and sizes, from the big summer-hotel coaches and the finely-kept private turnouts of summer visitors, to the worst-looking "crow bait" team of the Agamenticus charcoal burner. But the vehicle which most attracted his attention was an enormous wheelbarrow, the biggest one he ever saw, which was piled high with bundles of rags, and had a dog hitched to one of the arms; the motive power was a white man, who was accompanied by a coal-black woman who said she was his wife. While the pair were resting under a tree out of the hot sun, a peddler named Grace, who lives in York near Raynes' neck, and supplies his cart from the stores in Portsmouth, came along and lightened the wheelbarrow and its owner's heart by purchasing the entire load of rags.

Mrs. S. Augusta Shipley, wife of Mr. Noah P. Shipley of Nashua, committed suicide Tuesday night, Aug. 30th, by taking a dose of Paris green.

The Enfield shakers now comprise 350 persons, two-thirds of which number are females, and their worldly possessions are valued at $1,500,000. Each one's share, if divided equally, would not be far from $4,300, which is forfeited in case of retirement from the community.

The "United States Hay-Fever Convention" met at Littleton, Aug. 30th.

The New York Herald calls loudly for national marriage and divorce laws. They are much needed.

A Cleveland paper tells the following: "A lady of one of the parties from Indianapolis that visited Gen. Garfield at Mentor shortly before his election said carelessly to Mollie, the president's daughter: 'Aren't you afraid to have your father go down to Washington among all those bad men?' 'No, indeed,' said the child. 'And why not?' Mollie hesitated a moment, and a smile broke over her face as she replied: 'Why, I guess God will take care of him.' The lady tells the story now amid her tears, but the child knows still that in the hand of the All-father rests the life of her parent, and whether he lives or dies he will still be in God's care."

A new Russian paper entitled "The Free Word," has been started in Geneva, Switzerland. It advocates constitutional government, and is equally opposed to revolution and reaction.

The Century Co., publishers of "Scribner's Monthly" (to be known as "The Century Magazine" after October), will soon issue a portrait of Dr. J. G. Holland, which is said to be a remarkably fine likeness; it is the photograph of a life-size crayon-drawing of the head and shoulders, recently made by Wyatt Eaton, and will be about the size of the original picture. It is to be offered in connection with subscription to the "Century."

A cable despatch from London to Toronto, Ont., says: "In accordance with the long foretold intention of the imperial government to reduce the strength of the British North American garrison, the first battalion of Royal Munster Fusiliers (late 101st regiment) will be recalled from Halifax, and no relief will be provided. By this reduction there will be left at Halifax only the seventy-ninth regiment, a battery of artillery, and some of the royal engineers."

—"Smith," said Jones the other day, "did you ever consider the differentiation of absoluteness as compared with the indissoluble absolute?" "No-o-o," said Smith, "don't think I ever did. But did you ever consider why a pig's tail kinks to the left?" And that is the reason why Jones calls Smith a diaphanous ignoramus.

And home restores to health and peace.

—It is said that if a lamp chimney be cut with a diamond on the convex side it will never crack with the heat, as the incision affords room for expansion, and the glass after cooling returns to its original shape, with only a scratch visible where the cut was made.

Man's Ingratitude.

This is an ungrateful world to say the least. A man will act like a lunatic when he has the itching piles, and declares that he knows he can't live another day, yet he applies Swayne's Ointment, the intense itching is allayed at once, he gets cured, and goes down to the lodge without one whit of gratitude. When asked why he looks so cheerful, he dodges the question by an indifferent answer. Its just like a man though, isn't it?

The President's Wound!

A Parallel Case in Army Life.

In the issue of the Philadelphia Record of the 27th of July was published an article relating to the case of Capt. William Palmer, now Quartermaster Second Brigade New Jersey State National Guard, who was wounded at the battle of Mossy Creek, East Tennessee, in the winter of 1863. In that article the striking resemblance of the case to that of President Garfield, in many particulars, was pointed out, the authority for the statement being the brave captain, himself. A still better authority is Dr. David Kennedy, then surgeon U. S. General Hospital, West Philadelphia, who had had charge of the case, and performed the operation of removing the detached bone, and finally extracted the bullet—Capt. Palmer is living to this day in the bloom of health. Dr. Kennedy does not hesitate to say that many of his patients both in military and civil practice owe their lives to the wonderful healing and strengthening powers of his medicine called "Favorite Remedy." The doctor is in possession of an autograph letter from Capt. Palmer, attesting his indebtedness for his present good health to this medicine—"Favorite Remedy"—which he says has doubled the obligation which he felt to the doctor for the treatment of the captain's terrible wound.

While Dr. Kennedy is engaged in the introduction of "Favorite Remedy," he still continue the practice of his profession at Rondout, N. Y., performs all the minor as well as capital operations of surgery. Address as above. 1s12

The President.

There was no change of importance in the President's condition on the 2d. The doctors reported him as holding his own, and that was about all.

The Public Debt.

During August the public debt was reduced over $14,000,000, thus making the total reduction since the beginning of the current fiscal year over $24,000,000. The cash balance in the treasury was also reduced over $4,400,000. During the last twelve months the interest-bearing debt has been reduced nearly $110,000,000. Excepting the bonds issued to the Pacific railroad, the only government bonds now drawing a higher interest than 4 1-2 per cent are $21,000,000 of five per cents, which were not continued at 3 1-2, and on these the interest will cease the first of October. All the six per cents not continued under the Windom plan have been redeemed, with the exception of $3,283,-000, on which interest has ceased; and of the five per cents, on which interest ceased May 21st, all but $6,774,500 have been redeemed up to date. Of the 5s and 6s not continued at 3 1-2 per cent, there are to-day outstanding and payable by the government, on or before the 1st of October, $31,362,400.

News and Notes.

Ben-Israel Butler, youngest son of Gen. B. F. Butler, died at Bay View, Mass., on the 1st inst., at the age of twenty-seven years. The cause of his death was Brights' disease. He graduated at West Point in 1877, and served in Texas for six months with the ninth cavalry. Retiring from the army, he graduated at a law school and had been admitted to practise in New York and Massachusetts.

William M. Holt, a counterfeiter and fugitive from justice from Tennessee, was discovered at White Pine, Colorado, and arrested on the 31st ult. The officers having him in charge were ambushed by a large party of armed men, who forcibly set the prisoner at large.

A tragedy occurred in Gloucester, Mass., on the evening of the 1st inst. About nine o'clock James M. Jeffs jumped through the window of his wife's residence at West Gloucester, attacking her with a knife, badly cutting her arm. She claims that in self defence she fired two shots at him, one of which took effect in his head, and he now lies in a critical condition, being in an unconscious state. The couple have not lived together for the past two months, owing to domestic infelicities.

As an excursion train was passing through Gloucester, N. J., on Thursday evening, the 1st inst., a stone was thrown through a window of a car, striking a man named Smith in the head, inflicting injuries which will probably prove fatal.

News has been received from Mr. William Otis and daughter, who were thought to have been drowned by the sinking of the steamer State of New York in the Connecticut river. They have returned to their home at White Plains, N. Y. Mr. Otis said that on being taken from the sinking steamer he went with his daughter to Hartford, remained over night, and then went home.

A benzine vat in Jones & Chambers' fat rendering establishment on Front street, New York, exploded Sept. 1st, demolishing a number of sheds and burying several workmen in the ruins. Two of them were injured, and two others are missing and it is feared were killed. The engineer was blown over 200 feet into South street, but was uninjured. The damage to property was trifling.

In Ramsay's canon, Tombstone, Arizona, on the 1st, inst., a thirteen year-old girl informed her father that in passing a Mexican wood-cutting camp she had been insulted by a Mexican boy. A mob went to the camp and compelled the Mexicans, nine in number, to whip the boy with knotted rawhide thongs, resulting in his death a few hours later. The girl subsequently said her story was not true, but told for fun. Retaliation is feared from the Mexican side.

At Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 1st, three men procured a boat for the purpose of fishing in Yellow Mill pond. In attempting to go through the flood gate the boat upset, and James Mooney and a man named Leary were drowned. Mooney was about forty-five, and leaves a wife and three children. Leary was about forty-six, and leaves a wife and four children.

Guiteau has written another letter to District Attorney Corkhill, in which he claims protection from the mob. At the conclusion of his letter he plainly shows that he is well acquainted with the President's condition, for he says: "While the President is in this precarious condition I have confidence in no one. I look to you to see that I am securely protected." The worthless cur evidently labors under the hallucination that his life is worth something.

Suggestions in Time.

What a Woman of Prominence in the Medical World has to say About Her Sex.

Synopsis of a Lecture Delivered by Mrs. Dr. Kenton, Before the Woman's Society of New England.

In all ages of the world, poets, scientists and men of prominence have looked with enthusiasm often akin to reverence upon woman; but it is only within the last few years that she has begun to assume her right place, not only in society, but in the world generally. Why so desirable an end should have been so long delayed it is difficult to understand; but that it has at last come is certainly cause for gratitude. In her social sphere, in her mental development and especially in her physical improvement, woman has shown wonderful advancement, and such as astonishes the world.

They who have made a careful investigation tell us that heathen women are much more able to endure pain than are the women of civilization; but civilized women would resent the charge that they are weaker because they are civilized. A distinguished writer says: "If the women of civilization are less able to endure the hardships of their physical resources than are heathen women, it is a mere accidental circumstance, and one within their control."

Let us consider for a moment the possibilities which present themselves to every woman. When the body is healthy, beauty of form is developed, even in features and forms once plain; indeed, it is the only known way to become beautiful, and all other superstitious, perverted ideas and laces are contemptible delusions. With health and beauty in all their attractiveness a new life dawns, and all the luxurious attributes of a healthy body come forth. The maiden feels the glorious possibilities of life; the mother becomes conscious of the grandeur of maternity and the joys of a family. All this is not only woman's privilege—it is her duty, and it embodies the highest definition of "woman's rights."

ENJOYMENT BEGINS,

After enumerating many of the blessings that follow perfect health, the speaker continued:

All these desirable things can be accomplished, but in one way only. The Creator has given both woman and man perfect physical forms, and each is considered equal to all the natural demands. It is a mistaken and pernicious notion that one is strong and the other weak. No curse was pronounced upon woman which does not equally equal penalty against man. If women believe that fatalism that disease is a necessary condition of their existence, it is chiefly because the disciples of the schools of medical practice have been utterly incapable of competing with the complexity of ills, with hyperpersonal carelessness or professional incompetency they have permitted to fasten upon women.

A few weeks ago I received a call from a charming lady, whose earnest face clearly showed she desired advice and assistance. In my questioning her, she stated that she believed she was suffering from a paralyzed liver, and wished to know if I could in any way aid her recovery. Now, imperfect as her statement was in regard to the disease which troubled her, there is no doubt that are suffering to-day, from similar troubles, who do not recognize their cause so nearly as this lady did. Paralysis means death of the member paralyzed, and complicity of the liver is the first stage of its dissolution. This is one of the most serious questions that can arise in the experience of any woman; for a torpid and diseased liver cannot be cured at once, and it carries with it the elements of disease to all the other parts of the system. With an inactive liver, biliousness, languor, heavy sense of bearing down, constipation, displacements, uterine troubles and the train of ills which are coupled in their train come thick and fast. Then follow impure blood and all the evils which an imperfect circulation of the blood, a derangement of the kidneys or liver causes disease in the organs which adjoin them just as certainly as a bad peach injures the other peaches in the basket. Not only this, but when these organs are in a healthy state, they restore and keep in order any irregularity which may occur in the lower portion of the body. No woman was ever seriously sick for any length of time when such was the case. No serious inflammation can occur when the blood is pure, and no blood can be impure when the liver or kidneys are in perfect order.

I have seen very much of the troubles and ills to which women have been subjected, and I have learned to sympathize with them and want to relieve. In endeavoring to carry relief I have tried to be free from prejudice and have in view but one end—suffering. The ills of my sex have been great, and I feel it is my privilege to day to state that I believe there is a means whereby those women who are suffering can obtain complete relief, and those who are in health be continued in its enjoyment. A few years ago a prominent and wealthy gentleman residing in Rochester, N. Y., was given up to die of Bright's disease of the kidneys. By means of a simple and purely vegetable remedy he was restored to perfect health, and has since been the means of saving the lives of many his others. So efficient did prove in the case of many well-known men that it began also to be use by ladies, and to-day thousands of women in all parts of the land owe their restored health and continued happiness to the wonderful power of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. Mr. Warner has the written testimony of hundreds of the best ladies in the land, enthusiastically praising the remedy and thankfully evaluating their gratitude for health. These letters are sacred, and cannot be given to the public, but they overwhelmingly verify all the facts above stated. Nature has given to woman a delicate, watchful, alert instinct, and she has found this remedy to be what her sex for years has need to restore and maintain the perfection of nature. She resents the imputation that she is bound to suffer all the ills that attack her. She recognizes the fact that she is but an incident of her existence, and that this incident is wholly within her control. If she can find the necessary helps which nature provides. The changeable character of our climate, the oftimes exacting and enervating customs of society, of fashion, and of a remedy, all combine to impair the vitality of women. If we add to these the exhausting duties of motherhood, and the mental anxiety for the success of her husband in all his laudable ambitions, which play upon her energies, is it surprising that this burden she should break down under the physical strain? By no means—on the contrary, the wonder is that she has maintained her physical strength as she has.

I have not the time to elaborate this point. You yourselves very well know what the circumstances are which have rendered her life a burden. You also know that the of physical degeneration is impure blood. The performance of the natural functions of womanhood and motherhood is not a disease, nor should it be so treated. Disease is the result of the thousand physical laws by our ancestors or by ourselves, and the natural coursings of the blood should not be considered an evil. If, from any cause, impurity, it is certain to produce its poisonous effects in the parts with which it comes in contact, and thus cause inflammation and other troubles that make the physical life of woman so hard to endure.

I am aware a prejudice exists against proprietary medicines, and that such prejudice is too often well founded, but we should discriminate in our judgments and not condemn all because some are inefficient. The merits of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure have been proven beyond a doubt, because they deal directly with the causes of all female troubles; they affect and cleanse the body at the free rather than its branches. Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure has proved been a blessing for the rich, a boon to the poor. It has lifted men from a bed of death and restored them to vigor and health. But greater and better than all this, it has come to women, has raised her, restored her and kept her in constant hopefulness and health. It has kept back disease by filling the system to resist its attacks; it has regulated the life, purified the sources of life, and brought innumerable blessings out of numberless woes.

The women of America, both young and old, have greater opportunities to-day than those of any land in any age. Their rights are more fully recognized, their privileges greater and their possibilities unlimited. They are permitted to enjoy life to its fullest extent, and to do this their bodies must be maintained. I congratulate the women of this free land that the keenness of their perception has led them to discover their necessities and what will satisfy them. I congratulate them that they who have reaped the greatest benefit from the remarkable properties of Independent Investigation are to day the most enthusiastic proclaimers of the merits of this great remedy of which I have spoken. The spirit of Intolerance, I may say in conclusion, so rampant in this age of free investigation, when all things are judged by what they are and not by what they are n, must eventually give way to the better, wiser, nobler liberality in which alone can be found peace, security, true peace, true health and true happiness.

VISIT TO THE NAVY YARD.

Quite a number of gentlemen visited the navy yard on Friday at the invitation of Naval Constructor Theodore D. Wilson, to view the U. S. S. Lancaster, which has just been completed in her repairs and outfit. Among those present were Senators Frye of Maine and Rollins of this state, Hon. Benjamin W. Harris of Massachusetts, a member of the committe on naval affairs in the United States house representatives. Representative Thomas B. Reed of Maine, Mayors Murphy of Dover and Sise of Portsmouth, Naval Officer Hall of Boston, Custom House Collectors Howard and Young, Postmaster Peirce, and others.

The visitors were met at the landing by Commodore Beaumont, Capt. Young, and Constructors Wilson and Hichborn, and at once proceeded to the Lancaster, where they were received by Capt. Gherardi and his officers, and shown about the ship. The visiting congressmen expressed their gratification at the satisfactory results achieved in the construction, appliances and capacity of the ship, and seemed to feel a pride that such a noble specimen of American naval architecture was to be sent abroad as an indication of what naval vessels can be, if we are willing to provide sufficient means for maintaining our naval reputation with other nations. Congressman Harris was especially pleased at the apparent capacity of the navy yard for work, and enquired of the constructor particularly as to the means at hand or required for the construction of iron ships. The company were invited to the residence of Constructor Wilson, where a bountiful lunch was served.

It was a source of congratulation to the officers of the station,—as well as to the mayor and other citizens of Portsmouth, who have an interest in the regular system of work at the yard, for the performance of which we have so many mechanics of acknowledged skill,—that the congressmen from Massachusetts and Maine so readily responded to an invitation to come to the station and judge from personal inspection what can be accomplished here in the way of construction and repairs. Hon. Leopold Morse, of the naval committee, sent a note of regret, his recent return after an absence of some time from his business showing such an accumulation of engagements that he was unable to be present.

But the presence of Senator Frye and Congressman Harris was of especial significance. The Maine senator celebrated his fiftieth birth-day by an introduction to many new features of the yard; and the Massachusetts member, whose devotion to naval affairs has been seen and appreciated by every friend of the navy, seemed impressed with the importance of Portsmouth as a naval station which should receive liberal appropriations at the hands of Congress,—not an intermittent outlay, to be followed by periodical absence of activity, but a healthful average, which should give steady employment to men who have not the advantages to be gained in other cities, near which navy yards are located, by receiving ready employment in private establishments, but whom in no little degree the government is bound to care for by an economical disbursement of its appropriated funds throughout the entire year.

We are all much indebted to Constructor Wilson for the pains he has taken, and the efforts he has put forth not only on this occasion, but since he has been on duty here, to the end that the members of Congress, who vote the appropriations, as well as the officers of the departments under whose direction they are expended, may be convinced beyond all reasonable doubt that nowhere can appropriations for the maintenance of the navy in the matter of construction, repair and fitting of ships of war be more judiciously or economically expended than upon the Piscataqua.

MEMORIAL.

The members of the Raymond excursion party were called together in the parlors of the International hotel at Niagara Falls, Sunday, Aug. 28th, Mr. John S. Rand of Portsmouth presiding, at which time a committee was appointed who presented the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, Mr. John F. Hobbs of North Hampton, N. H., one of our number, met with an accident on the way which to our surprise and grief proved fatal,

Resolved, that we extend our tender and heartfelt sympathy to the companion so sadly bereaved, and to the parents and friends who have been suddenly plunged from light and joy into the deepest shadow of woe; and we fervently pray that divine comfort and strength may be given them from Him whose ways are past finding out, and whose wisdom and love are infinite.

Resolved, that in this sad calamity which has shadowed our enjoyment we feel that no blame whatever can be attached to any one connected with the management of the excursion under the careful and gentlemanly charge of Mr. L. A. Whitcomb.

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the personal friends of the deceased, and to the Portsmouth press and the Boston Journal.

CHARLES W. MAIN.

Charles W. Main, the only son of Chas. Main of the firm of Main & Winchester, died very suddenly in New York on the 1st inst. He had but recently come to New York, and was engaged in business there. His sudden death, which resulted from congestion of the lungs, will be a sad affliction to his parents and friends, from whom he recently parted in apparently good health. His remains have been sent to California for interment.

AROUND HOME.

Miss Georgia E. Cayvan, who made so great a hit as "Hazel Kirke" at the Madison Square theatre in New York last winter, will play the part with the Madison Square theatre company in this city on Thursday, Oct. 20th. The public will remember this as the play which was given 486 consecutive representations at the Madison Square theatre, and which has since been received with enthusiasm in every portion of the country. In the past two years, "Hazel Kirke" has been witnessed by over a million people.

The schooner T. S. McLellan, Smith master, with 309 tons of coal, and the Abbie Thaxter, Hutchinson master, from South Amboy with 312 tons of coal, arrived at the Concord railroad wharf on the 2d inst., both for J. Albert Walker.

Mr. George Cox has opened a grocery store on Christian Shore, near the north millbridge.

His honor the mayor, at the last meeting of the board of aldermen, in some remarks eulogistic of Hon. Albert R. Hatch very distinctly implied that the CHRONICLE had made personal attacks upon that gentleman during the street-extension controversy. We have only to say in reply that nothing which could be tortured into being a personal attack upon Mr. Hatch has appeared in these columns, either editorially or in correspondence, and any assertion to the contrary is false.

John Fogg, a young man of Stratham, has no doubt learned not to drink even tonic beer at the invitation of a stranger. He accepted a drink on his way to the Hedding camp-meeting, which was drugged, and he is minus a sum of money which he had sewed up in the belt of his pantaloons. He was found lying under a tree in an unconscious condition, and was carried into the cottage of Mr. Norris and attended by physicians stopping on the camp grounds.

Apropos of the coming lecture by Mr. Foss, which is announced in our advertising columns, the following by the Brown University correspondent of the Providence Journal, who was present at the lecture in Foxboro' last April, may be of interest: "Last Thursday night Mr. S. W. Foss of the class of '82 delivered a lecture to a good-sized audience, on the subject 'Originality,' in the Foxboro' Lyceum Course. He held their close attention, and was interrupted by frequent applause throughout the lecture. Mr. Foss is a young man of great literary abilities and promise, his oration at the resent Junior exhibition receiving from all quarters the highest encomiums. His entrance upon the lecture field at so early a stage of his career shows present appreciation of his abilities, and augurs well for his future success."

We learn that two ladies of this city, anxiously interested in the recovery of President Garfield, have written to the surgeons in charge, suggesting that the binding of live frogs on the parotid swelling would draw the poison from his system, and that the rubbing of sweet oil upon the outside of the stomach would cure the worst case of dyspepsia. We have not heard that there remedies have as yet been tried in the President's case.

In the supreme court on Thursday last, in case State vs. Frances B. Hayes, arising out of Mr. Hayes' recent election as a director of the Concord railroad, Judge Foster for the respondent filed a motion to remove the action to the United States circuit court. This is a case brought to test the validity of the law relative to minority representation in corporations, the provisions of which the complainant claims were ignored at the last annual meeting of the Concord railroad corporation.

A new catalogue of the Rice Public library at Kittery has been published, with the rules and regulations of the library. The catalogue is arranged alphabetically, under the names of the authors of the books where the authors are given, otherwise by the names of the works.

The schooner John Lenthal, Swett master, which arrived at Exeter on Monday of this week from Elizabethport, N. J., with 320 tons of coal for the Exeter Coal Co., left Exeter on the 23d of July, so that she was over five weeks on the trip. She was detained in Gloucester harbor about two weeks by fogs and bad weather, on her outward passage, and was eight days from Elizabethport to this port on her return.

Mr. John F. Hobbs of North Hampton, who was killed near Amsterdam, N. Y., on the 27th ult., by a railroad accident, was twenty-two years and six months old, and leaves a widow to whom he had been married but a year and a half. He was a member of the Congregational church of North Hampton, and an exemplary Christian. The accident which caused his death was due to something which projected from a passing freight train, which struck his left arm and mangled it terribly, necessitating amputation near the shoulder. He lived only about six hours after the accident.

Seventy sword-fish have been landed at the wharf of the Cape Ann Fish Co. the past week, the whole aggregating about 25,000 pounds. These fish are unusually plenty the present season, and fishermen are selling them for about two cents per lb., the price generally being about double these figures. Most of these fish are salted, the large supply exceeding the demand for them fresh, and sell for about $7.50 per barrel of two hundred pounds.—Cape Ann Bulletin.

Important.

When you visit or leave New York city, save Baggage Expressage and Carriage Hire, and stop at Grand Union Hotel, opposite Grand Central Depot; 450 rooms, fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced to $1 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroad to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first-class hotel in the city. tap15,82

Irritation of the Scalp.

An Authentic Testimony.

Gentlemen,—For five years I have been greatly troubled with dandruff, with a severe itching of the scalp, and my hair falling out. I have tried almost every known remedy, all proving worthless. Seeing Burnett's Cocoaine and Burnett's Kalliston advertised, I procured a bottle of each, and am happy to state that the dandruff is completely removed, and no itching whatever remains.

FELLOWS' Compound SYRUP OF HYPO-PHOS-PHITES

TESTIMONIAL TO MR. FELLOWS.

WE, the undersigned, Clergymen of the Methodist church in Nova Scotia, having used the preparation known as Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, prepared by Mr. James I. Fellows, Chemist, St. John, N. B., or having known cases wherein its effects were beneficial, believe it to be a reliable remedy for the diseases for which it is recommended.

JAMES G. HENNIGAR, WM. SARGENT, JOHN A. MOSHER, JOHN W. HOWIE, S. F. HUESTIS, JOHN McMURRAY, R. W. WEDDALL, A. W. NICHOLSON, CRANSWICK JOST, R. MORTON, JOHN JOHNSON.

☞ The proprietor has letters from various parts of the Dominion, the United States, and from England, verifying the assertion herein contained, which will be shown at his office, on application. They relate to the cure of diseases of the lungs, heart, stomach, etc.

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites

Speedily and permanent cures Congestion of the Lungs, Bronchitis, Consumption, Nervous Prostration, Shortness of Breath, Palpitation of the Heart, Trembling of the Hands and Limbs, Physical and Mental Depression, Loss of Appetite, Loss of Energy, Loss of Memory, and will rapidly improve the weakened functions and organs of the body, which depend for health upon voluntary and involuntary nervous action. New Hampshire Items.

David Hutchinson, the chieftain of "The tribe of Jesse" of the well known Hutchinson Family, went peacefully to sleep on the evening of August 29th, at Milford, having reached the ripe age of seventy-eight years. He was the second son in a family of sixteen children, all singers. Though he had a fine bass voice he rarely sang in public. His life was spent on a New Hampshire farm, and by untiring energy and industry he had amassed a handsome property. He leaves eight children.

—It was a suggestive remark of an old deacon one Sunday when a stranger clergyman, and not the regular preacher, occupied the pulpit, to the outspoken dissatisfaction of a lady in the congregation, when he informed her that the worship of Rev. Dr. Blank would be resumed on the following Sunday.

—A family at Milwaukee were pleased on hearing that an uncle, whom they had last known ten years before as a penniless dependent, had left a fortune of half a million at his death in Nevada; but when they received a copy of his will, they found nothing in it for them except a reminder that they had turned him away hungry from their door.

How to get Sick.

Expose yourself day and night, eat too much without exercise; work too hard without rest; doctor all the time; take all the vile nostrums advertised; and then you will want to know

HOW TO GET WELL,

—Four churches, costing upward of half a million dollars each, will be erected in New York this year. "He had not where to lay His head."

If you have a cold take Adamson's Botanic Balsam. A sure cure for coughs, sore throat and all pulmonary complaints. To the afflicted we recommend a trial of this superior remedy.—Boston Saturday Evening Express.

—An exchange says, "The Jewish Messenger comes out for removing the women's gallery and letting wives sit with their husbands in the synagogue, and also abolishing all restrictions upon their holding religious offices. Wonder what Moses would have thought if this had happened in his day?" What would Moses have thought of the modern synagogue, anyway?

Bed-Bugs, Roaches,

Rats, mice, ants, flies, fleas, vermin, mosquitoes, insects, &c., cleared out by "Rough on Rats." 15c. boxes at druggists.

Brain and Nerve.

—An exchange says, "Mr. Dilloway lost a valuable cow by falling over an embankment." He probably had the cow in his pocket, and it rattled out as he tumbled over.

However watched by loving care,
Home has distempers lurking there,
And human power cannot defend
From ills that constantly impend;
But Sanford's Ginger bids pain cease,
And home restores to health and peace.

—Two sisters, whose home was in Newark, N. J., were summoned home from the Adirondacks by a dire telegram that another sister, Emma, was to be "buried" on a certain day. They arrived home grief-stricken to find Emma all ready to be "married," instead of buried. The telegrapher had blundered.

Man's Ingratitude.

This is an ungrateful world to say the least. A man will act like a lunatic when he has the itching piles, and declares that he knows he can't live another day, yet he applies Swayne's Ointment, the intense itching is allayed at once, he gets cured, and goes down to the lodge without one whit of gratitude. When asked why he looks so cheerful, he dodges the question by an indifferent answer. Its just like a man though, isn't it?

SWAYNE'S

The President's Wound!

A Parallel Case in Army Life.

In the issue of the Philadelphia Record of the 27th of July was published an article relating to the case of Capt. William Palmer, now Quartermaster Second Brigade New Jersey State National Guard, who was wounded at the battle of Mossy Creek, East Tennessee, in the winter of 1863. In that article the striking resemblance of the case to that of President Garfield, in many particulars, was pointed out, the authority for the statement being the brave captain, himself. A still better authority is Dr. David Kennedy, then surgeon U. S. General Hospital, West Philadelphia, who had had charge of the case, and performed the operation of removing the detached bone, and finally extracted the bullet—Capt. Palmer is living to this day in the bloom of health. Dr. Kennedy does not hesitate to say that many of his patients both in military and civil practice owe their lives to the wonderful healing and strengthening powers of his medicine called "Favorite Remedy." The doctor is in possession of an autograph letter from Capt. Palmer, attesting his indebtedness for his present good health to this medicine—"Favorite Remedy"—which he says has doubled the obligation which he felt to the doctor for the treatment of the captain's terrible wound.

While Dr. Kennedy is engaged in the introduction of "Favorite Remedy," he still continue the practice of his profession at Rondout, N. Y., performs all the minor as well as capital operations of surgery. Address as above. 1o2

[Entered at the Post-Office at Portsmouth, N.H. as second-class matter.]

The President.

Mr. Blaine's despatch to Minister Lowell, on the night of the 2d, was as follows:

The president has had a very satisfactory day, and in the judgment of his surgeons, all his symptoms are favorable tonight. Taking the twenty-four hours through he has had less fever and better appetite than for many days past.

The President passed the night of the 2d comfortably, but the official bulletin at 8:30 A. M. on the 3d announced an increase in the frequency of the pulse, which continued about the same at noon. Except this, there appeared to be no material change in his condition. It was reported in the afternoon that the surgeons had decided to remove the President to Long Branch as soon as possible—probably by or before the 7th inst.

The President had two spells of vomiting on the night of the 3d, but rested well after midnight, and at 12:30 P. M. on the 4th the official bulletin announced no material change in his state from the previous day.

Naval Gazette.

Leave of absence for two weeks from Sept. 1st has been granted to Capt. C. C. Carpenter, and Asst. Naval Constructor Hanscom, both attached to the Boston navy yard.

Cadet Engineer Richard Gatewood resigned Aug. 19th, having been appointed an assistant naval constructor.

First Lieut I. H. Washburn, U. S. M. C., attached to the marine barracks, Boston, is granted leave of absence for one month from Sept. 14th.

Capt. J. H. Gillis, commanding the Lackawanna, which arrived at San Francisco on the 25th of August, seventeen days from Honolulu, reports the health of officers and crew excellent.

Asst. Engr. John A. Henderson and Ensign Ridgly Hunt are ordered to the Tallapoosa.

Lieut. Wm. P. Potter is detached from the Tennessee, and Ensign James H. Sears from the Kearsarge, and both ordered to the naval academy.

Passed Asst. Engineers D. M. Fulmer and D. P. McCartney are ordered to hold themselves in readiness for sea service.

Comdr. F. P. McNair is detached from command of the Constellation; Lieut. Comdr. Charles M. Thomas, Lieutenants J. W. Miller, Daniel Delehanty and Henry W. Schaefer, Paymaster L. G. Billings, and Chaplain J. D. Wallace, are detached from the Constellation; and all are ordered to duty at the naval academy. Lieut. C. P. Rees and Master Charles W. Bartlett are detached from the Constellation, and placed on waiting orders. Lieut. F. M. Wright is detached from the Constellation, and ordered to the naval academy until Sept. 30th, when he will consider himself placed on waiting orders. Surgeon G. B. Ayers is detached from the Constellation, and granted leave of absence for three months. Passed Asst. Surgeon A. G Cabell is detached from the Constellation, and placed on waiting orders.

Comdr. P. F. Harrington, commanding; Lieutenants E. B. Taussig, Asa Walker, Henry L. Green, J. B. Murdock, and A. McCracker, and Master T. B. Howard, are detached from the Dale, and ordered to the naval academy. Passed Asst. Surgeon W. R. Rush is detached from the Dale, and placed on waiting orders. Asst. Paymaster G. R. Martin is detached from the Dale, and ordered to settle his accounts.

The practice ships Mayflower and Standish arrived at Portsmouth, Va., on the 31st ult., from Annapolis. The Vandalia arrived at New London, Conn., on the 1st inst., from Newport, R. I.

The chiefs of bureaux of the navy department had a special meeting on Sept. 1st, by direction of the secretary, to take into consideration the work which should be done at the different yards, in order to bring into efficient use, at as early a day as practicable, the vessels now standing in need of immediate repairs.

Obedience to Orders.

There are two ways of regarding Secretary Hunt's order detaching Commander Kellogg from the command of the Tallapoosa.

One is that the secretary, perhaps, had been informed that the Tallapoosa had been used to convey incidentally the wives and families of officials, senators, naval officers and prominent guests, and he intended to have this done only by special permission; the other is that he was not posted on the custom in this respect. Here was an order which in terms applied as much to the Tallapoosa as to any fighting ship, but it has not been observed in regard to this steamer. If the orders were such as are now referred to, Comdr. Kellogg should have applied for a modification of them as far as his vessel was concerned, and not taken it for granted that his steamer was an exception to a general rule. If the secretary is to be the head of the navy, his orders must be obeyed to the letter. The first requisite in a good officer is obedience to his superior in command, and however may have been the traditional customs as to the Tallapoosa, Commander Kellogg must be held to have disobeyed orders, no matter what others may have done in this respect in similar instances. Judge Hunt has much to learn before he will be an adept in all the ways of the navy, but as we before asserted, he has the right to have his orders obeyed to the letter.

Another Indian Massacre.

A Washington despatch of Sept. 3d says:

A despatch from Gen. McDowell at San Francisco confirms the reports of Indian troubles in Arizona, announces that Fort Apache is taken by the Indians, a lieutenant and several soldiers killed, and that Indian Inspector Gardner reports the agency endangered, and calls for troops. Several bodies of troops have been ordered there.

A Times' Tucson special confirms report of the massacre of two companies of cavalry under General Carr, by the Apaches, near Camp Thomas. Lieut. Cruse was shot by a medicine man, whom he was trying to arrest, whereupon the troops opened fire, and killed the medicine man. The massacre then began, the Indian scouts firing on the white troops, and nearly every white was killed. Three companies of cavalry and a company of scouts are en route as reinforcements. No courier has yet come through, and all are supposed to be killed.

A later despatch, from Tucson to the San Francisco Star, says:

Three carriers have now come into Camp Thomas, all bringing the same news, that Gen. Carr and command have all been massacred by the Indians, thirty-five miles from Camp Apache; 110 men and seven officers were killed. The officers must be Gen. Carr, Capt. Henley, Lieuts. Carter, Gordon, Stanton and Ornes, and Dr. McCreery. The White Mountain Indians' reservation is located about 160 miles north of Willcox, near the line of New Mexico. The tribe numbers about 1500 in all. They can muster 400 warriors. This is the only tribe of Apaches which has not been whipped into subjection. They were moved in 1876 into San Carlos reservation, but recalled and returned to their old hunting grounds where they have been ever since.

The New Haven Register of Friday evening published the statement that the result of Prof. Chittenden's analysis of the stomach and other organs of Jennie Cramer was the finding of arsenic in the stomach and elsewhere in sufficient quantities to have caused death.

John Platt of Providence, R. I., aged seventy years, was killed on the track of the Stonington railroad in that city by being struck by the engine, Friday.

Henry C. Neal, of Troy, a young man employed in a Chicago grocery store as clerk, went insane in the latter city early Friday morning, shot his room-mate dead, mortally wounded a night watchman and a negro, and then running through the street to the Rock Island railroad freight house shot the flag man and night clerk, both of whom may die. The madman was finally captured by a policeman, who had to shoot him in the neck before he could subdue him.

The Dublin Baptist association closed a two days' session of their seventy-third annual meeting at Keene on Friday. This association includes eleven churches, which were all represented, and a lively interest taken.

The annual stockholders' meeting of the Newmarket company took place at Newmarket last Thursday. The election of officers resulted as follows: Directors, William D. Pickman, B. W. Crowninshield, J. D. W. Joy, George J. Silsbie, W. G. Saltonstall, John Webster; clerk, Timothy M. Joy. Subsequently a sumptuous dinner was partaken of at Silver's hotel.

Important.

When you visit or leave New York city, save Baggage Expressage and Carriage Hire, and stop at Grand Union Hotel, opposite Grand Central Depot; 430 rooms, fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced to $1 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroad to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first-class hotel in the city. tsp15,82

THE NORTH POND NUISANCE.

At the meeting of the board of Mayor and aldermen, Aug. 18th, a communication was received setting forth in strong terms the condition of the north millpond as a receptacle of filth and a reservoir of disease-engendering smells, and praying the city government to afford proper relief.

This communication was referred to the board of health, to report, and at the last meeting of the aldermen their report was submitted, to the effect that the pond is in a bad condition, and that some effective means should be adopted to improve it.

William E. Hadley, ex-alderman, said that at the time he was a member of the board a competent civil engineer (Mr. Rice of Boston) was employed to plan an abatement of the nuisance, and did so. Mr. Hadley believed that this plan, for a marginal sewer and connections, would be effective, and thought nothing short of this would answer.

The mayor suggested that the trouble with the pond should be removed in some way, and that persons who would otherwise come to this city and vicinity to spend the summer season, were kept away by the state of the pond.

Alderman Caswell did not think it necessary to consider the summer visitors to any great extent; more industrial enterprises, such as shoe factories for instance, are what the city needs; the summer visitors are of little real advantage to the city at large.

Alderman Green thought any plan for abating the nuisance should be carefully considered before being adopted. The city had expended a good many thousand dollars on the south pond, but no one could say the nuisance at that point had been effectually removed.

No action was taken by the board, but it is rumored that Mr. Rice's system of sewers is likely to be adopted, and the work done before another summer comes around.

WILLIAM L. HANSCOM.

The death of William L. Hanscom, a naval constructor on the retired list of the United States navy, is announced as having taken place at Malden, Mass., Saturday morning, after a brief illness. He was a native of Eliot, Me., and in 1853 was appointed a naval constructor, being assigned to the Portsmouth navy yard. He was subsequently stationed at Philadelphia, San Francisco, New York, and Boston. He stood very high in his profession, and during the recent war, while he was at the Charlestown yard, he had six thousand men at work under him, and frequently had twelve vessels in different stages of construction. While in Boston he constructed the famous double-turreted iron-clad monitor Monadnock. The Franklin was entirely reconstructed at the Portsmouth navy yard in accordance with his designs. The Vandalia was designed by him, and he was also concerned in the construction of many other vessels. Since his retirement he has spent a greater part of the time at his home in Malden. He was retired in 1874 in accordance with the law requiring the retirement of all the officers of the navy at the age of sixty-two years. At that time he held the relative rank of captain, which ranks equal with a full colonel in the United States regular army.

THE LANCASTER.

On Wednesday of last week, Boatswain Grace, while attending to his duties on board the U. S. S. Lancaster, was so overcome by the heat that he was made sick. A medical survey was ordered, which pronounced Mr. Grace too sick to perform sea-duty, and he has been put upon the sick list.

The Lancaster hauled off from the navy yard wharf to the mooring buoy, Saturday afternoon. After hauling off the ship saluted the flag of Commodore Beaumont, the salute being returned from the battery on the yard.

The stores for the ward-room mess of the Lancaster came from Boston by the Acushnet, and were put on board of the ship just as she was hauled into the stream, by Capt. Trefethen of the Mystic. The concussion of one of the Lancaster's saluting guns broke one of the panes of glass in the Mystic's pilot house.

Many men—from thirty to fifty—are said to have deserted from the Lancaster since she was put into commission. It is reported that ten men stole a boat and "skipped out" on Friday night, and that two others quietly departed on Saturday.

The big vessel narrowly escaped a disaster Sunday afternoon. The tide was an unusually high one, and at about five o'clock the government buoy to which the ship was moored broke adrift, the swift current sweeping the ship rapidly up the river in spite of both anchors, which were promptly let go. The "band-stand" over the gang-way rock was struck, knocked over and sent floating up river, and the contractors' sloop was also sent adrift. The ship was brought up at this point, and was taken in to a berth at the navy yard in the evening.

One of the officers of this ship writes to the Army and Navy Journal that "This is the best ship that I have ever served in; plenty of light and ventilation, large rooms, etc."

RICHARD FITZGERALD.

We have already chronicled the brief telegraphic announcement that Mr. Richard Fitzgerald, engineer of the steamer R. B. Plant of Jacksonville, Florida, was knocked overboard in a hurricane and drowned while in the discharge of his duty on board the steamer, but we have neglected to mention that this is the second son of the family that has met his death by drowning, Joseph having been lost off Savannah in a gale some years ago. Richard Fitzgerald, above mentioned, familiarly known as "Dickey," was born in this city, and was the son of Mr. Richard Fitzgerald and wife on Water street. He was also a brother of the wife of Mr. Robert B. Adams, agent of the late Kearsarge Mills. There were four Fitzgerald boys who went south to seek their fortunes, and although born and bred amid circumstances of poverty, by pluck, native intelligence and industry succeeded in attaining positions of honor and trust, and were beloved and respected by all who chanced to know them. Of the five—Joseph, Richard, John, James and Edward—the three latter survive and are still prosperous and enterprising in the land that they have chosen for their home.

The loss of another son falls with peculiar severity upon the aged parents, who are living alone at the old home near the Haven school house at the south end. "The boys were always good to their mother," was the pathetic remark of the old lady to us the other morning as she tearfully told us the sad story of the loss of the third boy—one (Billy) having died a few years ago from the brutal treatment of a man employed in a ship yard wherein the little fellow was at play. The almost broken-hearted mother wondered at the goodness of the God that would let her continue her useless life, and take away her boy, so promising and so full of bright hopes for the future! The monthly stipend that was always promptly forthcoming from her affectionate son was a pleasant reminder to the decrepit parent of the fact that no position that they might reach could ever be so exalted as to cause them to forget the one who bore them. This alone is a sufficient endorsement of their character and worth. Such sons are fortunes in themselves. Their death is in no small sense a public calamity, inasmuch as a community is made better by the acquisition of such young men. The doting father and mother have the heartfelt sympathy of their neighbors and friends in this added bereavement.

THE "TWO ORPHANS."

Of the entertainment which is to be given at Music hall on Friday evening next, the Advertiser of Newark, N. J., says:

The hold the "Two Orphans" still maintains upon the public interest was fully demonstrated by the very large audience that assembled to witness it at the Grand Opera house last evening. The piece was admirably presented, Mr. Maddox making a most excellent "Pierre;" Miss Wells as old "Mother Frochard," and Miss Markham as "Louise" sustained their parts with satisfaction to the audience. In short, the entire company acted with spirit, and the play went soomthly from the beginning to its termination. In the entire working of the company there has only been one change in a year in the cast. The company carry special scenes of the play, which have obtained deserved fame.

AROUND HOME.

To-morrow evening, if fair weather, the safe and commodious sea-going steamer Acushnet will make a moonlight excursion out on the ocean, starting from her wharf near the foot of Daniel street promptly at 7:45 o'clock, and returning about 10:30. The best of order will be maintained, the American cornet band will furnish music, and an enjoyable occasion is assured to all participating. Tickets only fifty cents each, and the number limited. See advertisement.

Commodore George F. Cutter, U. S. N., late chief of the bureau of provisions and clothing of the navy department, is in town.

The Mystic did not make a trip to the Shoals on Sunday. The little steamer Pinafore came in from the islands in the afternoon, and went out again in the evening.

All the netting has been removed from the weirs at the mouth of the harbor.

Mr. Henry C. Barnabee was among the congregation at the Unitarian church on Sunday, and in the singing of the last hymn, in which all were invited to join, the deep, rich tones of the celebrated basso rose strong above all others, filling the arches of the church in whose choir he first began his career as a singer of church music.

The British schooner Adah, from Clementsport, N. S., with seventy cords of wood and several passengers, arrived at Russell & Odion's wharf on Saturday. The passengers were bound for North Hampton.

On Thursday last, as one of the female assistants employed during the season at the Appledore house was stepping on board the steamer to come in, she lost overboard her satchel, which went down in twenty-three feet of water, carrying with it $47. The poor girl thought she had lost her hard earnings, but on Friday a youth named Thomas Lynch dived to the bottom and recovered the satchel.

The Appledore carried several passengers to the Shoals on Saturday evening, despite the aspect of the weather.

The Wentworth house had a large number of arrivals on Saturday evening.

The Lynn (Mass.) Item of last week says: "Rev. A. A. Waite will baptize by immersion, on Sunday, between twenty and thirty converts, the fruits of the revival now in progress."

The steamer Startled Fawn, Franklin master, was advertised to make a trip from Newburyport to this port on Saturday, but the weather was so unfavorable that the excursion was postponed to Monday.

The steamer Acushnet made her usual trip from Boston to this port on Friday, and notwithstanding the unfavorable weather and heavy sea was only about an hour late in arriving. She brought one of the largest loads of merchandise she has yet had, and landed it in perfect condition.

The churches were well filled on Sunday, the pastors resuming labors with the realization that the harvest season had begun. Profuse floral displays were seen; those of the Universalist and Unitarian churches were especially notable. Rev. Mr. DeNormandie preached one of a series of three discourses upon "the church, the Sabbath school and the parish." At the morning service at the Universalist church, to the great surprise of the congregation Rev. E. M. Grant announced his resignation of the pastorate, to take effect early in October. We understand he will go to Connecticut.

Mrs. Caroline Waterhouse, who a few weeks since was shot by Charles H. Boynton at Bar Mills, Buxton, is still in a very precarious condition.

Thursday night of last week an alleged disreputable house at Hill's beach, Biddeford, owned by Lydia Clough, was burned. Loss about $700; insured $350.

Making His Own Butter.

A man who resides in the suburbs of Oil City recently purchased some oleomargarine. He didn't know it until he had eaten it. That made him mad. Of course it did. People don't like to eat butter and then find out it was oleomargarine.

Well, he swore he would be deceived no longer.

He would make his own butter.

He bought a cow.

He milked the cow.

That is to say, his wife did, but as man and wife are one, in reality he milked the cow.

In time cream rose on the milk.

It rose in goodly quantities, and was collected by the wife.

On Saturday evening as the man was starting out to spend the evening, the wife remarked:

"You must come home early so as to get up in the morning and churn the butter before going to church."

He said he would.

He came home early—in the morning. About two o'clock.

His wife remarked distinctly:

"Now sir, I want you to prepare—"

"Two pair—hic—no good."

That was sufficient.

She soon after rose.

He retired without the formality of removing his boots

She was mad.

He was sleepy.

Being mad, she churned the butter and put it away, leaving the buttermilk in the churn.

Being sleepy he did not hear her.

Before leaving for church she wiped the outside of the churn, concealed the butter, and left the buttermilk in the churn.

She also left a note, telling him the churn was all ready for him to commence operations.

He said:

"D—d—d—dash 'er churn."

It was a dasher churn.

He feared his wife, as all men do, and commenced churning.

He commenced at nine o'clock.

At half-past nine he looked to see if it was "coming."

It did not appear to be.

At a quarter past nine he looked again

Result of inspection not encouraging.

At twenty minutes to eleven, perspiring freely, he happened to think of the bottle of brandy kept in the house for medicinal purposes.

The butter was not coming, neither was his wife.

But the brandy was forthcoming.

He drank heavily.

At a quarter to twelve he stopped again, and made another examination.

Result was to warrant another drink.

He was getting mad.

At half-past twelve he took a lunch, and commenced churning.

At ten minutes past one he looked to see if his wife was coming.

She was not—nor was the butter.

At half past two he could stand it no longer.

And therefore took another drink.

Then he churned five minutes.

Then he swore a few minutes.

Next he took his gun and loaded it.

At twenty minutes past three he dropped down completely exhausted.

Ten minutes later he had demolished the churn with a hatchet, and was just going out to shoot the cow, when his wife came in almost breathless and put him to bed.—Oil City Derrick.

—She flourished her parasol and cried "Stop; stop!" but the car-driver was thinking of his Mary Ann at the other end of the route, and she was left where she stood. A boot-black lounged across the street and inquired: "Shall I holler?" "No." "Shall I whistle?" "No." "Don't you keer?" "No, not much." "That knocks another prop from under me," he muttered, as he turned away; "if I was a woman, and couldn't holler nor whistle nor swear at a car-driver, I'd cheerfully give a good boy ten cents to lie in wait and pop him with a bad lemon. These ere women hain't got no more grit than soda-water."

—Ex-Congressman Daggett was sitting in the same seat in a car with Ex-President Hayes not long ago, but the Nevada man left for a few minutes to go to the smoker. Returning he found that Mr. Hayes had vanished. "Look a-here!" said a granger from an adjoining seat, "the feller that was a-settin' with you is a d—d thief; he took your satchel." Mr. Daggett found Mr. Hayes in a rear car. When Daggett laughingly opened the valise, revealing a number of soiled shirts, a deck of cards and three bottles of whiskey, Mr. Hayes exclaimed "Gracious! Suppose I had taken your satchel to my house!"

However watched by loving care,
Home has distempers lurking there,
And human power cannot defend
From ills that constantly impend;
But Sanford's Ginger bids pain cease,
And home restores to health and peace.

—It a popular mistake to call a thin, flaky, semi-transparent mineral "isinglass." Isinglass is fish glue, and has nothing to do with the mineral, which is mica.

Man's Ingratitude.

This is an ungrateful world to say the least. A man will act like a lunatic when he has the itching piles, and declares that he knows he can't live another day, yet he applies Swayne's Ointment, the intense itching is allayed at once, he gets cured, and goes down to the lodge without one whit of gratitude. When asked why he looks so cheerful, he dodges the question by an indifferent answer. Its just like a man though, isn't it?

The President's Wound!

A Parallel Case in Army Life.

In the issue of the Philadelphia Record of the 27th of July was published an article relating to the case of Capt. William Palmer, now Quartermaster Second Brigade New Jersey State National Guard, who was wounded at the battle of Mossy Creek, East Tennessee, in the winter of 1863. In that article the striking resemblance of the case to that of President Garfield, in many particulars, was pointed out, the authority for the statement being the brave captain, himself. A still better authority is Dr. David Kennedy, then surgeon U. S. General Hospital, West Philadelphia, who had had charge of the case, and performed the operation of removing the detached bone, and finally extracted the bullet—Capt. Palmer is living to this day in the bloom of health. Dr. Kennedy does not hesitate to say that many of his patients both in military and civil practice owe their lives to the wonderful healing and strengthening powers of his medicine called "Favorite Remedy." The doctor is in possession of an autograph letter from Capt. Palmer, attesting his indebtedness for his present good health to this medicine—"Favorite Remedy"—which he says has doubled the obligation which he felt to the doctor for the treatment of the captain's terrible wound.

While Dr. Kennedy is engaged in the introduction of "Favorite Remedy," he still continues the practice of his profession at Rondout, N. Y., performs all the minor as well as capital operations of surgery. Address as above. 1s12

KING DAVID REDIVIVUS.

Friday night, the 26th ult., an old gentleman walked into the Old Orchard house, at Old Orchard beach, and calmly announced himself as King David, and asked for a room. He was dressed in clothes that were yellow with age. On his head were many kinds of feathers which formed his crown. His coat was decorated with all kinds of labels and express tags, which represented the different orders to which he belonged. The guests amused themselves with him for a while, after which he was put into a carriage and taken to the cottage where he resides for the present.—Exchange.

The queer character described above is well known about here, and belongs somewhere out Hampton way, we believe. He came into town from some of the beaches one evening about two weeks ago, having his hat stuck full of roosters' tail-feathers, turkey wings and other insignia of royalty, and carrying a cane in one hand and a theatrical "stuffed club" in the other; altogether he was as imposing-looking a king as one often meets. He desired to find quarters suited to his rank, and was directed to the Rockingham, from whence he was directed to the Kearsarge. Where the king finally lodged we do not know.

Heroic Conduct Rewarded.

The Humane society of Massachusetts has presented to Miss Marion Isabel Dunbar, daughter of D. A. Dunbar, Esq., of this city, a silver medal with the following inscription: "To Marion I. Dunbar, for her heroic and successful exertions in saving from drowning Lillian Hooper, July 31, 1881." At the mouth of Kennebunk river the government erected two piers for the purpose of deepening the water in order to avoid sand banks, and thus permit the large vessels built on its borders to pass in safety. Confining the waters within so narrow a channel creates a very strong current. The beach for bathing extends from the pier. On the 31st of July a young lady while bathing passed so near the pier that the force of the current carried her beyond the end of the pier, and while struggling and calling for help, a young man ran for a boat, and three ladies did their part in screaming for assistance. The young lady sank twice and became exhausted, when Miss Dunbar jumped from the pier and succeeded in rescuing her, and carried her to the shore. The act was witnessed by several persons, and considered by all a very brave performance. The previous month Miss Dunbar reached her 15th year. She is very muscular for her age, and by her strength and daring was enabled to accomplish all she attempted. Two years ago she rescued a young lady who had fallen from a boat into the same river.—Boston Post.

Centaur Liniment.

Invaluable to families, and owners of horses Sold everywhere.

Mrs. Patrick Waters of Rutland, Vt., fell down stairs Saturday, while intoxicated, receiving fatal injuries.

Castoria.

For sour stomach, constipation, and fretfulness of children. Pleasant, safe and cheap. 900 drops; 35 doses, 35 cents.

A thresher boiler, in operation near Paloka, Ill., exploded Saturday, killing six men and a woman.

Ash-Tonic;

A perfected purifyer of the system. In 1-2lb. bottles; 75 cents. For dyspepsia, the many forms of liver complaint, impure and impoverished blood, and functional derangements attendant upon debility. For symptoms indicated by indigestion, loss of appetite, nausea, sick headache, sour stomach, furred tongue, drowsiness, blanched lips, sallow complexion, pain in the side or back, eruptions, depression of spirits, nervous irritability and hysteria, and for building up the system, ash-tonic is unquestionably the most prompt and energetic remedy yet devised.

A disparity has been found in the accounts of Nelson F. Davis, late tax collector of Houston, Texas, of over $100,000, and suits will be brought against his bondsmen.

Is it Possible

that a remedy made of such common simple plants as hops, buchu, mandrake, dandelion, etc., make so many and such marvelous and wonderful cures as Hop Bitters do? It must be, for when old and young, rich and poor, pastor and doctor, lawyer and editor, all testify to having been cured by them, we must believe and doubt no longer. See other column.—Post.

Mrs. Fuller Smith of Wellesley, Mass., aged seventy, was killed by a gravel train in West Newton, late Friday evening, while endeavoring to cross the track to take a passenger train.

American Ladies.

The first impression Sara Bernhardt received of the American ladies manifested itself thusly: "Oh! so ladies, so are so beautiful, such clear complexion I never see before" all of which is due to the universal use of Swayne's Ointment for skin diseases, which insures a clear and clean complexion, and a healthy color. This recalls to mind the divine precept, "cleanliness is next to godliness."

Portsmouth Chronicle.

TUESDAY, SEPT. 6, 1881.

(Entered at the Post-Office at Portsmouth, N.H. as second-class matter.)

The President.

Secretary Blaine's despatch to Minister Lowell, on the night of the 4th, was as follows:

Last night the President did not rest well, and twice during the night his stomach was so disturbed that he vomited. During the day he has been better, and has swallowed his usual quantity of food, and retained it. His pulse, however, has been higher than for two preceding days. His surgeons do not think he has lost ground, but he certainly has not gained since last night's despatch. At this hour, 10:30, he is quietly sleeping.

The official bulletin at 12:30 P. M. on the 5th reported no material change since the previous bulletin, except "some increase in the frequency of the pulse." He had had no further gastric irritibility. Pulse, 114; temperature, 99.5; respiration, eighteen.

The President on Monday expressed a strong desire to be moved to Long Branch as soon as possible. On learning of the arrangements made for his removal he said, "I have seen sicker men than I am moved without any such fuss." A track was on Monday laid from the Baltimore & Potomac railroad to the edge of the asphalt pavement on Pennsylvania avenue, to take the President's car as near as possible to the White House.

The Great Industrial Exhibition.

The grand exhibition of the New England Manufacturers' and Mechanics' Institute, at their new building on Huntington avenue, Boston, is contributed to by over one thousand exhibitors, from all parts of New England, comprising nearly every branch of manufactures, many of them in active operation, showing methods of making boots and shoes by machinery, pottery, glass manufacturing, looms for weaving, etc., etc., all classes of sewing machines, and artistic work of all kinds. It is estimated that there are in all ten acres of shops and factories. At night this immense exhibition is lighted by thirty electric lights, and three thousand gas burners. Horse-cars, from all railroads, make connections direct with the exhibition. Excursions will be arranged for from all the principal cities and towns in New England, and the total attendance it is estimated will be not less than half a million.

News and Notes.

The democrats in Ohio were rather clumsy in getting up the ticket for the prohibitionists. The candidate for governor of that pure party is a manufacturer of cider presses and wine mills!

The St. James Hotel, Boston, is the only strictly first-class hotel in that city charging but $3 a day.

Gov. Farnham of Vermont has appointed Thursday, Sept. 8th, as a day of fasting and prayer for the recovery of the President.

Governor Long of Massachusetts has appointed Thursday, Sept. 8th, between the hours of ten o'clock A. M. and noon, as a period of prayer in that commonwealth for President Garfield's recovery. Gov. Ludlow of New Jersey has set apart the same hours for the same purpose in that state.

Among the further list of wrecks made by the hurricane of Aug. 27th are the ship La Louisiane and the barque Brunswick, brig Walter Smith, and schooner May Morn. Four men were lost with the Brunswick.

The coroner's jury in the case of Jennie E. Cramer have returned a verdict that the unfortunate girl "came to her death by poison and violence, and that James Malley, Jr., of New Haven, Ct., is criminally responsible for her death. We also find that Walter E. Malley of New Haven, Ct., and Blanche Douglass of New York city, are morally responsible for the same."

The evidence concerning the shooting of James M. Jeffs by his wife at Gloucester, Mass., last week, points to a deliberate murder by Mrs. Jeffs, her story of having done the shooting in self defense not being borne out by the testimony.

The bodies of Seno and Samuel M. Tilson, two brothers, were found, Saturday morning on the shore near Menemsha creek, Martha's Vineyard. They had been to No-Man's-Land fishing, and were drowned on their way back to the Island.

In New York, Sunday evening, Michael McAdams, while drunk, seeing Thomas McConnell, a boy of fourteen, playing in front of his house, ordered him away. The boy paid no attention to him, whereupon McAdams shot him dead.

Officials at the Ohio penitentiary have discovered that their convicts, in order to purchase additional tobacco and other luxuries, have commenced the manufacture of counterfeit nickels. The bogus coins were circulated by a convict who was supposed to be trusty, and was allowed to drive a team outside the walls. But few coins were found.

Harry Hewitt, while endeavoring to board a locomotive on the New Brunswick railway near Woodstock junction, Me., on Friday, was struck by the engine and thrown beneath the wheels, which passing over his left foot, crushed it so badly that he had to suffer amputation.

Walter Malley and James Malley, Jr., were put on trial at New Haven, Conn., Monday, for the murder of Jennie Cramer. The indictment is against them jointly, and contains five counts, charging them with causing the death of the girl, First, by drowning her; second, with chloroform; third, with arsenic; fourth by causing congestion of the brain with liquor and drugs unknown; fifth, by pressing and holding her, face downward, upon the sand, suffocating her.

The schooner Henry Wilson arrived at Gloucester on the 5th inst., from the Grand banks, and reported the loss of two of her men, George Nelson and John Graves, who left the vessel Aug. 23d to set their trawls, and were unable to regain the vessel on account of a thick fog. Two other men who left the schooner at the same time got back at noon next day. There is hope that the two missing men have been picked up by some other vessel.

A despatch of Sept. 3d, from St. Louis, Mo., says: "William F. Marlin, a desperado of southwest Missouri, under sentence of death, jumped through the window of a passenger car at Dixon hill, on the St. Louis & San Francisco railroad, about two o'clock in the morning. He was in charge of Sheriff Goodall of Lebanon, who is now in pursuit with a posse of men. Marlin is the man who was rescued from Lebanon jail last November by Maggie Wilson, a young piece of Sheriff Wilson, who fell in love with the murderer while he was in jail, and ran away with him after she effected his escape. They were recently found in East Tennessee by Sheriff Goodall, and were being returned to Lebanon when the second escape was made."

The Newburyport Herald of Monday says: "A man residing in ward one took his gun yesterday and went into the swamp on the Plum island road to look for game. He had proceeded but a short distance when he heard a growl, and looking behind he saw a large bear coming toward him. The gunner did not stop to shoot, but picked up his heels and made tracks for Joppa. This is no doubt the same bear that has been reported prowling around Salem and Georgetown. About twenty men were out hunting for him with guns yesterday afternoon."

Mr. Howard, who was sent in April by the United States Geographical society to Iceland to explore the less known parts of that country, returned to London last week, and started for New York on Saturday. Mr. Howard states that the icebergs will be from one to two months later this year, as they are becoming detached from the shores of Iceland and hence will be met with much out of the usual time by vessels crossing the Atlantic.

A Pullman car of the Texas & Pacific express was boarded by ruffians at Baird, Tex., Sept. 3d, and the conductor and porter, with several passengers, were robbed. One or two other robberies of the same kind have been recently perpetrated on that line by cow-boys, but have been kept quiet by the railroad authorities.

The revenue steamer Boutwell, which was driven ashore in a march at Savannah, Ga., during the recent hurricane, during the storm had both anchors down and both propellers working, and would have ridden out the gale in safety had not the pilot boat Neva, which was drifting by, got her hawser afoul of the steamer's propeller, which disabled her.

A few weeks ago Lawrence Yorker eloped with Mrs. Graves of Kent, Conn., and took refuge in Ansonia. Within forty-eight hours of the elopement he deserted his victim, and sent for his lawful wife. He has been arrested and arraigned before a New Canaan justice, who admitted him to bail in $1,000. Mrs. Graves had a pleasant home, her husband allowing her $100 a month, while the man with whom she eloped could scarcely take care of himself.

Constantine Arios, the oldest inhabitant of Crete, has died, aged 118 years. He married a rich miller's daughter 100 years ago. He has fought against six of the ten Turkish sultans who have ruled the island, was four times proscribed, banished and pardoned. He has buried five wives, and survived nearly all relatives, including eleven of his children. Last year he faithfully served as mayor of his village.

Another claimant for Marvin, the polygamist, now in jail at Richmond, Va., awaiting trial for bigamy and forgery, has been heard from,—the fifteenth person who claims have been betrayed into a marriage with Marvin, alias Gen. Morton. The last is the daughter of a minister.

—At Liverpool, England, a publican summoned for having sundry false measures in his possession declared he only used them for those who got drunk upon credit.

Important.

When you visit or leave New York city, save Baggage Expressage and Carriage Hire, and stop at Grand Union Hotel, opposite Grand Central Depot; 450 rooms, fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced to $1 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroad to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first-class hotel in the city. tsep5,s2

The President's Wound!

A Parallel Case in Army Life.

In the issue of the Philadelphia Record of the 27th of July was published an article relating to the case of Capt. William Palmer, now Quartermaster Second Brigade New Jersey State National Guard, who was wounded at the battle of Mossy Creek, East Tennessee, in the winter of 1863. In that article the striking resemblance of the case to that of President Garfield, in many particulars, was pointed out, the authority for the statement being the brave captain, himself. A still better authority is Dr. David Kennedy, then surgeon U. S. General Hospital, West Philadelphia, who had had charge of the case, and performed the operation of removing the detached bone, and finally extracted the bullet—Capt. Palmer is living to this day in the bloom of health. Dr. Kennedy does not hesitate to say that many of his patients both in military and civil practice owe their lives to the wonderful healing and strengthening powers of his medicine called "Favorite Remedy." The doctor is in possession of an autograph letter from Capt. Palmer, attesting his indebtedness for his recovery and health to this medicine—"Favorite Remedy"—which he says has doubled the obligation which he felt to the doctor for the treatment of the captain's terrible wound.

While Dr. Kennedy is engaged in the introduction of "Favorite Remedy," he still continues the practice of his profession at Rondout, N. Y., performs all the minor as well as capital operations of surgery. Address as above. ta12

LITTLE HARM DONE.

We are much gratified to learn that the Lancaster did not sustain any material harm from her escapade of Sunday afternoon. An examination of the ship's bottom was on Monday made by a competent diver, who reported that the only damage he could discover was that a small piece of the shoe had been displaced, probably by the vessel's contact with one of the stay-chains that held the "band-stand" in position, though it is not impossible that she may have grazed on some of the loose rocks piled up on the bottom by the contractors' workmen in readiness for removal. The copper with which the displaced piece was covered is somewhat cracked, but the wood is not marked, which shows conclusively that the ship did not touch the ledge as rumored, for a vessel of 3500 tons displacement, borne onward by such a tide as was running in the Piscataqua on Sunday afternoon, could not hit a solid rock without a serious smash resulting. Besides this, there was more than enough water over the rock to have floated the ship clear at the time she broke adrift, unless her draught of water is greater than has been reported to us.

NOAH B. BROUGHTON.

We take the following from the Advertiser of Syracuse, New York, of date Sept. 2d:

It is with deep regret that the death of Noah Barker Broughton is chronicled. * * Mr. Broughton was born at Portsmouth, N. H., August 27th, 1824. He was the son of John Broughton, a shipbuilder. At the age of fourteen Mr. Broughton went to sea as a common sailor, but steadily advanced, and when twenty-four was made master of the sailing vessel "Brother Jonathan," running between Portsmouth and Liverpool. Subsequently he became captain of another vessel which ran to France. Twenty-one years ago Mr. Broughton left the sea, and coming to Syracuse established himself in the insurance business, which he continued, most of the time with John N. Babcock as a partner, up to the time of his death. Mr. Broughton's forty-seventh birthday occurred last Saturday, the very day that he was taken seriously ill. The wife and one son, Fred, and a daughter, Leontine, survive Mr. Broughton. Mrs. Broughton and her daughter were in New York when Mr. Broughton was attacked. They were telegraphed, and returned Thursday evening. Mr. Broughton was a man of rare business abilities, and his personal traits won for him the good will of all who enjoyed his acquaintance. He ever exhibited sterling qualities, and in his transactions his word was as good as his bond.

A GALLANT ACT.

Commodore Beaumont, commanding this navy yard, has forwarded to the navy department the following letter from Lieut. Comdr. Charles J. Barclay, dated Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 27th:

I desire herewith to bring officially to your notice the gallant conduct of Michael Thornton, (seaman,) on board the United States tug "Leyden," recently under my command, while bringing the draft of men for the ship "Lancaster," now fitting out at this yard. Shortly after leaving Boston, on the morning of the 26th inst., a man named Michael Drennan, (landsman,) belonging to the drafts, while suffering from temporary insanity, jumped overboard. The vessel was stopped and a boat lowered with as little delay as possible. The boat was manned by volunteers from the crew of the Lancaster, of which the above-named man, Michael Thornton, was one. Various tugs and vessels in the vicinity rendered what assistance they could, the man Drennan meanwhile apparently swimming for shore. I could see, however, before our own boat reached him, that he was drowning, and the instant the boat reached him he went down, probably for the last time, and directly under or very near the propeller of a tug that was vainly endeavoring to throw the man a life buoy, and at the same time had not stopped her engines. Instantly and without orders Michael Thornton jumped overboard from the boat, between the screw of the tug and the drowning man, brought him to the surface, and saved his life. It was a most gallant act, and one that I think is seldom equalled. I respectfully ask that steps may be taken to bring the matter to the attention of the navy department.

TAKE 'EM AWAY.

A correspondent, in a communication concerning the breaking adrift of the U. S. S. Lancaster on Sunday, asks:

Would it not be advisible for the present city government to renew the request made during the administration of Mayor Marvin, that the navy department remove the mooring buoys which were placed in the river a few years since by the navy yard authorities? They are a nuisance to all small craft plying on the river, and experience has proved them worse than worthless for the purpose they were intended to subserve.

If we remember aright, it was the compass-station buoys in the lower harbor that the Marvin government asked to have removed. Those buoys were an unmitigated nuisance, being exactly in the fairway, liable to capsize small boats and injure small schooners by collision, and often fouling the anchors of vessels; but they have been gone a good while, and the mooring-buoys in the upper harbor should follow them, unless tue gear is to be kept in better condition than in the past. The constant motion caused by the tide soon wears to a condition of dangerous weakness the chain pennant connecting with the turtles on the bottom, and ship after ship has broken adrift from this cause. The ill-fated Huron hung to this mooring when she came in here some years ago, but she did not hang long, and had to drop her anchors; the Marion went adrift in the same way, and brought up on Pumpkin island; the Kearsarge and Wachusett both broke the mooring chain, and went on the beacon ledge; and now the Lancaster has tested the mooring gear, and found it wanting. Our national ships are supposed to carry the best ground tackle that can procured, and they had much better trust to their own anchors than to an old iron chain that has been swaying about the with tide for years without having undergone an inspection.

AROUND HOME.

This evening, if the weather is fair, the Acushnet will make the last ocean moonlight excursion of the season. For particulars see advertisement in another column. If the weather is unfavorable, the excursion will be postponed to Friday evening.

The arrangements for the lecture in the chapel of the North church on Middle street this evening are completed, and everything seems to indicate a large audience.

The flag on the Liberty bridge liberty pole was displayed at half-mast on Sunday, as a mark of respect to the late Thomas Connolly, one of the subscribers to the fund for purchasing the flag.

The schooner Rover's Bride came in on Monday with 107 1-2 barrels of pickled mackerel to C. Morris Tredick, caught off Matinicus. The schooner Helen F. Tredick sailed Monday on a mackereling cruise, and the Rover's Bride will sail to-day.

The contractors for removing Gangway rock suffered to a large extent by their platform being swept away by the Lancaster on Sunday evening. Besides having the whole of their platform and piling demolished, a new drilling machine which cost about $1300 and had been put in position only a day or two previous to the accident was swept away, and no trace of it had been discovered up to Monday noon. We are informed that the contractors will not endeavor to resume work again this season.

The schooner War Eagle, Frisbee master, hauled out from Prescott's wharf, Kittery Point, on Saturday, after discharging 186 tons of excellent Lehigh coal supplied to Solon Frisbee & Co. of the point by C. E. Walker & Co. of this city. Coal freights to this port are now quoted at $1.65 per ton; they have been down to $1.50.

Frank Sanford, the young man who was run over by the cars between Exeter and Newmarket junction one night about two weeks ago, and who in consequence suffered amputation of both legs, is quite comfortable for one in his condition, and his physicians state that he has now more than an even chance for recovery.

Among the noted merchant ships built on this river by the late Wm. L. Hanscom before his appointment as a constructor in the United States navy, were the Elizabeth Hamilton and the Nightingale; the latter was constructed for the express purpose of being sent to London during the first World's Fair, and attracted much attention there from the richness of her fittings and the beauty of her lines. Mr. Hanscom was one of the adventurous spirits who went around the Horn in '49, on the discovery of the California gold-fields, but his stay there was not of so long duration as that of many of those who went out with him. After his appointment as naval constructor, the "repairing" of the old line-of-battle-ship Franklin at this navy yard was one of the early works on which he was engaged. When the old craft entered this harbor she was of the ancient "serving-mallet" type, her length of keel, breadth of beam and depth of hold being all about the same; when her repairs were completed she was unquestionably the most beautiful, and probably the most formidable, man-of-war then in existence.

The gondolas which have been transporting stone from Leach's island to this city for the new church, have ceased running for a time until it shall be demonstrated whether more material is required. How would it do for the builders to lay one course of stones taken from Gangway rock? This stone is of excellent quality, and no other church in the world would be able to boast of being built of stone torn from the solid rock bottom of the sea.

Among the recent conveyances of real estate in this vicinity recorded in the office of the register of deeds, were the following: Andrew H. Jones to S. W. Webber, land and buildings in Portsmouth for $1200; Jonathan M. Lamprey to Clifford B. Gill of Winchester, Mass., land and buildings in Hampton for $2750; Charles L. Blanding and Gertrude E. Blanding to William P. Moulton, land and barn in South Newmarket for $250; George E. Goodwin and Sarah E. Goodwin to Charles Fogg, land in Hampton Falls for $200.

Last season, when complaints of scarcity of water were made, it was said, by the Aqueduct company, to be due to the dry weather. During the two or three hot days of last week many families and places of business were without a sufficient supply. Pray what is the reason of a scarcity this season, when there has been an abundance of rain through the whole summer.—Times.

That some families and places of business could get no water was unquestionably owing to the wastefulness of others nearer the fountain head, who allowed the water to run to waste in order that they might have it cool, in selfish disregard as to whether other people were inconvenienced or not.

It is worthy both of note and imitation that the ward-room officers of the flagship Lancaster, now fitting for sea at Portsmouth, N. H., found breakfast awaiting them aboard ship upon their arrival at the navy yard to report for duty on the 20th of August, and their state-rooms ready for occupation. This excellent provision enabled them to go from the railroad depot to the ship, and saved them the annoyance of two transfers of baggage, and the expense and inconvenience of a tedious stay at hotels and boarding houses. Lieut.-Comdr. Goodrich, the executive officer, wrote to the officers gazetted for the ship; obtained their authorization to start a temporary mess; notified them as to the time tables of trains and ferry boat, and the hour of the first meal, and is well entitled to the distinction of having inaugurated a proceeding in every way worthy of becoming a "custom of the service."—Army and Navy Journal.

Mr. Editor: The statements published regarding the large number of men who have deserted from the U. S. S. Lancaster since she went into commission, (ten being alleged to have left in a stolen boat on Friday night,) are wide of the truth, and grossly exaggerated. Up to roll-call on Sunday morning but seven men had disappeared; and four other worthless fellows sneaked off Sunday afternoon, during the confusion incident to the ship's breaking loose from her moorings. These eleven comprise the total loss—if the running away of such fellows is a loss—sustained up to roll-call Monday morning.

New Hampshire Items.

Col. William Colby of Hopkinton died on Sept. 4th, aged seventy-one years. He was a noted officer in the militia in the olden time, was formerly a deputy sheriff of Merrimac county, and for two years door-keeper of the New Hampshire senate. He leaves a widow.

S. D. Miller, a citizen of Northfield, while driving along the road between Franklin and Tilton, recently, was set upon by three unknown men, dragged from his carriage and badly beaten and bruised. The robbers succeeded in getting about $3 in money, but were prevented from getting a large sum which Mr. Miller had on his person, by the approach of another team, which frightened them away.

During a severe shower, Thursday night of last week, the house of Edwin P. Foster of Keene was struck by lightning and considerably damaged. The electricity passed off in the cellar into the water main, bursting it in two places, and causing quite a damage to the water works. This is the third time this summer that the water mains in Keene have been burst in this way.

Capt. Howgate, the defaulting ex-disbursing officer of the signal service, has left New York for parts unknown. It is believed by the detectives that he has fled to Canada, taking about $22,000 in cash, and leaving his wife and family destitute. He was under $40,000 bonds, which his bondsmen will have to pay. Some $70,000 additional appropriations of public funds by Howgate have been discovered within a day or two, making the total amount of his stealings not far from $300,000. When the officers visited his house to make the levy on his goods they discovered that the very costly furniture with which he had fitted out his establishment had been removed, and it is since learned, was sold and the proceeds taken by Howgate. In the place of this magnificent furniture was the comparatively poor furniture which had been moved from the house in which his own family had resided.

A Gambling Clergyman.

The change in public opinion respecting lotteries is strikingly illustrated by the following entry in the day-book kept by Rev. Samuel Seabury, father of the first Protestant Episcopal Bishop in the United States: "June, 1768. The ticket, number 5,866, by the blessing of God, in the Lighthouse and Public Lottery of New York, appointed by law, Anno Domini 1763, drew in my favor £500 0s., 0d., of which I received £425 0s., 0d., which the deduction of fifteen per cent makes £200, for which I now record to my posterity my thanks and praise to Almighty God, the giver of all good gifts. Amen." Yet if lottery-gambling is wrong now, it was wrong then.

How to get Sick.

Expose yourself day and night, eat too much without exercise; work too hard without rest; doctor all the time; take all the vile nostrums advertised; and then you will want to know

HOW TO GET WELL,

At Lille, France, Sunday, a man, supposed to be a commercial traveller, commissioned a cab driver to deliver six packets. Two of them on being opened exploded, killing five persons. The others were found to contains bombs holding ten pounds of gunpowder each.

However watched by loving care,
Hence has distempers lurking there,
And human power cannot defend
From his that constantly impend;
But Sanford's Ginger bids pain cease,
And home restores to health and peace.

The latest reports put the loss of life by the wrecking of the mail steamer Teuton at 237.

From the steady, firm and regular beat of the heart, replacing interrupted and feeble action of that organ, demonstrated in a variety of cases, Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is known to exert a powerful tonic effect on the muscles of the heart.

An attempt was made to throw an eastbound express train from the track near Colfax, California, Wednesday of last week, for the purpose of robbery. Rails had been removed, and a portion of the train was ditched, but no one was hurt, and the attempt at robbery was unsuccessful.

Man's Ingratitude.

This is an ungrateful world to say the least. A man will act like a lunatic when he has the itching piles, and declares that he knows he can't live another day, yet he applies Swaynes Ointment, the intense itching is allayed at once, he gets cured, and goes down to the lodge without one whit of gratitude. When asked why he looks so cheerful, he dodges the question by an indifferent answer. Its just like a man though, isn't it?

No Admittance.

A good story is told of a brief interview early Saturday morning, Aug. 27th, between the artist of a New York illustrated paper and the policeman on duty at the principal gate of the White House. The artist marched up to the gate and demanded admission.

"Got a card," said the officer.

"No, but here are my credentials," said the artist, handing the officer a letter from the manager of the publication in question, which directed him to proceed forthwith to Washington and make sketches of the events incident to the death of the President.

"You can't come in on any such paper as that," said the policeman, returning the document, "there is nobody dying, and what's more, there ain't agoing to be any here. The President is all right."

"We all thought in New York that he was going to die when I left there last night," put in the artist.

"That don't make any difference; the President won't die this time, and you had better go home. I won't let you in."

The artist made some inquiries concerning the President's condition, and the result was that he took the next train for New York.

—A witness told by the judge he must not speak so quickly, as it was impossible for him to follow him, replied: "I can't help it, my lord; I've got an impediment in my speech. I had it since I was born!" Another, charged by the examining counsel with prevaricating, asked how he could help it when he had lost three of his front teeth.

—A young man from Cleveland visited some friends in Cincinnati the other day, and was shown around generally. Finally one of them asked him if he wouldn't like to see the Widows' Home. He said if they were good-looking widows he would as lief see them home as not, though he would prefer to escort but one at a time.

—When the Prince of Wales had a typhoid fever in 1871, he suffered a dangerous relapse on Friday, the 8th of December, and on Saturday he was given up by his physicians. Sunday, the 10th, was appointed as a day of prayer for his recovery. On Monday morning, the bulletin which was expected to extinguish the last spark of hope, announced a slight improvement, and in a week the patient was out of danger. It is possible that a like miracle may restore the President of the United States.—Portland Advertiser.

Rescued from Death.

William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., says: "In the fall of 1876 I was taken with a violent bleeding of the lungs followed by a severe cough. I soon began to lose my appetite and flesh. I was so weak at one time that I could not leave my bed. In the summer of 1877 I was admitted to the city hospital. While there the doctors said I had a hole in my left lung as big as a half a dollar. I was so far gone at one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs. I laughed at my friends, thinking that my case was incurable, but I got a bottle to satisfy them, when to my surprise and gratification, I commenced to feel better. My hope, once dead, began to revive, and to-day I feel in better spirits than I have the past three years.

I write this hoping you will publish it, so that every one afflicted with diseased lungs, will be induced to take Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs, and be convinced that consumption can be cured. I have taken two bottles and can positively say that it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness." Sold by all druggists.

—The New York Herald says that sentimental people who wonder why a man who lately committed suicide was unable for months to find employment, may find a pertinent suggestion in a hotel bill found in the pocket of the deceased; the total amount of the bill was fifty-four dollars, more than one-half of which was charged under the single head "Bar."

I Wished I Was Dead!

After suffering several years with the leucorrhœa, and not dying, I would have been, only a lady induced me to try Sulphur Bitters. Now I am well. Three bottles cured me.—Mrs. C., Newport, R. I.

—An old man, with a head as destitute of hair as a watermelon, entered a drug store and told the clerk he wanted a bottle of hair-restorer. "What kind of hair-restorer do you prefer?" "I reckon I'll have to take a bottle of red hair restorer. That was the color of my hair when I was a boy."

The great popular remedy of the day, for coughs, colds, asthma, and all lung difficulties, is Adamson's Botanic Balsam. Inexpensive, reliable, pleasant to take, cures as by magic, and gives universal satisfaction. A trial is the best testimonial. Price, 35 cts. Trial size, 10 cts.

—A young lady who is doing the Alps reports progress to her guardian: "I tried to climb the Matterhorn; didn't reach the top. It's absurdly high—everything is high in this country. Please send me some money."

American Ladies.

The first impression Sara Bernhardt received of the American ladies manifested itself thusly: "Oh! ze ladies, za are so beautiful, such clear complexion I never see before" all of which is due to the universal use of Swayne's Ointment for skin diseases, which insures a clear and clean complexion, and a healthy color. This recalls to mind the divine precept, "cleanliness is next to godliness."

Portsmouth Chronicle.

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 7, 1881.

[Entered at the Post-Office at Portsmouth, N.H. as second-class matter.]

The President.

The official bulletin at 6:30 P. M. on the 5th said:

No material change has taken place in the condition of the President since morning. The parotid abscess continues to improve, and the wound remains about the same. The pulse is somewhat less frequent than at noon. At present it is 108; temperature, 99.8; respiration, 18. Should no untoward symptoms prevent it, it is hoped to move the President to Long Branch to-morrow.

At midnight it was announced that the President had rested quietly since the issuing of the evening bulletin, and had slept part of the time; that no obstacle to his removal had appeared, and a start would probably be made about five o'clock A. M. on the 6th.

The President was successfully removed from Washington to Elberon, N. J., on the 6th, and apparently suffered no ill effects. His pulse at starting was 114, but fell to 106 after a short time. The start from the White House was made at 5:40 A. M.; at 6:30 the train left the depot, and at 8:00 passed through Baltimore, having run at thirty miles an hour. At Bay View the President's wound was dressed, and on leaving there the speed was increased to fifty miles an hour; no discomfort was felt. The train passed Freehold, N. J., at the rate of a mile a minute, and reached Long Branch without accident. At 1:20 P. M. the President was in his room at the Francklyn cottage at Elberon, the train having arrived at 1:09; his pulse was 102, and he was quite cheerful.

News and Notes.

Later reports from Arizona show that the disaster to Gen. Carr's command was not so serious as was first reported. Capt. Hentig and seven soldiers were killed in a fight with Apaches at Cibicu, and three soldiers were badly wounded, but the troops succeeded in reaching Fort Apache, where they were beseiged by an overwhelming force of Indians. Reinforcements have reached Fort Apache before this time.

Many who have heard of the almost phenomenal success of Miss Lillian B. Norton will be glad to avail themselves of the instruction of the teacher to whose conscientious training Miss Norton does not hesitate to lay much of her progress. This gentleman, Mr. John O'Neill of Boston, has long been known as a sincere worker in the cause of music, and has made arrangements to receive pupils at his new music rooms, 146 Tremont street.

Dr. Lloyd Howard, resident physician at the quarantine station, Baltimore, was drowned on the 5th inst. He was a surgeon in the rebel army during the war.

Twelve cars and two engines were smashed, and one man seriously hurt, at Lachine, twelve miles from Montreal, on the 5th inst., by the collision of two freight trains.

Rev. S. J. Stewart, pastor of the Unitarian church in Bangor, Me., preached at the Unitarian church in Leominister, Mass., Sunday. Mr. Stewart was formerly pastor of the Fitchburg Calvinistic church, and withdrew from the Orthodox ministry about three years ago.

A Mrs. Main of Shaftsbury, Vt., a worthless creature, is under arrest for poisoning her month-old baby with Paris green. About two years ago she was charged with choking to death one of her children, but nothing was done about it. Her husband left her several years ago.

At New York, on the 5th inst., considerable excitement was occasioned on board the White Star steamer Adriatic by the report that two strange men had smuggled a box, supposed to contain dynamite, on board. The men wore the uniform of customs officers, and were seen to carry the box on board, but left without it. The captain of the Adriatic instituted a thorough search for the mysterious box, but it could not be found.

New Hampshire Items.

Albert H. Norcross, a graduate of Andover Theological seminary, was ordained to the ministry on Thursday last at Rindge, and has settled as pastor of the Congregational church in that town.

Judge Carpenter, the newly appointed judge of the supreme court, will preside at the September term of court to be held at Colebrook.

The attached property of the Bedford Manufacturing company at Lake Village was sold at sheriff's sale Aug. 30th, to George Grayson of Philadelphia, for $2,000.

The Concord Daily Patriot, after struggling against fate for several years, has quietly and peacefully died. There are in Concord enough democrats of means to support a democratic daily, but somehow or other they only support one a little while at a time, and even then they allow it to get a subsistence, nothing more. There are now but four democratic dailies in New Hampshire, viz: the Union at Manchester, the Times at Portsmouth, the Democrat at Dover, and the Gazette at Nashua. The Union has a large circulation outside Manchester. The others have smaller circulations, but are well conducted sheets.—Boston Post.

During a thunder storm, Monday night, fifteen envelopes and a message which were lying near an instrument in the telegraph office at York Corner, were burned by lightning. No other harm was done.

Two boys who were out shooting squ'rels near the Eastern railroad station in Kennebunk, a few days ago, espied a bear. One of them dropped a bullet into his gun, and shot the bear through the head. After killing the bear, they found out it was a cow. Bill $20.

Mr. Daniel Cook of Kittery, seventy-five years of age, one day recently mowed ten acres of grass with a machine in ten hours, on his farm on the old road from Kittery to Eliot.

Foxes have been unusually destructive to poultry in some parts of York this season, particularly in the vicinity of Beach ridge. Mr. Charles C. Barrell lost seventy-five fowls in one night, and found thirty-six of the number dead in the grass nextmorning; and many other poultry-raisers have suffered in the same way, though none to the same extent. Large numbers of fowls of various kinds are raised in that vicinity, and sold at paying prices at York beach during "the season," and in Portsmouth during the fall and winter; but from some cause there is generally ill success with turkeys, as in spite of every care a large proportion of the young ones die as soon as they are fledged, and not a few before that time.

George Donnell, the oldest person in Newburyport, Mass., died at his home in that city on the night of the 5th inst., of old age. He was born in York on the 16th of June, 1782, and went to Newbury, Mass., when a boy, and there learned the rope-maker's trade. He was the father of ten children, of whom eight survive, one having died of disease and one been drowned at sea.

Mackerel ran up York river in large numbers week before last; a big school went into Barrell's millpond when the gates opened, and were largely taken by the neighboring residents, with hooks and dip-nets. Many of the mackerel were wounded and scarred, presumably by blue-fish or some other of their numberless enemies.

Mr. Henry Grover, of Beech ridge, York, has recently finished building a boat thirty feet long and eight feet beam; she is of good model, schooner rigged, and will be used for fishing. She is named the "Plymouth Rock," and will be hauled to York river for launching.

T. J. R. Swafford shot and killed James Scott and Eli Paul, and wounded one of Paul's sons, at Sparta, Tenn., Sunday. Swafford was not arrested.

Lyon Playfair, M. P., who was deputy speaker of the British house of commons during the late session, arrived at New York, Saturday. He immediately proceeded with his wife to Worcester, Mass., the birth-place of Mrs. Playfair.
